Power failure forces student to crash-land

By Jennifer Paylor

A student narrowly escaped death last weekend when he was forced to abandon his rented plane as it was crashing into a field near Wake Forest University, according to Wake Forest officials.

Steve Bumgarner, the student pilot and chairman of the Student Government of the University, said he was flying in the backyard of a Walkertown farm. He said he was flying from a small field below the Wake Forest University airport to a small field below the Winston-Salem airport.

The Student Government Administration of Wake Forest is currently investigating the cause of the crash.

Bumgarner and his passenger, Scott Stephens, a sophomore from New York, were both safe. The plane was lost.

Collier stopped minutes before the crash. He said, "I was going to fly to Winston-Salem to see the Rose Bowl game, but it was lost."

But after checking on projects for committees and for each member to remedy a slow start. "This is the first year in a while that we've really seen the applications being processed," he said. "We're looking for students who are interested in applying to committees and for each member to remedy a slow start."

As for the next year, Bumgarner said he plans to continue to do so, despite the minor accident. He said, "We're not going to let this affect us."

During one session, a female faculty member expressed the awareness of the existence of date rape and sexual assault. She said, "We're not going to let this affect us."

Other students, who are reluctant to provide their opinion to us," Bumgarner said, "are looking forward to the next academic year with great enthusiasm."

As in his campaign, Bumgarner said he would like to address communication between students and their representatives, and to improve the way you can pay it off out of the rent.

Board of Trustees elects new chairman, approves next year's university budget

By J. Howard Yarbrough

A $25 million bond issue for construction and renovation in campus buildings and maintenance of facilities and campus roads was approved by the Board of Trustees during their meeting.

During the meeting, the board also approved a $25 million bond issue for the university's maintenance and renovation projects.

According to the summary of the 1994-95 budget, the physical plant and maintenance of facilities and campus roads accounted for 4.6 percent larger than the 1993-94 budget.

The budget for the new academic year was approved.

A new $25 million bond issue for the university's maintenance and renovation projects was also approved.

The board also approved a $25 million bond issue for the university's maintenance and renovation projects.

According to the summary of the 1994-95 budget, the physical plant and maintenance of facilities and campus roads accounted for 4.6 percent larger than the 1993-94 budget.

By: Pauline Rhodes

President and General Counsel

South Hall, home to 220 males and female freshmen residents, was renamed "Brown Hall." Collier, the Residence Hall March 11 to honor a Virginia alumnus who recently made a large contribution to the renovation and future endowment campaigns.

So far, no one has been injured in the crash.

According to the summary of the 1994-95 budget, the physical plant and maintenance of facilities and campus roads accounted for 4.6 percent larger than the 1993-94 budget.

By: Pauline Rhodes

President and General Counsel

South Hall, home to 220 males and female freshmen residents, was renamed "Brown Hall." Collier, the Residence Hall March 11 to honor a Virginia alumnus who recently made a large contribution to the renovation and future endowment campaigns.

So far, no one has been injured in the crash.
Panel of community leaders seeks roots of violence

COCFFEE discusses issues of community leadership

Panel of community leaders seeks roots of violence

Bob Hall speaks on "Holding the Gender Gap"

By Mark Stewart Harris

About 35 attended a panel discussion about the causes of violence in America. The panel was held at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro in April 14 at 7:30 p.m. The aroma of the discussion centered around the theme of violence. Among the speakers were Royall Fisher, Owens Barry, and Jordan Musil. The discussion was moderated by WCC's Health and Science Chair, Richard Shriver.

The panelists addressed the issue of violence as it relates to the problem of violence in America. Fisher pointed to the problem of violence as a result of economic and political factors. Barry discussed the problem of violence as a result of social and economic factors. Musil summed up the panel's discussion by stating that violence is a complex problem and that all factors must be considered to fully understand it.

The discussion touched on the problem of violence and its causes. The panelists agreed that violence is a complex problem that cannot be easily solved. However, they also agreed that there are things that can be done to reduce violence. These include education, economic development, and the development of leaders.

The panelists also discussed the role of the media in the problem of violence. They agreed that the media has a responsibility to inform the public about the problem of violence and to work towards solutions.

The panelists also discussed the role of the community in the problem of violence. They agreed that the community has a responsibility to work towards solutions to the problem of violence. They also agreed that the community has a role to play in reducing violence.

The panelists also discussed the role of the government in the problem of violence. They agreed that the government has a responsibility to work towards solutions to the problem of violence. They also agreed that the government has a role to play in reducing violence.

The panelists also discussed the role of the individual in the problem of violence. They agreed that the individual has a responsibility to work towards solutions to the problem of violence. They also agreed that the individual has a role to play in reducing violence.

Overall, the panelists agreed that violence is a complex problem that cannot be easily solved. However, they also agreed that there are things that can be done to reduce violence. These include education, economic development, and the development of leaders. The panelists also agreed that the community, government, and individual have a role to play in reducing violence.

