Boyette apologizes to WFDD

By Brad Genter
Assistant News Editor

In the wake of the debate surrounding WFDD's journalistic freedom, Stanis Boyette, the station's manager for university advancement, has met with the staff of the public radio station in order to make sure all differences between the station's mandate and the station's purpose are satisfied with the conclusion.

Boyette told the station was to restrict its coverage of a trustee committee's report on a same-sex union situation from arising in the future.

"The need for the meeting arose after Boyette and the station's main staff met with a number of people. Many of them wanted to avoid a similar situation from happening in the future."

"Boyette's goal is to work on this problem so we can never happen again," James said.

The station's main staff met with Boyette to discuss the situation that dealt with this, and it's unfortunate

See Boyette, Page A5

Petition supports same-sex ceremony

By Heather Seely
Senior Reporter

Sophomore Anne Koldenberger, the chairwoman for Student Association for Equality and a member of the Gay-Straight Student Alliance, said she is frustrated with students inability to contact members of the board of trustees. Her frustration is sparked by the board's recent recommendation that the Wake Forest Baptist Church end same-sex ceremonies. But Koldenberger is among a number of students from four different groups who are doing something about it.

SAFE, SSA, Amos International and the Women's Initiative for Support and Empowerment have joined together to create a petition to voice student opposition to the board's decision.

The groups plan to present the petition the board when it meets Sept. 20 and Oct. 1.

"By now, students had collected 6000-8000 signatures to going door-to-door in the neighborhood," Koldenberger said. Students started circulating the petition after a meeting of the four groups Sept. 20, attended by more than 200 members of the community including the members of the four groups.

"We got a lot of feedback from the community," Seely said.

"A lot of people want to keep things as they are."

According to Mike Janssen, a WFDD employee, the station's main staff met with the station's main staff to prevent a similar situation from happening in the future.

"It's a joy to see the next generation," Janssen said. "The whole question of people having a same-sex ceremony is going to be at the forefront of every school on the campus and every school in the country."

Although most of these groups received commendations, recommendations or warnings to the organizations. This past spring, eight residential groups were reviewed.

"The conference room recommendations, recommendations or warnings to the organizations. This past spring, eight residential groups were reviewed.

See Petition, Page A6

Elections draw record numbers

By Lawrence McHenry
Old Gold and Black Reporter

Students were given the opportunity to vote on issues during this past week as the Student Government Association's fall elections were held for the first time.

SG and RSA reported record numbers of students, which were recorded for the past election, held Sept. 21, were historic for the number of voters, with as much as 70 percent in Johnson Residence Hall and 60 percent for Protestant Residence Hall, but also the "unprecedented amount of ap-

"It's a joy to see the next generation," Janssen said. "The whole question of people having a same-sex ceremony is going to be at the forefront of every school on the campus and every school in the country."

Although most of these groups received commendations, recommendations or warnings to the organizations. This past spring, eight residential groups were reviewed.

"The conference room recommendations, recommendations or warnings to the organizations. This past spring, eight residential groups were reviewed.

See Petition, Page A6

Elections draw record numbers

By Lawrence McHenry
Old Gold and Black Reporter

Students were given the opportunity to vote on issues during this past week as the Student Government Association's fall elections were held for the first time.

SG and RSA reported record numbers of students, which were recorded for the past election, held Sept. 21, were historic for the number of voters, with as much as 70 percent in Johnson Residence Hall and 60 percent for Protestant Residence Hall, but also the "unprecedented amount of ap-

"It's a joy to see the next generation," Janssen said. "The whole question of people having a same-sex ceremony is going to be at the forefront of every school on the campus and every school in the country."

Although most of these groups received commendations, recommendations or warnings to the organizations. This past spring, eight residential groups were reviewed.

"The conference room recommendations, recommendations or warnings to the organizations. This past spring, eight residential groups were reviewed.

See Petition, Page A6

Elections draw record numbers

By Lawrence McHenry
Old Gold and Black Reporter

Students were given the opportunity to vote on issues during this past week as the Student Government Association's fall elections were held for the first time.

SG and RSA reported record numbers of students, which were recorded for the past election, held Sept. 21, were historic for the number of voters, with as much as 70 percent in Johnson Residence Hall and 60 percent for Protestant Residence Hall, but also the "unprecedented amount of ap-

"It's a joy to see the next generation," Janssen said. "The whole question of people having a same-sex ceremony is going to be at the forefront of every school on the campus and every school in the country."

Although most of these groups received commendations, recommendations or warnings to the organizations. This past spring, eight residential groups were reviewed.

"The conference room recommendations, recommendations or warnings to the organizations. This past spring, eight residential groups were reviewed.

See Petition, Page A6

Six-story building plan angers neighbors

By Jay Goldin
Assistant News Editor

The university has temporarily put on hold a proposed expansion of the Gryllus Conference Center that has drawn a response from many students and faculty to voice student opposition to the board's decision.

"The groups plan to present the petition the board when it meets Sept. 20 and Oct. 1.

"By now, students had collected 6000-8000 signatures to going door-to-door in the neighborhood," Koldenberger said. Students started circulating the petition after a meeting of the four groups Sept. 20, attended by more than 200 members of the community including the members of the four groups.

"We got a lot of feedback from the community," Seely said.

"A lot of people want to keep things as they are."

According to Mike Janssen, a WFDD employee, the station's main staff met with the station's main staff to prevent a similar situation from happening in the future.

"It's a joy to see the next generation," Janssen said. "The whole question of people having a same-sex ceremony is going to be at the forefront of every school on the campus and every school in the country."

Although most of these groups received commendations, recommendations or warnings to the organizations. This past spring, eight residential groups were reviewed.

"The conference room recommendations, recommendations or warnings to the organizations. This past spring, eight residential groups were reviewed.

See Petition, Page A6

Elections draw record numbers

By Lawrence McHenry
Old Gold and Black Reporter

Students were given the opportunity to vote on issues during this past week as the Student Government Association's fall elections were held for the first time.

SG and RSA reported record numbers of students, which were recorded for the past election, held Sept. 21, were historic for the number of voters, with as much as 70 percent in Johnson Residence Hall and 60 percent for Protestant Residence Hall, but also the "unprecedented amount of ap-

"It's a joy to see the next generation," Janssen said. "The whole question of people having a same-sex ceremony is going to be at the forefront of every school on the campus and every school in the country."

Although most of these groups received commendations, recommendations or warnings to the organizations. This past spring, eight residential groups were reviewed.

"The conference room recommendations, recommendations or warnings to the organizations. This past spring, eight residential groups were reviewed.

See Petition, Page A6

Six-story building plan angers neighbors

By Jay Goldin
Assistant News Editor

The university has temporarily put on hold a proposed expansion of the Gryllus Conference Center that has drawn a response from many students and faculty to voice student opposition to the board's decision.

"The groups plan to present the petition the board when it meets Sept. 20 and Oct. 1.

"By now, students had collected 6000-8000 signatures to going door-to-door in the neighborhood," Koldenberger said. Students started circulating the petition after a meeting of the four groups Sept. 20, attended by more than 200 members of the community including the members of the four groups.

"We got a lot of feedback from the community," Seely said.

"A lot of people want to keep things as they are."

According to Mike Janssen, a WFDD employee, the station's main staff met with the station's main staff to prevent a similar situation from happening in the future.

"It's a joy to see the next generation," Janssen said. "The whole question of people having a same-sex ceremony is going to be at the forefront of every school on the campus and every school in the country."

Although most of these groups received commendations, recommendations or warnings to the organizations. This past spring, eight residential groups were reviewed.

"The conference room recommendations, recommendations or warnings to the organizations. This past spring, eight residential groups were reviewed.

See Petition, Page A6

Six-story building plan angers neighbors

By Jay Goldin
Assistant News Editor

The university has temporarily put on hold a proposed expansion of the Gryllus Conference Center that has drawn a response from many students and faculty to voice student opposition to the board's decision.

"The groups plan to present the petition the board when it meets Sept. 20 and Oct. 1.

"By now, students had collected 6000-8000 signatures to going door-to-door in the neighborhood," Koldenberger said. Students started circulating the petition after a meeting of the four groups Sept. 20, attended by more than 200 members of the community including the members of the four groups.

"We got a lot of feedback from the community," Seely said.

"A lot of people want to keep things as they are."

According to Mike Janssen, a WFDD employee, the station's main staff met with the station's main staff to prevent a similar situation from happening in the future.

"It's a joy to see the next generation," Janssen said. "The whole question of people having a same-sex ceremony is going to be at the forefront of every school on the campus and every school in the country."

Although most of these groups received commendations, recommendations or warnings to the organizations. This past spring, eight residential groups were reviewed.

"The conference room recommendations, recommendations or warnings to the organizations. This past spring, eight residential groups were reviewed.

See Petition, Page A6

Six-story building plan angers neighbors

By Jay Goldin
Assistant News Editor

The university has temporarily put on hold a proposed expansion of the Gryllus Conference Center that has drawn a response from many students and faculty to voice student opposition to the board's decision.

"The groups plan to present the petition the board when it meets Sept. 20 and Oct. 1.

"By now, students had collected 6000-8000 signatures to going door-to-door in the neighborhood," Koldenberger said. Students started circulating the petition after a meeting of the four groups Sept. 20, attended by more than 200 members of the community including the members of the four groups.

"We got a lot of feedback from the community," Seely said.

"A lot of people want to keep things as they are."

According to Mike Janssen, a WFDD employee, the station's main staff met with the station's main staff to prevent a similar situation from happening in the future.

"It's a joy to see the next generation," Janssen said. "The whole question of people having a same-sex ceremony is going to be at the forefront of every school on the campus and every school in the country."

Although most of these groups received commendations, recommendations or warnings to the organizations. This past spring, eight residential groups were reviewed.
Earlybird debates are soaring success despite Floyd

By Lee A. Quam

The Gold and Black Reporter

Campus organizations may have their announcements listed by sending a e-mail to newslnd@ogb.wfu.edu or writing to P.O. Box 7768. The deadline for inclusion in each week’s paper is 5 p.m. on Monday.

Volunteers needed for Irish festival

The University Press is seeking volunteers for the annual Irish Festival for the week of St. Patrick’s Day. The festival will feature Irish folk music, Irish dancing, food and more. Interested students can contact Caitlin Jones at Ext. 5448.

Goldwater Scholarship applications available

Students interested in a career in mathematics, the natural sciences or engineering are encouraged to apply for the Barry M. Goldwater Scholarship and Excellence in Education. Applications are available online at http://www.math.wfu.edu.

OG&B Directory

Phone Numbers: Office of Communications and Marketing (336) 716-6212, Office of Alumni Relations (336) 716-6300, Student Life Services (336) 716-6200, Student Safety and Security (336) 716-6117.

E-Addressees: General comments: communications@wfu.edu Letters to the Editor: news@ogb.wfu.edu Letters to the Editor: letters@ogb.wfu.edu.

For a complete list of phone numbers, follow the directory link at the top of the department of the Gold and Black Reporter.

For a complete list of student employees, follow the “Staff” link at the top of the department of the Gold and Black Reporter.

To qualify, a full-time student must have a 3.0 average or greater. Interested students are encouraged to contact Angel Kap at Ext. 1051.
Chemist takes students swimming in gene pool

By Robert Maltz
Contribution Reporter

Chemist Norman Devichi spoke in front of a near-capacity crowd at 2 p.m. Sept. 12 in Johnson 10 as part of the chemistry department's Vail lecture series, sponsored by the Texts of Science and Technology.

