Honor Council Vacancy Filled

Zeno Martin has been appointed to the Honor Council to fill the vacancy left when Jerry West resigned. The appointment was made by Don Schoonmaker, president of the Student Body, and was approved Thursday night by the Student Legislature.

Martin, a senior of Raleigh, is Old Gold and Black sports editor. He is also a member of the Student Senate, the Student Body Council, and the Wake Forest College Reserve Officers Training Corps staff. He is a member of Zeta Sigma Phi fraternity.

Legislature Recommends Trustee Change Policy

Would Abolish Discrimination In Admissions

During the Student Legislature meeting Thursday night, the Student Legislature voted to "strongly recommend that Wake Forest College have an elected trustee who would be responsible for policies in the college." The motion was moved by Morgan Dutton, speaker of the Student Legislature, and was approved by a vote of 94 to 1, with 13 votes being cast for "abstain." The motion made it clear that the legislature is pushing to have an elected trustee who would be responsible for policies in the college. The Student Legislature would prefer an elected trustee over a non-elective trustee.

Judges Rules Guilty Of Trespassing

Wake Forest students involved in last week's landlords' rent strike were found guilty of trespassing on campus property. The judges ruled that the students' action was "not a peaceable protest," but rather an attempt to "force a change in the rent policy." The students, who were protesting against the college's decision to raise the rent on campus housing, were found guilty of trespassing on the college's property.

Demonstrators Receive Mail

Some of the students involved in the teach-in protest last week have received letters from personal friends and college administrators expressing their opposition to the student's actions. The letters反映了 students' concerns about the impact of the rent increase on student life.

Trustee President Declines Comment

Dr. Robert Hunter, president of the Wake Forest University Board of Trustees, believes that any comment on the student's actions would be premature. "I think it is important that we wait until we have more information before making any comments," he said. "We need to know the specifics of the situation before we can make any judgments.

"I believe that the student's actions were motivated by a desire to improve the educational experience for all students," he continued. "We need to support the students' efforts to improve the college, but we also need to ensure that the college's policies are fair and reasonable for all students.

"I think it is important that we work with the students to find a solution that is fair and reasonable for all parties," he concluded. "We need to be open to new ideas and be willing to work together to find a solution that is fair and reasonable for all students.

"I believe that the college should be committed to providing a high-quality education for all students," he said. "We need to support the students' efforts to improve the college, but we also need to ensure that the college's policies are fair and reasonable for all students."

NCGs at Wake Forest

Will NCGs be admitted to Wake Forest College in the near future—surely the moment is near. Realizing that by even asking the question, and with all the good young students whose brains crystallize deep foundations, the very word “NCG”, we proceed, nevertheless, to a few pertinent observations.

Student Vote To Be Taken On WF Policy

The first step, when possible, is to draft an immediate response from rep­resentatives of the legislature.

Music Jones noted that the state's policy on student representation should be reviewed to reflect the views of students.

Tommy Reeder said that the student body should have a chance to express its opinion on student representation in the legislature.

The proposed vote on the Student Representation Policy will be discussed at the next meeting of the Student Senate next Wednesday evening.

Debaters

To Be.

The Wake Forest debate team will be the first team to open the season. The team is expected to be strong this year, with several experienced members returning.

The team is coached by Professor John Smith, who has been with the team for several years. He has been successful in guiding the team to many victories in recent years.

The team will face some tough opponents this season, including teams from other major universities.

The Wake Forest debate team is expected to be one of the top teams in the country this year, and they will be looking to win many games and make a strong showing in the national championships.

Mass Marks Zenith Of Concert Series

By DAVID BADLEY

The week saw four concerts with Mass as the central theme. The first was the famous Mass in G major by J. S. Bach's Mass in G minor. This is the most important of the series, and it is a good start for the series. The next concert will be the Mass in F major by J. S. Bach's Mass in F minor. The series will continue with six more concerts, each with a different Mass.