Panel of community leaders seeks roots of violence

Bob Hall speaks on "Holding the Gender Gap"

By Mark Stewart Harris

About 35 attended a panel discussion about the causes of violence in America. The panel was held at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro in April 14 at 7:30 p.m. The aroma of the discussion centered around the theme of violence. Among the speakers were Royall Fisher, Owens Barry, and Jordan Musil. The discussion was moderated by WCC's Health and Science Chair, Richard Shriver.

The panelists addressed the issue of violence as it relates to the problem of violence in America. Fisher pointed to the problem of violence as a result of economic and political factors. Barry discussed the problem of violence as a result of social and economic factors. Musil summed up the panel's discussion by stating that violence is a complex problem and that all factors must be considered to fully understand it.

The discussion touched on the problem of violence and its causes. The panelists agreed that violence is a complex problem that cannot be easily solved. However, they also agreed that there are things that can be done to reduce violence. These include education, economic development, and the development of leaders.

The panelists also discussed the role of the media in the problem of violence. They agreed that the media has a responsibility to inform the public about the problem of violence and to work towards solutions.

The panelists also discussed the role of the community in the problem of violence. They agreed that the community has a responsibility to work towards solutions to the problem of violence. They also agreed that the community has a role to play in reducing violence.

The panelists also discussed the role of the government in the problem of violence. They agreed that the government has a responsibility to work towards solutions to the problem of violence. They also agreed that the government has a role to play in reducing violence.

The panelists also discussed the role of the individual in the problem of violence. They agreed that the individual has a responsibility to work towards solutions to the problem of violence. They also agreed that the individual has a role to play in reducing violence.

Overall, the panelists agreed that violence is a complex problem that cannot be easily solved. However, they also agreed that there are things that can be done to reduce violence. These include education, economic development, and the development of leaders. The panelists also agreed that the community, government, and individual have a role to play in reducing violence.

Panel of community leaders seeks roots of violence

Bob Hall speaks on "Holding the Gender Gap"

By Mark Stewart Harris

About 35 attended a panel discussion about the causes of violence in America. The panel was held at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro in April 14 at 7:30 p.m. The aroma of the discussion centered around the theme of violence. Among the speakers were Royall Fisher, Owens Barry, and Jordan Musil. The discussion was moderated by WCC's Health and Science Chair, Richard Shriver.

The panelists addressed the issue of violence as it relates to the problem of violence in America. Fisher pointed to the problem of violence as a result of economic and political factors. Barry discussed the problem of violence as a result of social and economic factors. Musil summed up the panel's discussion by stating that violence is a complex problem and that all factors must be considered to fully understand it.

The discussion touched on the problem of violence and its causes. The panelists agreed that violence is a complex problem that cannot be easily solved. However, they also agreed that there are things that can be done to reduce violence. These include education, economic development, and the development of leaders.

The panelists also discussed the role of the media in the problem of violence. They agreed that the media has a responsibility to inform the public about the problem of violence and to work towards solutions.

The panelists also discussed the role of the community in the problem of violence. They agreed that the community has a responsibility to work towards solutions to the problem of violence. They also agreed that the community has a role to play in reducing violence.

The panelists also discussed the role of the government in the problem of violence. They agreed that the government has a responsibility to work towards solutions to the problem of violence. They also agreed that the government has a role to play in reducing violence.

The panelists also discussed the role of the individual in the problem of violence. They agreed that the individual has a responsibility to work towards solutions to the problem of violence. They also agreed that the individual has a role to play in reducing violence.

Overall, the panelists agreed that violence is a complex problem that cannot be easily solved. However, they also agreed that there are things that can be done to reduce violence. These include education, economic development, and the development of leaders. The panelists also agreed that the community, government, and individual have a role to play in reducing violence.
Prisoner speaks on dangers of drug abuse

By Chris Smirnow

Larry Booker, a prisoner at Forsyth County Correctional Center, came to campus on March 30 to speak as a part of a diversity program on drugs and alcohol.

Booker was charged and convicted of first degree murder in a drug-related offense in 1977. He is presently serving a life sentence and is currently at Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem for Scared Straight, a program designed to keep people involved with drugs and alcohol from going on to commit crimes. Booker speaks to the campus community to get involved, walking in the event and soliciting pledges.

"Every year, I reinvent myself," said Booker, "and every year I go toward a new place. All proceeds are to go toward the spinal cord institute at Forsyth County."

The monthly phone bills—"Reach out and touch someone."

"You can control alcohol, but you cannot control individuals," said Booker. "Books are written and I've been involved with the spinal cord institute at Forsyth for 18 years to follow rules, I was transferred to Foothills Youth Center in Raleigh. His first day he was robbed by three inmates and was quickly deemed to be community dangerous prison life."

Booker was assigned to work in the kitchen where he wounded a fellow inmate with a glass jar to get food or cigarettes. He was found in bed with a knife and was beaten by the leader, where he has the support of many prison attorneys.

