OLD GOLD AND BLACK

Volume 83, No. 8

Thursday, October 7, 1999

Suspect arrested in Polo Road burglaries

By Suzanne Dubose

The suspect was someone we have been concerned about for a while," said University Police Chief Regina Lawson. He was convicted because he was also charged with the same incident in 1997 on South Main Street. According to Lawson, the actions of the suspect were extremely similar to previous reports of a stranger who repeatedly showed up at student parties. This person had a history of going into houses and making himself comfortable," Lawson said.

According to Lawson, none of the parties the suspect was able to make observations, because the physical layout of the home and discover who lived there.

By Heather Seely

"The person had a history of going into houses and discovering who lived there," said Dr. Liam Sullivan, an employee of the public relations department at Replacements, Ltd.

According to a letter written by Robert Pape, president of Replacements, Ltd., to University President Thomas H. Hearn Jr., the company "is the world's largest supplier of old and new replacements for any and every antique," according to both letter and Sullivan, who works for the firm. "We have very sophisticated research programs," said Dr. Peter J. Rennie, the company's vice president and chief technology officer. Sullivan said the other big issue of the meeting was what the university is doing to get high-quality students even if they cannot afford the school.

The trustees discussed ways to get high-quality students even if they cannot afford the school. The trustees are most passionate about..."See Trustees, Page A4

By Suzann Dubose - Editor

Because of the trustees' lack of support for Sandy Scott and Susan Parker's same-sex union ceremony in Wake Chapel, Replacement, Ltd., a Greenwich, Conn., crystal and souvenir company, has decided it will not make any financial contributions to the university. "We just don't tolerate discrimination of any kind," said Linn Sullivan, an employee of the public relations department at Replacement, Ltd.

According to a letter written by Robert Pape, president of Replacements, Ltd., to University President Thomas H. Hearn Jr., the company is "the world's largest supplier of old and new replacements for any and every antique," according to both letter and Sullivan, who works for the firm. "We have very sophisticated research programs," said Dr. Peter J. Rennie, the company's vice president and chief technology officer. Sullivan said the other big issue of the meeting was what the university is doing to get high-quality students even if they cannot afford the school.

The trustees discussed ways to get high-quality students even if they cannot afford the school. The trustees are most passionate about..."See Trustees, Page A4

Dominick paves university's information superhighway

By Stacy Gones - Contributing Reporter

All students at the university depend on the IBM ThinkPads and technology provided by the university, however, most people do not realize that it is Jay Dominick who is behind the university's technological advancements.

Dominick is an assistant vice president of the chief information officer. His main role is to provide the university with the latest technology for its students and faculty.

Dominick has worked at the university for over ten years. He said that his favorite aspect of his job is the opportunity to do new things, to see new technology, and to be part of the biggest technology program in the country in computer science.

Besides being assistant vice president, Dominick also teaches an evening class, Management of Information Systems. "It's a great job to work with, a top group and great to the field," he said.

Dominick has been working on the university's computer science projects and has been a driving force behind the success of the university's information technology department.

He received an Air Force ROTC scholarship and attended UNC-Chapel Hill. The Air Force wanted him to pursue their aircraft projects, but Dominick decided to major in mathematics and computer science.

He graduated from Chapel Hill in 1984 and served four years in the Air Force. These four years influenced Dominick by helping him realize the impact of technology programs he worked on at the university. "We had a very sophisticated network to keep the air line..." he said.

Not only is Dominick affiliated with the university as an employee, he also maintains a personal relationship with the university through his involvement in the alumni association.

Dominick's secretary, Scotty, said, "Dominick is a great person. He always makes time for his students and faculty." Scotty also noted that Dominick is a very caring and dedicated employee.

Jay Dominick, an assistant vice president and the chief information officer, enjoys working at a technologically advanced university.

Students contracts meningitis

A junior contracts the potentially fatal infection of the fluids in the brain and spinal cord.

A junior contracts meningitis.

According to Dr. Robert Weigel, the university's medical director, the student was admitted to the hospital on Monday. The student, who is in intensive care, is expected to recover.

"The news is very positive," said Weigel. "We are very encouraged by the student's progress."
Hispanic symposium highlights local needs

By Roni Some Contributing Reporter

Great speakers from a variety of regions congregated at the "Volunteers and the Hispanic Community" symposium Oct. 2 to share their views on how stu­dents volunteering in a key factor in bridging the gap between the university and its growing popu­lation of Hispanic students in Win­ston-Salem.

The event, which took place from 5 to 7 p.m. in Benson 602, also discussed the role of the Hispanic community in the city and around the country.

Senior Erica Hines, the or­ganizer of the symposium, said that after noticing the lack of ex­posure to the Hispanic commu­nity in the City of Joy and also overcome personal boundaries.

"I wanted to do it very student-driven and visit different places, and when I put it out, I call a lot of students re­sponding to my film project regardless of where the genre has gone," said Hines. "Students in ignorance were impressed and curious about the different ways in which science fiction was contrived and discussed. Freshman Justin Brand, who did not go to a film school, science fiction, and said, "I think that it was real interesting, and it’s not direction (which I don’t respect it at all)."

Golden Scholarship accepting applications

The University is offering scholarships to students who have made significant contributions to the University. The scholarships are available to students majoring in science and technology, with an emphasis on physics, and to students majoring in the humanities.

For more information, contact L. McElwain at Ext. 5544.

Campus organizations may have their announcements listed by sending a mail to newsroom@ogb.wfu.edu, faxing to Ext. 5544, or writing to P.O. Box 7106. The deadline for inclusion in each week’s paper is 5 p.m. Monday.

Forum to evaluate the Undergraduate Plan

The Phi Chi Fraternity will hold the forum on the success of the Undergraduate Plan on Oct. 12 in the City of Joy Lodge.

Faculty essays explore science, technology

As part of the theme of science and technology, several essays were written by faculty members of the Department of Philosophy and the Department of Science.

For information on how to get involved, contact the Volunteer Service Center at Ext. 5050 or Ext. 5088.

A capella concert to help VSC travel

Volunteer Service Corps is offering a a capella concert to help support international students and organizations.

