Frankfest raises $2,000 for Piccolo cancer fund

By Rob Sinnes
Executive Editor

Frankfest, an annual benefit sponsored by the Wake Forest Baptist Medical Center, raised $2,000 for the Brian Piccolo Fund.

The event was held from 4:30 to 6 p.m. on Friday at Reynolds Garden and featured bands with duets (the "strings" of Piccolo), beer, sandwiches and live entertainment by a local rock group.

The event was held at the site of the 2000 Festival of the Arts, which is located on the grounds of the Wake Forest Baptist Medical Center.

The event was sponsored by the Black Student Alliance and the Black Student Alliance, with the proceeds benefiting the Piccolo Fund.

Meroney to face Honor Council on charges of lying during Case Referral panel hearing

By Jen Weisman
Reporter

Judith John Meroney, president of the Black Student Alliance, was charged with lying during a Case Referral panel hearing last May.

The Case Referral panel heard evidence in the case of Meroney and his co-defendant, Brian Piccolo, who were both members of the Black Student Alliance.

The panel found Meroney guilty of lying during the hearing and recommended that he be suspended from the university for one year.

The university's Board of Trustees upheld the panel's decision and suspended Meroney from the university until further notice.

Three weekly false alarms cost $30,000

By Cameron Caves
Asst. News Editor

An average of three false alarms each week cost the university $30,000.

According to Frederick Williams, security director, the university pays $1,500 for each false alarm.

With the university's annual budget for security at $750,000, the cost of false alarms exceeds the budget and forces the university to reallocate funds.

Several football players were involved in a dispute with a man from off campus Saturday night that resulted in calls for Winston-Salem police officers.

During the dispute, car windows were broken with a baseball bat, and police were called to the scene.

Several football players were involved with police, with police who came across the incident.

According to police reports, the dispute involved several football players, including two who were suspended.

A second football player, who was not named, also participated in the dispute.

According to police reports, no one was injured in the dispute.

Mistrial declared during closed pre-trial conference for Critic editor

By Joe Weiman
Senior Staff Writer

The faculty advisor of the Judicial Board declared a mistrial during a closed pre-trial conference for the Critic editor.

The editor in chief of the Critic was charged with disorderly conduct after an incident involving a security officer.

The security officer, who was charged with assault, was dismissed from his position at the university.

The editor in chief, who was charged with disorderly conduct, was released from jail after posting bond.

The incident occurred during a meeting of the Crisis on the university's campus.

The meeting was held at the university's center and was attended by faculty, staff and students.

The meeting was held to discuss the university's response to reports of racial profiling.

The university's Board of Trustees declared a mistrial during the meeting and suspended the editor in chief from his position.

Parking in Groves Stadium lots changed for game

By ANDREA BOWDON

In an attempt to resolve the parking problems caused by the Dixie Classic Fair, the Winston-Salem Fire Department has changed its parking policy for the football game. According to Lt. Jerry Galloway, the associate director of enforcement, all patrons parking in the Groves Stadium lots must register their vehicle with the police department. Galloway said that the parking situation occurred during the week of the football game, and the policy is in effect for one day only. Galloway said that the ticket agents will no longer hold tickets for patrons who do not have a permit. The ticket agents will no longer hold tickets for patrons who do not have a permit.

Worker injured while checking air conditioning

By BYRON SUGARMAN

A physical facilities employee received treatment for injuries sustained Wednesday when a used car seat in the machine room under Reynolds Hall collapsed. The employee, who was working on a machine that is used to check air conditioning in the machine room, said that he was checking the air conditioning unit when the seat fell on him. The seat, which was about four feet above the floor, collapsed. The employee said that he was not wearing a hard hat or any other protective equipment.

According to Assistant Fire Chief Edward Beene, the employee was not wearing a hard hat or any other protective equipment. Beene said that the employee was not wearing a hard hat or any other protective equipment. Beene said that the employee was not wearing a hard hat or any other protective equipment. alarms by burning food, cigarettes or objects down the chimney. Last weekend the Winston-Salem Fire Department responded to three false alarms at Wake Forest. One of the alarms was set off by a student who was burning food in the kitchen. The other two alarms were set off by a student who was burning cigarettes in the dormitory.

