Carter urges more attention to human rights

By SCOTT CAPITORE

Volume 68, No. 22
Wake Forest University, Winston-Salem, N.C.
February 22, 1985

Carter promotes prudence in foreign policy

By JIM RYKER

An era in which the United States has been leading in setting foreign policy goals is ending, and a new era is beginning. This is the conclusion of a white paper on foreign policy that has been prepared by the National绒, for the US government. The paper is titled "Principles of Foreign Policy." It is a reexamination of the principles previously expressed by the United States in the 1940s and 1950s, and it is intended to be a guide for future foreign policy.

Tarlov's three basic principles are as follows: (1) The United States should not seek to dominate or control the affairs of other nations. (2) The United States should not interfere in the internal affairs of other nations. (3) The United States should not rely on others for its security but should rely on itself.

These principles are intended to be guiding principles for the United States in its foreign policy. They are not absolute principles, but they are intended to be a framework for decision-making in foreign policy.

Tarcov's viewpoint is that human rights are not as important as other factors in foreign policy. He argues that the United States should not interfere in the internal affairs of other nations, but that it should support the democratic movements in other nations. He also argues that the United States should not rely on others for its security but should rely on itself.

Tarcov says that the United States should not interfere in the internal affairs of other nations, but that it should support the democratic movements in other nations. He also argues that the United States should not rely on others for its security but should rely on itself.

Tarcov says that the United States should not interfere in the internal affairs of other nations, but that it should support the democratic movements in other nations. He also argues that the United States should not rely on others for its security but should rely on itself.

The community of Koinonia Farm hosts work-study experience

By CHRISTINE WARM

Koinonia Farm is a unique Christian experiment which provides a work-study program for college students. The program is designed to provide students with an opportunity to experience the principles of interconnectedness, community, and service.

The program is open to students from all backgrounds, and it is designed to be a place where students can learn about themselves, their community, and their place in the world.

Koinonia Farm is a unique Christian experiment which provides a work-study program for college students. The program is designed to provide students with an opportunity to experience the principles of interconnectedness, community, and service.

The program is open to students from all backgrounds, and it is designed to be a place where students can learn about themselves, their community, and their place in the world.

Koinonia Farm is a unique Christian experiment which provides a work-study program for college students. The program is designed to provide students with an opportunity to experience the principles of interconnectedness, community, and service.

The program is open to students from all backgrounds, and it is designed to be a place where students can learn about themselves, their community, and their place in the world.

Koinonia Farm is a unique Christian experiment which provides a work-study program for college students. The program is designed to provide students with an opportunity to experience the principles of interconnectedness, community, and service.

The program is open to students from all backgrounds, and it is designed to be a place where students can learn about themselves, their community, and their place in the world.

Koinonia Farm is a unique Christian experiment which provides a work-study program for college students. The program is designed to provide students with an opportunity to experience the principles of interconnectedness, community, and service.

The program is open to students from all backgrounds, and it is designed to be a place where students can learn about themselves, their community, and their place in the world.
Confidential support available to bulimics

By VILMERE VAN SLUYNE
March 8

Bulimia is a major eating disorder that is becoming prevalent on many college campuses including Wake Forest, as many as 1 percent of female students at Wake Forest engage in binge/purge behaviors, estimates John Armentrout, a counselor at the university counseling center. A recent study revealed that 1 percent of all college student admissions at Wake Forest engaged in binge/purge behaviors.

Bulimia is characterized by compulsive eating followed by vomiting or self-induced starvation. The disorder comes huge proportions of women, often seeking bulimic weight loss as a means to become fat women before purging. Purdue becomes an obsession and the person finds himself or herself purging again and again.

The binge/purge behavior takes up a large amount of time and may complicate the victims in their attempts to begin or maintain a better way to deal with eating disorders. Yet even eating anything in sight may not stop these feelings of guilt and shame. Compulsive eating may add feelings of guilt to the other negative emotions associated with eating disorders.

The binge/purge behavior may be a major contributor to the problems of bulimia because of the emphasis on eating itself. The conflict between the binge/purge behavior and the desire to maintain normal weight and appearance may be contributing these feelings and having an impact on the individual's self-esteem.

Statistics indicate that more women and girls are bulimics and are becoming prevalent on many campuses. All college women admit to bulimic weight or to remain thin after a reduction in weight or to maintain a distorted body image. The victim is usually terrified of being caught, and reports of bulimia are very rare in the literature. Statistics on bulimia are very limited.

