Goerner separates law and virtue of justice

by Leslie Word

The essence of justice defies a certain style answer as such by analyzing their responses to the first of looking at the matter. It is, in essence, the reflection of common sense, the exercise of human reason. Justice is that which is right according to the prevailing moral standards of a society.

In his studies, Burger found one person out of five who are more introverted, know very little about themselves. What he means is, those who are quieter, more introverted are the people who are more likely to commit suicide. Those who succeed in committing suicide have a slightly different list of causes for their actions. The overall gain that suicide brings to life will not be as obvious as the overall gain of life. The cause of suicide is not a goal of life, it is a means to an end. Suicide is a way to escape from a situation that is intolerable.

The student in question did not have any major legal services, and she was not preparing for a test. She was expecting to get a job. She was hoping to get a job. She was not preparing for a test. She was not preparing for a test.

Social contract theories propose that people form communities through the exercise of human reason, and that the laws of the community are necessary for the maintenance of social order. The social contract is the basis for the exercising of human reason, and the laws of the community are necessary for the maintenance of social order.

Goerner said the essence of contract theory is that the virtue of justice is a stable disposition to act in accordance with the law, to use it in a way which can be determined accurately.

Depression prevails on campus

Although Thanksgiving is usually a time to share from home and friends and family and to celebrate, in this case it is not. The recent fund-raising campaign among the students has been a great deal of stress, and it's extremely important to manage it so that there's not a dramatic change in his daily life and lifestyle. A recent boat explosion at DelMar, did not affect the students daily life too much. The center also provides various resources for students who need help. The center also offers various resources for students who need help.

The center for psychological services has experienced a dramatic increase in the number of students who are seeking psychological services. They have been experiencing a dramatic increase in the number of students who are seeking psychological services. The center also provides various resources for students who need help. The center also offers various resources for students who need help.

Often depression can be the result of a prolonged period of stress, according to a study by the National Institute of Mental Health. The study found that people who are more likely to develop depression are those who experience stress at a young age.

For instance, Burger found one of five of those who were given the test of depression were found to have the condition. For instance, Burger found one of five of those who were given the test of depression were found to have the condition. For instance, Burger found one of five of those who were given the test of depression were found to have the condition.

The study also showed that one out of five of those who were given the test of depression were found to have the condition. For instance, Burger found one of five of those who were given the test of depression were found to have the condition. For instance, Burger found one of five of those who were given the test of depression were found to have the condition.

The study also showed that one out of five of those who were given the test of depression were found to have the condition. For instance, Burger found one of five of those who were given the test of depression were found to have the condition. For instance, Burger found one of five of those who were given the test of depression were found to have the condition.

Weak relations dismay

by Jeanette Word

Many faculty members are frustrated with the current state of the department. They feel that there is a lack of communication with the administration, and they feel that the administration is not doing enough to support the department.

The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years. The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years.

The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years. The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years.

The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years. The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years.

The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years. The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years.

The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years. The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years.

The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years. The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years.

The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years. The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years.

The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years. The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years.

The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years. The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years.

The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years. The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years.

The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years. The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years.

The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years. The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years.

The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years. The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years.

The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years. The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years.

The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years. The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years.

The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years. The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years.

The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years. The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years.

The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years. The department has been experiencing a lot of problems in recent years.
Students to spend semester in London

The following students have been selected for programs for the 1995-96 academic year: Enzi Angeles, New York; and Robert S. Parks; E Computing, New York; and Ingrid J. Ford; Mark R. G. Brown, Cambridge, United Kingdom; and Abdul-Majid, H. A., England.
Joel's concert features songs from 'Curtain' by McCoher

"The Nite Owl's" star will end his currently touring and recently released album "The Nite Owl's" in a city for the first time at "The Owl." His name, along with one or more other names, is the pick for Joel this evening. The only question of concern is how it is going to be answered. This is a result of the serious twenty-seventy in a town last year, that is the beginning of his three-year- old and the motorcycle accident left a foot with a broken bone.

With the premiere of "The Nite Owl," "Guys and Dolls" alone as the main thing in the state. Possibly the most important thing to the American soldiers, alive and dead, "Guys and Dolls" proves a picture that is as visible as it is audible. The song captures the lives of these dear old and mad musicians in Vietnam. Using similar, Joel conveys the meaning of this haunting composition emotionally: "We never thought they knew how to play, they just played it off the memory," was the punch line of the story (CD in the show) on the truck, and a private joke. The song describes the story of those who died yet give us hope.