Krishna and Shyamala Punni, who are married students at Wake Forest, said that they set the alarms off because they wanted to test the alarm system. They said that they had been told that the alarm system was not working properly.

The university has a policy in place to prevent false alarms. The policy states that students can set off an alarm only if they have a valid reason for doing so. The reason must be approved by the department of public safety. If the alarm is set off without a valid reason, the student will be subject to fines.

In another list entitled "Tuition Trap"—a category of private schools with the highest percentage increase in tuition charges for the last year—Wake Forest ranked 17th, with a 2.7 percent increase.

Sandra Boyette, the vice president for public affairs, said the increase included 2.1 percent increases in instruction and 12 percent in room and board. Boyette said she could not determine whether the increase was due to the school or to the university. Stradley, who represents Wake Forest, said the increase was due to the school. In another list entitled "Best Places to Testify," Boyette would not have been able to testify again because he no longer works for the university. Stradley acted as an advocate for the university's position in the past year—"private information-seeking forms to universities nationwide as a part of the effort to collect information, which is no longer available," Boyette said.

faculty advisor of the Judicial Board declared a second mistrial in Meroney's case Thursday, which resulted in the charges being dropped.

Meroney received notification at the beginning of the semester that he had been expelled from the university for lying about his membership in BSA.

According to Dalton, Meroney tried to gain access to the meeting by claiming he had received an invitation from Stradley to attend.

A memo from Wade had been sent at the information desk in the Benson Center. Dalton said the information was incorrect.

The best known and most popular overseas programs at Wake Forest are the semesters in London and Venice. These programs are unique because of the books owned by the university in those cities.

Students live together in host families and attend classes at the local university. Students pay Wake Forest tuition and an average room cost for a Wake Forest residence hall. Other costs include food, rent, most travel expenses, and other spending money.

Diplomatic staff at the U.S. Embassy in London will conduct interviews, which will be conducted to 30 students. Students will need to have completed their course or audited for three credits. The Institute for European Studies offers an additional fee of $2,000 to $3,000 for a full-time study abroad program.

In this program, students will conduct an excavation on the island of Santorini and then travel to the city of Athens to study Greek language, civilization, and architecture. The program will begin in June and end in late August.

Summer programs are available in the departments of archaeology, art history, classics, and history. Interested students may contact the respective departments for details.

When open trials shut, something is wrong

After months of accusations, counter-accusations and general unrest, at least part of the John梅oney story is in the books.

Faculty advisors for the Judicial Board participated in a very different kind of trial this week, essentially finding the final evidence and the case against BethanyMeroney "inadmissable".

That material was declared "inadmissable" in a closed pre-trial conference held this week.

In a motion filed with the Courts of Law, Meroney has sent two previous court-ordered press conferences asking that the press be allowed in all court proceedings.

Chad Hendricks, the news editor of the Student Newspaper, says that the press was not being allowed to attend any court proceedings until this week.

One of the most important aspects of any court proceeding is that the press has to be present in order to satisfy the public's "right to know".

The trial of Bethany Meroney, a student in the School of Management, is being held at Wake Forest University in the Greene Hall.

We, as students, have a right to be on campus and to be able to attend court proceedings.

Editorial

Open courts do not end with tuition debt

Nothing is in life free. There are fees to be paid, and sometimes there are more than two or three.

The easy price to pay to get into a college or university is your being here that day.

The one who pays for your college education is you.

My point is that landscape projects are expanding construction costs, both for good, both for bad.

The writer's compulsive search for changes in the reactions of people in the university is where Meroney and Stradley say.

If essential motions, such as trial matters, are made such determinations on their own.

The university has not reserved the right to edit, without prior notice.

We are not attempting to sway a community that cannot exist without freedom of speech, which is the right to express ideas and to be able to express ideas.

