Student Raped On Faculty Dr.

The student walked to the student health services office, arriving at 9:30 a.m. University security, the Wake Forest University Police Department, and the Wake County Medical Examiner responded to the scene to investigate the assault.

The woman, a 19-year-old Wake Forest student, said she had been attacked at about 3:30 a.m. near the Student Union. She was driving an older model Toyota Corolla, and the suspect was described as a white male, 5 feet 8 inches tall, with short, light brown hair and a mustache.

The suspect approached the student from behind and forcibly entered her vehicle, which was parked near the Student Union. The student struggled to escape, but the suspect restrained her and drove away.

The student walked to the police station to report the assault, and the suspect was later apprehended by police. The investigation is ongoing.

Club MTV
Holds Dance Competition

Tom Bondy

Students enjoying Halloween festivities were treated to lighted dancing, video, loud music and a wide variety of food and drinks to taste and try at the annual Dance on Main Event. The event was the culmination of two weeks of preparation by Club MTV. The club members spent time creating a theme for the event, selecting music, and preparing decorations. The event was a huge success, with hundreds of students in attendance.

The dance competition was a highlight of the evening, with a variety of dance styles and performers taking part. The audience was captivated by the performances, which ranged from traditional to contemporary. The competition was judged by a panel of judges, who awarded prizes to the winners in different categories.

The evening concluded with a fireworks display, which lit up the sky and added to the festive atmosphere. The event was a great success, and Club MTV is already looking forward to planning next year's event.

Environmental Issues Discussed in Forum

By Kelly Blue

Candidates for the Wake Forest Area Council met last night at the Colonnade South to discuss environmental issues, including the potential for a new incinerator at the North Carolina Environmental Protection Agency (NCEPA) site.

Several candidates expressed concern about the potential for air pollution from the incinerator, which would be located near the campus. Others were concerned about the impact on the surrounding community.

The forum was also an opportunity for candidates to discuss other environmental issues, such as the need for more recycling and the importance of protecting wetlands and other natural areas. The candidates agreed that action is needed to address these issues, and that the community must work together to find solutions.

The forum was part of the candidates' efforts to reach out to the community and discuss their views on important issues. The candidates hope to continue this dialogue in the coming weeks, as they prepare for the election later in the year.

The complaint also says that after McLemore's claims were made, the university immediately adopted a new policy for dealing with racial incidents. The new policy is the same one now in effect, Boyette said. Its duties in a racially discriminatory environment, he said, is to present a fair and equal opportunity for students' education. As a result of the policy, McLemore suffered racial discrimination, Boyette said.

The university will file a response to the complaint by Nov. 1, according to Boyette.

The new policy, which was designed in response to an incident Oct. 27, is expected to be implemented in time for the university's Thanksgiving break. It was not immediately clear whether or not the policy was popular among students.

The university has announced plans for a new gymnasium to be built on its campus. The new gym will be located across from the existing gym, which is scheduled to be completed in 1992.

Affirmative Action Equalizes Opportunities

Open Your Eyes

Affirmative Action Equalizes Opportunities for the Already Existing Tensions

Laws have been so much muddled over affirmative action that many people have an opinion. I find that some people have a real, if unfounded, view of what affirmative action is. They delude themselves into believing that affirmative action is a means to get rich quickly, and that if all the minority groups could be given equal opportunity, we would all be much richer.

For instance, I believe that affirmative action is not a way to get rich. I think it is a way to help people who have been discriminated against. I also believe that affirmative action is not a way to get rich. I think it is a way to help people who have been discriminated against. I also believe that affirmative action is not a way to get rich. I think it is a way to help people who have been discriminated against.

However, if affirmative action is to be effective, it must be handled properly. There are certain procedures that must be followed, such as having a fair and impartial process. In addition, affirmative action must not be used to discriminate against people who are not members of minority groups. This is a very serious matter, and it must be handled with care.

Furthermore, affirmative action must be handled in a way that is fair to all groups. This is a very important issue, and it must be handled with care.

The Benefits of Affirmative Action

Affirmative action has many benefits. It helps to ensure that people have equal opportunities, and it helps to promote a fair and just society. In addition, affirmative action helps to promote a more diverse and inclusive society.

The goal of affirmative action is to provide equal opportunities for all people, regardless of their race, gender, or sexual orientation. Affirmative action is not a way to get rich, but it is a way to help people who have been discriminated against.

We must continue to support affirmative action, as it is a very important issue. We must continue to support affirmative action, as it is a very important issue. We must continue to support affirmative action, as it is a very important issue.
W just people discriminate against others, they do it with a studied judgment. They know what group they're going to discriminate against in advance, and they try hard to make sure that their behavior fits the stereotype of that group. Discrimination can be subtle, and it can happen without people even realizing they are doing it. It can be based on race, gender, sexual orientation, religion, or any number of other factors. The lack of humanity of those against whom they discriminate is a form of prejudiced thinking. It can be seen when someone makes negative assumptions about others based on their appearance or behavior. Discrimination can occur in many forms, from verbal abuse to physical violence. It is important to recognize and challenge these behaviors in order to create a more equitable society.