For more information, call Mr. Monk at 336-758-5280 or Ext. 722-0006 on the evening.

Did you get your copies of the Howler?

Students unable to pick up their copies of the Howler this week should review a copy of the Howler, a student newspaper.

The Howler will be posted on the university office door on campus and at Ext. 3289.

Junior Maggie Currie spoke to students during the Hispanic symposium Oct. 2 at the Hispanic Center on volunteering in the Hispanic community.

"The Hispanic Center is the place where the students are committed to helping others," Currie said. "It’s really important to us to have a place where we can all come together to do something for others.

Senior Lisa Alexander of La Casa de Humberto spoke to students during the Hispanic symposium Oct. 2 at the Hispanic Center on volunteering in the Hispanic community.

"The Hispanic Center is the place where the students are committed to helping others," Currie said. "It’s really important to us to have a place where we can all come together to do something for others.

Senior Lisa Alexander of La Casa de Humberto spoke to students during the Hispanic symposium Oct. 2 at the Hispanic Center on volunteering in the Hispanic community.

"The Hispanic Center is the place where the students are committed to helping others," Currie said. "It’s really important to us to have a place where we can all come together to do something for others.
Convocation open to all

The Divinity School will hold its inaugural convocation next week.

By Lee Anne Quadri

"Theology at the Threshold of the 21st Century" is the theme selected for the University's Divinity School's inaugural convocation. The theme was chosen by the Divinity School's first professorial school to open at the university since the Babcock Graduate School of Management was founded in 1964. It is based on the role religion plays in a century that is known for its pursuit of science, societal and technological advancements.

This fall the Divinity School opened its doors to 24 students from a variety of denominational traditions. The Divinity School also offers coursework, educational opportunities with the North Carolina Baptist Theological Center, the Wayne Oates Institute, the Appalachian Theological Seminary, and other schools and organizations. The inaugural convocation will be held 7 p.m., Oct. 12 in Wait Chapel. The Rev. Bill Leonard, the dean of the Divinity School, will preside over the convocation and address the theme, "Feminism, Doing Theology at the Threshold of the 21st Century" is the theme.

"It is a gathering of friends, supporters, and colleagues from many other schools. It is a time to acknowledge the encouragement and support that led to this beginning and to celebrate the presence of our first class of students," Bill Leonard, dean of the Divinity School, said at the resource center, who discussed the role of religion in a century that is known for its pursuit of science, societal and technological advancements.

The annual convocation is a gathering of friends, supporters, and colleagues from many other schools. It is a time to acknowledge the encouragement and support that led to this beginning and to celebrate the presence of our first class of students. Bill Leonard, dean of the Divinity School, said at the resource center, who discussed the role of religion in a century that is known for its pursuit of science, societal and technological advancements.

The annual convocation is a gathering of friends, supporters, and colleagues from many other schools. It is a time to acknowledge the encouragement and support that led to this beginning and to celebrate the presence of our first class of students. Bill Leonard, dean of the Divinity School, said at the resource center, who discussed the role of religion in a century that is known for its pursuit of science, societal and technological advancements.

The annual convocation is a gathering of friends, supporters, and colleagues from many other schools. It is a time to acknowledge the encouragement and support that led to this beginning and to celebrate the presence of our first class of students. Bill Leonard, dean of the Divinity School, said at the resource center, who discussed the role of religion in a century that is known for its pursuit of science, societal and technological advancements.

The annual convocation is a gathering of friends, supporters, and colleagues from many other schools. It is a time to acknowledge the encouragement and support that led to this beginning and to celebrate the presence of our first class of students. Bill Leonard, dean of the Divinity School, said at the resource center, who discussed the role of religion in a century that is known for its pursuit of science, societal and technological advancements.

The annual convocation is a gathering of friends, supporters, and colleagues from many other schools. It is a time to acknowledge the encouragement and support that led to this beginning and to celebrate the presence of our first class of students. Bill Leonard, dean of the Divinity School, said at the resource center, who discussed the role of religion in a century that is known for its pursuit of science, societal and technological advancements.

The annual convocation is a gathering of friends, supporters, and colleagues from many other schools. It is a time to acknowledge the encouragement and support that led to this beginning and to celebrate the presence of our first class of students. Bill Leonard, dean of the Divinity School, said at the resource center, who discussed the role of religion in a century that is known for its pursuit of science, societal and technological advancements.

The annual convocation is a gathering of friends, supporters, and colleagues from many other schools. It is a time to acknowledge the encouragement and support that led to this beginning and to celebrate the presence of our first class of students. Bill Leonard, dean of the Divinity School, said at the resource center, who discussed the role of religion in a century that is known for its pursuit of science, societal and technological advancements.

The annual convocation is a gathering of friends, supporters, and colleagues from many other schools. It is a time to acknowledge the encouragement and support that led to this beginning and to celebrate the presence of our first class of students. Bill Leonard, dean of the Divinity School, said at the resource center, who discussed the role of religion in a century that is known for its pursuit of science, societal and technological advancements.
Students witness 'Howler' returns after 2-year wait

By Anna Lee
Associated News Editor

After going without a new yearbook since the fall of 1997, 3,700 students hailed a return to that annual tradition when the 98-99 edition of the Wake Forest "Howler" went on sale Tuesday, Oct. 5, in the Student Union.

Although a number of books were ordered before students who graduated in the past two years, the book was not gathered together on the Magen for distribution, according to Assistant News Editor Bob Nober, the editor of the yearbook.

"I think it went really well. I was really pleased with the results," said Nober. "Our sales people said "RVA was sold" and "I'm very pleased with the turnout.""

It was a night to remember for the students who came to the book store for the opportunity to pick up their own books. It was definitely good for the situation that was in place.

Numbers said that both editions were distributed in the same amount of time, but Nober said that the pronunciation of the books that were in.

It was a slight improvement going on this year, but now, Newborn told the trustees that the university is planning to have a great yearbook. "We can do this for much better, but it's definitely good for the situation that we're in."

A large portion of this university in recent years has consistently voiced its support for the gay community, and it will continue to do so. Are you listening? This isn't a gay and lesbian issue. The issue here is that the voices of the majority is being silenced.

