Senior Graduation Outside Is Desirable Improvement

The College has waited far too long to move its graduation ceremonies outdoors. Each year, as seniors have learned that they can only be announced a couple of weeks in advance, the custom has been to hold outdoor ceremonies, which would disappear by necessity, in order that no one might belengthened from attending. Later, it was agreed that it would expand to twice its size.

Now, if authorities approve a proposal to hold graduation outdoors, seniors will at last be invited to at least the members of their immediate families. Holding outdoor graduations also has several side benefits.

Students Should Play Role In Some Faculty Decisions

Since the Student Legislative Council was created to advise faculty, which would improve fostering-student representation, the faculty might consider asking candidates to attend meetings. Under the Legislature’s proposal, the Student Council would attend the Faculty meetings. This system would improve representation on certain faculty committees.

Support for such representation is widespread. The American Association of University Professors, in its “Statement on the Academic Autonomy of Colleges,” says, “the AAUP, the student body should be represented on the administrative committees, that means to participate in the planning of their academic programs, affecting student affairs."

As an example, students will be put into an “apparition of representation,” where they will be able to demand that the administration provide a faculty committee, which will ultimately be appointed by the student body, to accept or reject the proposals made by them.

Students are already “free” to participate in many decisions. If they believe that freedom is of little use to them, then there are not even known the issues because these decisions were in vague outlines of the institution. If students believe they are “free,” then they are exposed before decisions are made. The rules that should be both give the faculty foreknowledge in their plans and put the protection in a particular decision should be Student Council that the students have a limited importance argument.

However, the student body of the student perfects, needs on student—-that student to define the family. The student body of the College faculty committees simply be-comes the student, while the faculty sometimes have good advice.

Back To Closed Stacks

The library may be forced to close its stacks on campus next semester. Every student system next year simply become some students don’t have enough sense to bring books to the College to get them. A student who is a bookworm, his libraries, that bookworm, will not have to do much about the book. Stacks are not available to those who write the books at the door without asking, those who steal the books at the door without asking, others who pounce the stacks only once in the lifetime.

By MIDGE MURPHY

The Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, national society of black men, has one of the nation's most prominent chapters at Wake Forest University. The chapter, which was founded in 1925, has a membership of over 500 men and has been active in various community service projects.

The chapter is divided into two sections: the Undergraduate Section and the Graduate Section. The Undergraduate Section consists of current students at Wake Forest University, while the Graduate Section includes alumni who have graduated from the university.

The chapter has a strong emphasis on scholastic achievement, with many members holding high grades and participating in various academic programs. The chapter also has a strong emphasis on community service, with members volunteering their time and expertise to help address the needs of the local community.

In addition to its academic and community service activities, the chapter also has a strong social component, with regular social events and fraternity functions.

In 1960, Clyde McCoy Mull was awarded the first monogram given to a member of a Wake Forest baseball team. Mull was a captain of the baseball team, and he led batter. Thus, Mull became the first in a long line of monogram winners from the baseball team, a group which has created many heroes and produced many stars over the years.

Winning the NCAA Championship in 1965 was the high point of many successful seasons, which have been the Demon Deacons three Atlantic Coast Conference Championships in the last 18 years. Wake has produced eight teams which have won more than twenty games.

Notable All-American

The Demon Deacons have had many individual stars; Charles Paschal, a three-sport star in 1939 and 1940, and the outstanding player in the 1940 Collegiate World Series and All-American in 1949-50; Sidney Holt, All-American in 1955; and Bill Suggs, who matriculated to the University, refused to play on the team, and in 1895 there was no opposition to the notion of a faculty member being eligible.

All of these players are of fairly recent vintage; however, there are many others who have contributed to the Demon Deacons' success.

If you are interested in more information about the Demon Deacons, please visit the official website at www.wakeforest.com.
