Trustees chairman appoints search committee to look for adequate replacement
by Anthony Bublitz

The new president must raise a lot of money, but "we couldn't be expecting much more," Board Chairman Robert F. Smith said.

"We will have the new president well on the way to raising the needed funds before his appointment," he said.

First-year students and their families will be asked to purchase tickets for a special concert of the men's and women's choirs to raise money for the school.

The concert will be held at 8 p.m. on September 21 at the school's football stadium.

The money raised will be used to pay for the new president's salary and to help fund the school's operations.

Tickets for the concert will be sold for $25 each, and all proceeds will go to the school.

The concert will feature a variety of musical performances, including choral and instrumental pieces, as well as a special guest appearance by the school's alumni choir.

The school's current president, Dr. Richard Smith, will preside over the event.

The concert is expected to attract a large crowd, and the school is hoping to sell out all the available tickets.

The proceeds from the concert will be used to support the school's many programs and initiatives, including scholarships, faculty salaries, and student services.

So mark your calendars and get ready for a night of music and fun! Don't miss out on this great opportunity to support your school and help bring in the new president.
Students experience Europe

by Sarah Bennett

Every semester Wake Forest students journey to foreign lands, where they interact with people, explore new cultures and learn how to travel independently. Wherever or however they choose to travel, the students are affected strongly.

As one student described, "I went to Italy and the people were so helpful. I love Italy because it was a lot of fun. I learned a lot about art and history and I saw a lot of art."

The education students experience Europe in many different ways. Some prefer to travel to Europe for the first time, while others have been there before. For instance, one student described, "I went to Italy last year and I decided to go again this year. I went to Paris and it was amazing."

The most popular destinations for European travel are Italy, France, Spain, and Germany. Students enjoy the culture, food, and history of the countries they visit.

One student described, "I went to Paris and it was amazing. I went to the Eiffel Tower and the Louvre Museum. It was very cultural and I had a lot of fun." Another student described, "I went to Rome and it was amazing. I saw the Colosseum and the Roman Forum. It was very historical and I learned a lot about history."
Student artists gain recognition

Six Seniors," an exhibition by the senior art majors, will open at the College Union Student Gallery Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. Faculty chairwoman David Humpton and the gallery director, the new co-art, said it is the first exhibition of senior art students at the gallery. It will offer the Wake Forest community a chance to see, discuss and debate works by student artists, Humpton said.

The student artists will discuss their work and answer questions at a reception following the presentation. Students chosen for the show were selected by art majors, Humpton and the gallery director, Rayner, Sue Williams, Missy Meditation, David Hoenig and Brad Young.

The major exhibit of the show in color, Assistant professor of art Gary Dean, said. The exhibitions will include prints, multimedia sculpture, oil paintings and college.

The show is the first exhibit provided by College Union, an increasingly popular gathering of free art and matching gift from a private source, Humpton said.

National and regional art works to be exhibited in the College Union Student Gallery Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Davis Recital Hall Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Tribble Hall and Thursday in Davis Chapel.

The first exhibit is "Six Seniors," an exhibition by six senior art majors, will open in the College Union Student Gallery Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. followed by a series of one man exhibits. The show will run for three weeks and be followed by a series of one man exhibits.

President James Ralph Scale will step down from the presidency at Wake Forest by the fall of 1989. This decision followed a six-month period of negotiation over who would succeed him.

One of the first moves to pop up, and one of the most controversial and significant, is that of feminist President of the University of Washington, Jane Fuller Carter.

Carter, a former student who also later served on the faculty, is being praised for her leadership and commitment to social justice. She will be able to focus on the challenges of running a large, urban institution with administrative skills that are the stuff of legend.

But what will the future leaders of the university look like? The wake of his predecessor will be large, and it is not clear who will be able to take his place. Several new sets of individuals will be needed to guide the university in the future.

Which direction?

The office of the president of Wake Forest is an important and powerful one. The man who will fill that office has to be responsible and dedicated. Succeeding for a successor for President James Ralph Scale is a very serious and important process.

Wake Forest is a small school, but the president has a significant responsibility as a leader. From a faculty perspective, the president must be able to lead the college to its future.

That direction is what is real. The president of the college must be able to lead the school in all aspects, from student affairs to athletics and everything in between.

The faculty at Wake Forest is small, but the president has a significant responsibility as a leader. From a faculty perspective, the president must be able to lead the college to its future.

The Gang of Four rewarded the emphasis on the most vocal and rhythmic aspects of the four-piece garage group. Like the Gang, the band's frontman, lead singer and songwriter, John Lydon, has provided the band with the basis of the band's style and sound. His vocal delivery and the band's overall sound has been a mainstay of the band's success.

"Verdict"s acting deserves Oscar

by Laura L. Walker

The verdict on director John Lasseter's "Verdict" is completely proof again a changed idea. Here's to the quality of some of the year's finest acting and directing, and it could possibly bring Paul Newman just another Oscar nomination, but the Oscar itself.

...Newman is perhaps characteristically stately lawyer Paul Galvin, whose thunderous reputation is that of an infallible classical composer. He is a man who has never had to write a wrong note and whose authority has not been questioned. He has a visual sense of the music he creates. He is the last man to be accused of being too old. He is an accomplished man, and his performance in this film is a fitting tribute to his career.

...Galvin wins the role of Paul, and the performance is a superb one. He is the kind of character actor who can take on the role of a lifetime and make it his own. His triumph changed the world forever.

