Centennial Celebration May Be Held Commencement Week

Pros, Girls and Students to Star in Minstrel Show

Publicized by Wake Forest's Historic Hundred Years is Discussed

That the centennial celebration of the founding of the Wake Forest College be held along with the regular graduation exercises is the recommendation of the school's centennial committee by the faculty members. This recommendation included President Thurman D. Smith, Dr. W. A. DeLano, Dr. C. A. Reid, Mr. W. T. Tipton, who were appointed by the local Parent-Teacher Association. It means that the faculty members have long ago planned a unique program for the Wake Forest hundredth birthday.

The chief reason for the proposed change among educators is that the celebration of the centennial will probably not be completed in one day.

Too often the activities of the celebration are divided and both the centennial celebration and the commencement week are brought into the limelight at the same time. It is planned that the interesting activities of the commencement week be started toward meeting other than those planned.

The weather during the last week of May and first part of June will be more pleasant and far better than the weather during the commencement week.

The celebration now being planned is to continue throughout the month of May.

The celebratory program will be prepared and arranged by the local Parent-Teacher Association.

MRS. A. B. WARD PASSES SUDDENLY

List of College Dues of Heart Attack Tuesday Morning

Mrs. Carolina Virginia Parrish Ward, wife of A. B. Ward, prominent alumnus and a graduate of Wake Forest College, died at 7:30 Tuesday evening of a sudden heart attack in her sleep at her home in Wake Forest.

The funeral was held at 11:30 Wednesday morning in the First Protestant Church by Rev. B. H. McGarvey, pastor, with Mr. W. H. Hardison, minister of the First Baptist Church, and Mr. W. R. Walker of the Methodist Church officiating. Interment was in Cedar Grove Cemetery.

Mrs. Ward was the daughter of William and Ellen Easton, both of whom were graduates of Wake Forest College. She was a member of the Class of 1912. She was graduated in 1918 with the degree of Bachelor of Arts, but had been absent from the campus since 1918, and has since resided there, her home being in the city of Wake Forest.

On May 30, 1933, she joined the Faculty Club, and her former college was the place of her residence.

Surviving her are her husband, two sons, and a granddaughter of William Pickard, of Raleigh, one of the prominent real estate men of the city. Mr. Pickard of Wake Forest College, died at 7:30 Tuesday evening of a sudden heart attack in her sleep at her home in Wake Forest.

If one would read "The Outfits of a Class Defender," Bemister's Magazine, he would probably realize why it is that so many students who are from colleges are not really educated.

There are some students who attend college from homes of wealth, but who are "a very best friend" did. There are students who go to college from homes of poverty, but the home is not bookish but there are still books in them. Then those boys and girls who go to college they don't care anything about reading much. When required to read certain books they grind. Maybe they don't read the books but get some one to tell them about them. Then there is another group who don't like high school so the teacher's "practical" and "successful" and says they themselves. They had been put on a slippery path, and feel that they should be treated as such. In college, not telling that they had grown up and should be treated like adults.

There is no big jump between high school and college. College is high school, high school is college. High school should be "rigorous" in the grades they are prepared for college. Then when they go to college they can and must get more out of the education afforded and upon graduation may go on to an educational man or woman. Colleges are educational institutions, not groups of boys or girls who just want to pass their time away having a lot of fun.

Yet, some of the professors do not give enough special attention to students individually. It is best to have one professor or two free for every man, woman, white child, black child, in a few things rather than half a dozen things.

In a recent issue of the American Magazine of Education, an article by Will Durant, a great philosopher, that student that education is for the student who has an educational field, will lead the nation. Are the professors in his choosing numbers of students or are they too busy or too hard? Are they really teachers or are they educational entrepreneurs.

The students are really necessary for an educational system. True, they don't want to go from home and stay at home but they want to go from school and stay at school.

Are they serious or just have a lot of fun? Are they really teachers or are they educational engineers?
TWO SPEECHES ON PROHIBITION ARE GIVEN IN CHAPEL

Miss Knight, Meredith Student Secretary and Miss Martin, A Student, Speak At Chapel Wednesday

GIVE SOME VITAL FACTS CONCERNING AMENDMENT

Ladies Speak for Junior Phalanx, United Dry Forces of North Carolina; Cards Given Out for Students to Sign

At the chapel period Wednesday the students got a pleasant surprise when Miss Lucille Knight, Student Secretary of North Carolina, and Miss Katherine Martin, a Meredith student, asked the students to sign a petition.

The two speakers came over the United Dry Forces of North Carolina, Miss Knight, speaking on the "Ensure of Participations," said that "Prohibition does not determine participation nor is it necessary. Participation is optional." If you feel participation in the things you see with these cards was taken up as the means to register your mind? We must get it.

The movement for prohibition began a hundred years ago. The law was adapted. "Since 1919 these have established themselves.

Miss Knight and that "wearing our battle against repeal throughout '09 may not be a minor event but a struggle and just as valuable. In conclusion Miss Knight said: "We may not be able to do much personally or governmentally but each has a life to live, so road in the fight, a stand to take, and a chance to participate. The cause of national prohibition is real and is worthy. It challenges all patriotic citizens to rally to its standard.

Miss Martin gave us some thoughts on "How will prohibition affect you?" "We know," she said, "that alcohol does good to the human body, but of what is best for us. Will the repeal of the eighteenth amendment help us? to have the doing buttons. As we young people are searching for high ideals. Prohibition is a battle for the young, a battle for high ideals, and a battle for the interest of young America.

Miss Knight left a thought, in almost the time she said: "Our fathers were a little worse than we. But it remained. Prohibition is, and we wish it at least. But we never mind delayed, up again—there is victory for us.

As the students assembled for the exercises cards were given out for those who wish to sign that they stand for the movement and its principles.

The movement for prohibition began a hundred years ago. The law was adapted. "Since 1919 these have established themselves.

Professional Schools Are Stricter in Requirements

"Good Old Days" When Students Could Drift Along in Medicine and Law Are Past

25% of LAW APPLICANTS TURNED DOWN THIS YEAR

In Medical School Number of Students Limited to Thirty. Each of First and Second Years; Several Requirements for Admission to Professional Schools.

The "good old days" when a student could drift along in the study of preparatory medicine required by the Medical School are definitely and decisively becoming days of the past. The Medical School of Wake Forest College, with strict requirements and rules in every part of the educational work of the student, is looking to the future with assurance and pride.

It is said that Doctor Riggs is strict in the mind of all Wake Forest students. This is true of the general requirements for admission to the schools. This is true of the very strict requirements of the L. A. R. Institute.

A student must complete the regular B. A. work to enter law. Requirements are far more severe than the regular B. A. work to enter law.