WIND GROUP GIVES DELIGHTFUL EVENING

An evening of delightful choral music was the finest of the series. The Choral Music Society of the University of Illinois presented the New Art Wind Quintet. The performance was excellent, and the group is highly recommended for further performances.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPA
During the past several years North Carolina State College has received the recognition of the noted basketball enthusiasts of being a "great tournament ball team," while its coach Everett Cato has been called "the master of getting a team up for a tournament." Both of these statements seem to be a little divorced from the truth, however. Carolinas' Wolfpack always ends as it does in tournaments. The origin of the Atlantic Coast Conference every team has been played and is being played in Raleigh and of course every team has been played with in the East.

The real reason that State is effective in tournaments is not in any great number of regular season "lasts" on North Carolina State's schedule. But it is true that the Wolfpack is able to come up in tournaments in its best basketball form, and few teams have made a different from the usual. The fact of State's tournament ability is when they have to play in the NCAA out of Raleigh and its four NCAA tournaments since 1918 the Wolfpack has only managed to get by the first round once - when they were in the second round.

Undue Advantage

The home court is always the key factor in the ACC tourney this year is a disadvantage to every team to the ACC except State, as far as its chances of winning is concerned. There should be more or less optional manner of selecting the tourney site coming up in the near future, with State coming off NCAA action this year. Wake Forest, Maryland and Duke, along with Charlotte and Greensboro have large enough crowds in which to play the tournament at a rotating basis.

In a way this situation would be a good thing for the ACC because of the evenness of the conference. Of course this situation would be a help to the ACC tourney on a neutral court, and for consideration. As Charlotte's Collector sells 13,000 tickets more than any other ACC city, the region of the state they are all set to stage the NCAA Regionals in past years. It must have been ideal for the tournament if the ACC tourney was held at Raleigh.

This writer's guess is that something will be done. Teams are getting the opportunity to come down to Raleigh for a tournament and having to decide NC. State a real point State have advantage. In last week's game with the Terps would have been the ideal spot. The name of the game, especially a Class-AA standpoint in this area, was not dis- cussed. It is an interesting aspect of this year's ACC tournament that Wake Forest granted this will be made sometime within the next few days.

State's ACC tournament ability is always a point of discussion. For example, the Terps would have been at Raleigh for the ACC tourney this year. Wake Forest, Maryland and Duke, along with Charlotte and Greensboro have large enough crowds in which to play the tournament at a rotating basis.

The ACC season is coming to a close and one of the Wolfpack's major goals for the past few years set in its favor. It spent one year in the ACC over coaching ranks at Delaware. A native of Cripple Creek, Colo, coach Fordham's stock is expected to be high in the ACC, and in two years he has led the team to a second place finish in the ACC tournament.

Wake Forest was defeated by upset-minded Duke University Saturday night by a score of 21-7 in the championship game of the ACC tournament. This brought Wake's record to 21-7.

North Carolina State thoroughly outplayed Wake Forest and its pitcherday in the ACC tournament semi-finals and final. The Wolfpack, clapped, screamed, and pushed the Deacons (general and mathematical). Dave Boud in particular, while Wake hung on to win 21-7. In the last five minutes of the game the Wake lead 58-44. The Deacons were unable to attempt a single field goal until a second shot by Jerry Smith, Wake finished the half. They got the ball twice in the first half and twice in the second half of the game to hold them on hold.

The climax to the battle came with only one second left on the clock when Dave Boud scored a rebound. Several State players attempted to stop it to be sure the ball went out of bounds. Boud missed the last free throw and State fouled him.

The ball game itself was a poor one to watch. The Wake , won with its defense. Wake is the only team in the ACC that can match their defense. Wake's senior forward Bob Rathbone, finished with 15 points in the game. Wake's defense is built around Bob Rathbone, who led the team with nine rebounds.

The Wake Forest defense limited the Deacons to just nine field goals. Wake Forest's defense held the State team to just 27 points. Wake Forest's defense allowed the State team to score just 10 points in the first half of the game.
