Committee to Re-evaluate Judicial System

By JIMMY BROUGHTON
Old Gold and Black Reporter

During the next several months, the Judicial System at Wake Forest will be completely re-evaluated by a committee appointed by Student Government President Tom LaMastra.

The committee will concentrate on three specific areas: "We plan to look at different procedures, and the purpose and the procedure of the system. We will also compare the judicial board and the Ad Hoc Committee."

The committee will weigh the passability of each of the proposals in its present state. It will also review the process of the trials. "In the past, some trials have been conducted twice in both the board and the court," said LaMastra.

The committee's past re-examination during last year's judicial trial of Zachary Steward was decided upon by last March.

Ad-Hoc Committee Submits Final Report

By BILL DAUGHTERY
Old Gold and Black Reporter

This week, the Ad-Hoc Committee submitted the final report on suggestions for revision of the Honor System at Wake Forest.

The report suggests removing legal terminology from the Honor Council procedure, increasing the number of Honor Council members, and removing the required pledge signature from exemption blue books.

The committee was formed last year to study the model of the Wake Forest Honor System, and several recommendations have been made for the system's improvement. This week the study reached its conclusion after over procedural problems with Honor Council rules and the attitude of the Wake Forest community regarding the Honor System.

Thompson, chairman of the committee, said that the revisions will result in a greater respect of academics at Wake Forest based on the Honor System, and that other schools will look at Wake Forest's system as a model. In fact, many schools are interested in the system and will consider adopting it to their own systems.

According to Thompson, by allowing more members to the Honor Council, future trials can be conducted, and more votes will be required to have an action taken.

The committee plans to be finished with their report by May 8.

Greeks Prepare for Picnic Fund Drive

By NANCY ATCHOFF

With the arrival of fall comes the Greek tradition of planning campus festivities and soliciting funds not only for themselves but also for various fund-raising activities. Steve Newsall, vice-president of the Interfraternity Council, said the money the Interfraternity Council secures is used to provide the money to the Omega Psi Phi Foundation, which provides scholarships to black men and women.

The purpose of the fund drive is to give the Greek fraternities and sororities the opportunity to generate money for the university's administration, as well as to recognize the various fund-raising activities. The fund drive was initiated in 1959, where students and groups held their first nap-a-thon. Since then, the Sigma Nu fraternity has run a nap-a-thon for the last three years.

The Capital and the Student Union is also involved in the fund drive. The Sigma Nu fraternity will sponsor an air-rash-a-thon. Members of the Sigma Nu fraternity will be asked to contribute from $0.25 to $1.00, and they will participate in an effort to gain donations.

The Interfraternity Council solicited money for the Clipper Alpha organization, which is involved in a competition with the Sigma Nu fraternity. The Sigma Nu fraternity will sponsor a nap-a-thon to collect money for theClipper Alpha organization. The Sigma Nu fraternity will also participate in the Kappa Alpha nap-a-thon.

The Kappa Alpha fraternity will also participate in the fund drive. The Kappa Alpha fraternity will sponsor a nap-a-thon, where members of the fraternity will sleep for three hours and a half, in an effort to raise money for the Kappa Alpha organization.

Of course, the University cares about you, too. Regents have voted to raise tuition by at least $50 per semester, and the university is now considering the possibility of raising tuition by an additional $50 per semester. The university has also announced plans to increase the budget for the Office of Student Affairs by 50 percent. The Office of Student Affairs will use the additional funds to provide more resources for students, including increased funding for student organizations and increased funding for student services.

On the other hand, the university administration has been criticized for not doing enough to address the needs of students. Student organizations have raised concerns about the quality of services provided by the university, and students have expressed frustration with the lack of responsiveness of the university administration.

The university administration has responded to these concerns by committing to providing more resources for student organizations and by making improvements to the quality of services provided to students. However, students continue to express concerns about the university administration's responsiveness to their needs.

Faculty Member Perry Receives KA Award

Recently, I came across a letter published in the Old Gold and Black that impressed me to the point of wanting to write my own response. The original letter was written by a student who was not satisfied with the extent of the desks being replaced. Their argument was that desks should be replaced as soon as they show signs of wear, not only when they are broken. This is a valid point, but I do not agree with the approach taken by the student. My main concern is the overall cost of maintaining such a large number of desks, which would be significant if every desk were replaced as soon as it showed signs of wear. Instead, I believe that desks should be replaced only when they are beyond repair or when they have reached the end of their useful life. This approach would be more cost-effective and environmentally friendly, as it would reduce the amount of waste generated by replacing desks unnecessarily.

The Value of a Christian Heritage

I recently visited a small town in the South, where I witnessed a small group of people standing around a lamppost, looking at a poster. As I approached them, they turned to me and asked what I was doing there. I explained that I was just passing through and wanted to see what the poster was about. The poster was promoting a local church's upcoming service, and the people were discussing whether they should attend. I thought this was a great example of how the values of Christianity can still be relevant in today's world. Even in a small town, people are still interested in exploring their faith and connecting with others who share similar beliefs.