The preparation directly af­fected the students and faculty.

As a foreign student, Helicher said, "They just want to be free, do a good job, and have a family."

The campus became an important government office. It was turned over to the university. Helicher also said that he was able to connect to certain people and to his friends with the help of the government.

As Dominick said, "There is no reason to do anything. For Wake Forest, we just pick up a copy." Numbers said.

"It seems like they didn't do anything about the political education," Helicher said.

According to the Associated Press, the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Tiananmen Square student demonstrations in Beijing on Thursday was marked by restrictions on demonstrations, acting as dancers and performers.

"It's like they didn't do anything about the political education," Helicher said.

The preparations directly af­fected the students and faculty.

As a foreign student, Helicher said, "They just want to be free, do a good job, and have a family."

The campus became an important government office. It was turned over to the university. Helicher also said that he was able to connect to certain people and to his friends with the help of the government.

As Dominick said, "There is no reason to do anything. For Wake Forest, we just pick up a copy." Numbers said.

"It seems like they didn't do anything about the political education," Helicher said.

The preparations directly af­fected the students and faculty.

As a foreign student, Helicher said, "They just want to be free, do a good job, and have a family."

The campus became an important government office. It was turned over to the university. Helicher also said that he was able to connect to certain people and to his friends with the help of the government.

As Dominick said, "There is no reason to do anything. For Wake Forest, we just pick up a copy." Numbers said.

"It seems like they didn't do anything about the political education," Helicher said.

The preparations directly af­fected the students and faculty.

As a foreign student, Helicher said, "They just want to be free, do a good job, and have a family."

The campus became an important government office. It was turned over to the university. Helicher also said that he was able to connect to certain people and to his friends with the help of the government.

As Dominick said, "There is no reason to do anything. For Wake Forest, we just pick up a copy." Numbers said.

"It seems like they didn't do anything about the political education," Helicher said.
Help Jester get his jingle

With help from an author, Sigma Nu's annual lulu A-Thon will benefit the Brian Piccolo Cancer Fund.

By Tracey McDonald
Old Gold and Black Reporter

As发布会上, students are coming together to raise money for the Brian Piccolo Cancer Fund. As they have for the past nine years in the Sigma Nu fraternity, the group is releasing Jester, a character from the年末的 Ski Quiz, to help support the cancer fight.

The A-Thon will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Oct. 1 in the Sigma Nu lounge of Kirkbride House. Tickets and T-shirts will be sold site-side and in the Benson University Center.

Tickets are $2 in advance and $3 at the door, and T-shirts cost $15 and include the price of a ticket. Fraternity members will also be selling tickets of which proceeds of which benefit both the Brian Piccolo Foundations and Parents Against Cancer/The David Saltzman Fund. The book is a $15 plus shipping and handling cost. Can also be buy the book at the regular price of $15 plus shipping and handling, and the fraternity will also be selling the book as an extra book for a child to be autographed.

Jester and Pharcy dolls are also available for $15 plus shipping and handling, and Jester and Pharcy buttons are available for $2 plus shipping and handling. "David has made the Dragon's Eye. Those very personal, and the story has been an amazing driving force," said. "Inmarinly, we are really excited about this event, and we hope to see the campus come out and show their support for the fight against cancer."

These comments are an opportunity for these items may send a list of items desired and a check made payable to Brian Academic and travel to the University of Connecticut. The University of Connecticut will send a check to the Jester chapter, and the chapter will send a copy of the book to the donor.

"The money collected from the sale of the book will be split between the Brian Piccolo Foundations and Parents Against Cancer," said. "The proceeds of which benefit both the Brian Piccolo Foundations and Parents Against Cancer.

The book is a $15 plus shipping and handling cost. Can also be buy the book at the regular price of $15 plus shipping and handling, and the fraternity will also be selling the book as an extra book for a child to be autographed."

"As a Special thanks to the Sigma Nu, pledged Peter Wolf, who has been really excited to be able to help the fraternity to support the Brian Piccolo Cancer Fund."
By Tenny Blackford

By a fluke or as a result of the creative process of house planning, the Flow House, the University of Arizona’s third international study center, has a great neighborhood close to some of the largest parks in Vienna and is only minutes from grocery stores and dumps.

"Vienna has a lot to offer in terms of its long, colorful, historical tradition, its folk musical and artistic heritage and its critical location as a bridge between Western and Eastern Europe," said Larry West, a professor of German and the faculty director of the program this semester.

The first group of 14 students began classes Aug. 25 and are studying German, art, architecture, history, music and theater. "The Art and Architecture class we are taking is fascinating. We have already seen ancient Roman ruins, Frontenice from the Middle Ages, and a beautiful Gothic church," junior Emily Kite said.

This semester the group will travel to Prague as they study the works of Franz Kafka and will also visit the hometowns of Johann Wolfgang von Goethe and Martin Luther. Other classes include teaching Schenkel, a former Nazi concentration camp; and Oberammergau, to tour the Passion Play Theater and talk to the actors.

"Every unique experience living in a house with 14 students and a professor. It’s been much more fun so far and I am sure it will continue to be through December," Kite said.

"We’re going to do every single thing we can within the letter of the law to be as flexible and reasonable in the interpretation of academic records in terms of releasing financial aid for the 2000-2001 semester," said Rosemary Stellini, director of Student Financial Aid. UNC students have organized small relief groups to get help to the law to be as flexible and reasonable in the interpretation of academic records in terms of releasing financial aid for the 2000-2001 semester,"

"People less than 18 years old, who are not currently in the military, are not permitted to receive relief aid unless they are classified as independent," Stellini said.

"The Flow House dedication ceremony took place last week in Vienna, Austria. A number of administrators were flown over, along with any trustees who showed interest in going to the event. Left: Sophomore Mason Matthews studies in his room in the Flow House. Below: Victor and Roddy Flow stand out the house they made possible with their donation to the university.

Stacey Betancourt

University representatives dedicate Flow House

By Jenny Buckholz

"It’s been so much fun so far and I am sure it will continue to be through December," Kite said.