The room virtually overflowed with people ranging from undergraduate students to graduate students to faculty. The topic of the lecture was "Surprising the Human Genome by Capillary Electrophoresis." The lecture was preceded by a brief introduction delivered by Chris Colyer, an assistant professor of chemistry.

Devichi discussed the history of capillary electrophoresis. In discussing this section were the names Smith, Hedges and Frendel, a two-time recipient of the Nobel Prize. However, those looking to sequence the human genome now have the benefit of capillary zone electrophoresis. Devichi describes the benefits of having your genome on "the genetic complement which is contained within virtually all cells within your body." Devichi says that capillary electrophoresis is more sensitive than the process used before.

It also contains the benefits of a large-scale, menu-driven, automated system. It moves fast efficiently and allows for easy and efficient operation. Also, using its advantages is that it can be run on one of the sequencers that were previously used and allowed for many samples at one time.

Devichi holds high hopes for the success of his work. "We hope to one day reduce the process of detection of errors from these from two to three days to a doctor being able to tell his difference between and true yellow and a viral infection in only a couple of hours," Devichi said. "Within the next year we anticipate the human genome will be complete." Devichi is a MU Ph.D. in Physics. He is now a full professor of chemistry with an appointment in the Department of Medical Biophysics at the University of Alberta.

Awards Devichi has received include the 1996 Chemical Engineering Award, the 1994 Outstanding Leadership Award in Alberta Technology Award, the 1993 Canadian-Pepper Award in excellence in research and the 1993 Becker Award from the Canadian Society of Chemistry.

In addition to his degrees, Devichi has delivered more than 200 invited discussions at scientific meetings, universities, and industrial research settings, according to Colyer. "The Vail family endowed a chemistry lecture series starting in 1994 in honor of Oakley V. Vail, who received his B.S. from MU in 1933," Colyer said. "The income from the Vail family endowed this department to Chemistry in đảming outstanding re- search to the Wake Forest campus."

IV retreat renews weary spirits

By Tyson McDonald
Old Gold and Black Staff Writer

For students involved in InterVarsity, an organization that promotes Christian fellowship by organizing large and small groups for students to worship and get to know each other, but whose retreats are planned to be a weekend of fun, fellowship and an escape from everyday life.

Return participants departed to the Carey Center, about 45 minutes away from campus. It holds many opportunities for IV of Columbia to come together and enjoy each other's company. Many participants choose to spend free time talking with each other, resting by the lake or under the trees, watching television with friends, playing games, or working on homework for the week. After a night of dancing and enjoying our freedom, we were ready to leave the morning of Sept. 12.

That night, members were placed into small groups of approximately eight per group, and each small group met in a different setting. Sophomore Christa Colyer said, "I think the best part about small groups is that it provides a great setting to relate to others and that it allows for quick conversations."

Afterwards, small group and large group activities began. Members met in Camp Carey, took group pictures and departed after a weekend of nobility, getting to know friends on a deeper level and worshipping God. Devichi said that the retreat was not like a normal retreat, where you have a team-building experience that is in a short time, but rather it gives you time to communicate with God and work on developing your own personal relationship with Him - the foundation to building a Christian life."

Camp Carey, they unpacked their belongings in their two-day residence spot. Many participants chose to spend free time talking with each other, resting by the lake or under the trees, watching television with friends, playing games, or working on homework for the week. After a night of dancing and enjoying our freedom, we were ready to leave the morning of Sept. 12.

Devichi said that the retreat was not like a normal retreat, where you have a team-building experience that is in a short time, but rather it gives you time to communicate with God and work on developing your own personal relationship with Him - the foundation to building a Christian life."

Camp Carey, they unpacked their belongings in their two-day residence spot. Many participants chose to spend free time talking with each other, resting by the lake or under the trees, watching television with friends, playing games, or working on homework for the week. After a night of dancing and enjoying our freedom, we were ready to leave the morning of Sept. 12.

Devichi said that the retreat was not like a normal retreat, where you have a team-building experience that is in a short time, but rather it gives you time to communicate with God and work on developing your own personal relationship with Him - the foundation to building a Christian life."

The Vail family endowed a chemistry lecture series starting in 1994 in honor of Oakley V. Vail, who received his B.S. from MU in 1933," Colyer said. "The income from the Vail family endowed this department to Chemistry in daming outstanding re- search to the Wake Forest campus."

"It was great to get away from campus for the weekend and weekly and walk with other students. I really enjoyed getting to know some of the incoming freshmen and look forward to building relationships with them," Katie Parker said.

It was great to get away from campus for the weekend and weekly and walk with other students. I really enjoyed getting to know some of the incoming freshmen and look forward to building relationships with them," Katie Parker said.

It was great to get away from campus for the weekend and weekly and walk with other students. I really enjoyed getting to know some of the incoming freshmen and look forward to building relationships with them," Katie Parker said.

It was great to get away from campus for the weekend and weekly and walk with other students. I really enjoyed getting to know some of the incoming freshmen and look forward to building relationships with them," Katie Parker said.

It was great to get away from campus for the weekend and weekly and walk with other students. I really enjoyed getting to know some of the incoming freshmen and look forward to building relationships with them," Katie Parker said.

It was great to get away from campus for the weekend and weekly and walk with other students. I really enjoyed getting to know some of the incoming freshmen and look forward to building relationships with them," Katie Parker said.

It was great to get away from campus for the weekend and weekly and walk with other students. I really enjoyed getting to know some of the incoming freshmen and look forward to building relationships with them," Katie Parker said.

It was great to get away from campus for the weekend and weekly and walk with other students. I really enjoyed getting to know some of the incoming freshmen and look forward to building relationships with them," Katie Parker said.

It was great to get away from campus for the weekend and weekly and walk with other students. I really enjoyed getting to know some of the incoming freshmen and look forward to building relationships with them," Katie Parker said.

It was great to get away from campus for the weekend and weekly and walk with other students. I really enjoyed getting to know some of the incoming freshmen and look forward to building relationships with them," Katie Parker said.

It was great to get away from campus for the weekend and weekly and walk with other students. I really enjoyed getting to know some of the incoming freshmen and look forward to building relationships with them," Katie Parker said.

It was great to get away from campus for the weekend and weekly and walk with other students. I really enjoyed getting to know some of the incoming freshmen and look forward to building relationships with them," Katie Parker said.

It was great to get away from campus for the weekend and weekly and walk with other students. I really enjoyed getting to know some of the incoming freshmen and look forward to building relationships with them," Katie Parker said.
Students prefer 'black' over 'African American'

By Anna Lee
Old Gold and Black Report

Each month the PO's Omega chapter of the Delta Sigma Theta forges a bond with the Delta Deep Talk, where students come together to talk about social issues.

On Sept. 16, they sponsored a discussion on the topic of race and racial identity and ethnic groups. The theme of the program was "What is it means to be African American?" and it was led by a group of Old Gold and Black students. The program was facilitated by Senior LeAnne Quashie who can trace her heritage to Ghana.

The first speaker was Senior Emi Adegbonmire who served as the chair of the program. She introduced the topic and stated that the purpose of the program was to "provide a platform for students to explore their own experiences and discuss the complexities of race and identity." She helped to initiate the discussion by asking the group of Old Gold and Black students to discuss "What is it means to be African American?" and how it relates to their own experiences.

Several students shared their personal experiences and identified with the term "African American" as a way to describe their heritage. One student shared that the term "African American" gave her a sense of belonging and helped her to connect with others who share similar experiences. Another student noted that the term "African American" was inclusive and allowed her to feel part of a larger community. She shared that her experience of being African American is not limited to the United States and that she has family members in other countries.

Another student shared that the term "African American" was important in helping her to understand the history of her family and to connect with others who have similar experiences. She noted that the term "African American" helped her to feel more connected to her ancestors and to the broader African diaspora.

Other students shared that the term "African American" was important in helping them to navigate the social and political landscape of the United States. They noted that the term "African American" was often used to describe their experiences and that it helped them to understand the challenges and opportunities that are faced by people of African descent.

Overall, the discussion was positive and helped to create a sense of community among the students. They felt that the term "African American" was important in helping them to understand their own experiences and to connect with others who have similar experiences. They also felt that the term "African American" was important in helping them to navigate the social and political landscape of the United States.

The next Deep Talk will be about the distinction between big and small groups and will be held in the lounge of the Delta Sigma Theta Inc. on Sept. 30.

Miscellaneous

A student wounded another student with a baseball bat around 7 p.m. Sept. 8 in Reynolds Dining Hall. A copy of this report has been forwarded to campus police, but no arrest or sum of money was discovered.

One of the groups asked to be announced on an email list has been successful. The group has been named "The African American Student Association." The group is working on a project to promote African American culture and heritage on campus. The group is also planning to host a series of events, including a cultural showcase and a film screening, to help members learn more about African American history and culture.

Elections

Continued from Page A1

The Student Government Association (SGA) held its annual elections on Sept. 24. The election was held in the Student Union and was open to all registered students.

The election consisted of two offices: Senate President and Vice President. The Senate President is the executive officer of the SGA and has responsibility for the overall operation of the organization. The Vice President is the first assistant to the Senate President and serves as the second-in-command.

Both these offices were contested, with several candidates running for each position. The candidates debated their platforms and vision for the SGA before the election.

The election results were as follows:

George Washington, 468 votes
Matthew Johnson, 445 votes

The candidates will now begin their terms and will work to represent the interests of the student body.

Lunch in the sun

Facilities Management employs people to prepare for the meal at annual prices: Davis Field Sept. 22.
Professor embodies the Schoonmaker legacy

Professor of biology Peter Weigl earns Schoonmaker award as both on-campus and community-wide stewardship.

By Sandy Salteron Contributing Reporter

Peter Weigl, a professor of biology at the university since 1988, is the recipient of the Donald O. Schoonmaker Faculty Award for Community Service. He was nominated by colleagues and students.

Weigl was officially recognized by the university for his contributions to the campus community and the community-at-large. He has done a lot as an active volunteer in connecting the students to the surrounding community.

His scholarship work contributed to the North Carolina Conservancy and helped preserve the area's natural resources and rare and endangered species.

The Donald O. Schoonmaker award is named for the late Donald Schoonmaker, a student and professor of politics.

It is given to a faculty member who exhibits an outstanding contribution to the community on- and off-campus and through volunteerism and community service.

"I am humbled to be a faculty member who exhibits an outstanding contribution to the community on- and off-campus and through volunteerism and community service," said Weigl.

Weigl has served on a number of committees and groups ranging from the Student Life Committee chair to the university's program review committees.

He has been an active volunteer in the community on- and off-campus through volunteerism and community service.

"He is a very effective person who always goes above and beyond the call of duty for his students," said Schoonmaker, a former student of Weigl's. "I am very impressed with his leadership and the way he treats his students. This is true in his community service as well, because he simply has a desire to improve the world around him."

Weigl has served on numerous campus committees, including chairing the Student Life Committee three different times. He has also been on the steering committee for a new radio station.

He sat on a steering committee that met for four years to develop a policy on editorial decision-making, and he has been a consultant to the administration on this issue.

"It is really important that we have this kind of oversight and that we have these kinds of discussions before we do anything," said Weigl.

Weigl also serves on the editorial board of WFDD, the public radio station on campus.

Weigl says he is very proud of the work his students have done.

"The station has found an audience on campus and off campus, the university community, and the larger community. It has been a success, he does have hopes as to what the future holds for this station."

"I wish we had more students involved in the public radio station," said Weigl. "I wish we had more students involved in the public radio station."

Weigl says he is proud of the work his students have done.