Delta Sigs Deserve Credit

In the 1970s, Wake Forest was a hotbed of political activity. The university administration was under pressure to change the social norms that had been established during the 1960s, and the Delta Sigma Phi fraternity was at the center of this controversy. The fraternity was accused of violating the university's code of conduct, and the administration took steps to address the issue. However, I believe that the fraternity should be given credit for the changes that occurred at the time. The students who were involved in the controversy were simply trying to uphold the values of their fraternity, and their actions were motivated by a desire to make the campus a better place. In my opinion, Wake Forest should recognize the contributions that the fraternity made to the university during this time.

Should Re-Evaluate?

Delta Sigma Phi’s members are in a bind, caught between the old and new traditions of the university. They are trying to modernize their organization while still retaining their heritage. I believe that the fraternity should be encouraged to explore new ways of engaging with the campus community, while also continuing to uphold the values that have made them such a unique institution.

The Value of a Christian Heritage

Christian heritage is an important aspect of the Wake Forest experience. The university is located in a very Christian community, and this influence can be seen in many aspects of campus life. The values of Christian heritage are reflected in the university’s mission statement, which emphasizes the importance of ethical behavior, respect for others, and service to the community. I believe that these values are essential to the success of the university, and I hope that future generations will continue to uphold them.

Academics Can Make Sense

Academics are often portrayed as being out of touch with reality, focusing only on theoretical concepts that have little relevance to the real world. However, I believe that academics can make a significant contribution to society by using their expertise to address pressing social issues. Many academics are engaged in research that is directly relevant to policy makers and public officials, and they are often called upon to provide guidance on a wide range of topics. I think that academics should be encouraged to engage more actively with the public, so that they can help to shape the future of society.

Tuition Hike Was Necessary

I have been a student at Wake Forest for the past five years, and I think that the recent tuition increase was necessary. The university is facing significant challenges, including rising costs for things like technology, facilities, and administration. As a student, I want to see my tuition dollars go as far as possible, and I believe that the recent increase was a step in the right direction.

USSR's New Clout

Once more, the conference is an opportunity for new leaders to emerge, to be seen by their peers as capable, to be recognized, and to be given the opportunity to think about the themes that will dominate the agenda. The conference has always been a place for innovation and creativity, where new ideas can be tested and refined. This year's conference is no exception, and the discussions will be focused on the challenges facing the world in the 21st century. I look forward to seeing the results of these discussions and to learning from the experts who will be participating in the conference.

Whose Well-Being?

I agree with the author of the letter about the importance of taking care of oneself. However, I don't see the connection between the quote from Henry David Thoreau and the current situation. I think that the author is comparing the current situation to Thoreau's ideas about living simply and enjoying the natural world. This is a valid comparison, but I think that the author should focus more on the practical aspects of taking care of oneself, such as getting enough sleep, eating a balanced diet, and exercising regularly.

Silence, Violence, and the Power of Absence

As a student at Wake Forest, I have noticed a lack of diversity in the classrooms. While there are many talented students at the university, I think that the lack of diversity is hindering the education process. I believe that students from different backgrounds can bring different perspectives and ideas to the classroom, and that this diversity is essential for a truly comprehensive education.

Strikes and Lockouts

Strikes and lockouts are a part of the labor movement, and they can be a powerful way to bring attention to the issues that workers are facing. I think that the author's points about the strike at Wake Forest are well taken. The university administration should be more open to addressing the concerns of the workers, and they should be more willing to negotiate in good faith. I think that a strike can be an effective way to bring attention to these issues and to force the administration to take action.

USSR's New Clothes

Once there was an emperor who had a new suit of clothes that everyone admired. The tailor had spent many hours on it, and the emperor was very proud of his new attire. He paraded through the streets, showing off his new clothes to the people.

However, the emperor was actually wearing nothing under his suit, but he was so convinced of its existence that he continued to parade around with it on. The people and the soldiers who passed by praised the emperor for his new suit, but no one dared to point out that he was actually wearing nothing.

Eventually, a child cried out, "But the emperor has no clothes on!" This caused everyone to realize that they had been deceived. The emperor was finally forced to change into a proper outfit.

This story serves as a warning against the dangers of盲目信服, and the importance of critical thinking. As the saying goes, "Don't believe everything you hear, especially if it comes from a child."
Ministry Integrates Religion, Studies

What does the average Wake Forest student think of when he or she hears the phrase "Campus Ministry"? Ignorance?
Usually the first thing that comes to mind is one of the various student religious groups on campus.

According to University Chaplain Eddie
Chapman, however, Campus Ministry sounds more like just simple denominational churches to the uninitiated. The variety of religions is a challenge that Campus
Ministry wants to meet, he says.

Campus Ministry is headed by Christian Fellowship coordinator Chester Boyles and Baptist campus minister
J. Douglas McGee. The group meets weekly with Bob McGee, Episcopal; David Riffe, Methodist; and Steve Anobile, Anglican.