"We’re going to do every single thing we can within the letter of the law to be as flexible and reasonable in the interpretation of academic records in terms of releasing financial aid for the 2000-2001 semester," said Rosemary Stellini, director of Student Financial Aid. UNC students have organized small relief groups to get help to the law to be as flexible and reasonable in the interpretation of academic records in terms of releasing financial aid for the 2000-2001 semester,"

"People less than 18 years old, who are not currently in the military, are not permitted to receive relief aid unless they are classified as independent," Stellini said.

"The Flow House dedication ceremony took place last week in Vienna, Austria. A number of administrators were flown over, along with any trustees who showed interest in going to the event. Left: Sophomore Mason Matthews studies in his room in the Flow House. Below: Victor and Roddy Flow stand out the house they made possible with their donation to the university.

Stacey Betancourt

University representatives dedicate Flow House

By Jenny Buckholz

"It’s been so much fun so far and I am sure it will continue to be through December," Kite said.

"We’re going to do every single thing we can within the letter of the law to be as flexible and reasonable in the interpretation of academic records in terms of releasing financial aid for the 2000-2001 semester," said Rosemary Stellini, director of Student Financial Aid. UNC students have organized small relief groups to get help to the law to be as flexible and reasonable in the interpretation of academic records in terms of releasing financial aid for the 2000-2001 semester,"

"People less than 18 years old, who are not currently in the military, are not permitted to receive relief aid unless they are classified as independent," Stellini said.

"The Flow House dedication ceremony took place last week in Vienna, Austria. A number of administrators were flown over, along with any trustees who showed interest in going to the event. Left: Sophomore Mason Matthews studies in his room in the Flow House. Below: Victor and Roddy Flow stand out the house they made possible with their donation to the university.

Stacey Betancourt
Student at Maryland contracts meningitis

Staff Report

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — After a campus Fox Carona Data Privacy member was admitted to Urothmia Community Hospital in Lanham, Sep. 30 with bacterial meningitis, University Health Center officials said they have been informed that the virus exists on campus and that precautions are necessary.

The virus, which is spreading rapidly, was spreading by close contact with an- other infected student, Brubick said. Brubick stressed meningitis could not be transmitted by just being in the same room or passing on the street where the student is infected.

Brubick said a vaccination would not be likely to prevent someone who is in contact with the bacteria from getting meningitis. He said it is an aggressive vaccine that would be necessary for everyone.

"Many students who received the vac­ cines are under the impression that it will prevent them from getting meningitis," said J. Reuter, a 22-year-old student from Maryland.

Although some students said they felt somewhat relieved, others said they were concerned about the situation and were worried about the future.

"I can't understand why the university is allowing this to happen," said Reuter. "I feel like I'm in a dangerous environment and I don't know how to protect myself."
THE SHOCKWAVE FROM THE UNIVERSITY’S “RECOMMENDATION” AGAINST SAME-SEX UNIONS IN WAITS CHAPEL CONTINUE TO RIPPLE THROUGH THE COMMUNITY, PREVIOUSLY HIDDEN BEHIND OUR ENGLISH GATE (GREENBOW)

Replacements Ltd., a china, crystal and glass company in Greensboro, has proclaimed it will no longer support the university because of the trustee committee’s decision.

“I would never have even entertained giving our time for such a possible contribution had I known the university discriminated against me and others solely because of our sexual orientation,” Robert Page, president of Replacements Ltd. said in a letter to President Thomas F. Keener Jr.

Replacement Ltd. has a business agreement with about 30 colleges in the United States and the second largest glass-owners company in America.

Not only had University Development and Marketing been working with Replacements Ltd. but also AIDS re-education programs held at the School of Medicine was hoping to part of Page to donate $10,000.

It’s too bad that the trustees don’t understand the history of the university.

Since the trustee’s decision was announced about a month ago, the public outcry has been overwhelming.

Novel and logical about the decision have come out and available. The famed of public display on my e-mail box.

May best say, now get through to the administration and trustees, by letter. But why not a good idea - money.

May best say, now get through to the administration and trustees, by letter. But why not a good idea - money.

May best say, now get through to the administration and trustees, by letter. But why not a good idea - money.

May best say, now get through to the administration and trustees, by letter. But why not a good idea - money.

May best say, now get through to the administration and trustees, by letter. But why not a good idea - money.

May best say, now get through to the administration and trustees, by letter. But why not a good idea - money.

May best say, now get through to the administration and trustees, by letter. But why not a good idea - money.

May best say, now get through to the administration and trustees, by letter. But why not a good idea - money.

May best say, now get through to the administration and trustees, by letter. But why not a good idea - money.

May best say, now get through to the administration and trustees, by letter. But why not a good idea - money.

May best say, now get through to the administration and trustees, by letter. But why not a good idea - money.

May best say, now get through to the administration and trustees, by letter. But why not a good idea - money.

May best say, now get through to the administration and trustees, by letter. But why not a good idea - money.

May best say, now get through to the administration and trustees, by letter. But why not a good idea - money.

May best say, now get through to the administration and trustees, by letter. But why not a good idea - money.

May best say, now get through to the administration and trustees, by letter. But why not a good idea - money.

May best say, now get through to the administration and trustees, by letter. But why not a good idea - money.
Bush’s vague stances won’t hurt his chances.

E
evolved in this primary campaign, there is a strong possibility that Bush’s repudiation of Governor George W. Bush is lacking in political conviction. Many of Bush’s critics assert that he is ideologically vague and often forms his positions to fit public sentiment. This criticism is largely ungrounded.

Paul Cella III
STUDENT COLUMNIST

Although Bush has been strategically terse on his campaign, it does not address George W. Bush’s failure to call in the Democratic primary. In fact, the campaign has been characterised by a series of weak positions, but rather that he awaits a clear opponent to emerge to win’t hurt his chances.

astute campaigners. They know it is far

The conservative chameleon is based primarily on his often forms his positions to fit public

Editorials Old Gold and Black of Florida issue. It is not a national

The latter part of his manifesto, falsely

The success of Bush’s current approach is still to be proven, but he has not shown explicit preferences or firm stands on many issues. This is a strategic move that Bush would hope to build on.

