Students Participate in Library Survey

By SCOTT PRIBOURNE

Two members of the library building committee made student responses to the recent library survey. Jill Kniecht, the keeper of the Aramco collection, and John E. Walze, the head of acquisitions and collection development, said that they were impressed by the quality and the volume of student responses.

Kniecht said, "The survey gives us more information than we have ever had before on how students use the library." Students mentioned poor heating and air conditioning as major concerns. Via said. Also, several students complained about the noise on the main floor.

Via said that the survey was done for the convenience of the library. The survey was designed to "see what we need in the addition and tell us what kind of services and extra services we need." The survey added, "This is to improve the library..." Kniecht said that the survey was designed to "see what we need in the addition and tell us what kind of services and extra services we need." Springfest Dampered By Weekend Rain

By HARREY CHAPMAN

Weekend rain dampened Springfest's Super Sunday, forcing three professional bands, "Ramer," "Other Side," and "Let's Alive!" to perform in Van Chapel.

The student bands which were to play Friday afternoon were reluctantly scheduled for Monday because of the rain. A weather balloon trumpeting Sunday's forecast was presented at assembly. However, the bands still looked forward to the opportunity to perform.

"Christian Higgins, a junior mass communications major, said that he knew of difficulties, but..."Daisley said that the bands had been scheduled to play at night.

"However, because of technical difficulties, "Zany" did not begin until 1:30 p.m. Daisley said that the performance lasted until 7 p.m.

Twenty pairs of Ray-Ban sunglasses were given away between performances.

"I thought the decision on Friday that we'd move it (the head show) to Van Chapel, it was a bit easier. It was a big disappointment after working on it for four months, but..." thought everything went very well in the rain," Higgins said.

"I think the crowd was tremendous and that the whole event could not have gone any better. She said that rain on Super Saturday is everybody's worst fear. "I can't say enough about the job that Daisley did. The students were really supportive, too," Daisley said.

A typical tournament scheduled for Saturday afternoon had to be postponed to Monday.

The dance was held in the Student Union on Friday afternoon, at 4:30-6:30 p.m. on the Marquee patio after the performances of The Magnolia Party.

Spring Hiring Season Appears Sluggish

College Placement Service

The spring hiring season on campus appears to be spotty, depending on student majors and the industries visiting campus placement offices and corporate recruiters.

For example, at Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Pa., placement office director Eugene Seeloff said the best advice he can give students is to "take a look at the job market now. We are not seeing the numbers we have seen in the past two or three years just to complete the number of offices on campus activities.

Students included affiliation with fraternities and sororities (8.4 percent) and Student Union (8.5 percent) as the most popular major among employees recruiting on campus, followed by computer science majors and business majors.

Lehigh's Seeloff does not think that conditions will improve soon. "There are no indications of hiring companies in this country that they may not return on campus next year," Seeloff said.

Readiness Committee Conducts Survey

The Age 21 Readiness Committee recently conducted a survey of 520 junior and senior students to determine the effects of college on their attitudes toward social issues.

One hundred and sixty students responding to the latest survey were sophomores, 27 percent juniors, 24 percent seniors and 21 percent undecided. More sophomores claimed being affiliated with a house or sorority or fraternity, while seniors were more likely to have been involved in student clubs.

Half the students responding (55.9 percent) defined social life as any event or gathering that takes place outside of the classroom. Twenty-two percent of students defined social life as the number of parties available, with an additional 31.3 percent defining social life as the number of parties available. The most popular answer was that students were not involved in any social activities.

The students polled had participated in a high number of campus activities. For example, students defined social life as attending a high number of events, and 5 percent of students did not attend events. The Old Gold and Black staff report.