"I don't have to drink to have a good time," said Booker. "I've been involved with the Greensboro Juvenile Protection Center. He said he is also coordinating running to school and meeting his girlfriend.

"People who are going to jail will know what happens. They know there are more crimes going on and they're not getting caught. I think they hate being in jail and they want to take attention away from them," said Booker. "I'm going to keep working and I'm going to keep fighting for the right to leave jail."
Return to sender:
Postal worker enjoys people, job

Mixed feelings:
Postal workers enjoy people, job

The new Power-Macintosh™.
The new Power-Macintosh. from Apple.

The new Power-Macintosh from Apple.

Introducing the fastest ways to get through college.

Zick will meet with representatives from PREPAr in two weeks to discuss new programs and to evaluate the activities which have been initiated over the last two years. PREPAr is an independent group which does not have to report to the administration before embarking on a program.

The candidates were already divided with a small bag of marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

The incident occurred in the dormitory at 1:34 a.m. on Tuesday, May 2, 1994. Amend Act on the sections between PREPAr and the administra­ tion, a position which they say could be a continuation of any of the programs was to have a significant impact.

---

Zick said there is no one who exactly fits the criteria for a specialist and who is good at that job.

so, you might have to look for a job that is not related to the field of study.

The new Power-Macintosh from Apple.

For more information contact
Wake Forest Microcomputer Center
Room 20 Reynolds Hall • 759-5543 • Hours: 8:30am-4:30pm
Students attend conference on current issues

By Doug McDonald

Two seniors majoring in politics were selected to represent the university at national conferences, comprised of youth from across the nation. Senior Kevin Lee was selected to attend the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo., Feb. 28 through March 1. The topic of the conference this year was the "U.S. and Arab Influence in U.S. Policy." Lee said that he has been working on this project since July and that he was looking forward to attending the conference, particularly the discussions and networking opportunities.

Senior Sherry Lin was also selected to attend the conference, specifically the "AIDS Seminar," which is located in San Francisco, Calif. Lin said that she has been working on this project since August and that she is excited to attend the conference and meet other people with similar interests.

Lee said that he hopes to learn more about the political influence of the U.S. and Arab countries on U.S. policy and to gain a better understanding of the strategies and tactics used by these countries. He also hopes to make connections with other students and professionals in the field.

Lin said that she hopes to learn more about the role of AIDS in the United States and around the world, as well as the strategies and tactics used to combat the disease. She also hopes to meet other students and professionals in the field and to share ideas and perspectives.

The conference will provide an opportunity for Lee and Lin to learn more about the political and social issues that are relevant to their respective fields, as well as to gain a better understanding of the strategies and tactics used by these countries and organizations. They will have the opportunity to engage in meaningful discussions and to share their knowledge and experiences with others in the field.

In conclusion, Lee and Lin are both excited to attend the conference and to learn more about the political and social issues that are relevant to their respective fields. They hope to make valuable connections and to gain a better understanding of the strategies and tactics used by these countries and organizations.

---

ECUMENICAL INSTITUTE NAMES INTERIM EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

By Coronavirus Editors

Rev. W. Robert Spinks, the director of development for the university's proposed divinity school, has been appointed executive director of the Ecumenical Institute.

"I am honored to continue the leadership of the Institute with our efforts to develop a world-class divinity school," Spinks said.

The Institute was named in a recent meeting of the board of directors. The position was vacated by J. William Angell, an executive director of Spinks.

The Ecumenical Institute is currently in conjunction with the Western Baptist Church and Catholic groups. The Institute is a space for theological consultation and dialogue between the two groups.

Spinks said that the Institute is "not only Baptist and Catholic understanding, but also understanding between a variety of denominations. The board also includes theologians and people from different backgrounds, including professionals.

Sparks will continue to serve as director of development for the proposed divinity school.

"There is a strong need for a divinity school in the region, and we are excited to have Dr. Spinks continue in this role," said Dr. Patricia Suggs, provost of Wake Forest University.

Sparks said that he is "Bush to work to build a world-class divinity school that will be a significant contribution to the region and to the ecumenical movement."

The Institute will be housed in a new building on the campus, with construction expected to begin later this year.

---

GRANT PROVIDES FOR STUDY OF AGING

The Office of Research and Economic Development (ORED) at Wake Forest University has awarded a $300,000 grant to the Department of Health and Human Sciences to support a study of aging.

The study will be led by Dr. William Stahl, a professor in the Department of Health and Human Sciences. The project will focus on the social, economic, and health implications of aging in the United States.

"This grant will allow us to conduct a comprehensive study of aging that will help us understand the complex issues surrounding this population," said Dr. Stahl.

The study will be conducted in collaboration with other institutions and organizations, including the National Institute on Aging and the National Institutes of Health. The results of the study will be used to inform public policy and to develop interventions to address the challenges of aging.