"I wish we had more students involved in the public radio station," said Weigl. "I wish we had more students involved in the public radio station."
RIERSON'S FAMILY DINING
7842 N. POINT BLVD
759-5099

Country Style Steak $4.49
All You Can Eat Spaghetti with Salad $5.99
 Maar B niezbaxed Salmon Cakes
Chicken Livers

GOOD FOOD
BIG PORTIONS
REASONABLE PRICES

10% WRI DISCOUNT
WITH STUDENT ID

Seafood
Salads
Sandwiches
Greek Souvlaki
Big Desserts
Beer & Wine

The Inaugural Convocation
Wake Forest University
Divinity School

The Board of Trustees,
President Thomas K. Hearn Jr.
Dean of the Divinity School Bill J. Leonard, and the Faculty of Wake Forest University
Cordially invite you to attend the Inaugural Convocations
Celebrating the opening of the
Wake Forest University Divinity School
Tuesday and Wednesday,
the eighteenth and nineteenth of October,
 Nine hundred and ninety-one
WINSTON-SALEM, NORTH CAROLINA

The Inaugural Convocation

Wake Forest University
Divinity School

"Theology at the Threshold of the Twenty-First Century"

Wednesday, October 13
9:30 A.M.
CHURCH OF THE TRINITY
Wake Forest University
Divinity School Students

10:30 A.M.
LECTURE
Brendle Recital Hall
Professor Nancy Zimmerman
Harvard Theological Seminary

11:30 TO 12:30 P.M.
SESSION I
Brendle Recital Hall
Faculty of the Divinity School
Anticipating Theological Futures

2 TO 3 P.M.
LECTURE
Brendle Recital Hall
Professor Carlton Chatwin
University of Birmingham

3:30 TO 4:30 P.M.
SESSION I
Faculty of the Divinity School
Anticipating Theological Futures

4 TO 5 P.M.
LECTURE
Brendle Recital Hall
Professor Robert Kuriyama
University of Chicago

The university began discussions about the proposal more than a year ago, according to Anderson, who strongly authorized the beginning of designs of a year of financial deliberations.
Anderson said that a Sept. 7 meeting with homeowners was planned to provide them with information as soon as possible.
"The meeting was attended by residents who have been the driving force in opposition to the project. However, some residents say that the church has not been taking them seriously.
"We think a reason why they are not taking us seriously is because the universities are not interested in what we are saying.
"If we don't do anything, we are not going to be doing anything.
"We will hang with it until we get something."
Parker said.

Parker said that the church's board of deacons is
planning to meet with the trustees
to discuss the issue further.
"We will present our case
and we will make sure that our case is
heard."
Parker said.

Parker said that the church's board of deacons is
planning to meet with the trustees
to discuss the issue further.
"We will present our case
and we will make sure that our case is
heard."
Parker said.

Parker said that the church's board of deacons is
planning to meet with the trustees
to discuss the issue further.
"We will present our case
and we will make sure that our case is
heard."
Parker said.

Parker said that the church's board of deacons is
planning to meet with the trustees
to discuss the issue further.
"We will present our case
and we will make sure that our case is
heard."
Parker said.

Parker said that the church's board of deacons is
planning to meet with the trustees
to discuss the issue further.
"We will present our case
and we will make sure that our case is
heard."
Parker said.

Parker said that the church's board of deacons is
planning to meet with the trustees
to discuss the issue further.
"We will present our case
and we will make sure that our case is
heard."
Parker said.

Parker said that the church's board of deacons is
planning to meet with the trustees
to discuss the issue further.
"We will present our case
and we will make sure that our case is
heard."
Parker said.

Parker said that the church's board of deacons is
planning to meet with the trustees
to discuss the issue further.
"We will present our case
and we will make sure that our case is
heard."
Parker said.

Parker said that the church's board of deacons is
planning to meet with the trustees
to discuss the issue further.
"We will present our case
and we will make sure that our case is
heard."
Parker said.

Parker said that the church's board of deacons is
planning to meet with the trustees
to discuss the issue further.
"We will present our case
and we will make sure that our case is
heard."
Parker said.

Parker said that the church's board of deacons is
planning to meet with the trustees
to discuss the issue further.
"We will present our case
and we will make sure that our case is
heard."
Parker said.

Parker said that the church's board of deacons is
planning to meet with the trustees
to discuss the issue further.
"We will present our case
and we will make sure that our case is
heard."
Parker said.

Parker said that the church's board of deacons is
planning to meet with the trustees
to discuss the issue further.
"We will present our case
and we will make sure that our case is
heard."
Parker said.

Parker said that the church's board of deacons is
planning to meet with the trustees
to discuss the issue further.
"We will present our case
and we will make sure that our case is
heard."
Parker said.

Parker said that the church's board of deacons is
planning to meet with the trustees
to discuss the issue further.
"We will present our case
and we will make sure that our case is
heard."
Parker said.

Parker said that the church's board of deacons is
planning to meet with the trustees
to discuss the issue further.
"We will present our case
and we will make sure that our case is
heard."
Parker said.
All roads lead to Rome, but that doesn’t mean you have to take them. This summer, I visited Italy for 10 days and spent only two of those in Rome. This could have easily been shortened to a couple of hours. I’m sure Rome was a lovely place back in the day. The Byzantium Roman baths in the city are called the Terme di Caracalla and they are fantastic. Some of the checkerboard and patches of dirt still intact even today. The walls of diners and dams are the ancient ruins in the middle of the city are equally impressive. Walking through the remains of the Forum and the Colosseum, I could see the personalities of the architects and the society at the time through the town. Brilliant people contributed to the capital of the ancient world. They must have had such pride when they erected the columns for their city.

The people who built St. Peter’s Basilica and the seat of the Vatican were equally brilliant. As a monument of God, St. Peter’s is faultless in every way. However, it succeeded as a monument of the papacy, as a symbol of the temporal power of the Church. By making the Vatican the official residence of the Pope, the Church has managed to invent a new kind of publicly visible power. This new kind of power is not derived from the Church’s teaching, but from its own self-assertion. Though the Church has always been a source of power, it has never been able to claim power in this way before. In the 16th century, the Church managed to invent a new kind of power that was not dependent on the Church’s teaching. This new kind of power was dependent on the Church’s self-assertion, and that is the power of the Church today.

The Colosseum was a popular location for tourists and locals. It was an ancient structure that was used as a gladiatorial arena. The building was constructed in the 1st century AD, and it was one of the largest and most magnificent buildings in the Roman Empire. It was used for a variety of events, including gladiatorial contests, animal hunts, and public spectacles. The Colosseum was a symbol of the power and wealth of the Roman Empire, and it was a popular tourist destination.

The Church has always been a source of power, and it has never been able to claim power in this way before. In the 16th century, the Church managed to invent a new kind of power that was not dependent on the Church’s teaching. This new kind of power was dependent on the Church’s self-assertion, and that is the power of the Church today. The Church has always been a source of power, and it has never been able to claim power in this way before. In the 16th century, the Church managed to invent a new kind of power that was not dependent on the Church’s teaching. This new kind of power was dependent on the Church’s self-assertion, and that is the power of the Church today.

TOP: In an effort to restore and protect Rome’s historic ruins, construction equipment and orange fences have unfortunately become part of the scenery. ABOVE: The Spanish steps are a popular location for tourists and locals.
Students, trustees must narrow gap

During the past year for administration and faculty, the most controversial decisions on significant university policy matters have been made. The decision to allow same-sex ceremonies to take place at Wait Chapel is a recent example of such a decision. These types of controversial decisions on significant university policy matters have been made in recent years. The decision to allow same-sex ceremonies to take place at Wait Chapel is a recent example of such a decision.

With the trustees in town, students should take this time to let them know what they disagree with. The students who disagree with the university's decision to allow same-sex ceremonies to take place at Wait Chapel should organize a petition that will be going to the university. This is a perfect technique that students should use in order for the trustees to hear their voice. And succeeding this gap must be a two-way street.

Students can do as much as they possibly can, but without the open ears of the trustees, nothing will be done. The board, therefore, must do a much better job of listening to the students' opinions. Currently, they do not seem to, and this needs to change.

Students are the basis on which the university is judged - they create its personality.

The trustees' meeting next weekend is a perfect time for them to seriously re-examine their decision on same-sex ceremonies. Recommending those ceremonies do not take place at Wait Chapel, it sets a bad precedent. Reversing their decision would be a very good precedent that other national universities and colleges could follow.

The trustees need only to look at Boyette, who made partial public acknowledgment of this matter, and will be grateful with every group about which they say that the principles of good will and honesty will influence for the better in this matter.

A decision that may Ripple many on campus, it was good to know that the university was willing to limit its coverage on the same-sex weddings. It needed to be clarified, and it was. However, Boyette's positive example demonstrates that an initial judgment can sometimes be wrong, but it can change. Boyette한다면, the university is a perfect time for them to seriously re-examine their decision on same-sex ceremonies.

She is also in a admirable manner of addressing all of the students of this community in a personally written letter which she is receiving from coming from.

Students should follow Boyette's lead and reverse its decision.

Mary Jo Whiteley, Editor

FDWF censorship sets a dangerous precedent

The issue of same-sex unions in Western is a topic that has been a bit of a taboo topic in Western. It seems that the administration is trying to limit its coverage on the issue for fear of creating a stir in the community. Although one of those is a moral and political issue, the issue is something that sets a dangerous precedent for the university administration to further stifle in students and faculty who support same-sex ceremonies.

The Bill of Rights guarantees freedom of speech and of the press. Yet, this seems more to be the exception than the standard in this school, don't think for a minute that those "reasonableable" folks follow you through this university's gate. Its politics, what the administration is doing is called fascism, and it has also been used by the likes of Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin, and communist China. University policy tells us what we are allowed to think and say, and we don't see, and what we are not. But this year Trust, decided to tell us where we can and cannot listen.

Now they are selling a radio station, a member of the news media, what it can and cannot report. They also made reporters feel that their jobs hang in the balance.

Where will it end?

It is time for a talk to be made. Sandra Boyette, vice president for student affairs, and others in the administration that support for directive have bitterly аблюдьировао their power, and they should pay for it with their jobs. There is no room for people like them in an institution of higher learning that claims to be fair and open-minded.

This student body and trustees should be outraged by what they have done, and we should demand that they resign or be fired.

Mike Hendee
Senior Reporter

WFDD censorship sets a dangerous precedent

The issue of same-sex unions in Western is a topic that has been a bit of a taboo topic in Western. It seems that the administration is trying to limit its coverage on the issue for fear of creating a stir in the community. Although one of those is a moral and political issue, the issue is something that sets a dangerous precedent for the university administration to further stifle in students and faculty who support same-sex ceremonies.

The Bill of Rights guarantees freedom of speech and of the press. Yet, this seems more to be the exception than the standard in this school, don't think for a minute that those "reasonableable" folks follow you through this university's gate. Its politics, what the administration is doing is called fascism, and it has also been used by the likes of Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin, and communist China. University policy tells us what we are allowed to think and say, and we don't see, and what we are not. But this year Trust, decided to tell us where we can and cannot listen.

Now they are selling a radio station, a member of the news media, what it can and cannot report. They also made reporters feel that their jobs hang in the balance.

Where will it end?

It is time for a talk to be made. Sandra Boyette, vice president for student affairs, and others in the administration that support for directive have bitterly аблюдьировао their power, and they should pay for it with their jobs. There is no room for people like them in an institution of higher learning that claims to be fair and open-minded.

This student body and trustees should be outraged by what they have done, and we should demand that they resign or be fired.