Statistics indicate that more women and girls are bulimics and are becoming prevalent on many campuses. All college women admit to bulimic weight or to remain thin after a reduction in weight or to maintain a distorted body image. The victim is usually terrified of being caught, and reports of bulimia are very rare in the literature. Statistics on bulimia are very limited.
The Exact Contrary

By R. Scott Hendrick

This week my column contains an extremely long and mysterious report about the finding of a fossil.

We told you about the find on the back of a farm in a field near the town of Gallatin. The fossil was discovered by a group of students from the University of Tennessee. The fossil was a large, prehistoric animal, possibly a dinosaur. The students were able to extract the fossil from the bedrock and bring it to the university for further study. The fossil was then cleaned and preserved, and it is now on display in the university's paleontology museum. The discovery of this fossil is significant because it provides new insights into the evolution of prehistoric animals. The students involved in the discovery are performing extensive research on the fossil to better understand its history and significance. The university is working with local and national organizations to promote public interest in paleontology and to encourage further research into this fascinating field.
Protest overkill

The responsibility for the malfunctioning of the academic standards lies not with the Wake Forest faculty, but with the students. In order to pull Wake Forest University, and the students, out of the mire of cancellations and postponements, we must reform the administration. The faculty must be given the power to discipline and to enforce academic standards. This would require some of the removal of the student body from the administration and even more of the faculty from the student body. A new administration is necessary.

Mrs. Mary McIver, Chairman, Faculty Senate

Teaching courses

Overall, Wake Forest has an excellent education program. Many professors are not only highly qualified academically but are also practical in their approach. Wake Forest offers a wide variety of courses, and most of them are taught by professors who are interested in the subject matter. Many of these professors are also affiliated with the Wake Forest Institute, which is a research and educational institution dedicated to the study of social issues.

The courses at Wake Forest are well-organized and challenging. The faculty members are knowledgeable and passionate about their subjects. They are also approachable and willing to help students with any questions or concerns they may have. Wake Forest offers many opportunities for students to participate in extracurricular activities, such as athletics, clubs, and student government. These activities provide students with the opportunity to develop leadership skills, build relationships, and gain valuable experience.

Pen pal

I would very much appreciate it if you would print this letter in the campus newspaper so that interested students can respond.

The topics that I would like to discuss in my column are: the value of a college education, the importance of liberal arts education, and the role of colleges in society.

Satisfied

I have been very pleased with the changes that have been made at Wake Forest University. The improvements in the facilities, the faculty, and the administration have been noticeable. I am confident that the university will continue to improve in the future.

Mr. Fred Boyd, President, Wake Forest University

No choice

The issue of grade-giving is a complex one, and there is no easy solution. The traditional system of assigning grades is based on the idea that students should be evaluated based on their performance in the classroom. However, this system has some flaws, such as the potential for bias and the lack of objectivity.

The new system of grade-giving, which is based on a rubric, is designed to be more objective and to provide more feedback to students. It is also designed to encourage students to think more critically about their work. The rubric system is a better way to evaluate student performance, and it will help to improve the quality of education at Wake Forest University.

Mr. John Davis, Dean of Faculty, Wake Forest University

Old Gold and Black

Letter to the Editor

Diary of a madman

I'm glad to see that the Wake Forest students are not only concerned about their own interests, but also about the world around them. The students are actively involved in the political process, and they are making their voices heard. This is an important step towards creating a more just and equitable society.

Yours truly,

Keith Snyder

Sociology

I'm glad to see that the Wake Forest students are not only concerned about their own interests, but also about the world around them. The students are actively involved in the political process, and they are making their voices heard. This is an important step towards creating a more just and equitable society.

Yours truly,

Keith Snyder

Human rights

Carter's example

In recent years our press has come under tremendous pressure from various sources. The increasing influence brought about by the media has been seen to have adverse effects on the public discourse, with many recent events suggesting the erosion of the country's democratic values. The increased use of the media has raised certain questions, which are widely discussed in the society. Some critics argue that the media has a responsibility to "speak truth to power," while others believe that the media should be free to report news without interference.

The problem of the media's influence on public opinion is an ongoing debate. The media's ability to shape public opinion is widely recognized, and it has been argued that the media should be subject to some form of regulation. The debate over the role of the media continues, with some advocating for more regulation and others arguing for greater freedom of speech.

The issue of the media's influence on public opinion is a complex one, and there is no easy solution. The media plays a crucial role in shaping public opinion and in providing information to the public. However, the media should also be held accountable for the information it provides.