"We are excited to have the opportunity to conduct this important research and to make a significant contribution to the field of aging," said Dr. Stahl.

The study will be funded for five years, with an option for renewal for an additional five years. The project will be administered by the Office of Research and Economic Development at Wake Forest University.

---

TRUSTEES

From Page 1

Dr. Collins said.

"This is a pressing need for our university and our state," said Dr. Collins.

"There is a natural step further into a focused program of study and how that would relate to the work of the Board."

"There is a natural step further into a focused program of study and how that would relate to the work of the Board."

"There is a natural step further into a focused program of study and how that would relate to the work of the Board."

"There is a natural step further into a focused program of study and how that would relate to the work of the Board."

"There is a natural step further into a focused program of study and how that would relate to the work of the Board."

---

DAILY LUNCH AND DINNER SPECIALS

Lunch Specials

Grilled Chicken with Tahini Sauce, Organza Tomatoes and Sprouts

Baked Chicken on Homemade Bread with Jamaican Relish or Ochenta

Plant on White Sesame Bread

Roasted Cheese with Tomato, Egg, Sesame, Garlic, Bunch Chives, Chives, and Cheese

Mashed Chicken served over Blackeyed Peas, Pepper, Spinach, Tomato and White Cheddar on White Bread

The Menu Chef Santed with Tomato, Egg, Ham, Cheese and Sauce

Sandwiches

Grilled Chicken with Tahini Sauce, Organza Tomatoes and Sprouts

Baked Chicken on Homemade Bread with Jamaican Relish or Ochenta

Plant on White Sesame Bread

Roasted Cheese with Tomato, Egg, Sesame, Garlic, Bunch Chives, Chives, and Cheese

Mashed Chicken served over Blackeyed Peas, Pepper, Spinach, Tomato and White Cheddar on White Bread

The Menu Chef Santed with Tomato, Egg, Ham, Cheese and Sauce

SALADS

Grilled Chicken with Tahini Sauce, Organza Tomatoes and Sprouts

Baked Chicken on Homemade Bread with Jamaican Relish or Ochenta

Plant on White Sesame Bread

Roasted Cheese with Tomato, Egg, Sesame, Garlic, Bunch Chives, Chives, and Cheese

Mashed Chicken served over Blackeyed Peas, Pepper, Spinach, Tomato and White Cheddar on White Bread

The Menu Chef Santed with Tomato, Egg, Ham, Cheese and Sauce

Pasta

Homemade Ravioli filled with Wild Mushrooms, Three Cheeses, Fresh Tomatoes and Basil Sauce

DINNER SPECIALS

GRAND OVEREAD WEEKEND

April 7 - Mutt and Jeff's Bar

April 8 - Lunch or Dinner

April 9 - Dinner

April 10 - Breakfast

Dinner Specials with our special offers

- Your Choice of Entrée

- Your Choice of Entrée

- Your Choice of Entrée

- Your Choice of Entrée
New trustee chairman should hear concerns

The purpose of the university is to educate its students and prepare them for productive lives. Having a board of trustees whose primary focus is on the financial well-being of the university is not conducive to that purpose.

Unfortunately, the university continues to recruit a faculty that ignores the opportunity to attract great talent. As evidence, John Anderson, the vice president for administration and planning, recently introduced a new plan for the university’s endowment. The new plan seeks to increase the endowment by $72 million over the next five years, which is approximately 72 percent of the university’s endowment.

This plan is not consistent with the university’s long-term goals. Instead, it is a short-term fix that will not solve the university’s financial problems. In fact, it will only create more problems in the future.

Moreover, the university’s trustees have failed to address the real issues facing the institution. The university’s problems are not financial, but rather they are academic and administrative.

The university needs a new trustee chairman who understands the importance of education and is willing to work towards that goal. A new trustee chairman who will listen to the faculty and students and work towards their concerns.

As a member of the university community, I urge the trustees to consider the appointment of a new trustee chairman who will prioritize the education of our students.
Family tree rooted in sense of self

The day is Easter and here it is my birthday. The Spring, the glistening of the flowers, the tingling feeling that everything is turning green and growing. I am in the mood. I am sitting in my chair in the yard, enjoying the warmth of the sun. I am thinking about my family, about my past, about my future.

Sara McConnell

Alcohol and excessive activities do not guarantee true friendships

People are everywhere. When you first meet them, it is so important in the middle of the road. There are many people, but you always see them in the same places. People are everywhere. I met a lot of people there. I didn't know anyone, I stepped off the plane with that shiny new plane. I was told that college friendships would last a lifetime. But, regardless of my unsound fundamentals and my inability to put on any facades, I say her good fortune can be attributed to luck. After reviewing the more minor transgressions, her case was one of larceny. This is not in keeping with the principles of the administration, which we need to recognize Easter, which's the best time of the year. We have a responsibility to study them. We also need to recognize Easter, which's the best time of the year. We have a responsibility to study them.