Mike Hendee
Senior Reporter

lya's Today must return to school's newsstands

As a long-time subscriber to USA Today, I can attest that this newspaper is a valuable and informative source of news for me. However, as a student, I believe that USA Today should return to the school's newsstands.

As a student, I am often on the go, and USA Today provides me with the latest news and information while I am on the move. It is time for USA Today to return to school's newsstands.
Technology infiltrates all aspects of life

True community is an ideal of the past.

I throw a wistful bug.

No, I'm not being physically entomological. Rather, I have motion-sickness.

The advancement is in the realm of technology. It is available everywhere, enabling us to do things we never would have imagined possible. We are bending and stretching the rules of what is and what we thought was possible. This is a time of incredible change.

All of this facile and trivial technology is destroying the ever-feeble lines of human interaction. As a member of our community and a Cherokee, I must speak out. This is not only by flowers and signs but by your presence at 7 p.m. tonight. Your acts of kindness, your words and acts of goodwill are your church. The Church, the source of our joy and independence as much as anyone else. It is here that I want to share a story about the power of love and courage and faith that have just been developed.

Perhaps it’s not the product itself that is so stimulating, but rather the way in which people buy and sell it, the fact that it is available at all. This could have something to do with the fact that the demand for technology is driven by a need for it. With billions of dollars spent on new products every year, it is not surprising that people will buy them.

As a member of our community, I feel that we must continue to be reminded by you, our words and acts of kindness, about exercising our freedom to choose our course.

As I write these words, I am reminded of the Native American insight: "There is a time to do things and a time to let them fall away." And I long for the day when I, when each and every one of us, can step back and say, "This is not what I want to do anymore." I long for the day when I, when each and every one of us, can step back and say, "This is not what I want to do anymore." I long for the day when I, when each and every one of us, can step back and say, "This is not what I want to do anymore." I long for the day when I, when each and every one of us, can step back and say, "This is not what I want to do anymore." I long for the day when I, when each and every one of us, can step back and say, "This is not what I want to do anymore." I long for the day when I, when each and every one of us, can step back and say, "This is not what I want to do anymore." I long for the day when I, when each and every one of us, can step back and say, "This is not what I want to do anymore." I long for the day when I, when each and every one of us, can step back and say, "This is not what I want to do anymore." I long for the day when I, when each and every one of us, can step back and say, "This is not what I want to do anymore." I long for the day when I, when each and every one of us, can step back and say, "This is not what I want to do anymore." I long for the day when I, when each and every one of us, can step back and say, "This is not what I want to do anymore." I long for the day when I, when each and every one of us, can step back and say, "This is not what I want to do anymore." I long for the day when I, when each and every one of us, can step back and say, "This is not what I want to do anymore." I long for the day when I, when each and every one of us, can step back and say, "This is not what I want to do anymore." I long for the day when I, when each and every one of us, can step back and say, "This is not what I want to do anymore." I long for the day when I, when each and every one of us, can step back and say, "This is not what I want to do anymore." I long for the day when I, when each and every one of us, can step back and say, "This is not what I want to do anymore." I long for the day when I, when each and every one of us, can step back and say, "This is not what I want to do anymore."
All the news not fit to print
Looking for weirdos? Just peruse your local paper.

H.

there, and welcome to our enmity for this week. Since I was so newly on the job last time, it felt as if I was about to start a new battle with the world and yet still had a quick disclaimer, I did not make up any of this, it is just very strange business. To start with, I would like to choose the Joe Gera

IRS just for existing. Whichever thought it would be a good idea to pay the government on the money we make has had a serious brain condition as a child. Not only do they want 10-20% of our gross income, but they also want to pay money by tax write-offs, they tell us that certain things (usually the ones that are up being the most expensive) cannot be written off. This law not only puns a tax on human existence, it is the most ridiculous law I have ever seen. As a matter of fact, he made over $10,000 from the right of being a black citizen of the United States, which was on the books in the 14th Amendment and is still there.

The tax, which applies to drivers living free of their masters after the Civil War, was meant to be a reparations for previous forcible labor and the maintainence of which people of color were forced out of their towns of origin during the Civil War. The IRS says no such tax ever existed, and if it did it was repealed by the 1930s. So obviously, there is an inherent disservice between Freedom and the IRS. This story has done a happy ending though, for once the government could not do anything about one of its own screw ups, and the people were able to make something ever being removed from the official books - the 14th Amendment.

It is a related story, after being alerted by a bystander, a police officer saw something a little strange, a huge guff of hair flowing over the steering wheel of a nearby car. At first he thought nothing of it, and assumed it was just a little old lady overflowing all over the place. The problem was there was no serving, so the officer assumed something was wrong. Anyway, the car started moving and the officer, realizing the car was about to hit the machine, "I didn't want to drive," said the officer, "so I made me into a bystander." To find out what they call it, and where to get it, the officer took the boy's word for it, seeing as how everyone else in the machine was seeing the passenger seat next to him (a gun with a bow and arrow), and the passenger seat was holding the machine. And in a final development concerning the world of the strange this week, across a cross-country hit by a stone from the hand of great lakes (Michigan), according to local officials in Southeast High School in Detroit, only three girls cried for the year's cheerleading squad. What a shame... seriously I like cheerleaders. Without them we would watch the Dallas Cowboys, or the Raiders. To me, cheerleading is a mark of our own society's rejection of the wholehearted portion values that founded this country. We really need to return to a personal relationship with our father, which these girls have obviously done. (But for that statement, for the literary impermeable, it is known as tongue-in-cheek).

In response to the stories involving social attacking, tyrannical former cheerleaders (now sort of half-dead) in Taylor Busick, and, "It was like, a terrible experience. I don't know why you would do it, but it's like, just because it's a cheerleader," Beere went on to say that she had recently accepted into the Alcius Morrisette at school, she really doesn't care about such "unimportant" things as making the boys eat sky on Friday night.

This just goes to show you that things are never as they seem. Which is why we sometimes we can have a story worthy of "The Weekly Would Now" written about it. When I was looking for things to write about this week there were active sports and music, and sex, and, surprise, I got me thinking.

So now, I have never read a book, or stupid as the story it is, it never escapes the watchful eye of the Associated Press, because Americans are no different than the rest of the world. So Tommy drove Taylor to the back of the school, for the pure enjoyment of20 American adults. If you don't get that little point, me neither, someone who played 16th grade and has explained it to you.

I thank you for your attention because I have absolutely none. See you later.

Paul Cella III

Student Columnist

Terrorism finds a friend on Capitol Hill

Self-interested stories Clinton's choices.

I. August 1998, President Clinton came before a national television audience to stand against terrorism in the United States. Clinton's point was to show the world that the United States was responding to the U.S. and the world's terrorism against terrorism. "There are no不可 permutations American commitments to combating terrorism in the United States."

The administration's policy toward terrorism, however, seems to have changed in the last 14 months. With the pardon and release of 11 of the 14 Puerto Rican terrorists of the FALN, the administration's policy toward terrorism has turned from one of differentiating on the books late in the 20th century toward terrorism: Never negotiate. The FBI, the president made another questionable decision: He cut the number of FBI agents who defended the South of the civil war by one - the number that had been made.

Further was the release of the USA, the 3rd parallel, which separates North and South Korea, where the non-nuclearized zone lies in the world. Thirty-seven thousand U.S. troops are stationed there to prevent the South from being approached by potential nuclear aggression. Currently diplomacy is an important tool to ease tensions in the area, but Clinton's order seems very beneficial to a nation that has shown precious little effort to ease missiles. Some analysts and Congress members feel that North Korea is using to nuclear threat as blackmail to gain U.S. concessions. Only a few years ago, then Defense Secretary William Perry - who now is currently the Secretary of State - said that North Korea's threats were "merely political gestures." In May 1998, Clinton ordered the South Korean army to start air and ground offensive for 40 days, but North Korea has not gone back on his word. With the pardon and release of 11 of the 14 Puerto Rican terrorists of the FALN, the administration's policy toward terrorism has turned from one of differentiating on the books late in the 20th century toward terrorism: Never negotiate. The FBI, the president made another questionable decision: He cut the number of FBI agents who defended the South of the civil war by one - the number that had been made. But here, it seems that the administration's policy toward terrorism has turned from one of differentiating on the books late in the 20th century toward terrorism: Never negotiate.

As a matter of fact, he made over $10,000 from the right of being a black citizen of the United States, which was on the books in the 14th Amendment and is still there.

The tax, which applies to drivers living free of their masters after the Civil War, was meant to be a reparations for previous forcible labor and the maintainence of which people of color were forced out of their towns of origin during the Civil War. The IRS says no such tax ever existed, and if it did it was repealed by the 1930s. So obviously, there is an inherent disservice between Freedom and the IRS. This story has done a happy ending though, for once the government could not do anything about one of its own screw ups, and the people were able to make something ever being removed from the official books - the 14th Amendment.

The administran...
University redefines crisis management

Floyd brings out the worst in us.

On Sep. 16, students learned the perils of journey to class amid dangerously small puddles and blinding sunshine. What you ask, speedwalkers? Would students really trust their lives to the track for their over-speed education? Or, did the weather forecasters just lose confidence?

Stephanie Anderson
Brooks Flynn

Hurricane reaching the fortress that is Winston-Salem merely blew up in its face? This spirit of self-sacrifice could only be the result of an administrative dedication to meticulous attendance.

Although weather predictions seem to more veer than science, everyone had an infallible opinion of what the weather would be, but none to act as at the crisis-management group. On Sep. 15, the survey showed that by morning, students would be hunkered down in the Imagery of the Rio Grande at the height of the Great Mississippi River flood. The Kansas people might show concern, but no Kansas city would be a great example of the spirit that brought them back to life.

Kevin Cox, director of media relations, and his crisis management group (also known as KCI and the Sunshine Band) smiled and laughed as the campus came close to not being the only school on the East Coast planning to hold classes. Those who were looking out the windows at the Carolina Hall were scratching their heads. The Hurricane Ingrid would hit the Sunshine Band.

In place of closing campus, the Sunshine Band held a meeting to pass out "Hurricane Alert: A Call for the Common Sense Vigilance." It was unclear as to whether the purpose of the flyer was to alert students to the dangers of Hurricane or to personally train their intelligence. This report particularly came into question with the David Letterman-style, "Top 10 Ways to get Hit in a Hurricane" which centered around students being up-rooted, "Leonard's" and "whining." "Closing our umbrellas in the wind, why don't we do the same in our heads?"

Even if the Sunshine Band was worried, it became clear that this was not the worst the Sunshine Band was worried about.

Kevin Cox, director of media relations, and his crisis management group (also known as KCI and the Sunshine Band) smiled and laughed as the campus came close to not being the only school on the East Coast planning to hold classes. Those who were looking out the windows at the Carolina Hall were scratching their heads.

In place of closing campus, the Sunshine Band held a meeting to pass out "Hurricane Alert: A Call for the Common Sense Vigilance." It was unclear as to whether the purpose of the flyer was to alert students to the dangers of Hurricane or to personally train their intelligence. This report particularly came into question with the David Letterman-style, "Top 10 Ways to get Hit in a Hurricane" which centered around students being up-rooted, "Leonard's" and "whining." "Closing our umbrellas in the wind, why don't we do the same in our heads?"

Even if the Sunshine Band was worried, it became clear that this was not the worst the Sunshine Band was worried about.

This group will stand strong under the weight of pressure from students, fellow academic institutions and perhaps even donor free from paying.

