Math team wins highest honor in contest

By Elisabeth Boyle
News Editor

A new breed of athlete rallied the Quad March 11 in a competition for the highest mathematical minds. The team was comprised of seven students who were chosen from a group of six out of 400 callow students. The team proved that it had what it takes to win Drake's Math team.

The team was comprised of: Jessica Klime, junior; David Dorand, senior; and Kevin Woods, senior.

The team has proven to be a force in the nation's math competitions, and this year was no exception.

The team has won several awards in recent years, including the 1999 award for their efforts in the competition.

The team's success is due in part to its dedication to practice and hard work. They spend many hours each week studying and preparing for competitions.

The team plans to continue their success in the future and hopes to continue winning awards in the math competition.

---

University awarded for use of technology

By Will Wiegfield
Assistant Editorial Editor

Along with six other universities nationally, the university was awarded the Best-practice Organization for Technology Usage award by the American Productivity & Quality Center in Washington, D.C. The university was honored for its use of technology in the classroom.

The university has received several awards for its use of technology in recent years, including the 1999 award for its use of technology in the classroom.

The university plans to continue its use of technology in the future and hopes to continue receiving awards for its technology efforts.

---

30 Hour Famine fights world hunger

By Jada Briggs
Old Gold and Black Reporter

In an effort to raise both awareness and money to fight world hunger, the Volunteer Student Organization, the Student Senate, the Student Council, and the Gay, Lesbian, and Straight Student Union have partnered to organize the 30 Hour Famine program.

The program is designed to raise awareness and funds for the fight against world hunger. Participants are encouraged to fast for 30 hours, then donate their money to help those in need.

The money raised from the famine will be given to World Vision International, an organization devoted to the abolition of world hunger.

The university's last year raised nearly $5,000 from the work of more than 100 student participants.

---

Learning the moves

Irish dancers show how to be Irish at the Irish Festival. Participants learned Irish dances as part of the entertainment.

Chris Gruber/Old Gold and Black Reporter