Yours truly,

Michael C. Carter

Letters to the Editor
Arts

Hot Tin Roof stu[u]es audience

BY HILARY E. DOWDSON

Wake Forest Theatre opened its spring season last Friday evening with an electrifying production of Tennessee Williams' "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof." The play is one of Tennessee Williams' masterpieces and is well-received by the theatre-going public.

The guest director, Russell Treyz, is thoroughly competent in making the production professional and intuitive as it is. Trey's passion and talent in acting and directing is evident in the control and sensitivity with which the actors play their parts. Because of the nature of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," the roles assigned to the actors are often complex, and under Treyz direction the actors pay out their frustrations and mental anguish without overemphasizing them.

The cast of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" give their individual performances. Steve Bivins, who plays Big Daddy, is an especially noteworthy role because of his obviousness and his involvement throughout the entire show. He is a dominating and overpowering character, but under Treyz's direction he never becomes too obnoxious or off-putting.

Bivins' Maggie is especially beautiful in her treatment of the complex character and her sexual frustration. She is a strong and independent character, which Bivins portrays admirably. Maggie's sexual frustration or Brick's self-destruction, Tedder brings out Frshbume's performance is delightful.

The cast is quite extensive and encompasses all the essential component in making the production as professional and intuitive as it is. Because of the nature of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," it is easy for a college production to give fine individual performances, but Brick and Big Daddy are more than that. They live their lives more than either Maggie or Brick, and their personalities are more complex and multi-dimensional.

Treyz' direction the actors play out their frustrations and mental anguish without overemphasizing them.

The cast of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" give their individual performances. Steve Bivins, who plays Big Daddy, is an especially noteworthy role because of his obviousness and his involvement throughout the entire show. He is a dominating and overpowering character, but under Treyz's direction he never becomes too obnoxious or off-putting.

Bivins' Maggie is especially beautiful in her treatment of the complex character and her sexual frustration. She is a strong and independent character, which Bivins portrays admirably. Maggie's sexual frustration or Brick's self-destruction, Tedder brings out Frshbume's performance is delightful.

The cast is quite extensive and encompasses all the essential component in making the production as professional and intuitive as it is. Because of the nature of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," it is easy for a college production to give fine individual performances, but Brick and Big Daddy are more than that. They live their lives more than either Maggie or Brick, and their personalities are more complex and multi-dimensional.

Treyz' direction the actors play out their frustrations and mental anguish without overemphasizing them.

The cast of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" give their individual performances. Steve Bivins, who plays Big Daddy, is an especially noteworthy role because of his obviousness and his involvement throughout the entire show. He is a dominating and overpowering character, but under Treyz's direction he never becomes too obnoxious or off-putting.

Bivins' Maggie is especially beautiful in her treatment of the complex character and her sexual frustration. She is a strong and independent character, which Bivins portrays admirably. Maggie's sexual frustration or Brick's self-destruction, Tedder brings out Frshbume's performance is delightful.

The cast is quite extensive and encompasses all the essential component in making the production as professional and intuitive as it is. Because of the nature of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," it is easy for a college production to give fine individual performances, but Brick and Big Daddy are more than that. They live their lives more than either Maggie or Brick, and their personalities are more complex and multi-dimensional.

Treyz' direction the actors play out their frustrations and mental anguish without overemphasizing them.

The cast of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" give their individual performances. Steve Bivins, who plays Big Daddy, is an especially noteworthy role because of his obviousness and his involvement throughout the entire show. He is a dominating and overpowering character, but under Treyz's direction he never becomes too obnoxious or off-putting.

Bivins' Maggie is especially beautiful in her treatment of the complex character and her sexual frustration. She is a strong and independent character, which Bivins portrays admirably. Maggie's sexual frustration or Brick's self-destruction, Tedder brings out Frshbume's performance is delightful.

The cast is quite extensive and encompasses all the essential component in making the production as professional and intuitive as it is. Because of the nature of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," it is easy for a college production to give fine individual performances, but Brick and Big Daddy are more than that. They live their lives more than either Maggie or Brick, and their personalities are more complex and multi-dimensional.

Treyz' direction the actors play out their frustrations and mental anguish without overemphasizing them.

The cast of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" give their individual performances. Steve Bivins, who plays Big Daddy, is an especially noteworthy role because of his obviousness and his involvement throughout the entire show. He is a dominating and overpowering character, but under Treyz's direction he never becomes too obnoxious or off-putting.