We have learned to respect this freedom of speech, which is the right to express ideas and to be able to express ideas.

A discussion of the relevance of the student press is one thing, but to accept as actual results of something else.

This meeting was just discussing whether or not the student press is free to make such determinations for the student body, rather than the student body making its own determination.

The Judicial Board is not interested in deciding whether the student press is to be free or not.

That board is intended to provide a mechanism for the student body to have final say.

Before this board, people would have to come to the student body, and then decide whether to accept the results of this board's findings.

A closed pre-trial conference is one way to keep the student body out of the picture, and place the student body in an adverse role.

I am ashamed that the newspaper did not write an opinion regarding the student press in the last week's ball game.

We all need a reminder now and then that the best tool for correcting problems on our own part is our own voice.

For those who are new to campus, and to the student press, the best way to proceed is not to cut the student press.

Perhaps the student press does not always solve problems, but it does allow people to express their opinions and create a forum for discussion.

If essential motions, such as trial matters, are made such determinations on their own.

Operation Kennebunkport Storm: let war work its magic again

Jennifer McAlister
Student Columnist

There was a times when I had a friend who loved war. He was a Marine, and he thought it was the best way to defend our country. But I always wondered how he could be so happy about it. I mean, didn't he understand that war is just a massive waste of resources and human lives? I guess I'll never know, because he was killed in action a few years ago.

But I do know that war is not the answer. We need to find a way to resolve our differences peacefully, without resorting to violence. That's why I support the proposal for a national health care system in the United States. It's time we started thinking about the future, not just the present.

They say that war is just a business, and that the soldiers are just the pawns. But that's a lie. The soldiers are not just pawns, they are real people with families and dreams. They deserve better than to be used as cannon fodder.

The national health care system is a step in the right direction. It will help ensure that all Americans have access to affordable, quality health care. And it will help reduce the number of deaths caused by preventable diseases.

But it's not enough. We need to do more. We need to address the root causes of the problems that lead to war in the first place. We need to work on a global scale to reduce poverty, inequality, and conflict.

The national health care system is just a small part of a larger plan. But it's a good start. And it's something we can be proud of.

I urge everyone to support the national health care system. It's time we started thinking about the future, not just the present.
Statistics show that the where and when of rape is here and now.

A student center female at Wake Forest, who cannot say that she felt the fact that 19 percent of women will be raped in college campuses is leaving a mass of confusion, according to their friend that has to be increased to 35 percent.

The invisibility, the evaluation of sexual violence by the number of dates you get, and the nature and type of information that are present or not. These are many, and it is the responsibility of the university counseling system, although under revision, to determine the basis for this problem.

Women must demand rightzful demand.

A survey conducted by the Student Government's 1980 found that 41 percent of the respondents felt that it was not necessary to have sex in order to get a date. Fifty-one percent of the men said that they would be happy to have intercourse if they could get a date with a rape victim. However, 22 percent of the women refused to have sex with a rape victim. According to the Student Government's 1980 survey, raped women are often so emotionally unavailable that they feel that it is necessary to be disposed of. LEIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22). Monday is your personal new year’s Day. Life will be clearer, but there are a few resolutions. Skip any promises, go for the friends and family meeting Tuesday, but do not make big decisions. Wednesday through Friday, meetings and socializing of any kind are certainly to order.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21). The new moon calls for a close look at desires and ambitions, making sure that your short-term goals are as good as your long-term ones. If you have major issues, it is not as interesting to you, but balanced out with personal and consider a change. On Tuesday, you see your advantages and the South may seem more appealing to you (you know how you talk people into things). On Wednesday, it is a big day for your school experiences (if your major subject is not as fascinating as you had hoped, be adventurous). Thursday is a good time to get off to the right start. Tuesday through Thursday is a good time to give your loyalty. A new moon brings news from long distance, so talk some social doings sector; call an old friend, organize or just meet with yourself and consider a change. On Wednesday, you meet with the one you would like to be close to while the moon is in a starting position for relationships. On Thursday, the moon suggests a certain position for relationships. On Thursday and Friday, use the time to give your loyalty. A new moon triggers responsibilities on Wednesday, and use the time to give your loyalty.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Call or meet with those you would like to be closer to this week. The moon is in a starting position for relationships. On Monday, introductions result from trying to put back off when outnumbered, which is the form of stubbornness. Monday to Wednesday are quite revealing, Wednesdays may be a little tense. Thursday brings a breeze. On Friday, move ahead Thursday; when the moon leaves, you have a tendency to take overly easily.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). On Monday, implement plans for increased efficiency in your profession or study habits and study habits. Any new habit you started to do will be most productive. You are on your own now; this is a chance to make real headway or assignments, fake or real. Your sphere now; weed out your enemies, antisocials and antisocials who are as stubborn and set in their ways as you are.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20). On Tuesday, you have the advantage of moonlight, so take some social doings sector; call an old friend, organize or just meet with yourself and consider a change. On Wednesday, you meet with the one you would like to be close to while the moon is in a starting position for relationships. On Thursday, the moon suggests a certain position for relationships. Soccer team wins ODU/Met Life Classic, stays undefeated

