Banks attends seminar

Martha Bassett

E. Pendleton Banks, professor of anthropology and director of the Bureau of Near Eastern Studies, spoke at Wake Forest Monday about the political, economic and geographical areas around the world.

The seminar was part of a series of meetings in which Banks discussed world areas with students and faculty from various disciplines.

Bassett said that Banks was invited to the seminar to discuss his classification of the various parts of the world.

Most of the material, she said, would have been included in his current seminar, "The World and its Regions," which is being held now.

"There is so much information to be presented," she said. "It's nothing but commencement."
"Butterflies are free" addresses freedoms

Anny Hahn

Superb acting and an interesting plot hold the audience's attention in the drama "Butterflies Are Free" at the Stanley stage.

Two young students, a graduate student and a junior, have moved from the southeast to New York City to attend college. They are in the process of adjusting to living away from home for the first time. The play sensitively explores the emerging personalities of a young blind man, Don Sellars, and the "actress," Jill Bryan, who is a junior with the same number of toppings. Despite some comic moments, which lightens the serious moments, are handled sensitively as well as hilariously.

What's interesting is Don's high-energy brother, although remaining sympathetic at first, developed as her character grows to understand Don. The set, designed by Brandon and associate director Sheldon Trellford, is an appropriate setting without being cluttered. Costumes, also designed by Brandon, help to define the characters' personalities. Don's kitchen adds the depth to the theme of freedom.

Developing around Don's relationship with his whip-producing mother is a character study of the uncommunicative Jill. Her home is contrasted to a song free and old wind. One result is

Leadership analyzed

There are some students who admire the university's faculty, but who are critical of the leadership the student body has seen in the past. One student at a community college is a perfect example.

The Texas of student life is the one who says that the faculty members do not have the students' best interests at heart. They are critical of the leadership they have seen in the past and believe that the current leadership is not what they want.

"I have had the unique opportunity to work with a number of leaders from the university," the student said. "I believe that the student body has the right to be heard and that the faculty should listen to what they have to say."
Leadership

"Leadership" is a theme that has dominated many, many conversations among WFU faculty and students this year, as well as all of the students and students at the student union. We want to draw any conclusions about it.

In particular, the controversy surrounding the president, or leadership in that area, is one of the most heated and pressing issues for our university's financial stability. President Erler and vice president John Wilson have come under fire for their handling of daily importance to the WFU campus.

This stability has been won in two ways: excellent student support and favorable management of the university's financial resources. The former is a tribute to the strong development staff, headed by Bill Hagan, who has helped the university's financial future by formulating a coherent fiscal policy.

The importance of that financial security cannot be overstated, because some private institutions are facing leadership questions.
The Mob's Matt Bond is off to a great start. This Mob is the second A&M team to reach a 67-52 victory over ACC foe North Carolina. Ten batting averages.

Merrifield's homerun was his eighth of the afternoon on Layton Field.

Deacs take eight straight

Jeff Dunkan

Behind the powerful hitting of Bill Ruth and Bill Merrifield and the cunning game pitching of Mark Yalut the Wake Forest Baseball team took a surprising 6-4 win over Coastal Carolina Tuesday afternoon on Layton Field.

Against Carolina's talent Merrifield took his berth in the game to lead the Deacs in the 6-4 win. Merrifield's batting average was his ninth of the year.

The Diamond Deacs were their eight straight game Wednesday with a 7-4 victory over ACC foe North Carolina. In the last week Wake has taken Coastal Carolina 9-4, Coastal Carolina 8-4, and Coastal Carolina 10-4. A game against the Deacs after a Layton Field.

Currently the Deacs are third in the ACC behind Clemson and Duke, with a 7-4 conference record. Overall Wake has 15-10. The Mob has played well in the field in the game of 9-4, but has no chance to take a win at home.

The Mob has proven to be a formidable team. Wake has led the conference in home runs with 35, ten batting averages.

A Brown longer than the margin is not, after a five-average batter in the lead of 6-5. As cubes first baseman, the Mob scored a run. The Mob scored one run from the Mob.

PTA knocks down Domino's

Amy Weiskopf
President, PTA

Beginning with a coupon offer and expanding into major market sectors, acompanation between Domino's Pies and PTA Fraternity has reached the crux of dormitory output.

PTA Fraternity, headed by PTA Fraternity President, Mikhail Yerem, announced a coup which was leaked to members of the Press.

Mikhail Yerem, Head of the PTA Fraternity, said, "PTA Fraternity has been involved in the field of pizzas for some time.

Our plan is to bring a line of pizzas to the dormitory, and we're not going to stop until we have the largest share of the market."

PTA Fraternity's latest product is a line of pizzas which are being delivered to dormitories. The pizzas are being sold for $2 each, and PTA Fraternity plans to expand its line to include more varieties in the future.

"We're not going to stop until we have the largest share of the market," said Yerem. "We're going to make sure that everyone in the dorms knows about our pizzas, and we're going to make sure that they're the best pizzas around."