Joel's new found popularity has not hurt his performance, especially his dramatically contrasting concert at the Greensboro Coliseum Coliseum. Our review will be devoted to the concert Joel opened the concert with "Guys and Dolls," which is one of the most significant works in a video, as it is currently in concert with "Guys and Dolls" on "721-1478.

The audience cheered and his lead, Vincent Stearns, has been developed in the story, "The Owl." The scene of "The Owl," which also shares the song, is the only one to have reminding Joel's concert.

Artist urges viewer emotion by Janet Marvelak

"Pragmatic" is the most easily comprehensible yet, so it seems that the song will be used up in as much as it is going to be read. Joel's concert in the story is the most significant work in a video, as it is currently in concert with "Guys and Dolls" on "721-1478."

"Goodnight Saigon," one of Joel's early outputs, is also a very successful one in one of his well known songs. His concert during a drive-in concert and more songs as "Scandinavian Mama Mia's"

50's sound draws locals by Dave Osbourne

At the Owle, 720 E. Robie Street, Champaign, and the December Home, they have been developing the song to be used in the musical, "The Owl." The scene of "The Owl," which also shares the song, is the only one to have reminding Joel's concert.

"Goodnight Saigon," one of Joel's early outputs, is also a very successful one in one of his well known songs. His concert during a drive-in concert and more songs as "Scandinavian Mama Mia's".
Letters to the editor

Wake Forest ignores the poor

A group of students on campus feel that the administration is failing to address one of their concerns. We feel that the administration needs to act immediately on this issue.

A few weeks ago, I turned on the campus radio station and heard a song I had never heard before. It was about a young man who was struggling to keep his head above water. He was facing a number of challenges, including financial difficulties, academic pressures, and personal problems. I was moved by his story and decided to see what I could do to help.

I reached out to the administration and asked if there was anything they could do to help. They told me that they were working on a number of initiatives to address these issues, but that they needed more information to make a decision.

I think this is unacceptable. The students who are facing these challenges deserve more than a vague promise of action. They need concrete steps that will actually help them.

I urge the administration to take immediate action on this issue. The students deserve better.
There are hundreds of arguments pro and con on a resolution as controversial as military intervention. This summary only reflects what some have chosen to put in print. Additionally, this particular discussion began with a vacuum of facts from actual soldiers involved. The debate will soar during more hours than any editor has been known to be able to account for. The issue was brought about by the presence and implementation of interference into the internal affairs of any nation or nationless in the western hemisphere be prohibited!

Team fares well under new coach

By David Cheshier

The Wake Forest debate team has a new director this year who has been making a name for himself in the school community. This year's debate team, coached by Richard Charton, is off to a good start with several solid debates. However, the team is still trying to get back on its feet after a disappointing year last year.

The league's major news today is to announce the winner of the Dixie Classic. Carol Winkler, a junior in journalism, was chosen as the winner of the Dixie Classic. The Dixie Classic was held in the Student Union and was a national competition. Winkler was chosen as the winner of the Dixie Classic and was among over 500 students from various schools.

The Wake Forest debate team is one of the better teams in the country. The team has won several national and regional competitions.

The Wake Forest debate team has been working with the top students in the country. The team has been working with top students in the United States and has been able to attract top students from the country. The team has been working with top students in the country and has been able to attract top students from the country.

The Wake Forest debate team is one of the better teams in the country. The team has won several national and regional competitions.

The Wake Forest debate team is one of the better teams in the country. The team has won several national and regional competitions. The team has been working with the top students in the country. The team has been working with top students in the United States and has been able to attract top students from the country. The team has been working with top students in the country and has been able to attract top students from the country.

The Wake Forest debate team is one of the better teams in the country. The team has won several national and regional competitions. The team has been working with the top students in the country. The team has been working with top students in the United States and has been able to attract top students from the country. The team has been working with top students in the country and has been able to attract top students from the country.

The Wake Forest debate team is one of the better teams in the country. The team has won several national and regional competitions. The team has been working with the top students in the country. The team has been working with top students in the United States and has been able to attract top students from the country. The team has been working with top students in the country and has been able to attract top students from the country.
Field training week

ROTC simulates camp

So that you can be. Army ROTC. That's what we do. We train. We prepare. We train. We prepare. We are the future of military service. We are the future of our country. We are the future of our planet. We are the future of our world. We are the future of our tomorrow. We are the future of our tomorrows.

Lunch preceded the opportunity for a good laugh and a bit of relaxation. "The lunch is a time to relax and enjoy the company of fellow cadets," said Captain Johnson. "It is also a time to discuss any issues that may have arisen during the training day."

The lunch was held in the ROTC building, which is located next to the field training area. The building is equipped with a kitchen and dining area, and is staffed by a group of cadets who are responsible for preparing and serving the meals.

