Arrington's Triple and a Wild Thrown Give Wake Forest's Only Point

The famous Serrell of high school days broke into giggles last Monday afternoon when he witnessed the exhibition game against Trinity in the gymnasium. Although he was the hero of his time, he said heime to more than me and thought he made the reason for his success in high school.

Wake Forest Men Went to Washington National Conference

The College and University Student's Conference held at Washington, D.C., with its beautiful gallery of observation of law and citizenship, has a place among the most important in the South. The Wake Forest Law School and College of Business Administration were represented by twenty-five conference delegates. These delegates were selected by the President of Wake Forest, the president of the college, and from the students of the law school and college.

The conference was held at the National Statonary Hotel, a beautiful hotel situated on the west side of the city. The meeting was opened on the evening of Friday, June 25, by the President of the College, the Chancellor of the College and the President of the Law School.

The purpose of the conference is to bring together students from all parts of the country to discuss and exchange ideas on various topics of interest to college students. The conference provides an opportunity for students to meet and learn from each other, as well as to participate in a variety of activities and events. This year's conference was particularly significant, as it marked the sesquicentennial of the founding of Wake Forest University.

Phi Kappa Beta

The National Honor Society of Phi Kappa Beta was present at the conference, along with many other organizations and groups. The society was established in 1895 and is one of the oldest and most prestigious honor societies in the United States. Its members are selected based on academic achievement and leadership qualities, and it provides opportunities for students to engage in service and community involvement.

Wilber Easton Goes to Honor of Phi Kappa Beta at Mary Mason last Thursday

A visitor from the University of North Carolina was present at the conference, along with many other attendees from various colleges and universities across the country. The visitor expressed his appreciation for the opportunity to attend the conference and learn from other students.

Associated Press Correspondent Talks

A correspondent from the Associated Press was present at the conference, along with many other media representatives. The correspondent discussed the role of the media in shaping public opinion and the importance of accurate and impartial reporting.

In the midst of every serious thinking college man there arises a question, "What shall I do to do after graduation?" This question presents a problem, one that is too large for the special reader of this year's conference. It is impossible for the special reader to answer the question. The only answer is that the special reader of this year's conference must make his own decision. The special reader must decide—most of which are in the hands of the student—what to do after graduation. The special reader must build up his own career.

In an unusual degree the Life Insurance business stands the opportunity for successful teaching and for real social service. Here is the business of an insurance company and the opportunity of a skillful student. Write us on the subject. We are interested.