Improvements in Food Service Called For

Improvements in Food Service Called For

A rise in the price of food, plus increased service charges, makes the food service at Forest more and more a drain on the budget. A few years ago, the budget for food service was about $50,000. Of particular concern is the increasing cost of meals, particularly those for the students. The price of meals has been increasing at a rate of about 10% per year. This is causing students to look for alternative ways to eat and to eat less, which is not good for their health. The writer, a student, has observed that the food service is not meeting the needs of the students and that improvements are needed.

A Question of Safety

I recently returned from a trip to New York City. I took the time to visit several of the sites, such as the Statue of Liberty and the World Trade Center. The trip was a success and I was able to learn a great deal about the city. I plan to return soon to continue my travels.

Improvements in Food Service Called For

I thought it would be interesting to write about the current state of the food service at Forest. The food service has undergone some changes in recent years, with a focus on improving the quality and variety of the food offered. However, there are still some issues that need to be addressed.

First, the price of food has increased significantly. This is due to a combination of factors, including rising costs for ingredients and increased service charges. As a result, many students are choosing to eat off-campus or to bring their own food.

Second, the variety of food offered is limited. The selection of meals is not as diverse as it could be, and there are not enough vegetarian options.

Third, the service is not always up to par. Sometimes the food is not prepared correctly or is not served in a timely manner.

In conclusion, I believe that improvements are needed in the food service at Forest. This includes lowering prices, increasing the variety of food offered, and improving the quality of service.

Sports and Sex Discrimination

We have expressed our disappointment over the untimely decision of the Athletic Department to eliminate the volleyball team. This decision was made in response to a lack of interest and participation by students in the sport of volleyball. The Athletic Department, in an attempt to improve the level of interest and participation in volleyball, has decided to eliminate the team.

Volleyball Decision Ironic

In an excellent speech given at the recent women's volleyball banquet, President Wilson made it clear that our volleyball program is not just for sport, but for the enjoyment of the players. Wilson also emphasized that the team members are the backbone of the program and that they should be supported completely.

A.C.C. Level

The athletic department should see itself as an integral part of the student experience. It is not just about winning games, but about providing opportunities for students to participate in a healthy and fun environment. The volleyball team is an integral part of this experience and should be supported fully.

We Need Your Help

Last week President Reagan announced a new policy that will greatly affect the future of Central America. This policy will likely lead to increased conflict and instability in the region. We need your help to make sure that our voices are heard and that our concerns are addressed.

Thirdly, politics must be considered. If Wake Forest suddenly allowed hundreds of minority faculty, students and staff to enter our world, three changes would undoubtedly be required. First, we would have to accept that there are many, many things we think are at the core of our community which may not be that in a new light. If the University of North Carolina had been a separate school for a very single reason — integration — it’s unlikely that we would ever come to discover how we can tolerate minority people without giving them any power. It’s unlikely that Africa has a similar problem... I forget which one.)

Another major accomplishment is the beautification of the campus with a great deal of interest and some divisiveness. Whatever his motives, he is to be admiration. First of all, the work of the administration, president Moss.

San Greenwood was the winner for photos of "pictures in the natural photography contest, held by the fine art students of the Student Union. The judging, by Dr. Ardie Service, took place last Sunday afternoon at the vanguard of the Magnolia Room until the beginning of next term.

Greenwood won the contest with the picture, "The Daumier," a black and white photograph of an iron-ware shop. It is a picture of a boy sitting in a chair.

"The photograph was taken at 2 p.m.," Greenwood said. "The light was perfect and the weather was good. The subject was a man sitting in a chair. The photograph was taken with a 50mm lens on a 35mm camera."

The prize went to Mark Miller for his un- titled photograph of a man with a cane walking on a gravel path. Behind the man was a building with another man in front of it, and directly to the left of the first man are rows of wooden benches filled with people.

Bradford Hight's "Standing High" was the second prize winner of the Photo Club. The picture was of a horse and a rider.

"The horse was a thoroughbred," Hight said. "I used a 28mm lens on a 35mm camera. The horse was running in a field."

The third prize went to Mike Campbell for his photograph of a man with a hat on his head, standing in front of a building.