...The performance is a tour-de-force. Galvin is at once a master of the craft and a great artist. His portrayal of Galvin is a testament to the power of the human spirit.

...The verdict is rendered, and Paul is the man of the year. He has proved his worth as a character actor and has provided a performance that will be remembered for years to come.

17 best records

by Sam Galles

With the end of the year comes the annual "Best of..." charts for pop music, their potential purpose being a way to reflect on the year's best new music. The voting is influenced by the promotional efforts of the artists and their record companies, as well as by the critical consensus of the music industry. However, as the story continues, one finds that the best music of 1983 is a testament to the human spirit.

The songs for the definitive charts vary as widely as the music itself. The selection process is subjective, and each person has their own tastes and preferences. Nevertheless, the charts reflect the critical consensus at the time of the song's release, and they provide a glimpse into the larger cultural landscape of the year.

...The verdict is rendered, and Paul is the man of the year. He has proved his worth as a character actor and has provided a performance that will be remembered for years to come.
Courses appeal to all

by Inga Edwards

The general objective of a liberal arts education is to be found as education by studying the discipline of psychology. William V. Williams, professor and chairman of the psychology department, said, "The purpose of an academic course is to teach people how to do something." Each course is intended to meet the needs of the student getting something from the behavioral sciences admitted each year and remains for two years.

The department of psychology is concerned with the cultivation of the skills necessary for graduate and department with four assistant professors," said professor Robert C. Beck. "We are concerned with research methods and how to spot faulty graduate work and are able to spend time with them. Several graduate students serve as laboratory assistants in the Research Methods programs." Williams said. "We have some new blood in the department with four assistant professors," said Williams. "I think in the past, there has been a lot of concern about the graduate student's education at the undergraduate level and look psychology and philosophy. We know that about research methods and how to spot faulty graduate work and are able to spend time with them. Several graduate students serve as laboratory assistants in the Research Methods programs," Williams said. "We have some new blood in the department with four assistant professors," said Williams. Charles leaves school

by Joe Snyder

Despite coaching changes at Charlotte, he left the basketball programs in the hands of a new guru, Charles apparently due to his importance to the "program," Coach Jeff Brown. "He was his first head coach," Brown said of Charles, "and he was his first head coach when he was here."

Brown added that he believes Charles has been his mentor and is an important influence on the program.

NCAA passes new academic standards

by Kenny King

The annual NCAA convention drew some criticism at the annual meeting, where speakers discussed the impact of new academic standards and the impact of college basketball on society. The standards have been criticized for being too lenient and not doing enough to prevent cheating.

The standards include requirements such as a 2.0 GPA and a 15 on the SAT for admission, which many coaches and athletic directors feel are too lenient. The standards also allow for the possibility of a fifth scholarship, which some coaches feel is too generous.

The standards are designed to improve the academic standards of college athletes, who are often viewed as "dehumanized" by the NCAA. However, some coaches feel the standards are too lenient and do not do enough to prevent cheating.

The new standards are a step in the right direction, but more needs to be done to improve the academic standards of college athletes. The NCAA must continue to work to improve the standards and ensure that they are enforced.

Deacons win thriller, 88-84

by Tony M. King

Wake Forest's Tony Moore scored 20 points to lead the Deacons to a 88-84 victory over Duke on Saturday. The game was a thriller, with both teams putting in a strong effort.

Wake Forest head coach Bill Friedl said, "This was a great win. Our defense held up in the end." Duke head coach Mike Krzyzewski said, "We were able to score enough to win, but Wake Forest got the better of us in the end."
Wins build confidence

by George W. Miller

With it against only one loss, coach Carl Tacy’s Deacons basketball team rode the momentum of an early 11-0 prep game against the Redmen to a victory out of the ACC. The win gave the Deacons a solid 17-1 overall mark, setting them up with a tough matchup against the Blue Hens of Drexel.

Deacons jump out early, taking an 11-0 lead in the opening game against the Redmen. The Deacons continued to dominate, scoring a total of 89 points against the Redmen, who were able to score only 60 points. The Deacons held a 17-9 lead in the first half, giving the Deacons a solid lead to work with in the second half.

The Deacons outscored the Redmen by a total of 39 points, with nine players scoring in the game. Forward John Pope led the team with 25 points, followed by Steve Deloney Rudd, who scored 20 points. Anthony Teachey contributed to the Deacons’ victory with 19 points.

Deacons’ defense was also a key factor in the game. The Deacons held the Redmen to only 60 points, with the team shooting 50% from the field and 10-11 from the free throw line. The Deacons also outrebounded the Redmen 40-30.

The Deacons’ next game will be against the Blue Hens of Drexel. Despite their early success, the Deacons will need to continue to build confidence and work on their defense to compete against the Blue Hens.

Deacons don’t impress

by George W. Miller

Wake Forest ended up with a 1-4 record after the Christmas break schedule. The record was not impressive enough to get the Deacons into the NCAA tournament. The team played well against some of the top teams in the ACC, but their overall performance was not strong enough to secure a bid.

The Deacons’ defense was solid in the games they played, holding opponents to an average of 68 points per game. However, their offense was not as strong, with the team averaging only 66 points per game.

Coach Carl Tacy praised his team for their effort, saying, “I’m proud of the way they played. They have shown a lot of heart and determination.”

The Deacons will need to continue to work on their offense to improve their chances of making it to the NCAA tournament next year. With a strong defense and solid rebounding, the Deacons have the potential to be a strong team in the ACC.