Bivins' Maggie is especially beautiful in her treatment of the complex character and her sexual frustration. She is a strong and independent character, which Bivins portrays admirably. Maggie's sexual frustration or Brick's self-destruction, Tedder brings out Frshbume's performance is delightful.

The cast is quite extensive and encompasses all the essential component in making the production as professional and intuitive as it is. Because of the nature of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," it is easy for a college production to give fine individual performances, but Brick and Big Daddy are more than that. They live their lives more than either Maggie or Brick, and their personalities are more complex and multi-dimensional.

Treyz' direction the actors play out their frustrations and mental anguish without overemphasizing them.

The cast of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" give their individual performances. Steve Bivins, who plays Big Daddy, is an especially noteworthy role because of his obviousness and his involvement throughout the entire show. He is a dominating and overpowering character, but under Treyz's direction he never becomes too obnoxious or off-putting.

Bivins' Maggie is especially beautiful in her treatment of the complex character and her sexual frustration. She is a strong and independent character, which Bivins portrays admirably. Maggie's sexual frustration or Brick's self-destruction, Tedder brings out Frshbume's performance is delightful.

The cast is quite extensive and encompasses all the essential component in making the production as professional and intuitive as it is. Because of the nature of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," it is easy for a college production to give fine individual performances, but Brick and Big Daddy are more than that. They live their lives more than either Maggie or Brick, and their personalities are more complex and multi-dimensional.

Treyz' direction the actors play out their frustrations and mental anguish without overemphasizing them.
20

Finally, a movie for everyone!

By ELIZABETH A. ASHLEY

After having seen a really bad movie last week, I went looking for a good one to review this week about movies. "The Breakfast Club" is a really sleek, slick movie that you could win an Academy Award for. It's so slick, I could have named the movie "The Breakfast Club" and probably sold more tickets than that 1930s oldie which was only a little better than three hours long. "The Breakfast Club" is a real winner for any movie fan who wants to see a movie that's really good and really different.

The story is about five teenagers who are caught in a web of deceit as soon as Lee is in detention. This is, of course, what the students and the audience are thinking when they see the film. The entire film is set in a Saturday detention hall. Five students are caught in detention for the third time. After seeing a really bad movie last week, I got to thinking about movie, going for a promising one this week.

"The Breakfast Club" is a real winner for any movie fan who wants to see a movie that's really good and really different. This is, of course, what the students and the audience are thinking when they see the film. The entire film is set in a Saturday detention hall. Five students are caught in detention for the third time. After seeing a really bad movie last week, I got to thinking about movie, going for a promising one this week.

"The Breakfast Club" is a real winner for any movie fan who wants to see a movie that's really good and really different. This is, of course, what the students and the audience are thinking when they see the film. The entire film is set in a Saturday detention hall. Five students are caught in detention for the third time. After seeing a really bad movie last week, I got to thinking about movie, going for a promising one this week.

"The Breakfast Club" is a real winner for any movie fan who wants to see a movie that's really good and really different. This is, of course, what the students and the audience are thinking when they see the film. The entire film is set in a Saturday detention hall. Five students are caught in detention for the third time. After seeing a really bad movie last week, I got to thinking about movie, going for a promising one this week.

"The Breakfast Club" is a real winner for any movie fan who wants to see a movie that's really good and really different. This is, of course, what the students and the audience are thinking when they see the film. The entire film is set in a Saturday detention hall. Five students are caught in detention for the third time. After seeing a really bad movie last week, I got to thinking about movie, going for a promising one this week.

"The Breakfast Club" is a real winner for any movie fan who wants to see a movie that's really good and really different. This is, of course, what the students and the audience are thinking when they see the film. The entire film is set in a Saturday detention hall. Five students are caught in detention for the third time. After seeing a really bad movie last week, I got to thinking about movie, going for a promising one this week.
Sports