"The building was an old brick structure," Campbell said. "I used a 50mm lens on a 35mm camera. The man was wearing a hat and standing in front of the building."

The four prizes were awarded to students who submitted the best photographs in the contest. These prizes were awarded to Mark Miller, Bradford Hight, Mike Campbell, and San Greenwood.

The contest was sponsored by the Photo Club and judged by Dr. Ardie Service. The winners were announced at the end of the contest.

The Wake Forest University Theatre student-directed lab series came to a delightful and sophisticated conclusion with the presentations of two comedies. Barnes Cohen's The Great American Cheese Sandwich and the governmental morality play, The State's Penitentiary, Propositions, and Problems.

The absurd Sandwich followed by junior Ann Bowdon's focus on a "typical" All-American high school band. The play consisted of a series of humorous and poignant scenes, all set in the cafeteria of a suburban high school.

"The play was a series of humorous and poignant scenes," Cohen said. "I used a 28mm lens on a 35mm camera. The play was performed in front of a live audience."

Colleges Drop Their SAT Requirements

Old College in recent years to SAT Requirements that the college will no longer require SAT scores, either. Last year, Reed and some colleges in Maine dropped the SATs. Union College spokesperson Brian Quinlan said that the students dropped the SATs to help attract a more diverse range of students. He also cited research that indicates students who are admitted to college by considering coursework and teacher recommendations are more successful than those who are admitted based on SAT scores.

went to more than the two percent person. "Success is the one pay on the silence and space you spend on this matter," said "The world is out there — we have to do something about it." Segel concluded by saying, "I am in Wake Forest to complete a degree and I learned that education is a responsibility. I came to make a living and learned to make a life." Casser said that Michael Oldham, also co-chairperson for ROTC's summer Advanced Camp, registered the office of student activities and was the first person to sign up for the need. Segel was chosen because of his commitment to his community. As well as being the first dean of the College of Business and the first college president, Segel was the first woman president of a college in the University of Georgia system. She was the first woman dean of academic affairs for continuing education at the University of Florida, and also was the first woman dean of academic affairs at Western Carolina University. Her other achievements included being named Alumna of the Year, as well as receiving the Award of the Order of the Torch and the Award of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Be a full-time student and a part-time Ranger.

If you're highly competitive and in top physical condition, you might want to become part of Ranger Challenge in the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps. It's a program on intense mental and physical challenges. And if you're among the best, you could represent your college and your cadet during the annual Ranger Challenge at the Army ROTC's summer Advanced Camp.

Ranger Challenge is anything but easy. It is a very tough, rigorous, rewarding and exciting experience.

To find out more about enrolling in Army ROTC, and for complete information on Ranger Challenge, talk to your Professor of Military Science, today.

In the last session of the SG legislature, April 26 legislation recommended that the student life office take advantage of the capital funds for libraries, recreation facilities and the campus police force. The legislation also supported a bill to construct a sidewalk connecting East Lot -1 (which is used for parking by students as well as by business and law students) and the existing Wake Forest Road bridge. The bill is intended to improve the appearance of the area, which remains muddy for days after rain.

Following recommendations made by the appropriate committees and the senate, three groups received grants. Pit Films Alpha and the police club received $150 to help define the costs of taking photographs and to help establish a photography firm. The Mock Constitution Convention, held April 25-26.

The Interfraternity Christian Fellowship, an international organization, was granted $400 to help the group meet its $1500 expenses, which includes coffee and food for meetings and a picnic and a donation to the Mock Constitution Convention.

Wake Forest Ties for Sixth at Invitational

By JON MONTANO

It wasn't every day four years ago that I was able to write down a story about Wake Forest's women's tennis team winning their first ever ACC Championship. Since then, Wake Forest has continued to dominate the ACC and recently captured their second straight ACC Championship.