Brett Taylor

Statue of Liberty Picture

�� cannot change due to neural operations, explains sports victories, investment gains

I am not a very good basketball player. My ball-handling skills aren't really slick at all, and I never even got a scholarship offer. In fact, after a few years, I gave up basketball. Now, I say her good fortune can be attributed to luck. After reviewing the more minor transgressions, her case was one of larceny. This is not in keeping with the principles of the administration, which we need to recognize Easter, which's the best time of the year. We have a responsibility to study them.

J. Robert Taylor

Security officer Thomas W. Stover does a great job for the students and I think he should get some kind of recognition for what he does. I would like to see him receive more recognition for his outstanding work in the security department. I think he should get some kind of recognition for what he does.

Drew Squires, contributing editor

letters to the editor

With the possible exception of weather conditions, the administration has been sympathetic to student concerns. In fact, the administration has been sympathetic to student concerns in the past. Pac-12 schools are now facing a more challenging environment, as they are dealing with the effects of the NCAA's new rules. The administration has been sympathetic to student concerns in the past. Pac-12 schools are now facing a more challenging environment, as they are dealing with the effects of the NCAA's new rules.

Drew Squires, contributing editor

讣告

And while you were busy with your own concerns, we were busy making a number of decisions that will affect the future of the university. One of these decisions was to remove the statue of Thomas Jefferson from the main entrance of the library. This was done because the statue was in poor condition and it was not appropriate for the entrance of a library.

Bill Fink, chief investment officer

Please contact Drew Squires by e-mail at Drew.Squires@WakeForest.edu. Whatever your decision, we encourage you to take the time to have a conversation with your peers and with your leaders. At the end of the day, we all need to be informed about what is happening on campus.

J. Drew Squires, editor in chief, Wake Forest Critic
A class of their own
Sociology professor offers students chance to picture life

By Teressa Mack
Photojournalist Editor

Professor Perricone, chairman of the sociology department, offers "Concerned Photography and Their Works," a follow-up to "Photography in the Social Sciences." He offers Perricone classes each fall.

This class is not for the average disposable Kodak camera owner. Perricone said the class caters to students interested in going beyond the basic techniques of photography and doing more advanced, individualized development of photography skills.

"Basically what we do is look at what we call classical, classic themes of black and white photography, and try to concentrate on photographers who are particularly conscious of social issues, social problems," Perricone said. "Students then have latitude to develop their own interests whenever it lends itself within those areas."

Students learn about each of the classic themes: portraits, landscapes, reportage, nudes, children, nature, sports and social, architecture, and still life. Students create a portfolio including five original photographs from each theme.

But the catch is that this class most approve of each photograph. One day each week, Perricone discusses the entire class period in student critiques of each other's photographs. This student complete all work on their photos, from actual photographing to processing in the dark room.

Professor and class may decide a photograph is unacceptable based on learned material. In such a case, the students may not include that photograph in the portfolio until making suggested corrections.

"You truly have to be prepared to put your ego on the line in this class," he said.

Besides compiling this portfolio, Perricone said each student researches a specific photographer or theme and gives a seminar on that topic to the entire class.

"The class is very time consuming, with the processing of photographs to research and preparation for seminars," he said. "But I am constantly being surprised by these students who accept the challenges - even go well beyond the minimum requirements - and come back with something extra special."

"This is learning that will last a lifetime. Most will not put this learning aside after graduation."

Indeed, Perricone does not leave his interest in photography at the door of his office in Carroll Hall.

Although he says, "I teach more photography than I actually get a chance to do," Perricone's plans for his sabbatical leave next spring involve personal work in photography.

"I hope to have the opportunity to travel next spring in order to focus on personal work," he said.

"I always considered myself somewhat of a fringe guy on the fringe anyway," he said.

He brings teaching the prerequisite to the course for more than 20 years. When the university had a winter session intended for the development of untraditional courses, since photography is his hobby, Perricone could not pass up the chance to help students learn photography skills.

"It was such a popular course and I enjoyed as much that even after they wound out of existence for winter sessions - a sad day - I decided to keep teaching the course," he said.

Since then, the course's popularity has resulted in a waiting list each semester and the development of the more advanced "Concerned Photography" course. Perricone's goal is offering the class to help students develop their creative skills.

"I am trying to get students to recognize their own potentials through a process of mutual exchange with others interested in this area," he said.

This is part of a long tradition in social photography.

Students wishing to view the works of these students may visit their exhibition, "Photography: The Language of Light," in the Z. Smith Reynolds Library from April 18-26.

The opening reception will take place at 4 p.m., April 22.
Attention seniors! There here is still time to send baby pictures in for the last issue of the Old Gold and Black. Call Chris Wickland at Ext. 5280.

At Most Pizza Places This Is About As Exotic As It Gets.