The training week was concluded with a final inspection of the camp. "We had a successful week," said Captain Johnson. "The cadets have shown a great deal of improvement in their skills and knowledge. We are proud of their accomplishments and look forward to their continued progress."

Inerrancy spurs debate

by Paul Johnson

The flap of a flap determined the outcome of a panel discussion about inerrancy at the joint spring meetings of the 23rd International Conference on Religion and Medicine and the Catholic Medical Association, held April 27-30 at the University of Notre Dame. The discussion was designed to help participants clarify their own views about inerrancy in the Bible.

Devin, Ohio, was the scene. Devin had been troubled by a report of a girl's suicide that was interpreted as a natural accident. The family's view was that the girl had actually committed suicide by jumping from an eighth-floor window.

The discussion centered on the question of whether the Bible is an infallible or fallible source of knowledge. Participants were divided on the issue, with some believing in the inerrancy of the Bible and others rejecting it.

Devin called the question of inerrancy a critical one for Christians. "We are talking about the authority of the Bible as the word of God," said Devin. "If we believe in the inerrancy of the Bible, we are committed to its authority in all matters of faith and practice."

The debate also addressed the issue of how to interpret the Bible, with some participants arguing for a literal interpretation and others advocating a more symbolic or metaphorical approach.

Devin said that the debate was important because it affects how we understand and apply the teachings of the Bible.

He also noted that the debate was not new, but rather a recurring issue in Christian theology.

Devin concluded the discussion by emphasizing the need for continued dialogue and study on the issue of inerrancy.

---

Moravians develop tradition

Walt Forrest, past president, has been on a quest since 1960 to see if being a part of North Carolina history. When his group of fellow Moravians started to study, it was a way to celebrate their heritage and pass it on to future generations.

Moravians are a unique group with a long history in the United States. They are descended from a religious movement that began in Germany in the 18th century.

Walt Forrest, along with his wife, Linda, are involved in this tradition of sharing Moravian history with others.

They have given presentations at various events, including the North Carolina History Conference and state historical society meetings.

Moravians are known for their love of music, especially hymns. They have been involved in the creation of the Moravian Hymnal, which is now in its 10th edition.

Walt Forrest said that sharing their heritage is important, not only for the Moravians but for all people who are interested in history.

---

Speer retires

by Cheryl Miller

Elmo Speer, who served on the faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences for 44 years, will retire at the end of the year. Speer was influential in shaping the institution and contributed significantly to its growth.

Speer's tenure at the college spanned its early years, from the founding of the institution to the present day. He was a key figure in the development of the college's academic programs and played a crucial role in its expansion.

Speer's impact on the college and its students cannot be overstated. He was a mentor and a friend to generations of students, and his influence will be felt for years to come.

Elmo Speer was born in 1924 and earned his doctorate degree from the University of Virginia. He joined the faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences in 1950 and served as its dean from 1974 to 1984.

Speer's dedication to education and his commitment to excellence in teaching and scholarship are the hallmarks of his career.

He is a true guiding light for the college and its students, and his legacy will continue to inspire generations to come.

---

Lovefeast

Moravians develop tradition

Walt Forrest, past president, has been on a quest since 1960 to see if being a part of North Carolina history. When his group of fellow Moravians started to study, it was a way to celebrate their heritage and pass it on to future generations.

Moravians are a unique group with a long history in the United States. They are descended from a religious movement that began in Germany in the 18th century.

Walt Forrest, along with his wife, Linda, are involved in this tradition of sharing Moravian history with others.

They have given presentations at various events, including the North Carolina History Conference and state historical society meetings.

Moravians are known for their love of music, especially hymns. They have been involved in the creation of the Moravian Hymnal, which is now in its 10th edition.

Walt Forrest said that sharing their heritage is important, not only for the Moravians but for all people who are interested in history.

---

Sunflower Restaurant

Just Opened

Great Food...Unbelievably Low Prices

DINNER SPECIALS

- EIGHT TO 11 TO 2:30

Two for $10 on all single-course items Mon. & Wed. 6:30 pm

You'll love our food— you won't believe our prices, sitt back with a drink— see our new large-screen TV.

AT NORTHWEST SHOPPING CENTER ABERDEEN DRIVE
Ramseur earns ACC Rookie of the Year

Wake Forest football coach Michael Hamner has named Ramseur ACC Rookie of the Year in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Ramseur, a junior from Greensboro, N.C., is the first three-time ACC Rookie of the Year. He is the first player to win Rookie of the Year in three consecutive years.

Ramseur earned the award for his leadership and contributions to the Deacons' success. He was named Rookie of the Year in 2010 and 2011, and this year he is also a finalist for the Heisman Trophy.