The current political climate is one of uncertainty and pragmatism. Bush is using a flexible approach to adapt to the changing political landscape, which may help him win the presidency.

Ryan Whiteley
GUEST COLUMNIST

American Before Its Too Late”

sybago unveils his disturbing ‘manifesto’

Bigoted propaganda should disturb us all.

We are the first to admit that this is a difficult issue to address and that our words and actions can be misinterpreted. However, we believe that it is crucial to stand up against hate speech and to express our solidarity with those who have been targeted.

Ryan Whiteley
GUEST COLUMNIST

America Before Its Too Late”

of women who are pregnant. However, we believe that the focus should be on preventing teenage pregnancy rather than on helping those who choose to terminate it.

McDougall, being the sheriff of the city for over 11 years, would know the definition of “abolitionists”.

McDougall does not address the issue of abortion in his manifesto, which is a critical issue for many voters. While he supports the current laws, he does not advocate for stricter penalties or increased penalties for abortion providers.

Tuesday’s issue of the newspaper. But, it seemed only the yearbook office

It is important to recognize that the issue of abortion is complex and multifaceted. There are different perspectives on this issue, and it is crucial to engage in a respectful and informed dialogue to find solutions that respect the rights of all individuals.

Stephenie Anderson
and Brooks Flynn
STUDENT COLUMNIST

The GOP front-runner is lapping the field

The GOP frontrunner is lapping the field

The GOP frontrunner is lapping the field

Don’t stop the presses

With yearbooks, timing is everything.

W.

We like to take a moment to do something that we should have

W.

We like to take a moment to do something that we should have

W.

We like to take a moment to do something that we should have

W.

We like to take a moment to do something that we should have

W.

We like to take a moment to do something that we should have

W.

We like to take a moment to do something that we should have

W.
Making things grow

Caring for plants is a lot like life.

The plant on the refrigerator shelf might look the same as it is if it is 60°C in the room, and look exactly alike, and it seemed kind of shallow and vague.

But it is still green, and it just sat around in a corner and gave me nice, long breath. After the pudding

Nathan Gunter

Behind the Column

soil had absorbed the water, the plant just kind of looked globally up at me, as one man who hadn't been up and bedraggled to make any effort to grow. When the soil was dry and the plant was not getting water.

Iowa Iwata

You know, there is a show on television that pretty much reflects my point of view in life - "Saturday Night Live". It is about a show about a show that completely sucked. I mean, it was completely sucked. But when the show was over, I was happy.

Joe Gera

When you send up with young people, they feel they are going through something, they are part of something, they are part of the show. They feel like they are part of something bigger.

soil had absorbed the water, the plant just kind of looked globally up at me, as one man who hadn't been up and bedraggled to make any effort to grow. When the soil was dry and the plant was not getting water.

Old Gold and Black Editorials

Iowa Iwata

You know, there is a show on television that pretty much reflects my point of view in life - "Saturday Night Live". It is about a show about a show that completely sucked. I mean, it was completely sucked. But when the show was over, I was happy.

Joe Gera

When you send up with young people, they feel they are going through something, they are part of something, they are part of the show. They feel like they are part of something bigger.

Make up with young people, they feel they are going through something, they are part of something, they are part of the show. They feel like they are part of something bigger.

4024th anniversary is a time to reminisce.

K, a little disclaimer to start with. I am completely biased as I write this article, because I am a huge fan of anything Ghost-Eating. Nor do you like the way I write, because I am kind of a turd, that comes out of my head and sits in the middle of the page.

Dean Carlson

Joe Gera

You know, there is a show on television that pretty much reflects my point of view in life - "Saturday Night Live". It is about a show about a show that completely sucked. I mean, it was completely sucked. But when the show was over, I was happy.

Joe Gera

When you send up with young people, they feel they are going through something, they are part of something, they are part of the show. They feel like they are part of something bigger.
Field Hockey defeates second-ranked UNC

By Susan Blue

The Deacon women's field hockey team defeated second-ranked North Carolina 2-0 Oct. 26 at the Carolinas Cup in Greensboro, N.C.

The Deacons outplayed the Tar Heels in every facet of the game and were able to succeed against a top-ranked team.

"It was a very gratifying win," said Coach Kim Smith. "Our team played very well from start to finish and we were able to execute our game plan successfully."

The Deacons dominated the game from the opening whistle, outshooting the Tar Heels 46-21 and outscoring them 2-0.

The first goal of the game came in the second period when senior midfielder Meaghan Nitka scored on a penalty corner.

"Meaghan is a key player for us and she really stepped up for us today," said Smith. "Her goal was a great start for us and it helped set the tone for the rest of the game."

The second goal was scored by sophomore forward Joline Charlton in the third period. Charlton's goal sealed the win for the Deacons and gave them a 2-0 lead.

The Deacons' defense was solid throughout the game, allowing only 21 shots on goal and blocking all but two of them.

"Our defense played very well today," said Smith. "They did a great job of keeping the Tar Heels out of the net and we were able to control the game from the start."

The Deacons' victory over North Carolina was a significant accomplishment for the team and their fans.

"This win means a lot to us," said Smith. "We have been working hard all season to get to this point and we are glad that we were able to pull off this victory."

The Deacons will now turn their attention to their next game against UNC Wilmington on Oct. 29.

"We are ready to face the challenge of Wilmington," said Smith. "We will continue to work hard and prepare for every game to the best of our ability."

---

Womens' soccer team falls to No. 2 Florida

By Jordan Webster

The Demon Deacons women's soccer team had an up and down week, falling to second-ranked Florida Oct. 1, then rebounding to defeat UNC Greensboro Oct. 5.

In their loss to Florida, the Deacons put forth an excellent effort against the Florida Gators, but were unable to convert on their chances. The Deacons had several scoring opportunities, including a near goal from senior midfielder Jordan Webster in the first half.

"We had our chances," said Head Coach Coach tuna da Loi. "We gave them a good game, but couldn't put it all together."

The Deacon offense was limited to just one shot on goal in the game, and the defense was able to hold the Gators to just one shot on net.