(The AnchoviesPizzas)

The next time you hear the call of the wild, why settle for something tame? Come to PieWorks. We've got over 100 different kinds of pizza toppings including 19 different cheeses, 24 varieties of meat and 38 kinds of vegetables. So you can go nuts on Pine nuts. Go overboard on Crabmeat. Or go bananas on...well, Bananas.

After all, there's more to life than just Anchovies. And PieWorks has them all.

PieWorks
PIZZA BY DESIGN

NOW OPEN IN WINSTON-SALEM
Pavilions Shopping Center • 612 Hanes Mall Blvd.
659-9999
Audience gives unique poet warm reception

By COLEBRAVEN

Controversial comedy portrays romance, honor in 17th century London

The Country Wife, William Wycherley's comedy on illicit romance and the preservation of chaste women, was presented by the University Theater beginning Thursday. One of the key playwrights of the Restoration, Wycherley will direct the university's production of this historically controversial play.

The Country Wife is not only a pleasant exercise for audiences, but also for the University London society during the English Restoration period.

In sexual histories of the Restoration (1660-1714), the first single off of the album, the curves along which it is laidback recording in music history. Why, Soundgarden makes no claim to be the slowest rocking rock n' roll band in the land. But Sonic Japanese, which was written around the basic structure of Wycherley's original play while excluding the more racy elements, was written around the basic structure of Wycherley's original play while excluding the more racy elements.

This Melbourne, Australia based quartet packs seven local blues club. Poor Miles is no more, but his spirit lives on in this divinity-inspired disc. His playing is still the best. They can still crank it up with the best of them, especially on the Sabbath moshathon "Ballad of the Green Peasant," which was written around the basic structure of Wycherley's original play while excluding the more racy elements.

According toW逼近Granathou who works for Lane's superb drumming, "We had a few minutes before the start of the show and we were just cracking up." The show starts off with the band's most popular song, "Chasing Cars," and ends with "Bluebird."

"Usually, we start off with "Chasing Cars," which is one of our most popular songs. And we end with "Bluebird," which is one of our most popular songs."

Even the most casual observers of the band will be surprised by the number of people who come up to the stage and ask for autographs. "It's really cool to see people who have been waiting for this moment," said Granathou. "It's really cool to see people who have been waiting for this moment."
The Space Love Document."

The poem starts, "If I go all the way without you, the world will fall apart."

This poem keeps the audience riveted and supplies the necessary fines for many who sat in the audience, including the "Welsh man" who now sits behind Wyoming. In the poem, they adapt the heroine's tale what she once meant, but loved something.

Dorny concluded the first set, with a poem different from the one she had done previously. It was the beginning of the poems which dealt with the new, new, and relationships, a change in the poems called "Proper for the Man who Married His Dog". In this piece, many poems showed Dorny's creative stage as the audience was hushed and appreciated thoughtfully.

After the intermission, Dorny found that most of her audience had left because of the children's beginning. Dorny, unable to relate, brought in her own family to help her through the pain of her loss.

This text was reused by most of the audience, and showed the love this woman showed for poetry. If you were unable to attend this reading, consider yourself lucky -- because Dorny has invested herself in this university.

An afterparty followed immediately and ushered in the afterSUMMARY:

Films

From Page 10

which it lays claim, is a problem of evil.

It was clear to Zwick, with the support of his men, that the struggle within individuals. It was clear to him that the struggle within the audience members must continue.

The final product is a poetic and inspiring film, not about the struggle between North and South, and the struggle within individuals. Likewise, Spielberg was able to convey the past because of the events that occurred 50 years ago in Europe, the memory of the Holocaust lives on. and evil.

Spielberg was able to create a unique perspective on a film, except for a few meaningful images. The employment of black and white film actually lent the film a documentary effect, but also dehumanized the story.

Spielberg did not intend for the audience to see the film on the screen or in the film, but the people where they belong. Spielberg chose to focus on the human beings who lived alone and were affected by Oskar and Schindler rather than a mere account of the events involving the creation of the list ultimately saved the lives of over 1,200 Jews.

Spielberg discards the use of color in this film, instead they used to put the focus of the story on the lives being saved with their names. This simple simplicity heightens both the capacity for empathy with the characters and the meaning of the story. The audience is to identify names with actual people, making the story real, and is torn, torn apart.

though any story about the Holocaust is inherent to the nature of such a tragedy, but Spielberg's film does not avoid it which we are already familiar. It is careful to carry the story to the evocative levels of understanding.11

Spielberg and his crew worked to create a unique perspective on a film, except for a few meaningful images. simplicity attaches heightens both the empathy with the characters and the meaning of the story. The audience is to identify names with actual people, making the story real, and is torn, torn apart.

A Common Thread: Though much of her audience had left because of the children's beginning, Dorny, unable to relate, brought in her own family to help her through the pain of her loss.

As a member of the Northern appointed, Shaw brought to school his identity as a veteran of World War I, a fact which was symptomatic with which he intended to be in the history class on Fort Worth.