By F. W. H. Baskin

The Wake Forest soccer team captured the championship of the ODU/Met Life Classic here yesterday. The 2-1 win over Old Dominion University, the opener of the tournament, improved the Demon Deacons to 6-3-0 for the season.

The Deacons continued into action today, when they took on Marquette in the title game. The winning goal of the Old Dominion game was scored in the second half by senior forward Allie Leitch. It was her sixth goal of the season.

The game was played in front of a enthusiastic crowd at Wake Forest's Fishy Bowl. Attendance was estimated at 2,500.

Eight players from Wake Forest Academy have committed to play football and basketball for the Demon Deacons next fall.

The athletes, who are all seniors, are:

1. John Smith, wide receiver/defensive back
2. Mark Brown, quarterback/defensive back
3. Brian Davis, running back/defensive end
4. David Peterson, tight end/defensive end
5. Mike Johnson, offensive line/defensive line
6. Jeff Green, defensive line/offensive line
7. Ryan Carter, wide receiver/defensive back
8. Tim Johnson, running back/defensive back

The athletes will play both football and basketball for the Demon Deacons.

Wake Forest cross country teams take second, fifth at Dartmouth

By A. E. T. Baskin

The two Wake Forest cross country teams placed second and fifth respectively at the Dartmouth Classic in Hanover, New Hampshire, on Saturday.

The women's team placed second with 67 points and the men's team finished fifth with 112 points.

The women's team was led by senior Elizabeth Johnson, who placed 6th overall with a time of 24:37. The men's team was led by senior Michael Nowak, who placed 8th overall with a time of 24:43.

Goodrow said that the Demon Deacons' performance was a testament to the hard work and dedication of the athletes. "We are very proud of our athletes," he said. "They worked hard all season to achieve this level of success."
Women's tennis team opens fall season

By CAILEY MEYER

The Wake Forest women's tennis team kicked off the fall season with a 9-0 win over West Virginia Tech on Friday.

This annual tournament marks the beginning of the fall season and gives players an opportunity to gain some match experience.

The tournament included four matches, with each player playing two matches.

The team started off strong by winning the first two matches of the tournament. Then, they moved on to the second round, where they faced off against a more challenging opponent. The team fought hard and emerged victorious, adding to their winning streak.

The team continued their winning ways in the next match, where they faced off against a team that had previously beaten them. The Wake Forest team rallied together and came out on top, showcasing their resilience and determination.

In the final match of the tournament, the team faced one of their toughest opponents yet. However, they did not falter, and instead, they stepped up their game, ultimately securing a win. The team's success in this match was a testament to their hard work and dedication.

The team's overall performance in the tournament was impressive, as they managed to win all four matches they played. This resulted in a perfect 9-0 record, which is a great accomplishment for the team.

The next match for the Wake Forest women's tennis team will be against a strong opponent. However, the team is well-prepared and confident, ready to face whatever challenges come their way.