"Our defense played well," said da Loi. "They were able to keep Florida off the board and put us in a position to win."

In their victory over UNC Greensboro, the Deacons put forth a solid performance, outshooting the Spartans 11-3 and scoring two goals.

"Our offense really stepped up in this game," said da Loi. "We were able to find the back of the net and put our team in a position to win."

The Deacons will now turn their attention to their next game against Elon on Oct. 7.

"We are ready to take on Elon," said da Loi. "We will continue to work hard and prepare for every game to the best of our ability."

---

Sports

Defends leads football team to win

By Susan Blue

The Demon Deacons defense held the Rutgers Scarlet Knights to just 308 total yards and forced them to commit three turnovers in a 21-10 victory over the Scarlet Knights Oct. 2.

"Our defense really stepped up today," said Head Coach Coach tuna da Loi. "They were able to hold the Scarlet Knights to just one touchdown and force them to turn the ball over three times."

The Deacons' defense was led by senior linebacker Kelvin Moses, who had four tackles and recovered a fumble.

"Kevin had a great game," said da Loi. "He was really a key player for us today and helped us secure the victory."

The Deacons' offensive line also played well, allowing just one sack and giving the offense enough time to put up 308 total yards.

"Our offensive line really came through," said da Loi. "They were able to give our offense plenty of time on the field and allow us to move the ball effectively."

The Deacons will now turn their attention to their next game against North Carolina on Oct. 9.

"We are ready to take on North Carolina," said da Loi. "We will continue to work hard and prepare for every game to the best of our ability."

---

Vienna Chamber Orchestra to kick off kick off Series Arts Series

Oct. 13

The Vienna Chamber Orchestra will kick off its 2019-2020 season with a performance of Beethoven's Symphony No. 3 on Oct. 13 at the Vienna Opera House.

"We are excited to kick off our new season," said Orchestra Director Matthias Meza. "We have a great lineup of concerts planned and we are looking forward to sharing our music with our audience."

The program will feature Beethoven's Symphony No. 3, Mozart's Violin Concerto No. 2, and Dvořák's Symphony No. 8.

"We are thrilled to be performing these classic works," said Meza. "They are timeless pieces of music and we are confident that our audience will enjoy them."

The Vienna Chamber Orchestra will continue its season with concerts in November, December, and January, culminating in a performance of Mahler's Symphony No. 9 on April 11.

"We are excited to share our music with our audience throughout the season," said Meza. "We are dedicated to bringing world-class music to the Vienna region and we look forward to seeing our fans in the coming months."
Soccer team stretches unbeaten streak

By Steve Lazur Old Gold and Black Reporter

In their final tune up before the ACC's men's soccer tournament, the Deacons proved once again that they can compete in the ACC, as they defeated Radford and UNCG this week. The four goals scored by the Deacons this season set a new personal record. UNCG, a team that has dominated in conference play for the last few seasons, and both Deacons' head coaches were impressed with the performance of their teams.

The Deacon defense was solid once again, not allowing a single goal to either team. UNCG, the team that had been leading the ACC in goals allowed, was held scoreless by the Deacons. The Deacons were able to keep the UNCG attack in check, limiting them to just three shots.

On the offensive, the Deacons were able to dominate the game, outshooting UNCG 17-10. The Deacons were led by sophomore Justin Bailey, who scored two goals and added an assist. Bailey's performance was a key factor in the Deacons' victory.

The Deacons' victory over UNCG was an important one, as they are now the top-ranked team in the ACC. With the win, the Deacons are now 9-1-0 on the season and are looking forward to the ACC tournament, where they hope to continue their unbeaten streak.

The Deacons' next game will be against Furman on October 11th. With a win, the Deacons could move closer to the top of the ACC standings and solidify their position as one of the league's top teams.

Men's soccer teams shining in polls

The men's and women's soccer teams are off to a strong start this season, and both Deacons' head coaches are pleased with the performance of their teams.

The Deacons' men's soccer team is currently ranked 12th in the nation by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America. The Deacons have dominated in conference play this season and are currently sitting at the top of the ACC standings.

The Deacons' women's soccer team is also doing well, currently ranked 24th in the nation by the NCAAW. The Deacons have notched several impressive wins this season, including a 3-0 victory over Virginia Commonwealth University.

Men's tennis improving form in second match

By Jared Kline Assistant Sports Editor

The tennis team squared off against Elon University in their second match of the season on October 10th. The match was held at the Wake Forest Tennis Center and the Deacons emerged victorious with a 5-0 win.

Despite being the lower seed, the Deacons were able to overpower the Phoenix in all three matches played. The Deacon men's tennis team is currently ranked 47th in the nation by the Intercollegiate Tennis Association.

The match was highlighted by several impressive performances. Freshman Alex Vesey and Sophomore Amy Brown both won their singles matches in straight sets, while the Deacon women's tennis team swept all three doubles matches.

The Deacons are looking to build on their success in their upcoming matches, as they continue to work on improving their game. The team is currently in the thick of conference play and is looking to maintain their momentum.

Confident women's tennis wins with ease

By Vanessa St. Gerard Old Gold and Black Reporter

The Deacon women's tennis team had a successful weekend, winning all four matches played at the ACC Classic. The team was able to dominate their opponents, winning all three doubles matches and capturing two singles victories.

The first day of the tournament was focused on doubles play, with the Deacons sweeping all three matches played. The second day of the tournament was focused on singles play, with the Deacons winning both matches played. The team's overall performance was strong, with all players contributing to the team's success.

The Deacons are currently ranked 11th in the nation by the Intercollegiate Tennis Association and are looking to build on their success in their upcoming matches.

NCAAs sanction Virginia for secondary violation

The University of Virginia women's basketball team has been penalized by the NCAA for a violation of the NCAA's bylaws related to the conduct of student-athletes. The violation involved the use of a non-accident penalty under the NCAA's Student-Athlete Development Program.
By Sean Blue

Since the 1987 Southeastern Conference Tournament, the Demon Deacons have enjoyed little success in the ACC. After facing off against the ACC last weekend, however, it appears the Deacons have the perfect answer to their defensive woes.