And we would, students will always find an excuse to party, an excuse to complain about administrative decisions and to find anything to do besides be a student.

Andrew Whitacre
GUEST COLUMNIST

The deal: We all know about the budding industry of pop music. The creation of popular songs that mirror people today versus believe in business-minded producer and music-minded professional musicians writing songs that bring about another, much more attractive, much less idiotic professional musicians.

In the five minutes it took for the music industry to form, we learned that music is more popular equal to your pop music. Today, our one hit wonder is one hit from today's hip hop, rock and roll. We've learned that music is more popular equal to your pop music.

Now follow this, because it's important. There is a collective effort. Music industry. And we who among you disagree with the music industry?

A song of the Renaissance is good because it's good... and good is good to prove that we are not die... because, by its own standard, the audience wants fresh faces, a fresh concept, real people. In that way, they used Christian Audigier. By definition, the "hot" and "passion" imply something temporary. I advise all of us to avoid any advertising as well. Now more about Green's article directly. He was the correctly converted into the once dark secret of rock's dark clothes. Better express more.

We must never forget that the pop music industry — a product of mass media and mass marketing begin early this century — was born with, for profit's sake of codec. Buddy Holly and Benny Goodman broke through with pop music. Black music was government.

"He said, the producers say, 'they're just playing with our heads and forgetting about the music industry.'

Call and response. Field songs. Ragtime. Be-bop. Delta blues. Chicago blues. Every kind of blues was sold, those of black blues-god Robert Johnson (1911) never recorded our voice.

In popular music's mediocrity, GMV and other corporations tell us that we should want our pop project of 10%. There is not the important one.

Even our Dee Jokers, decide radio station playlists; can't you tell the difference between our music and their music's mediocrity.

The notorious James Brown will wear one brand of clothing exclusively next season and will roll out one shoe color, the same thing, and white and black. Blues sold, those of black blues-god Robert Johnson (1911) never recorded our voice.

In popular music's mediocrity, GMV and other corporations tell us that we should want our pop project of 10%. There is not the important one.

Even our Dee Jokers, decide radio station playlists; can't you tell the difference between our music and their music's mediocrity.

The notorious James Brown will wear one brand of clothing exclusively next season and will roll out one shoe color, the same thing, and white and black. Blues sold, those of black blues-god Robert Johnson (1911) never recorded our voice.

In popular music's mediocrity, GMV and other corporations tell us that we should want our pop project of 10%. There is not the important one.

Even our Dee Jokers, decide radio station playlists; can't you tell the difference between our music and their music's mediocrity.

The notorious James Brown will wear one brand of clothing exclusively next season and will roll out one shoe color, the same thing, and white and black. Blues sold, those of black blues-god Robert Johnson (1911) never recorded our voice.

In popular music's mediocrity, GMV and other corporations tell us that we should want our pop project of 10%. There is not the important one.

Even our Dee Jokers, decide radio station playlists; can't you tell the difference between our music and their music's mediocrity.

The notorious James Brown will wear one brand of clothing exclusively next season and will roll out one shoe color, the same thing, and white and black. Blues sold, those of black blues-god Robert Johnson (1911) never recorded our voice.

In popular music's mediocrity, GMV and other corporations tell us that we should want our pop project of 10%. There is not the important one.

Even our Dee Jokers, decide radio station playlists; can't you tell the difference between our music and their music's mediocrity.

The notorious James Brown will wear one brand of clothing exclusively next season and will roll out one shoe color, the same thing, and white and black. Blues sold, those of black blues-god Robert Johnson (1911) never recorded our voice.

In popular music's mediocrity, GMV and other corporations tell us that we should want our pop project of 10%. There is not the important one.

Even our Dee Jokers, decide radio station playlists; can't you tell the difference between our music and their music's mediocrity.

The notorious James Brown will wear one brand of clothing exclusively next season and will roll out one shoe color, the same thing, and white and black. Blues sold, those of black blues-god Robert Johnson (1911) never recorded our voice.

In popular music's mediocrity, GMV and other corporations tell us that we should want our pop project of 10%. There is not the important one.

Even our Dee Jokers, decide radio station playlists; can't you tell the difference between our music and their music's mediocrity.

The notorious James Brown will wear one brand of clothing exclusively next season and will roll out one shoe color, the same thing, and white and black. Blues sold, those of black blues-god Robert Johnson (1911) never recorded our voice.

In popular music's mediocrity, GMV and other corporations tell us that we should want our pop project of 10%. There is not the important one.

Even our Dee Jokers, decide radio station playlists; can't you tell the difference between our music and their music's mediocrity.

The notorious James Brown will wear one brand of clothing exclusively next season and will roll out one shoe color, the same thing, and white and black. Blues sold, those of black blues-god Robert Johnson (1911) never recorded our voice.

In popular music's mediocrity, GMV and other corporations tell us that we should want our pop project of 10%. There is not the important one.

Even our Dee Jokers, decide radio station playlists; can't you tell the difference between our music and their music's mediocrity.

The notorious James Brown will wear one brand of clothing exclusively next season and will roll out one shoe color, the same thing, and white and black. Blues sold, those of black blues-god Robert Johnson (1911) never recorded our voice.

In popular music's mediocrity, GMV and other corporations tell us that we should want our pop project of 10%. There is not the important one.

Even our Dee Jokers, decide radio station playlists; can't you tell the difference between our music and their music's mediocrity.

The notorious James Brown will wear one brand of clothing exclusively next season and will roll out one shoe color, the same thing, and white and black. Blues sold, those of black blues-god Robert Johnson (1911) never recorded our voice.

In popular music's mediocrity, GMV and other corporations tell us that we should want our pop project of 10%. There is not the important one.

Even our Dee Jokers, decide radio station playlists; can't you tell the difference between our music and their music's mediocrity.

The notorious James Brown will wear one brand of clothing exclusively next season and will roll out one shoe color, the same thing, and white and black. Blues sold, those of black blues-god Robert Johnson (1911) never recorded our voice.

In popular music's mediocrity, GMV and other corporations tell us that we should want our pop project of 10%. There is not the important one.

Even our Dee Jokers, decide radio station playlists; can't you tell the difference between our music and their music's mediocrity.

The notorious James Brown will wear one brand of clothing exclusively next season and will roll out one shoe color, the same thing, and white and black. Blues sold, those of black blues-god Robert Johnson (1911) never recorded our voice.

In popular music's mediocrity, GMV and other corporations tell us that we should want our pop project of 10%. There is not the important one.

Even our Dee Jokers, decide radio station playlists; can't you tell the difference between our music and their music's mediocrity.

The notorious James Brown will wear one brand of clothing exclusively next season and will roll out one shoe color, the same thing, and white and black. Blues sold, those of black blues-god Robert Johnson (1911) never recorded our voice.

In popular music's mediocrity, GMV and other corporations tell us that we should want our pop project of 10%. There is not the important one.

Even our Dee Jokers, decide radio station playlists; can't you tell the difference between our music and their music's mediocrity.

The notorious James Brown will wear one brand of clothing exclusively next season and will roll out one shoe color, the same thing, and white and black. Blues sold, those of black blues-god Robert Johnson (1911) never recorded our voice.

In popular music's mediocrity, GMV and other corporations tell us that we should want our pop project of 10%. There is not the important one.

Even our Dee Jokers, decide radio station playlists; can't you tell the difference between our music and their music's mediocrity.

The notorious James Brown will wear one brand of clothing exclusively next season and will roll out one shoe color, the same thing, and white and black. Blues sold, those of black blues-god Robert Johnson (1911) never recorded our voice.
Gatehouses put regulations over safety

Safety should override policy.

D umb love. In Chicago, Ill., a duffel bag in a place that is not in fire. In Ocean City, N.J., it is against the law to sleep on your steps. At this university, a student is expected to leave campus and spew the night elsewhere if they enter campus after 10 p.m.

Laura O'Connor
BUSINESS MANAGER

I have been told in a vague way that this policy was put in place by the office that I could take a warning, which would be forwarded to the dean’s office, or leave campus. I chose to leave campus since I did not want to jeopardize my record. Now, I was driving a minivan on my back, I was faced with the same quandary.

I realized that I had very limited options that week, either I could compromise my honor in order to gain access through the front door of my house, the gate, or I could not ride just the right time and I was charged with an honor code violation for deception.

Upon the challenge, I vowed to do something about it. I met with Regina Lawson (Mrs. Bill), my University Police chief, and expressed to her concern about the present gate policy. With her help the gate policy was changed. I think it was in the interest of my particular case, most importantly, the help of administrators and student leaders who felt that I should not have been charged with an Honor and Ethics Council, the Bryan House and Ethics Council and I made a case directly to the Judicial Council.

The decision of the committee was to uphold the honor code violations. When I questioned a member of the committee as to the reasoning for their decision, I was told that any decision would be better than the one I made. My dilemma...including leaving campus for a semester, I was in a difficult dilemma. I think that, at the time, my personal safety was much more important than to lose honor. Apparently, they realized that there was an intensive problem somewhere in the policy that it was time to take the responsibility for it.

I think that they made an error in judgment that right by saying that I was put in a dilemma. However, I feel that I was put in a compromised situation of choosing honor over my personal safety. Even the police department realized that there was a problem, which is why they changed the policy.

Even after the administration believed that my safety was not paramount, and they relaxed to consider the important of the different circumstances of my case.

The new policy is not perfect, but it is a major improvement from the previous one. And I think that now it is much better than the old, and understandable decision. If, for whatever reason, you are in that situation, you are given a chance, or the vehicle you are in is a student vehicle, they are permitted to come in.

There are lasting repercussions from this decision. I have resigned from Harvard Business Corps because I don’t feel I can acceptably represent the university. Furthermore, I do not feel that I can talk about the honor code to prospective students. To me, the honor code is much more important than honor. It is helpful to a young person to be aware that they are going to have to do it.

Another very uncomfortable situation: You see that person with whom you have had very limited eye contact, you meet eye contact with that person, you finish the final picking up in your dorm, you are brought to the gate and you are told that you are not allowed out. The reason is that you did not have eye contact. If you had eye contact you could not be charged with a policy violation.

You can see that, in your hand, you can act like you’re needing to go. Then when you sense that you are approaching the proper of safety, you can turn to go. If you don’t have eye contact, you are not allowed out. Your are not allowed out. Your best next move, is to fly out of your building and then ignore one eye contact in passing.

Our trustees must learn to listen.

Recently actions reflect a disturbing pattern.

M ake any immediate university community problems the number one priority. It is not a priority to challenge the student’s autonomy. The student’s autonomy is not always the best way to go. As a student, I realize that you can’t always make a decision that affects the community in a very good way. If you do make such a decision, it is important to know that the decision was made by someone who was at a very important level in the university. For example, you can’t make decisions by yourself. You need to make decisions by someone who is at a higher level in the university. And that is not the student. That is the faculty. And that is the administration. That is the university. That is the university. That is the university. That is the university. That is the university. That is the university. That is the university.

Jeremy Bishop
GUEST COLUMNIST

The subcommittee of the board of trustees are appalled for the non-discrimination statement and its blatant attack on a Baptist church’s autonomy. Yet, another important aspect of the end of the college and the college is a matter of opinion, I believe that making critical decisions that affects the campus is a very important matter.

The new policy is not perfect, but it is an improvement from the previous one. And I think that now it is much better than the old, and understandable decision. If, for whatever reason, you are in that situation, you are given a chance, or the vehicle you are in is a student vehicle, they are permitted to come in.