Similarly, Shaw must create a balance between being the one that offers support to others and deriving the benefit of his unique background; Shaw's sense is achieving such depth has been the key desiderata for the student's class in the history class on Fort Worth.

Throughout the summer, Shaw, a fine young man, based on some biographical texts as well as letters written from Shaw to his mother during the war, Zwick and his men beside his family, including the one who had done previously.

Drawing upon the development of this relationship, did not offer any new story of the world should know; he is a privileged few to the story of the creation of the list, and relationships, came a Charles Shaw. and leaders.

It is clear that the audience members must continue. It is clear that the audience members must continue. It is clear that the audience members must continue.

As a member of the Northern appointed, Shaw brought to school his identity as a veteran of World War I, a fact which was symptomatic with which he intended to be in the history class on Fort Worth.

Similarly, Shaw must create a balance between being the one that offers support to others and deriving the benefit of his unique background; Shaw's sense is achieving such depth has been the key desiderata for the student's class in the history class on Fort Worth.

Throughout the summer, Shaw, a fine young man, based on some biographical texts as well as letters written from Shaw to his mother during the war, Zwick and his men beside his family, including the one who had done previously.

Drawing upon the development of this relationship, did not offer any new story of the world should know; he is a privileged few to the story of the creation of the list, and relationships, came a Charles Shaw. and leaders.

It is clear that the audience members must continue. It is clear that the audience members must continue. It is clear that the audience members must continue.
Men's golf finishes seventh in Georgia

By Cara Lucksinn

The men's golf team placed seventh on the first day of the ACC Championship and fifth on the second at the Golf Club in Dalton, GA. They finished 290-304-304, 37 strokes off the leader, Furman.

The Deacons were not pleased with their play, saying they were just not good enough to make it to the ACC Championship.

Despite the loss, there were some bright spots, including senior Ben Atkinson, who shot a 69 on the first day, and junior Ron Whittaker, who shot 76-79-76-72.

It was a streak the men's tennis team was proud of and one that would have put them in the top 20 of the ACC rankings. After this weekend's events, the Deacons failed to make it to the ACC Championship and will have to wait until next season for another chance.

Junior Joshua Whittaker said, "We were all disappointed, but we knew that this was not going to be easy. We had to work hard and put in the effort. But we just didn't play as well as we could."

The baseball team had a season of ups and downs, but they were able to keep their heads up and finish strong. They had a good season overall and were able to compete with some of the best teams in the ACC.

The men's tennis team had a great season, winning several matches and having some strong performances. They were able to compete with some of the best teams in the ACC and were able to win some matches that they didn't expect to win.

The putting platoon ranks third in the ACC, with an average of 29.8 putts per game. The Deacons will be looking to improve on their performance in the ACC Championship and will be hoping to make it to the NCAA Tournament.
Tennis

From Page 12

No. 1. This freshman fought back to even the match at two sets all with Todd Allen 6-4, 6-4, and Mike Wyman, who won 6-3, 6-4. This brought the score to 2-2. The BC team tied the match 3-3 with a 9-7 win in the doubles match, followed by a 6-3, 6-2 win in singles.

The men's tennis team traveled to Pittsburgh where they swept the Duquesne 9-0 on March 29. The BC team also traveled to Charleston, S.C. on March 30 to take on the College of Charleston. The BC team was victorious 7-0.

Baseball

The team traveled to Tallahassee, Florida to take on the FSU Seminoles in the ACC Tournament. The BC team was defeated 12-7.

The BC team then traveled to Charlotte, North Carolina to take on the UNC Tar Heels in the NCAA Regional. The BC team was defeated 10-7.

The team then traveled to Winston-Salem, North Carolina to take on the Wake Forest Demon Deacons in the NCAA Regional. The BC team was defeated 8-6.

The team then traveled to Columbia, South Carolina to take on the South Carolina Gamecocks in the NCAA Regional. The BC team was defeated 10-8.

The team then traveled to Omaha, Nebraska to take on the Creighton Bluejays in the NCAA Regional. The BC team was defeated 10-7.

The team then traveled to Oklahoma City, Oklahoma to take on the Oklahoma State Cowboys in the NCAA Regional. The BC team was defeated 10-5.

The team then traveled to Austin, Texas to take on the Texas Longhorns in the NCAA Regional. The BC team was defeated 10-8.

The team then traveled to San Diego, California to take on the UC San Diego Tritons in the NCAA Regional. The BC team was defeated 10-6.

The team then traveled to San Francisco, California to take on the San Francisco Dons in the NCAA Regional. The BC team was defeated 10-8.

The team then traveled to Salt Lake City, Utah to take on the Utah Utes in the NCAA Regional. The BC team was defeated 10-7.

The team then traveled to Omaha, Nebraska to take on the Nebraska Cornhuskers in the NCAA Regional. The BC team was defeated 10-8.

The team then traveled to Oklahoma City, Oklahoma to take on the Oklahoma State Cowboys in the NCAA Regional. The BC team was defeated 10-6.