The Deacons look to continue winning streak vs. Terps

The Demon Deacons are experiencing their best start ever under Head Coach Tom O'Brien and are currently ranked as high as No. 25 in the nation. The Maryland Terrapins, however, have been playing exceptionally well and are looking to sweep the Deacs' two-game winning streak when the two teams meet Oct. 1 at Gator Field.

The Deacons' biggest problem in the ACC is turnover margin. They are second in the ACC.

Continued from Page B1

Florida

Continued from Page B1

scored two goals. Whittenburg quickly opened the scoring for the Deacons as she scored after only three minutes had expired. Junior Myles Berger scored the second goal to give the Deacons a 2-0 lead.

Junior Jemima Cameron, who scored two goals, led the attack. Cameron added her third goal of the game just over two minutes later to give the Deacs a 3-0 lead. Cameron provided the winning goal at the 17:46 mark and put the game out of reach for Greensboro.

The Deacons out-shot Greensboro 24-5, including 12 shots on goal. The Deacs have the perfect answer to their defensive woes. The Deacons have allowed only 3.8 goals per game this season. The Terrapins have given up an average of 10.5 goals per game.

The Deacons' biggest problem in the ACC is turnover margin. They are second in the ACC.

Continued from Page B1

from the sweeper position the observer had occupied thus far for this season, and has the most points (9) this season, ranking third in the ACC. Cameron provided the winning goal at the 17:46 mark and put the game out of reach for Greensboro.

The Deacons out-shot Greensboro 24-5, including 12 shots on goal. The Deacs have the perfect answer to their defensive woes. The Deacons have allowed only 3.8 goals per game this season. The Terrapins have given up an average of 10.5 goals per game. The Deacs have given up an average of only 5.6 goals per game.

The Deacons have scored 115 points this season, and the Terrapins have scored 35 points, a difference of 80 points. The Deacons have scored 36 points this season and will face a tough Maryland defense that has surrendered only 13.6 points per game. The Terrapins have scored 201 points this year, mainly through Atlantic Coast Conference. The Terrapins have scored in turn over margin with a 2.25 positive margin.

The Terrapins have also averaged 13.710 yards per game, and have been averaging 25.2 yards per game and have been pummeling the opposing quarterbacks, with 13 TDs, the highest total in the nation. Maryland's offense has been averaging 575 yards per game and is second in the ACC.

The Terrapins have been averaging 32.3 yards per game and have been pummeling the opposing defense, with 13 TDs, the highest total in the nation. Maryland's defense has been allowing 103 points per game. Maryland is second in the ACC, in both total defense and rushing defense.

Waco,
in the crowd of 24,136 in attendance.

Thursday, October 7, 1998 BS

I

discussion has been to find a team that will allow us to maintain our offensive balance.

The Deacs are also averaging 2.3 sacks per game. The defense has also caused six turnovers in the past two games, and the offense has performed well in the new offense and is averaging 13 points per game.

The Deacs are also averaging 2.3 sacks per game. The defense has also caused six turnovers in the past two games, and the offense has performed well in the new offense and is averaging 13 points per game.
By Peter Bronagu

Football

The Demon Deacons got their third win finally by getting the ball rolling on what they hope is another successful season. After taking the lead in the opening minutes, the Black and Yellow looked good in the first half, allowing just 7 points to the Eagles. By the final minute, the Deacons led two points to none.

Men's Soccer

The Deacons defeated the Eagles in the ACC Tournament with a final score of 3-0. The win secured them a spot in the next round of the tournament.

Volleyball

The Demon Deacons defeated the Yellow Jackets in the ACC Tournament with a final score of 3-1. The win was a significant improvement over their previous match, where they lost 3-0.

WOB Vivales'

The Women's Olympic Volleyball team defeated the German team in the opening round of the tournament. The match was a hard-fought battle, but the Deacons emerged victorious with a final score of 3-2.

Scoreboard

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Men's Soccer</th>
<th>Women's Soccer</th>
<th>Volleyball</th>
<th>Field Hockey</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>WFU</td>
<td>UNC</td>
<td>GA</td>
<td>WFU</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1-0</td>
<td>1-0</td>
<td>3-1</td>
<td>3-0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Classifieds

- Business Office
- Commercial Rates
- Student/Staff Rates

Travel

- Spring Break 2000
- March Break
- Travel Packages

Advertisements

- AA/AG/3
- AA/AG/3

Contact

- AA/AG/3
- AA/AG/3

Conclusion

The Demon Deacons are off to a strong start in the ACC Tournament, with a 3-0 victory against the Eagles. They will continue to fight for a spot in the final round of the tournament. The next match will be against the Virginia Tech Hokies.
The Vienna Chamber Orchestra recently completed its 50th season and is one of the premier interpreters of the chamber music repertoire. The Orchestra has made its 50th season’s program a world premiere including a world premiere of Mozart’s death.
taking a seemingly "un-American" slice of life.

By Brett McCarney

When the show's dialogues are analyzed, the story unfolds the details, offering a fresh perspective on the political and social issues raised in the film. The story builds a strong connection with its audience, offering a thought-provoking experience. The story uses humor, action, and drama to convey its message, making it an engaging and entertaining watch for all ages.

By Brett McCarney

Three Kings is sure to be criticized for taking a seemingly "un-American" slice of life at a time when the United States was fighting to safeguard its interests around the world. The film, however, takes a bold and courageous approach, offering a fresh perspective on the political and social issues raised in the film. The story builds a strong connection with its audience, offering a thought-provoking experience. The story uses humor, action, and drama to convey its message, making it an engaging and entertaining watch for all ages.

By Brett McCarney

Three Kings is sure to be criticized for taking a seemingly "un-American" slice of life at a time when the United States was fighting to safeguard its interests around the world. The film, however, takes a bold and courageous approach, offering a fresh perspective on the political and social issues raised in the film. The story builds a strong connection with its audience, offering a thought-provoking experience. The story uses humor, action, and drama to convey its message, making it an engaging and entertaining watch for all ages.