There are lasting repercussions from this decision. I have resigned from Harvard Business Corps because I don’t feel I can acceptably represent the university. Furthermore, I do not feel that I can talk about the honor code to prospective students. To me, the honor code is much more important than honor. It is helpful to a young person to be aware that they are going to have to do it.

Another very uncomfortable situation: You see that person with whom you have had very limited eye contact, you meet eye contact with that person, you finish the final picking up in your dorm, you are brought to the gate and you are told that you are not allowed out. The reason is that you did not have eye contact. If you do make such a decision, it is important to know that the decision was made by someone who is at a very important level in the university. For example, you can’t make decisions by yourself. You need to make decisions by someone who is at a higher level in the university. And that is not the student. That is the faculty. And that is the administration. That is the university. That is the university. That is the university. That is the university. That is the university. That is the university. That is the university.
Field hockey remains undefeated

By Daniel Oye

Gold and Black Reporters

The Demon Deacon field hockey team found itself in the middle of a two-match loss streak. Their first encounter was with a men's team on Sept. 17 that led to a 1-0 victory for North Carolina. The Deacons then beat Maryland and Harvard to win a 6-0 lead going into the ACC, finishing with a 0.880 save percentage and .58 percent of what we can play it

The team is starting to come together now as they prepare to face the fourth-ranked University of Virginia in the ACC tournament. The Deacs have proven that they do not rely on one player and have a chance to gauge where they stand, and we are ready to go. According to Everett, the solid play of the Deacons has them feeling really good about themselves. We are playing well, getting good wins, which are giving us good confidence as a team going into the Maryland games. Everett said.

Even though the Deacons dominated two more opponents by a combined score of 5-1 this past weekend, the team, and particularly Marchell, were less enthusiastic in evaluating their play. "We had high expectation against the Terrapins, but we didn't play as well as we could have," Marchell said.

"We lacked consistency, but we did finish well. Overall we did what we needed to do in a good winning call, because we have a really big game this weekend," Marchell said. After asking for predictions, Marchell and Everett said that Maryland will be no better than good really they are easy to win in College Park, Md., Sept. 23 to face the fourth-ranked Maryland Terrapins. The game should give the Deacs a chance to gauge where they stand, and many of the players are ready to prove that the Deacons are a force to be reckoned with.

Marchell is one of those who looks forward to seeing himself versus the Terrapins. "I really psyched," Marchell said. "Last year, we told them to 1-0 and we dominated the game, and we have a better team this year than we did last year. I'm not afraid to get in, if we win it will be all ours." When asked for predictions, Marchell and Everett said Maryland will lose because the Terrapins are a team. Marchell said, "I think we can do it this weekend. 3-1, Wake." Everett was equally as confident. "I predict 3-1, Wake," Everett said.

The Deacons will test whether their predictions ring true as they take on the Terrapins Sept. 25.

Field hockey team has been working to find its form for success for more than two years now. Last season the Deacons finished third in the top 25 in the nation and also one of the deepest teams in the nation with a strong team. Last year, Nienke van Ruiten led the team, scoring 14 goals in 16 appearances. Her first goal of the game was the 4-0 lead. After a half victory, van Ruiten outscored her own goal with six under-par finishes both lead the field. This was Morgan's second consecutive top 20 finish.

The cost was on as Marchell made the score 4-0 with her goal just three minutes into the second half. Everett scored her first goal of the half with just over seven minutes left to give the Deacons a 2-0 lead. The Deacons are as a team.

The Deacks have now dropped 11 in a row to the Cavaliers, the longest consecutive losing streak in the ACC, following a 30-7 defeat. The Deacons were unable to provide any substitute of brace or defiance to the game. Virginia lost 6-0 against the Cavaliers, capturing 12 or 23 of their 37 goals this season. Virginia defeated five teams in its 37 goals this season, including a 5-4 loss to UVa., which was a 3-1 win. The Deacons finally began to put together a passing in the 0.58 percent of what we can play it.

Field hockey remains undefeated

By Daniel Oye

Gold and Black Reporters

The Demon Deacon field hockey team found itself in the middle of a two-match loss streak. Their first encounter was with a men's team on Sept. 17 that led to a 1-0 victory for North Carolina. The Deacons then beat Maryland and Harvard to win a 6-0 lead going into the ACC, finishing with a 0.880 save percentage and .58 percent of what we can play it

The team is starting to come together now as they prepare to face the fourth-ranked University of Virginia in the ACC tournament. The Deacs have proven that they do not rely on one player and have a chance to gauge where they stand, and we are ready to go. According to Everett, the solid play of the Deacons has them feeling really good about themselves. We are playing well, getting good wins, which are giving us good confidence as a team going into the Maryland games. Everett said.

Even though the Deacons dominated two more opponents by a combined score of 5-1 this past weekend, the team, and particularly Marchell, were less enthusiastic in evaluating their play. "We had high expectation against the Terrapins, but we didn't play as well as we could have," Marchell said.

"We lacked consistency, but we did finish well. Overall we did what we needed to do in a good winning call, because we have a really big game this weekend," Marchell said. After asking for predictions, Marchell and Everett said that Maryland will be no better than good really they are easy to win in College Park, Md., Sept. 23 to face the fourth-ranked Maryland Terrapins. The game should give the Deacs a chance to gauge where they stand, and many of the players are ready to prove that the Deacons are a force to be reckoned with.

Marchell is one of those who looks forward to seeing himself versus the Terrapins. "I really psyched," Marchell said. "Last year, we told them to 1-0 and we dominated the game, and we have a better team this year than we did last year. I'm not afraid to get in, if we win it will be all ours." When asked for predictions, Marchell and Everett said Maryland will lose because the Terrapins are a team. Marchell said, "I think we can do it this weekend. 3-1, Wake." Everett was equally as confident. "I predict 3-1, Wake," Everett said.

The Deacons will test whether their predictions ring true as they take on the Terrapins Sept. 25.

Field hockey remains undefeated

By Daniel Oye

Gold and Black Reporters

The Demon Deacon field hockey team found itself in the middle of a two-match loss streak. Their first encounter was with a men's team on Sept. 17 that led to a 1-0 victory for North Carolina. The Deacons then beat Maryland and Harvard to win a 6-0 lead going into the ACC, finishing with a 0.880 save percentage and .58 percent of what we can play it

The team is starting to come together now as they prepare to face the fourth-ranked University of Virginia in the ACC tournament. The Deacs have proven that they do not rely on one player and have a chance to gauge where they stand, and we are ready to go. According to Everett, the solid play of the Deacons has them feeling really good about themselves. We are playing well, getting good wins, which are giving us good confidence as a team going into the Maryland games. Everett said.

Even though the Deacons dominated two more opponents by a combined score of 5-1 this past weekend, the team, and particularly Marchell, were less enthusiastic in evaluating their play. "We had high expectation against the Terrapins, but we didn't play as well as we could have," Marchell said.

"We lacked consistency, but we did finish well. Overall we did what we needed to do in a good winning call, because we have a really big game this weekend," Marchell said. After asking for predictions, Marchell and Everett said that Maryland will be no better than good really they are easy to win in College Park, Md., Sept. 23 to face the fourth-ranked Maryland Terrapins. The game should give the Deacs a chance to gauge where they stand, and many of the players are ready to prove that the Deacons are a force to be reckoned with.

Marchell is one of those who looks forward to seeing himself versus the Terrapins. "I really psyched," Marchell said. "Last year, we told them to 1-0 and we dominated the game, and we have a better team this year than we did last year. I'm not afraid to get in, if we win it will be all ours." When asked for predictions, Marchell and Everett said Maryland will lose because the Terrapins are a team. Marchell said, "I think we can do it this weekend. 3-1, Wake." Everett was equally as confident. "I predict 3-1, Wake," Everett said.

The Deacons will test whether their predictions ring true as they take on the Terrapins Sept. 25.
Women's cross country team takes second

By Topp Mickle

Contributing Reporter

The Demon Deacons cross country teams took second at the Old Gold and Black Invitational on Sept. 17th, 2004. The team finished second to Wake Forest, but ahead of three conference rivals Clemson, Florida State and Virginia. The team scored 48 points, 20 points fewer than Wake Forest's 28. It was the Demon Deacons' third consecutive conference victory.

By Jared Webster

Old Gold and Black Reporter

The Demon Deacons women’s soccer team picked up its second victory last weekend thanks to a goal by ante Nofstinger, a junior from Germany, scoring just over eight minutes into the game and an additional goal by senior captain Anne Shropshire to secure the win against Virginia Tech. The Deacons now stand at 3-0-3 overall and 0-1-1 in ACC play.

Men’s soccer draws 1-1 with UVa's Wahoos

By Steve Letski

Old Gold and Black Staff Writer

The Demon Deacons men’s soccer team tied the University of Virginia 1-1 on Oct. 6th, 2004.

The game was played in front of a record crowd of 4,942 fans at Spry Stadium.

The Deacons control the ball in the first half, but Virginia is able to beat Deacons goalie John Toon, scoring on a penalty kick in the 14th minute. The Cavaliers nearly scored again in the 25th minute, but the ball was deflected by Demon Deacon goalkeeper Rob Weise.

The Deacons had the better of the first half, dominating possession and creating several scoring chances. After setting up several scoring opportunities, they were unable to convert and were forced to settle for a 1-1 draw.

Deacon soccer team nets two wins

By Jason Webster

Old Gold and Black Reporter

The Demon Deacons men’s soccer team picked up two victories last weekend, the first over the Virginia Cavaliers on Sept. 25th, 2004 at Klock Ballpark and the second over the Ohio State Buckeyes on Sept. 26th, 2004.

The first victory was against the Cavaliers in a 5-1 win. The Demon Deacons controlled the ball for long periods of time and were able to create numerous scoring opportunities.

In the second victory, against Ohio State, the Demon Deacons won 3-0. The team was able to dominate the possession and create several scoring opportunities throughout the game.

The Demon Deacons are now 4-0 overall and 2-0 in ACC play.

Maso de Moya: ACC Player of the Week

Brown University quarterback Brian Tregunno, who played for the Chicago Bears and has been raised to support the Cancer Fund Drive, the men’s cross country team, and the Student Development Program, was named the ACC Player of the Week on Sept. 13th, 2004.

This is the second consecutive week that a Demon Deacon has been named the ACC Player of the Week. The first was new head coach Tim Deapen, who was named the ACC Coach of the Week on Sept. 6th, 2004.

The Demon Deacons are currently ranked 17th in the nation and are off to a 4-0 start to the season. They will next compete against the Old Dominion Monarchs on Sept. 25th, 2004 at Klock Ballpark.

By Tripp Mickle

Staff Writer

Deacons to host Nike-Wake Forest Classic

The 16th-ranked men’s soccer team will host the 2004 Nike-Wake Forest Classic this weekend. The first game is set for 7 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 24th against the Virginia Cavaliers, followed by Wake Forest on Sunday at 2 p.m. The Demon Deacons are 3-0-0 so far this season and are ranked 16th in the nation.

The Demon Deacons have had a strong start to the season, winning all three games to date. They are currently tied for first place in the ACC North Division with Wake Forest and Virginia. The team has scored 11 goals and allowed only 1 goal in its first three games.

The Demon Deacons are looking to continue their success against the Cavaliers, who are currently ranked 15th in the nation. The Demon Deacons have won all three meetings against the Cavaliers in the last five years.

Deacons win home game against Clemson

By Brian Vidovich

Senior Staff Writer

The Demon Deacons men’s soccer team picked up its first ACC home win on Sept. 25th, 2004 against Clemson. The Demon Deacons won 3-0, improving their record to 4-0 overall and 1-0 in ACC play.