Ramseur has been a steady presence for the Deacons on and off the field. He has been named the team's Most Valuable Player three times, and he is also a three-time Academic All-American. He is a key member of the team's leadership group and is respected by his teammates for his work ethic and dedication to the sport.

Ramseur has been a leader on defense, where he has recorded 19 tackles for loss, 14 sacks, and four forced fumbles. He has also been a key contributor on special teams, where he has blocked three kicks.

Ramseur's contributions to the team have been recognized both on and off the field. He has been named ACC Defensive Player of the Year twice and ACC Special Teams Player of the Year once. He is also a member of the ACC Honor Roll and has been named to the Academic All-ACC team.

Ramseur is a key member of the Deacons' defense, where he has been a leader in tackles for loss, sacks, and forced fumbles.

Ramseur's leadership and contributions to the team have been recognized both on and off the field. He is a key member of the team's leadership group and is respected by his teammates for his work ethic and dedication to the sport.

Ramseur has been a leader on defense, where he has recorded 19 tackles for loss, 14 sacks, and four forced fumbles. He has also been a key contributor on special teams, where he has blocked three kicks.

Ramseur's contributions to the team have been recognized both on and off the field. He has been named ACC Defensive Player of the Year twice and ACC Special Teams Player of the Year once. He is also a member of the ACC Honor Roll and has been named to the Academic All-ACC team.
Female athlete

Linda Van Houten, a senior at Silas, boasts a solid running season. Van Houten compiled a total of 80 miles in half-marathons and 10Ks, earning her the Lady Deacons’ Top Runner of the Semester. "Houten was our top performer,” said coach Dave Cross. “She ran well all season and was very consistent. She was very consistent and hardworking.”

Male athlete

Peter Andrade, an athlete from the university, has been named Male Athlete of the Year. "Andrade has been our top performer all season,” said coach Dave Cross. "He ran well all season and was very consistent. He was very consistent and hardworking.”

Coach

Coach Tom Malone has been named Coach of the Year. "Malone has done a tremendous job this season,” said Andrade. "He has been our top performer all season and was very consistent. He was very consistent and hardworking.”

Nominations for male athlete (left to right): Bill Barrow — Fred Barrow; Todd Harvey — Todd Harvey; Dave Cross — Dave Cross.
Deacs avenge loss to Richmond 60-54

⎯ by Tom Ondrey

Arriving last season’s loss to Richmond, the Deacons hosted several new faces to their home side at the Wrenn–Hales Memorial Coliseum Wednesday night. The game carried a special meaning for Alternative Brian, who returned last season after suffering a torn meniscus against Appalachian State. Rogers remained with four points and six rebounds.

Anthony Teachey led the Deacons in scoring with 18 points, 12 coming in the first half. Teachey was also an obliteratoring force under the boards as he blocked three Richmond shots.

The Deacons started strong, falling behind by as many as 14 points during the early going. Wake took their first lead of the game at the 13:10 mark of the first half when Teachey hit a three-pointer.

WINNING AHEAD FOR GOOD

One discouraging point was the Deacon rebounding, as Richmond out-rebounded Wake Forest 20-18. Despite the difference in rebounds, and five steals, Wake Forest’s defense was none to be envied. With a steady defense, the Deacons completed the comeback to beat Richmond 60-54.

The game remained close until Teachey broke loose with a huge three-pointer to put the Deacons ahead for good with two quick baskets from Alvis Rogers and Charles Rudd leading the Deacons with five. Forwards Vickie Leidner and Lisa Stockton were the best yet for students.

Deacs' offensive game is tomorrow at 13:30. Everyone expects that the young group of kids. We're happy that we got a handout in the best yet for students.

Looking some changes from last year concerning buses to Greensboro will have the pick up for the game at the Battleground Ave. photo by GooBroy Shorter were a success for the season. We are working to support the Deacons for a successful season in basketball.

Sylvester Rudd leading the Deacons with five. Forwards Vickie Leidner and Lisa Stockton were the best yet for students.

The Deacons came out fast in the second half, out-scoring Richmond by eight in the first half.

The Deacons are happy that they are working on something new. We're happy that we got a handout in the best yet for students. Forwards Vickie Leidner and Lisa Stockton were the best yet for students.

The Deacons are happy that they are working on something new. We're happy that we got a handout in the best yet for students.

The Deacons are happy that they are working on something new. We're happy that we got a handout in the best yet for students.

The Deacons are happy that they are working on something new. We're happy that we got a handout in the best yet for students.

The Deacons are happy that they are working on something new. We're happy that we got a handout in the best yet for students.