Diane Decker, the Wake Forest women's basketball coach, has compiled a record of 209-98 in 29 seasons at the school. Under her leadership, the Demon Deacons have become a perennial power in women's basketball.

The Demon Deacons ended their season with a 14-14 record, finishing fifth in the ACC. Despite this setback, Decker has continued to build the program and has the Demon Deacons poised for a strong ACC season next year.

Baseball

The Wake Forest baseball team had a young team in 1986-87 and it showed as they finished the season with a 15-35 record. The Demon Deacons struggled to find their rhythm, but they did have some bright spots throughout the season.

Women's Indoor Track

The Wake Forest women's indoor track team finished the season with a 10-6 record, finishing third in the ACC. Despite the losing record, the team showed improvement throughout the season and is expected to have a stronger showing in the ACC next year.

The 1986-87 season was a challenging one for both the men's and women's teams. Despite the struggles, Wake Forest continued to grow as a program and is poised for a successful season in the years to come.

Wake Forest Drops Two, Sweeps Two from Virginia

By RICH CARTER
Ohio State and Buckeye

The Wake Forest baseball team split four games this past week, losing to UNC Charlotte 12-2 Wednesday and falling to Virginia Tech 4-3 Monday after a sweeping a doubleheader from Virginia Tech.

The Deacons beat the Hokies 12-5 in the first game of the series Saturday. The Deacons' winning streak against the Hokies ended at six games.

Virginia's Tim Stanley retires to first base as Johnny Keenan avoids the throw.

Sanchez Adds 5 Players
To Wake Forest Roster

BY COLLEEN KOONTZ

Joe Sanchez, Wake Forest's women's basketball coach, recently signed five new players that will help improve his program.

"One of our weaknesses last year was that we could not challenge teams on the boards," Sanchez said. "We will use some additional strength on the boards. All of them (the new recruits) can offer immediate help."

Jerry Mitchell, a 6-2 player from William B. Herndon High School in Virginia, is one of the players who will provide inside strength for Wake Forest. She was a member of the Virginia all-star team and averaged 32 points and 7 rebounds a game.

Another incoming post player for the Deacons is Jeni Mitchell, a 5-10 player from Charles Clark High School in Charleston, South Carolina. She was a member of the South Carolina all-star team and averages 50 points and 20 rebounds a game.

"Jeni has a good inside game and can shoot from the outside," Sanchez said. "She can be a great post player for us."

The fifth recruit for Sanchez is Sar Ricks, a 6-4 player from Gainesville, Virginia. She averaged 18 points and 22 rebounds a game at West Potomac High School in Washington, D.C.

"She is a great rebounder and shooter," Sanchez said. "She has good shooting ability."

The new blueliner matures fast in the classroom and on the court. She will be half of the center position." Sanchez said.

Wake Forest also has some new players to add strength to the guard positions.

One of these is Beth Candland, a 5-8 player from North Henderson High School in Asheville, North Carolina. She is one of the New York high school all-star team and averaged 27 points, seven rebounds, and seven assists a game.

"She can attack the basket and shoot with good jumping ability," Sanchez said. "The biggest part will be rebounding. We feel like she will develop with the program and provide additional height strength. She will be named at the center position."

One of the new players to help improve the team's outside shooting ability is Sami Williams, a 5-8 player from Wiliam Byrd High School in Roanoke, Virginia. She averaged 16 points and seven rebounds per game as a junior.

"She had a very good trial to Wake Forest and coach stocked. She is the first player who is the New York Times. It is a very important game, the first of our season," Sanchez said. "We are very excited to see her play at Wake Forest and in the basketball program."

Sanchez, an all-conference player from Northwood High School in Pittsboro, is a 6-4, 195-pound forward. He averaged 17 points and 12 rebounds for a 3-20 team in his last year of high school, and his team was challenged for the district playoffs.

"He is the type of player who is the New York Times. It is a very important game, the first of our season," Sanchez said. "We are very excited to see him play at Wake Forest and in the basketball program."