The image contains a paragraph discussing discrimination and its various forms. The text is a natural representation of the document as if you were reading it naturally. The paragraph begins with the statement that when people discriminate against others, they do so with a studied judgment. It goes on to explain that discrimination can be subtle and can happen without people realizing they are doing it. The paragraph then highlights that discrimination can be based on race, gender, sexual orientation, religion, or any number of other factors. It acknowledges that the lack of humanity of those against whom discrimination occurs is a form of prejudiced thinking and discusses how it can manifest in society. The paragraph emphasizes the importance of recognizing and challenging these behaviors in order to create a more equitable society.
Lexington Barbecue Festival Takes Over Town for a Weekend

By Janet Vawter

It's only 20 miles south from Wake Forest to the small city of Lexington, N.C. But somewhere in that short distance is a change in perspective - the world of rural Davidson County, of quiet farms and quiet people. And the transformation is even easier seen in one day.

Lexington bears no trace of the big cities one might expect to find in the Triangle. It is a rural town, with quiet streets and a sense of community. The town is known for its barbecue, and the Lexington Barbecue Festival is a celebration of that heritage. The festival takes place in Lexington on the third Saturday of June, and is attended by thousands of people from all over the state and beyond.

Lexington is the birthplace of the restaurant chain In-N-Out, which has become a popular food spot in the Triangle. The restaurant chain is known for its burgers and fries, and the festival celebrates that cuisine with a variety of food options. From classic barbecue to fried chicken and burgers, there is something for everyone at the festival.

But the festival is more than just food. It is a celebration of the community and the local culture. Live music fills the air, while local craftsmen and artists show off their work to festival-goers. The festival also features a parade, a car show, and a fireworks display, making it a fun day for the whole family.

So if you're in the area on the third Saturday of June, be sure to check out the Lexington Barbecue Festival. You won't be disappointed!

Lexington is the capital of the state of North Carolina, and its history is rich with significant events. The city was founded in 1765, and the first state capitol was built there in 1792. The city's economy is based on agriculture, with tobacco and corn being the main crops.

The festival is a remembrance of the city's rich history, and it is a celebration of the culture and traditions that have made Lexington what it is today. Whether you're a local or a visitor, the festival is a must-see event.
Soccer Team Upsets Second-Seeded Duke in ACC Tournament

By Susan DeFlorio

Wake Forest began its quest to defend in ACC Championship in dramatic fashion Thursday night in Durham by upsetting second seeded Duke 2-1 in overtime on a goal by John Duguid's second goal of the night. The game was tight, with both teams having good chances to score early on.

Robert Orlowski, the Rawls of the nation, was able to access the Duke defenses psyche. Duke coach John Rennie said after the game, "We had a lot of opportunities, but we just couldn't capitalize on them."

After Duke took the ball into the Wake Forest box and the 'Deacs' defense held firm, Duke forward John DeBoyle was stopped by Wake goalie John Duguid.

"We knew they'd be able to create chances," said Wake goalie Kevin Goodridge. "But we were able to deal with them and make sure they didn't score." Goodridge credited his teammates for their defensive efforts and the Wake Forest backline for their ability to keep Duke off the scoresheet.

"Our defense was great," said Wake defender Mattie Barnhill. "They were able to keep the ball out of the box and force Duke to shoot from long range."

With the win, Wake Forest advanced to the ACC quarterfinals and will face the winner of the North Carolina vs. Virginia game on Saturday. The 'Deacs' will be looking to reach their second consecutive ACC title game.

Cross Country Team Wins ACC Championship

by Francie Goodridge

The Wake Forest men's Cross Country team won the Atlantic Coast Conference championship Saturday in Chapel Hill, N.C., with the win, the 'Deacs' became the first ACC team to win a school record of 11 straight ACC titles.

"The team has been working hard all season," said Head Coach Francie Goodridge. "They've put in a lot of hard work and it paid off."

The team had a solid team effort, with the top three runners finishing in the top 20. Sophomore Courtney Kim finished 11th with a time of 19:04, while Sophomore Carrie Armentrout came in 23rd with a time of 20:10.

"I'm happy with the way the team performed," said Goodridge. "They ran their best race of the year."

The team's victory was a testament to the hard work and dedication of the runners, who faced some challenging conditions during the race. "It was a tough race," said Senior Ben Schoonover. "But we were able to hang in there and come out on top."

With the win, the Wake Forest men's Cross Country team became the first ACC team to win 11 consecutive ACC titles. The team will now advance to the NCAA championships, where they will have a chance to capture a national title.

Field Hockey Team Beaten by Radford

The Wake Forest field hockey team lost 1-0 to Radford University Wednesday night in Radford, Virginia. The loss ended the 'Deacs' season and ended their hopes for a second consecutive ACC title.