Top 25

Women drop two games

Sports Shorts

Pep Rally

Sports in brief

Equestrians compete

Soccer clubs start up

Deacon Notes

Intimarginal set ups

Haas leads golfers in Hilton Head

---

Sports

Tar Heels trounce Deacons

By ROB GLOVER

North Carolina dominated the top seed in the ACC and dropped the Deacons 85-62 in Williamsburg, Va., Tar Heel victory. The win gave the Tar Heels the distinction of being the first ACC team to score 80 or more points in a game which featured the Tar Heel trio of Joe Walz, Warren Martin and Brad Daugherty. Daugherty had 20 points which saw the Tar Heels score 18 of 21 points from the field. He held career highs in points, 16 in recorded on the band's "Dangerous." The win was almost lost when the Daugherty score benched. Daugherty said, "Our scoring average was 82 points per game which made us feel like we were scoring. Our team was never out and we were able to score 18 points in a row." Daugherty noted that the game was "a little bit of everything" and that the Tar Heels were able to score a season-high 18 points in a row. Daugherty said, "You have to be able to score 18 points in a row. If you can only score 15 or 16 points in a row, you're not going to be able to score 18 points in a row. If you can score 18 points in a row, you're going to be able to score 18 points in a row." Daugherty pointed out that the game was "a little bit of everything."

---

Women drop two games

By DANIEL B. BAKER

The Wake Forest basketball team dropped two ACC games this season. Their record is 7-9, 2-6 in the ACC, and is the lowest in their history. The Deacons were led by Mary Clark, who scored 20 points in the win over the Deacons. They were led by 16 points in the ACC and the Deacons were led by 10 points in the ACC. The win was the first ACC win for the Deacons.

---

Soccer clubs start up

The soccer club at Wake Forest University is starting up this fall. The initial meeting will be held on the campus on Wednesday, September 22. The club will be open to both men and women and will meet on a regular basis. The club will also host a soccer clinic and a soccer camp.

---

Deacon Notes

---

Intimarginal set ups

---

Rick sets new record

---

Haas leads golfers in Hilton Head

Jerry Haas, who shot a 2-104 in the 1984 season, has now tied for second place individually. Haas, who won the ACC tournament by one shot, was the only player in the field to shoot under par. Haas tied for second with 103. Meanwhile, Ted Purdy was second with a 103 and Denny Bane finished third with 104.

---
Patty - cake schedules

Although the use of the club card is fast that of a pastime, there is no doubt that a young man has been given a limited number of scholarship when he learns to cook. For this reason, the number of boys who have been in high school or college the past ten years who have any one of the above qualifications is very small. However, if a boy does not get enough money to rent a club is the only money that he is likely to have in his pocket on the job in a honeycomb.
Thank You

The brothers of Sigma Pi would like to thank all those involved in making the 1985 annual Groundhog's Day Extravaganza successful. With the help of the Wake Forest Community we were able to reach our goal of raising over $5000 for the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Two Sigma Pi brothers performing the annual Groundhog's Day Extravaganza were successful.

Off
But we're more than a scholarship. We pay your tuition, books, lab fees and other academic expenses. We'll also give you a monthly stipend. You’ll be able to focus on your studies. We’ll help you reach the finals, we’ll meet with you for a personal interview. We’ll give you a chance for relaxation. We’ll help you develop leadership and athletic skills. And if you reach the finals, we’ll meet with you for a personal interview.

For more information about how to avoid overburdening your parents for the next four years, contact the Army ROTC scholar-ship. We are available on weekdays.

New Weekly Specials

Tues. Classic & progressive Rock n' Roll $1.49 House Drinks, Import Specials & $2.75 Pitchers No Cover

Wed. 99¢ Wine Spritzers, Wine Coolers & House Wines All Night (For Ladies) No Cover For Members

Fri. Funtime Until 9:30 & $1.50 House Drinks & $2.75 Pitchers & No Cover For Members until 9:30

Sat. Never a Cover Charge For Members on Weekdays

Memberships Available at the Door

---

T.J.’s deli

Sure, we have Knockwurst, Liverwurst and Reubens on rye... like any fine deli should. But we’re more than a deli. We have sumptuous salads... Italian sausage submarines... Nachos Grande that compete with anywhere in town... delicious spicy-fish Chili... Crispy, creamy Polish skins... or how about a mushroom-bacon-mozzarella Hamburger... or maybe a Mr. Luigi? Come to T.J.’s and enjoy The Deli with a Difference.

---

ARE YOU SMART ENOUGH TO SAVE YOUR PARENTS THE COST OF COLLEGE?

You are, if you win an Army ROTC scholarship. When you win one of our scholarships, we pay your tuition, books, lab fees and other academic expenses. We'll also give you up to $1,000 a year extra. And when you graduate, we'll make you an Army officer.

But you have to be more than smart to win. We'll consider your extracurricular, leadership and athletic activities. And if you reach the finals, we'll meet with you for a personal interview.

For more information about how to avoid overburdening your parents for the next four years, contact the Army ROTC Professor of Military Science on your campus.