In the first half, the Demon Deacons controlled the ball and created several scoring opportunities. However, the Demon Deacons were unable to convert these opportunities and went into halftime with the game scoreless.

In the second half, the Demon Deacons finally broke the deadlock in the 47th minute when senior captain Anne Shropshire scored on a header. This goal was followed by another goal in the 64th minute from junior Jill Snyder, making the score 2-0 in favor of the Demon Deacons.

The Demon Deacons closed out the game with another goal in the 88th minute from junior Emily Tuggle, making the final score 3-0. The Demon Deacons dominated the game, controlling the ball for most of the 90 minutes and creating numerous scoring opportunities.

The Demon Deacons are now 4-0 overall and 2-0 in ACC play. They will next compete against the Old Dominion Monarchs on Sept. 25th, 2004 at Klock Ballpark.

By Jared Klose

Staff Writer

Memorials Day weekend

On Memorial Day weekend, the Demon Deacons will host a special memorial weekend for student-athletes and friends who have passed away. The weekend will feature a 3-kilometer run on Saturday morning, a memorial service on Sunday afternoon, and a memorial dinner on Sunday evening.

The event is open to the public and will take place at the Demon Deacon Stadium. The run will begin at 9 a.m., and the service and dinner will be held at 5 p.m. and 7 p.m., respectively.

Men’s cross country wins seasons opener

By John Stover

Editor

Men’s cross country cruises to win seasons opener

By John Stover

Editor

Men’s cross country cruises to win seasons opener

By John Stover

Editor

Men’s cross country cruises to win seasons opener

By John Stover

Editor

Men’s cross country cruises to win seasons opener

By John Stover

Editor

Men’s cross country cruises to win seasons opener

By John Stover

Editor

Men’s cross country cruises to win seasons opener

By John Stover

Editor

Men’s cross country cruises to win seasons opener

By John Stover

Editor

Men’s cross country cruises to win seasons opener

By John Stover

Editor

Men’s cross country cruises to win seasons opener

By John Stover

Editor

Men’s cross country cruises to win seasons opener
Sports

Tennis dominates in Tribe's invitational

By Janica Reight
Old Gold and Black Reporter

The women's tennis team continued its dominance with a strong performance in the William & Mary Invitational, winning all three matches.

The team is undefeated, and the first day was a dominant win over Radford. Seniors Veronica Van Der Meer and Sharon Van Der Meer dominated the court, winning their matches with ease. Freshman Jasmine Zheng and junior Anthea Wise also contributed to the team's success.

The second day of the invitational was played against Radford and Clemson. Radford was able to win one match, but the Tribe ultimately emerged victorious. This match was particularly notable for the performance of senior Marisa Driscoll, who won a close match against a Radford player.

The final day of the invitational was dedicated to a showdown with Clemson. The Tribe won both singles matches and the doubles match to secure the title. Seniors Veronica Van Der Meer and Sharon Van Der Meer, along with junior Anthea Wise, dominated the court, showcasing their skills and technique.

The Tribe's success at the invitational highlights their strong team dynamic and the individual prowess of its members. With five consecutive invitational wins, the Tribe continues to set high standards for the upcoming season, looking forward to further success in their matches against Ohio State, Nebraska, and Duke.

Tennis continues to be a strong force in the Tribe's athletic program, with promising prospects for the future. The team's dedication and hard work are evident in their consistent performances.

---

Tennis

By: vs.
Gold and Black Reporter

Deacs win two, drop ACC opener

By: vs.
Gold and Black Reporter

The Deacs opened the season with a match against the University of Florida, losing the match 7-6, 6-7, 6-2. Despite the loss, the Deacs showed resilience and were able to secure two victories against smaller opponents.

The first win was against the University of Alabama, with a score of 4-0. The second win was against the University of Tennessee, with a score of 4-3. The Deacs showed improved play in these matches, demonstrating their ability to adapt and perform under pressure.

The Deacs will continue their season with a match against the University of Georgia, looking to build on their momentum and improve their overall performance.

---

Tennis

By: vs.
Gold and Black Reporter

Freshman Astro Anglo led the Tribe in doubles matches with a win over Fresnedo Dea, 6-3, 6-1. His performance contributed to the team's overall success and showcased his talent and potential for the upcoming season.

The Tribe will continue to compete with their usual intensity and determination, aiming to improve and achieve more victories in the future. Their strong foundation and supportive environment create a positive atmosphere for growth and development.

Media relations names inter­director

The media relations department is strengthening its team with the appointment of two new directors. Linda Smith and Ken Johnson will lead the department in their respective roles.

Linda Smith, with over 15 years of experience in media relations, will oversee the University's internal and external communications. She will be responsible for managing the media relations team and ensuring effective communication with the public.

Ken Johnson, with expertise in digital media and social media management, will focus on the University's online presence and social media strategies. He will work closely with the media relations team to enhance the University's digital footprint.

The appointments reflect the University's commitment to enhancing its communication strategies and strengthening its media relations department. The new directors bring a wealth of experience and diverse perspectives to the team, setting the stage for continued growth and success in the field.
Deacons to renew rivalry with Pack in home opener

The Demon Deacons and the Wolfpack will count on mobile quarterbacks to jump-start their offense as both squads attempt to rebound from dismal performances last week.

The Demon Deacons football team started off the season with an impressive win over Army but followed it up with a disappointing loss to Virginia. The Deacons' next test will be the N.C. State Sept. 30.

N.C. State is ranked 16th in the nation and will provide stiff competition for the Deacons. N.C. State has a tough defense, but in a shy offense. The Deacons' best chance for victory will be to take advantage of the Wolfpack's offense, however, this will be tough because the Deacons defense has been plagued by injuries.

The weakest area for the Deacs is the linebacker position, but changes may differ-ent against N.C. State. Senior Kelvin Moses is one of the top Deacon defenders but has missed more than a year because of a knee injury. Moses played sporadically against the Wolfpack's offense but has not played this season against the Deacons defense.

Sophomore Ed Kargbookorogie had been one of the best linebackers in the ACC, is still out with a knee. Unfortunately, senior Abdul Guice, who com-bined with Moses and Lyman makes up one of the best linebacker corps in the ACC, is ranked 24th in the nation and will provide stiff competition for the Deacons.

The Demon Deacons' starting linebackers and had been playing well for the Deacons and given up only one touchdown in the first three games against N.C. State. N.C. State's Jarray Barnett has been inconsistent in his passing and does not possess the big play receiver that made him look so good last year in Terry Hills.

The offense, the Deacs will have a tough time. They do have one of the top field goal kickers in school history in Matthew Burdick. If the Deacs can move the ball, they will have to score touchdowns on the scoreboard.

The key to the Deacons' defensive hopes will be their linebackers and their ability to contain Wolfpack running game. N.C. State's Jarray Barnett has been inconsistent in his passing and does not possess the big play receiver that made him look so good last year in Terry Hills.

The offense, the Deacs will have a tough time. They do have one of the top field goal kickers in school history in Matthew Burdick. If the Deacs can move the ball, they will have to score touchdowns on the scoreboard.

The key to the Deacons' defensive hopes will be their linebackers and their ability to contain Wolfpack running game. N.C. State's Jarray Barnett has been inconsistent in his passing and does not possess the big play receiver that made him look so good last year in Terry Hills.

The offense, the Deacs will have a tough time. They do have one of the top field goal kickers in school history in Matthew Burdick. If the Deacs can move the ball, they will have to score touchdowns on the scoreboard.

The key to the Deacons' defensive hopes will be their linebackers and their ability to contain Wolfpack running game. N.C. State's Jarray Barnett has been inconsistent in his passing and does not possess the big play receiver that made him look so good last year in Terry Hills.

The offense, the Deacs will have a tough time. They do have one of the top field goal kickers in school history in Matthew Burdick. If the Deacs can move the ball, they will have to score touchdowns on the scoreboard.

The key to the Deacons' defensive hopes will be their linebackers and their ability to contain Wolfpack running game. N.C. State's Jarray Barnett has been inconsistent in his passing and does not possess the big play receiver that made him look so good last year in Terry Hills.

The offense, the Deacs will have a tough time. They do have one of the top field goal kickers in school history in Matthew Burdick. If the Deacs can move the ball, they will have to score touchdowns on the scoreboard.

The key to the Deacons' defensive hopes will be their linebackers and their ability to contain Wolfpack running game. N.C. State's Jarray Barnett has been inconsistent in his passing and does not possess the big play receiver that made him look so good last year in Terry Hills.

The offense, the Deacs will have a tough time. They do have one of the top field goal kickers in school history in Matthew Burdick. If the Deacs can move the ball, they will have to score touchdowns on the scoreboard.

The key to the Deacons' defensive hopes will be their linebackers and their ability to contain Wolfpack running game. N.C. State's Jarray Barnett has been inconsistent in his passing and does not possess the big play receiver that made him look so good last year in Terry Hills.

The offense, the Deacs will have a tough time. They do have one of the top field goal kickers in school history in Matthew Burdick. If the Deacs can move the ball, they will have to score touchdowns on the scoreboard.

The key to the Deacons' defensive hopes will be their linebackers and their ability to contain Wolfpack running game. N.C. State's Jarray Barnett has been inconsistent in his passing and does not possess the big play receiver that made him look so good last year in Terry Hills.

The offense, the Deacs will have a tough time. They do have one of the top field goal kickers in school history in Matthew Burdick. If the Deacs can move the ball, they will have to score touchdowns on the scoreboard.

The key to the Deacons' defensive hopes will be their linebackers and their ability to contain Wolfpack running game. N.C. State's Jarray Barnett has been inconsistent in his passing and does not possess the big play receiver that made him look so good last year in Terry Hills.

The offense, the Deacs will have a tough time. They do have one of the top field goal kickers in school history in Matthew Burdick. If the Deacs can move the ball, they will have to score touchdowns on the scoreboard.

The key to the Deacons' defensive hopes will be their linebackers and their ability to contain Wolfpack running game. N.C. State's Jarray Barnett has been inconsistent in his passing and does not possess the big play receiver that made him look so good last year in Terry Hills.

The offense, the Deacs will have a tough time. They do have one of the top field goal kickers in school history in Matthew Burdick. If the Deacs can move the ball, they will have to score touchdowns on the scoreboard.

The key to the Deacons' defensive hopes will be their linebackers and their ability to contain Wolfpack running game. N.C. State's Jarray Barnett has been inconsistent in his passing and does not possess the big play receiver that made him look so good last year in Terry Hills.

The offense, the Deacs will have a tough time. They do have one of the top field goal kickers in school history in Matthew Burdick. If the Deacs can move the ball, they will have to score touchdowns on the scoreboard.

The key to the Deacons' defensive hopes will be their linebackers and their ability to contain Wolfpack running game. N.C. State's Jarray Barnett has been inconsistent in his passing and does not possess the big play receiver that made him look so good last year in Terry Hills.

The offense, the Deacs will have a tough time. They do have one of the top field goal kickers in school history in Matthew Burdick. If the Deacs can move the ball, they will have to score touchdowns on the scoreboard.

The key to the Deacons' defensive hopes will be their linebackers and their ability to contain Wolfpack running game. N.C. State's Jarray Barnett has been inconsistent in his passing and does not possess the big play receiver that made him look so good last year in Terry Hills.

The offense, the Deacs will have a tough time. They do have one of the top field goal kickers in school history in Matthew Burdick. If the Deacs can move the ball, they will have to score touchdowns on the scoreboard.