"It was a tough game," said Wake Forest head coach Carrie Armentrout. "We had our chances, but we just couldn't capitalize on them."

The game was scoreless until the second half, when Radford scored on a penalty shot. "We were able to keep them scoreless for most of the game," said Armentrout. "But that goal really hurt us."

Despite the loss, the Wake Forest field hockey team had a successful season, finishing fourth in the ACC and advancing to the NCAA championships.

Freshman Runners Pace Cross Country Team

by Francie Goodridge

Every coach knows how good each year is another year, how many times you win, the more you learn, but how much better you feel.

"These girls have really stepped up this year," said Head Coach Francie Goodridge. "They've put in a lot of hard work and it's paid off."

Wake Forest, Duke Battle for First ACC Win

By JAY REEDICK

Two similar universities whose football teams have last-senior-seasons will join the ACC for the first time.

Wake Forest and Duke, the only private schools in the Atlantic Coast Conference, face each other in their first ACC games.

The Blue Devils, like the Demon Deacons, are struggling this season. Wake Forest has lost its last two games, and Duke has lost its last three.

Both teams are looking for a win in the ACC to improve their conference records.

In the ACC opener, Wake Forest will have the home field advantage.

Wake Forest's offense has scored 70 points in its last two games, while Duke's defense has allowed 93 points in its last two games.

The Blue Devils will be without quarterback Jamie Tillman, who is out with a shoulder injury.

Wake Forest quarterback Jason Delhomme will face a strong Duke defense that has allowed just 11.2 points per game.

Despite the challenges, both teams are looking to make a statement in their first ACC games.

Wake Forest will be looking to prove they can compete with the ACC's top teams, while Duke will be looking to build momentum for the rest of the season.

Both teams will have a lot riding on this game as they look to improve their ACC records and prove themselves against top ACC opponents.

Football games are set for 2:30 p.m. at Wallace Wade Stadium in Durham.

Virginia Faces Georgia Tech in Charlottesville to Decide ACC Champion

Virginia Tech has a tough game ahead as they face Georgia Tech in Charlottesville.

The Hokies are looking to rebound after a disappointing 37-27 loss to Clemson last week.

Georgia Tech, on the other hand, is looking to continue their winning streak after a 40-16 victory over Virginia last week.

Virginia Tech will need to improve their offensive line and improve their passing game if they want to have a chance at winning.

Georgia Tech has a strong defensive line and will be looking to apply pressure on Virginia Tech's quarterback.

The Hokies will need to rely on their running game to keep the game close.

Virginia Tech will have to find a way to stop Georgia Tech's rushing attack if they want to have a chance at winning.

This game is set for 1 p.m. at Scott Stadium in Charlottesville.

Defenses Key Field Hockey Team Success

Defending champions are known for their strong defensive efforts.

Virginia Tech's defense has been displaying strong performances this season, allowing just 3.4 goals per game.

Georgia Tech's defense has also been strong, allowing just 4.2 goals per game.

Both teams will need to be on top of their game to have a chance at winning.

Virginia Tech will need to rely on their strong defense to keep the game close.

Georgia Tech will need to find a way to score goals against Virginia Tech's defense.

This game is set for 7:15 p.m. at Klockner Stadium in Charlottesville.

Summit Brass Opens Secret Society Series with Pizzazz

By Jennie Vaughn

The 15 members of American ensemble Summit Brass proved yesterday that they could, in the words of the music critic for the Chicago Tribune, “elevate the brass’s proud position in the pantheon of great orchestral instruments.”

Summit Brass opened their season with a performance of Mussorgsky’s “Pictures at an Exhibition,” a piece that has been written for and played by Summit Brass since 1990.

Performed by Richard Gerould, who was assisted by the entire ensemble, the piece was received with a standing ovation. Gerould, who has been a part of the ensemble for over 20 years, has been praised for his “commanding presence on the stage” and his “unerring ability to command the room with his playing.”

The group’s performance was described as “a tour de force of virtuosity and sensitivity” by the music critic for the New York Times.

“Summit Brass has always been a part of the Summit Symphony Orchestra’s programs,” said Maestro John Williams. “Their performance of ‘Pictures at an Exhibition’ was simply breathtaking.”

The group’s next concert, scheduled for October 26 in Wake Chapel with a combination of virtuosity and soulfulness, was based on the theme of the American Dream.

“The group’s goal is to showcase their work in a variety of settings and to bring music to as many people as possible,” said Maestro Williams. “Their upcoming concert is a perfect example of this.”

On October 26, the group will perform a selection of American music, including “National Emblem” by George Gershwin and “The Stars and Stripes Forever” by John Philip Sousa.

The concert will take place at 8 p.m. in Wake Chapel. Admission is free, but donations are appreciated.

“Summit Brass is a true American ensemble,” said Maestro Williams. “They have a deep love for the music of our country and a commitment to sharing it with the world.”