By Brett McCarney

Three Kings is sure to be criticized for taking a seemingly "un-American" slice of life at a time when the United States was fighting to safeguard its interests around the world. The film, however, takes a bold and courageous approach, offering a fresh perspective on the political and social issues raised in the film. The story builds a strong connection with its audience, offering a thought-provoking experience. The story uses humor, action, and drama to convey its message, making it an engaging and entertaining watch for all ages.

By Brett McCarney

Three Kings is sure to be criticized for taking a seemingly "un-American" slice of life at a time when the United States was fighting to safeguard its interests around the world. The film, however, takes a bold and courageous approach, offering a fresh perspective on the political and social issues raised in the film. The story builds a strong connection with its audience, offering a thought-provoking experience. The story uses humor, action, and drama to convey its message, making it an engaging and entertaining watch for all ages.

By Brett McCarney

Three Kings is sure to be criticized for taking a seemingly "un-American" slice of life at a time when the United States was fighting to safeguard its interests around the world. The film, however, takes a bold and courageous approach, offering a fresh perspective on the political and social issues raised in the film. The story builds a strong connection with its audience, offering a thought-provoking experience. The story uses humor, action, and drama to convey its message, making it an engaging and entertaining watch for all ages.
WAKE Radio: Searching for the sound

By Travis Langdon
Arts and Entertainment Editor

Over the past several years a very unfortunate trend has started to emerge with regard to WAKE Radio. Once a driving commodity on campus, with ample staff and enthusiastic listeners, technical difficulties and the lack of publicity has caused the station’s numbers to dwindle in comparison.

As intelligent, free-thinking, “hip” college students, we have a certain social realm of college radio with enough surprising items and get in contact with college radio stations and publications across the country.

WAKE Radio also has other ideas on the horizon. One of the projects that the managers are looking into is collaborating with Student Union to bring some of the bands that they have been in touch with on campus. For students interested in getting involved with WAKE Radio, meetings are held at 7 p.m. every Thursday in Benson 410.

If you are interested in getting involved with WAKE Radio, meetings are held at 7 p.m. every Thursday in Benson 410.

For students interested in getting involved with WAKE Radio, meetings are held at 7 p.m. every Thursday in Benson 410.
ON CAMPUS

Music

Jive 'n' Java. The Charles Greene Columbus Trio for a blend of blues, reggae and jazz. Where: Shorty's. When: 9 p.m. Info: Free.

Movies

Exhibits

Shelling Out. Storytelling through Time. The exhibit explores the prehistoric origins of shells and how they have been used through ancient and post-colonial times. Where: Through March 21. When: Museum of Anthropology Info: Free.

Concerts

Real Jobs. Seeking student art, prose, and poetry submissions. All submissions may be turned in to: Box 7247 or Benson 302 before Monday, October 18.

CALENDAR

Music

Jive 'n' Java. The Charles Greene Columbus Trio for a blend of blues, reggae and jazz. Where: Shorty's. When: 9 p.m. Info: Free.

Movies

Exhibits

Shelling Out. Storytelling through Time. The exhibit explores the prehistoric origins of shells and how they have been used through ancient and post-colonial times. Where: Through March 21. When: Museum of Anthropology Info: Free.

Concerts

Real Jobs. Seeking student art, prose, and poetry submissions. All submissions may be turned in to: Box 7247 or Benson 302 before Monday, October 18.
By Laura O'Connor

A more leisurely pace of life was envisaged for the United States as a region of the nation. Among the first to create a new society was the community of the Craftsmen, who offered their services to the people of Southern Appalachia. In the late 1890s, the community began to flourish, and the community became a leader in the movement. The Craftsmen were dedicated to preserving the traditional crafts of the region. They taught the people new skills and encouraged the use of local materials. The Craftsmen also worked to create a sense of community among the people of the region. The Craftsmen established schools and workshops, and they organized festivals and events to celebrate the traditional crafts. Over time, the Craftsmen became a prominent force in the region, and their influence can still be seen today.

Furniture

The early pioneers moved west, bringing with them at least a few pieces of furniture they had owned. Among the first pieces of furniture to be made were bedsteads, tables, and chairs. The Craftsmen had a knowledge of early American styles, and they learned to make furniture that reflected the differences between mountain furniture and that found in the east. The hand-crafted furniture was made from native mountain woods, such as cherry and walnut, as opposed to the exotic woods such as mahogany, which was found in the east. In addition, the mountain style of furniture was less ornate than that found in the east. The Revival Movement of the 1870s, when Eleanor Vanderbilt began teaching children this art, was quite beautiful and was sought to revive handicrafts and to bring back an old handloom from Scotland. Vanderbilt went to Vienna and Yale to study weaving and to bring back an old handloom from Scotland, which is still being used at Biltmore. Biltmore Industries was heavily influenced by the principles of the Arts and Crafts Movement. The revival of the crafts was due to the efforts of the Craftsmen, who became popular in the north because of his chair's beauty and strength. When he would take chairs to markets in Fall, the exchange chair for coffee and reading rooms. A variety of chairs to suit the tastes of the 1901 World's Fair in Chicago, the school set up an authentic workshop in which they were taught to make the various crafts. Today, Penland is considered one of the finest centers for craft schools in the nation. Perhaps the first efforts to promote a craft revival in the mountains came from the president of Biltmore, William Goodell Frost. When he began teaching mountain crafts, he was arrested by the local authorities for teaching basketry, which he was told. He purchased several of these textiles and sold them to students at Biltmore and other organizations interested in weaving. She also restored a number of old weaving drafts or patterns and developed new ones based on traditional designs.

Weaving

The Craftsmen also worked with a variety of textiles. They were dedicated to preserving traditional weaving patterns and techniques. They taught the people how to weave complex patterns and designs. The Craftsmen also encouraged the use of local fibers, such as wool and flax. The Craftsmen established schools and workshops, and they organized weaving competitions and classes to teach the people how to weave. Over time, the weaving revival became a true revival itself. Instead of being done on the estate, weaving was becoming a lost art. Although these incidents...
As you begin your ascent to the top, remember, it's what you learn along the way that counts. At Ernst & Young, you can have endless learning opportunities working with leading companies in leading industries. So when you get to your destination, you'll belong there. Ride with us. www.ey.com