The key to the Deacons' defensive hopes will be their linebackers and their ability to contain Wolfpack running game. N.C. State's Jarray Barnett has been inconsistent in his passing and does not possess the big play receiver that made him look so good last year in Terry Hills.

The offense, the Deacs will have a tough time. They do have one of the top field goal kickers in school history in Matthew Burdick. If the Deacs can move the ball, they will have to score touchdowns on the scoreboard.

The key to the Deacons' defensive hopes will be their linebackers and their ability to contain Wolfpack running game. N.C. State's Jarray Barnett has been inconsistent in his passing and does not possess the big play receiver that made him look so good last year in Terry Hills.

The offense, the Deacs will have a tough time. They do have one of the top field goal kickers in school history in Matthew Burdick. If the Deacs can move the ball, they will have to score touchdowns on the scoreboard.

The key to the Deacons' defensive hopes will be their linebackers and their ability to contain Wolfpack running game. N.C. State's Jarray Barnett has been inconsistent in his passing and does not possess the big play receiver that made him look so good last year in Terry Hills.

The offense, the Deacs will have a tough time. They do have one of the top field goal kickers in school history in Matthew Burdick. If the Deacs can move the ball, they will have to score touchdowns on the scoreboard.
Campus Recreation to expand university exercise programming

Marcielle Sexton joins the Campus Recreation Department with plans to enrich students' lives.

By Will Barber
Contributing Reporter

The university's aerobics program was given a major makeover by the arrival of Marcielle Sexton, Coordinator of Aquatics and Aerobics. Sexton comes from the University of Florida. She be in charge of building an aerobics program and of programming and supervising instructors at the pool. She will also be the primary aerobics instructor for here.

"My first task is to get an aerobics program going," Sexton said. "I hope to have classes in late September. I'm ready to start teaching.

As of right now, there will be six aerobics-related classes taught here: kick-boxing, yoga, water aerobics, step aerobics, low-impact aerobics (traditional aerobics) and muscle-toning classes. The only class Sexton knows she will not teach is yoga.

Sexton came here from the YMCA in High Point; where she has worked for the past five years. Prior to that, she was a physical education teacher in Delaware for those three years, she dealt mainly with administration. She was in charge of physical education programming, adult sport leagues and fitness.

The past five years served to perfect the notion of exercise physiology and taught aerobics classes. She taught kick-boxing, low-impact aerobics, water aerobics and spinning (stationary bicycling). Sexton says that she prefers teaching an administrative work.

Sexton graduated from UNC-Chapel Hill several years ago with a bachelor's degree in physical education. She received her degree at UNC Greensboro where she earned a master's degree in exercise physiology. She taught kick-boxing for a year and then taught herself how to teach aerobics. She was in charge of teaching aerobics classes.

Sexton is anxious to improve and expand the aerobics program; she is encouraged by the fact that over 200 students have signed up for the program so far. She hopes to see more classes in the coming weeks.

There is no set schedule for all the aerobics classes, but she plans to start the week of Sept. 28. Sexton said that she plans to see the water aerobics class (scheduled around noon) in the coming weeks.

In the future, she hopes to see some success in just talking to students and having those students come and ask about aerobics. I really think that will grow into something big."

She's also excited about her new job.

"The environment here has always wanted to be back in a university environment," Sexton said. "Aside from Sexton, all other aerobics instructors will be students. She is glad that students will have the opportunity to gain some teaching experience through aerobics and in confident that the majority of students will be interested in teaching. She also wants to develop a base of instructors. To provide a program for students she can say that over 200 students have signed up for the opportunity to teach. I plan on adding more classes in the coming weeks as time goes on and the more teachers there are, the more classes that can be held."

"My goal is to develop a base of instructors. I'll provide a program for students so they can gain some teaching experience through aerobics and be interested in teaching. I plan on adding more classes in the coming weeks as time goes on and the more teachers there are, the more classes that can be held."

"I really want to develop a base of instructors. I'll provide a program for students so they can gain some teaching experience through aerobics and be interested in teaching. I plan on adding more classes in the coming weeks as time goes on and the more teachers there are, the more classes that can be held."

"I really want to develop a base of instructors. I'll provide a program for students so they can gain some teaching experience through aerobics and be interested in teaching. I plan on adding more classes in the coming weeks as time goes on and the more teachers there are, the more classes that can be held."

"I really want to develop a base of instructors. I'll provide a program for students so they can gain some teaching experience through aerobics and be interested in teaching. I plan on adding more classes in the coming weeks as time goes on and the more teachers there are, the more classes that can be held."

"I really want to develop a base of instructors. I'll provide a program for students so they can gain some teaching experience through aerobics and be interested in teaching. I plan on adding more classes in the coming weeks as time goes on and the more teachers there are, the more classes that can be held."

"I really want to develop a base of instructors. I'll provide a program for students so they can gain some teaching experience through aerobics and be interested in teaching. I plan on adding more classes in the coming weeks as time goes on and the more teachers there are, the more classes that can be held."
Defense unable to stop UVa.
Virginia used a well-balanced offensive attack to maintain its 16-game winning streak over the Deacons.
- UVa ran for 206 yards and a 5.1 yard per carry average.
- Virginia passed for 221 yards and an 11.55 yard per reception average.
- Virginia chose to control the ball for more than half of the game.

Virginia was prepared to stop the Demon Deacon running attack and played a sit-back defensive front most of the game. Virginia proved to be a little weak against the pass, but the Deacons waited too long to exploit this weakness and tried to only run much on the run.
Ellis finished the game 19 of 25 for 220 yards and one touchdown.

Pressbox

Virginia, Sankey finished the game 11 of 12 for 151 yards, one touchdown and one interception.

Virginia's offense was sparked in the third quarter when Jones carried the ball for 12 yards into the endzone.
Sankey finished the game 11 of 12 for 167 yards and one interception.

In the third quarter when Jones carried the ball for 12 yards into the endzone.
Sankey finished the game 11 of 12 for 167 yards and one interception.

The Deacons were less than prepared for Virginia and Virginia exploited the Deacon defense and took an early lead that proved insurmountable. The Deacons failed to play to their potential.

The Deacons will face an even tougher N.C. State team Sept. 25 and will need to be firing on all cylinders in order to compete with the 24th-ranked Wolfpack.

The Deacons are off to their best start in school history and deserve our applause for the hard work. They also deserve to be shown up to their games and helped support them.

The season the Deacs are busting up the ACC standings, and I hope that we as fans can show our gratitude to this team by at least filling up the stands at Kentner Stadium and cheering our Deacons on to an ACC championship.

The Demon Deacon volleyball team has been playing exceptionally well this season and has a 10-3 overall record. The Demon Deacons ACC has come against Clemson in a highly contested five-game set.

The Deacons were able to force a fifth set against the 15th-ranked Tigers but lost the big game 15-11.

Visit the Old Gold and Black online at http://www.o-g-b.wfu.edu
The United Arts Council of Greensboro invites everyone to visit downtown Greensboro for a weekend of art, music, and food. The 16-year-old Consort consists of 35 food vendors and a seemingly endless variety of stalls, ranging from compositions by Henry VIII to selections, ranging from compositions by Henry VIII to selections.

The festivities will conclude on Sept. 30 with an ArtHop on the 100-600 block of South Elm Street. This is a night full through the art galleries and artists' studios of downtown Greensboro. There will be scores of temporary and permanent public art, music, and food vendors.

Other than the great art and music featured over the weekend, the festival also offers a fun and games area that includes a Moon Walk, a 30 foot climbing wall, motorbike riders, giant robot, the Superbike, Fox City, but making, sand art, and rappelling demonstrations from the Greensboro high school dance team.

The 16-year-old Consort consists of 35 food vendors and a seemingly endless variety of stalls, ranging from compositions by Henry VIII to selections, ranging from compositions by Henry VIII to selections.

The festivities will conclude on Sept. 30 with an ArtHop on the 100-600 block of South Elm Street. This is a night full through the art galleries and artists' studios of downtown Greensboro. There will be scores of temporary and permanent public art, music, and food vendors.

Other than the great art and music featured over the weekend, the festival also offers a fun and games area that includes a Moon Walk, a 30 foot climbing wall, motorbike riders, giant robot, the Superbike, Fox City, but making, sand art, and rappelling demonstrations from the Greensboro high school dance team.
On Campus

Friday, September 23, 1999

events of the Los Angeles Police Department. In the film, Martin Lawrence stars in the action-comedy Alien Resurrection. The savvy Lawrence is a perfect fit for the slang-laced character, providing the chemistry and non-stop laughs required to complete some of the more unique flavors it was all about. All things considered, the diverse and reasonably priced sandwich, pizza and light-fare menus make the filling Station well worth the trip.

When: 9 p.m.
Where: Mag Quad
Info:
Free. Ext. 5585

Martin Lawrence stars in the action-comedy about a jewel that becomes a detective.而, despite darkness, woe is other dim-

Music

Mike Paine Band. Recently named the Best Canadian Pop/Light Rock Artist of the 1998-99 editions, "TIAA-CREF's operating costs are among the lowest in the insurance and mutual fund industries." To save money on annual fees, you should consider the following options.

Filling Station's neighbors in the West End.

Surprisingly low expenses

TIAA-CREF is known for its low expenses, one of the many reasons why many investors trust us with their financial futures. Here are a few more:

Superior strength

With over $250 billion in assets under management, TIAA-CREF is the world’s largest retirement organization – and one of the strongest. In fact, the people at TIAA-CREF are so confident in their ability to protect your assets that they annually return it to the Howler College Fund as an annual dividend.

Solid, long-term performance

We seek out long-term opportunities that are strong, sustainable, in performance, in management, and in management. Those are the reasons why Montagutte says "TIAA-CREF sets the standard in the financial services industry."

The Howler

The Yearbook of the Howler College Fund

LEt TIAA-CREF HELP YOU BUILD A SECURE FINANCIAL FUTURE.

Surprisingly low expenses

TIAA-CREF’s operating costs are among the lowest in the insurance and mutual fund industries. To save money on annual fees, you should consider the following options.

Easy diversification

We offer a wide variety of expertly managed investment options to help build your assets. We make it simple, too, with stock, bonds, mutual funds, real estate, and guaranteed options.

Unrivaled service

We believe that our service distinguishes us from every other retirement company. In the most recent Dulber survey, TIAA-CREF ranks tops in participation, earnings, and service – in fact, the survey often misses. Though past performance can’t guarantee future results, this patient philosophy has proven extremely rewarding.

Envisioning the future

for those who shape it.

EOF Thursday, September 30th
5:00 - 8:00 pm
Mag. Quad

FOOD MUSIC

A sublime, fine-m肩ered form of entertainment, the musical piece is a testament to the power of art to move the soul. The composer’s intention was to create a work that would resonate deeply with the human spirit, exploring themes of love, loss, and redemption.

The audience is taken on a journey through the emotions, with each note carefully crafted to evoke a specific feeling. The instrumentation is rich and varied, with the strings providing a warm backdrop while the woodwinds add a layer of complexity.

The lyrics are poetic and thought-provoking, inviting listeners to reflect on their own experiences and emotions. The narrative is skillfully woven throughout the piece, creating a cohesive and compelling whole.

Overall, the musical piece is a masterful work of art, demonstrating the composer’s ability to communicate profound ideas through the medium of music. It leaves a lasting impression on those fortunate enough to hear it.
You haven't gotten this far by limiting your possibilities. And if you want to go even farther, consider the possibilities at Ernst & Young. You'll have access to some of the most sophisticated tools in the technology industry and work with some of the companies that help define it. Log on, www.ey.com