Student body elects new Student Government officers

By Paige Petanjek

Nationally elected Student Government executive officers for the 1984-85 academic year have been selected. W. Lee Allison will serve as Student Body President and Thomas H. Atkinson, Todd Eure, Carla Go "Deacs!" Hearn Jr., and Suzette Atkinson, will serve as Student Body Vice-President; Carla Go "Deacs!" Hearn Jr. will serve as Student Body Treasurer; and Brent Wood, president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, will serve as Student Body Secretary.

"Hopefully, if I'm correct about student responses, we can work on a better, more effective system for the future," said Wood. "We need to consider making a change that will benefit the students that we, as student officers, have a voice in.

"It is my hope that the new Student Government officers will be able to make some changes that will benefit the students.

"I really enjoyed the upcoming spring break," McColley said. "I think we’re on a roll and I think that the new officers are good people. We’ve worked together for a while to do something that will benefit the students.

"I think that it is a positive year," McColley said.

Canadian Brass

Performers delight public

Canadian Brass delighted their audience with a mixture of humor, showmanship and sophisticated musicality. The performers included Robin Romm, trumpet; Martin Hackleman, trombone; Charles Brudzinski, tuba and Evelyn Thomas, French horn.

The opening concert of the season consisted largely of traditional baroque and classical pieces. The program notes described the second selection performed as "a very short piece that has an arch-like quality and a sense of balance. The ensemble presented music by Vivaldi, "Four Seasons," and "Fats" by "The Show Must Go On."" The performers yelled back and forth across the stage, creating a dynamic atmosphere.

The Canadian Brass is known for their ability to play two trumpets at once, creating a unique sound. During their performance, they demonstrated this skill and took huge gasping breaths at times. The Canadian Brass has performed their music across the world, and their concerts are always a treat for fans of brass music.

Dinner Theatre offers fine dining and an excellent character study

The Dinner Theatre production marked the 40th anniversary of the show. The show was well-received, with Wednesday's opening night especially sold out. After the performance, the audience was treated to refreshments and a special reception to celebrate the milestone.

The show was set in a kitchen that had been turned into a bar, with the performing space divided by a long table. The characters were well-developed and the acting was excellent. The show had a strong message about the social issues of the time, and it was a great character study for the audience.

Himan's character development was particularly strong. Himan was the first character to be introduced, and he set the tone for the rest of the show. He was a complex character, with a tragic past and a strong will to survive. The audience was drawn into his story, and the way he dealt with the challenges he faced was truly inspiring.

The Dinner Theatre 40th Anniversary Production was a memorable experience for all involved. The combination of excellent acting, strong character development, and a thought-provoking message made it a show that will be remembered for years to come.

On broadcasting, broads and bias

Several events of the past few weeks bring into question Wake Forest student behavior. The damage to property is astounding and should not have occurred. The university strongly condemns and prohibits this type of vandalism. The speech has been mounted and the vandalism on campus is unacceptable. The university should immediately conduct an investigation of the events that occurred.

For what reason XXII appeared to be a target for such abuse, we can only speculate. It is clear that this form of destruction is not unprecedented, as it occurred at Wake Forest last year. It is also important to note that the damage caused by XXII is relatively minor compared to the destruction caused by the community.

To accomplish our efforts to earn more respect and support from the administration, a few hours. The library scatters students at Wake Forest.

However, this effort should also be directed at the community, as they are often the ones who are called on to support and defend the university.

In another incident this week, students were found in the campus library. This attack was not directed at the students themselves, but rather at the university as a whole.

The university is committed to providing a safe and secure environment for all its students. We urge all members of the university community to help prevent such incidents from occurring in the future.

Letters to the Editor

Standing tall with Reagan

In the March issue of The Wake, Steve Mayo wrote an essay on gay rights. Mayo's essay was well-written and addressed an important issue. However, I disagree with Mayo's conclusions.

Mayo argues that the administration should support gay rights because it is the right thing to do. While I agree that it is important to do what is right, I believe that the administration should be more cautious in their support of gay rights.

Mayo also states that the university should not discriminate against gay students. I understand Mayo's concern, but I believe that the university should be allowed to make decisions that are in the best interest of the institution.

Finally, Mayo suggests that the university should not discriminate against gay students. I agree with Mayo's suggestion, but I believe that the university should be allowed to make decisions that are in the best interest of the institution.

In conclusion, I believe that the university should support gay rights, but I also believe that the university should be allowed to make decisions that are in the best interest of the institution.

Respect for others

We must accept that there are gay students at Wake Forest, and we must learn to live together in peace. This is the only way to build a community where everyone feels welcome and respected.

Closing notes:

We must continue to fight for gay rights and for a Society that is inclusive and accepting. We must continue to work towards a world where everyone is treated with dignity and respect.

Thank you for your understanding and support.

Sincerely,

Building a new society

A basic issue that has affected most of the students of the world is the lack of self-respect and self-esteem. The absence of these qualities has led to a general decline in academic performance, which in turn has led to a decrease in the quality of the students themselves.

In order to address this issue, I propose a new society that is based on individual respect and self-worth. In this society, each individual will be responsible for their own actions, and there will be no place for blaming others for one's mistakes.

In this society, each individual will be encouraged to develop their own unique talents and abilities, and they will be supported in their efforts to achieve their goals.

Conclusion:

In conclusion, I believe that a society based on individual respect and self-worth is necessary to address the issue of low self-esteem and academic performance. I urge everyone to support this idea and work towards creating a better future for all of us.

Sincerely,
[Your Name]

Stephanie T. Tyrell

The Wake Forest Lady Netters split matches on the weekend, dropping a 14-9 decision with George Washington University Thursday and picking up a 9-3 victory over George Mason Saturday. The match with George Mason was played in the Greenhouse. The team was played against the strongest opposition of the season in the past two matches.

The team started Friday with 14-9 loss to George Washington. The Lady Netters were outscored in four matches, and the competition was tough. The team's only chance of winning was in the final set of the match, where they managed to score three points. However, the Lady Netters were unable to capitalize on their lead and ultimately lost the match. The team played a total of five matches, with four losses and one victory.

A night to remember for Wake Forest

Wake Forest 73
DePaul 71 OT

Wake Forest fans will not soon forget last Friday night's 73-71 overtime win over DePaul in Midwest Regional semi-finals. The finish would have made a great beer commercial, with two last second shots, one to tie it for the Deacons and send the contest into overtime, and the other to win it.

Deacon fans will have forever etched into their minds picture of the last few seconds of regulation... a missed shot by Mark Cline, the rebound by DePaul and an errant pass down court, the grab over the sideline and the toss back in to Kenny Green who passed to Delaney Rudd, and the long shot from 25 feet that swished through at the buzzer. Overtime... an incredible finish, and one that became even more exciting ever since the replay was shown.

Those were the last sights Wake Forest students saw as they poured out of the dorms and lounges and onto the quad where the trees were quickly covered in flowing white strands of toilet paper. A mini-celebration erupted on the Quad as students poured fourth from time, but all were back inside by the time the overtime started.

But there's more... more excitement, more celebration. Not even the loss to Houston a day later could dampen the Deacons' spirits or dim their memory of the incredible finish Friday night.