The team then traveled to Austin, Texas to take on the Texas Longhorns in the NCAA Regional. The BC team was defeated 10-8.

The team then traveled to San Diego, California to take on the UC San Diego Tritons in the NCAA Regional. The BC team was defeated 10-6.

The team then traveled to San Francisco, California to take on the San Francisco Dons in the NCAA Regional. The BC team was defeated 10-8.

The team then traveled to Salt Lake City, Utah to take on the Utah Utes in the NCAA Regional. The BC team was defeated 10-7.

The team then traveled to Omaha, Nebraska to take on the Nebraska Cornhuskers in the NCAA Regional. The BC team was defeated 10-8.
For the Graduate!
“Wake’s Elegance”
A full color limited edition print by Mary K. Lee
SN 475 Image size: 13.75" x 17" $45.00
Available now at your favorite art dealer, including:

For More Information Contact:
Call or write for a free brochure and samples.

MCAT
AUGUST 20, 1994
GET RESULTS!
with the most comprehensive
MCAT preparation
In the lengths of the test.
5-10 students per class
160 hours of live instruction
FREE trial help.
Graduate-level instructors with experience in specific areas.

COURSES START IN MAY
IN CHAPEL HILL, RALEIGH AND GREENSBORO.
Sign up now!
Space is limited!
Call 919-929-7673
or SELECT TEST PREP
EDUCATIONAL SERVICES.

COLLEGE BOOK
STORE
We have received extra graduation
announcements. They are available in limited quantities for 70
cents each.

STUDENT COUNSELORS
The Student Counselors are undergraduate students trained in the rules and procedures of the Judicial and Honor Codes who ensure other Wake Forest students proper aid and advice on judicial matters.

ATTENTION SENIORS!

ATTENTION SENIORS!

R.A.D.
Rape Aggression Defense Course
Self-Defense for Women
15 Hour Class

1st Class
Saturday, April 16th
Sunday, April 17th

2nd Class
Saturday, April 23rd
Sunday, April 24th

For More Information Contact:
Suzanne Revels, Hope Stafford, or
Keith Davis (Residence Hall Officer)
759-5591

MCAT
AUGUST 20, 1994
GET RESULTS!
with the most comprehensive
MCAT preparation
In the lengths of the test.
5-10 students per class
160 hours of live instruction
FREE trial help.
Graduate-level instructors with experience in specific areas.

COURSES START IN MAY
IN CHAPEL HILL, RALEIGH AND GREENSBORO.
Sign up now!
Space is limited!
Call 919-929-7673
or SELECT TEST PREP
EDUCATIONAL SERVICES.

COLLEGE BOOK
STORE
We have received extra graduation
announcements. They are available in limited quantities for 70
cents each.

STUDENT COUNSELORS
The Student Counselors are undergraduate students trained in the rules and procedures of the Judicial and Honor Codes who ensure other Wake Forest students proper aid and advice on judicial matters.

NOW ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS
FOR STUDENT COUNSELORS 1994-95
Pick up applications in Student Government Office, Benson 304 - Applications available April 8
Applications Due April 15 at midnight in SG Office

SIGN UP FOR INTERVIEWS UPON RETURNING APPLICATIONS

For the Graduate!
“Wake’s Elegance”
A full color limited edition print by Mary K. Lee
SN 475 Image size: 13.75" x 17" $45.00
Available now at your favorite art dealer, including:

For More Information Contact:
Call or write for a free brochure and samples.

MCAT
AUGUST 20, 1994
GET RESULTS!
with the most comprehensive
MCAT preparation
In the lengths of the test.
5-10 students per class
160 hours of live instruction
FREE trial help.
Graduate-level instructors with experience in specific areas.

COURSES START IN MAY
IN CHAPEL HILL, RALEIGH AND GREENSBORO.
Sign up now!
Space is limited!
Call 919-929-7673
or SELECT TEST PREP
EDUCATIONAL SERVICES.

COLLEGE BOOK
STORE
We have received extra graduation
announcements. They are available in limited quantities for 70
cents each.

R.A.D.
Rape Aggression Defense Course
Self-Defense for Women
15 Hour Class

1st Class
Saturday, April 16th
Sunday, April 17th

2nd Class
Saturday, April 23rd
Sunday, April 24th

For More Information Contact:
Suzanne Revels, Hope Stafford, or
Keith Davis (Residence Hall Officer)
759-5591

STUDENT COUNSELORS
The Student Counselors are undergraduate students trained in the rules and procedures of the Judicial and Honor Codes who ensure other Wake Forest students proper aid and advice on judicial matters.

NOW ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS
FOR STUDENT COUNSELORS 1994-95
Pick up applications in Student Government Office, Benson 304 - Applications available April 8
Applications Due April 15 at midnight in SG Office

SIGN UP FOR INTERVIEWS UPON RETURNING APPLICATIONS