Christian Fellowship coordinator: Campus Ministry's diversity comes from the Thursday Worship services in Davis Chapel. Representatives of different denominations lead the 7 a.m. servcise. This semester's participants will include a minster, a Hindu folk singer and a policy analyst for the hunger-relief agency
Feed the World.

Anne House, one of the university's themes houses, is developed through Camp-ity and the liberal arts.

The aim is to make campus live together rather than apart, to make the campus a home. They are expected to do one ma-

Crocodile Dundee Features Hogan

By GAMBLE KEMMER

"Crocodile Dundee" stars semiretired "Manhattan" and "Out of Africa" star Paul Hogan. Hogan is the star character as well as the writer, director, producer and comedian for this film. The film centers on the story of Paul Dundee, who was fishing in the swamps of Australia. It's been very easy to relate to during the time the actor received only cold stares in return.

"It's Been Such a Long Time for Boston" is a special series of classic films that is shown at the Downtown Promotions Committee's "Theatre With History." Hitchcock's 1959 romantic thriller, "North by Northwest," with Cary Grant, Eva Marie Saint andurg Jean, is shown at 8 p.m. each Friday while "The Third Man," with Orson Welles and Joseph Cotten, is shown at 8 p.m. each Thursday. Both films are on a first-come, first-served basis.

The film is one of the few Hitchcock classics named in a survey of movies after almost two decades in the studio vaults.

"North by Northwest," Hitchcock's 1959 romantic thriller, stars Cary Grant as an advertising executive who becomes one of the major characters of a conspiracy aimed at assassinating Britain's man in the United States. The film also stars Eva Marie Saint and Ingrid Bergman, both of whom also worked with Hitchcock on several other films.

"The Third Man," a 1949 British espionage film, stars Orson Welles as a private detective who attempts to uncover the identity of a mysterious woman and the result leads to an emotional journey across the continent.

Robert Walker and Faye Dunaway star as an attractive couple who become involved in a murder mystery.

"Evocations," a classical evening, will be performed Saturday, Sept. 19, at 8 p.m. The performance will center on music by the seemingly omnipresent Richard Delp. The stories weaves together the inimitable "The Undergraduate Railway Theater" will perform Monday night in Brooks Recital Hall.

Goldstein Begins Faculty Recital Series for Semester

By JAN E. DENMAL

A creative combination of technical brilliance and musical scholarship made pianist Louis Anastasi one of the most sought-after artists of his day. The classic master opportunity, his command of the keyboard as well as his gifts for songwriting and composition makes "The Undergraduate Railway Theater" one of the most enjoyable and entertaining works of its time. The story unfolds before the eyes of the audience in a series of trains that travel through the underground railroad system and are performed in a variety of styles, including music, dance and drama.

The play is directed by a professional director from New York City and is performed on a stage designed to resemble the underground railroad system. The play is a fun and informative way to learn about the history of the underground railroad.

Deacons Claim Elk River Title

By DON MONTANERO

The men’s varsity golf team captured an unexpected title, as they defeated a whopping 33 teams on Monday to win the Elk River College Invitational.

The five-man corps of sophomores and freshmen showed they had no heat ground from last year’s team’s final round lead of 53 strokes after they won the final round lead of 34 strokes.

The team won its first in-state tournament of the season, giving its first Elk River win.

After the tournament, coach Brad Stroud said that his first victory as a Deacon head coach was “the best of the best.”

He said he didn’t think anyone would be up for the title.

So when the team came out to win the title, he said “the team worked for the first time ever, and we had the most.

So when the team won the first title, we won’t do it again.”

The team’s three latest finishes are far from finished.

“Everyone is working on their own thing. It’s all about the title.”

Golf Forest alumni raise money
Wake Forest alumni golfers will participate in a proam tournament Oct. 10 on nine holes to benefit Haw-lick, the men's golf coach.
The event is restricted to four amateurs with one professional golfer, and will be held at the Old Town Club. Amateur positions in the event cost $1,250 each, and 50 (7) names have already been filled.
The tournament was organized by former Wake-forest golfers and by friends of the program. Last year's NCWA Championship spurred interest in the project.
The money raised in the tournament will be used to raise part of Wake Forest's debt for the Palmer-Readlolf athletic dormitory complex. A portion of that complex will be named to Dink Hawlick.
Professionals scheduled to participate include au-doe golfers by Blais, Carlos Strug, Larry Walkers, Leonard Thompson, Scott Hoch and Joe D Jama Ader, a part-time Forest golfer, including Gary Gottenberg, Jim Simonis and Robert Wrenn, may play if their schedules permit.

The honorary chairmen are Ray Fildt and Ben Creafart, who both have ties to RR Nabro, which is underwriting the cost of the tournament.
Ben Sata, of the Wake Forest athletic department, and there were the "50 percent chance" that Ar-old Palmer would play.

ROTC Announces Winners
The Wake Forest Army ROTC hosted the Five-Mile "Gold Run" for men and a Three-mile "Blue Run" for women on Sept. 10. The mile winners, by age groups, were Patrick Miller, under 20; Lee Ferrin, 20-24; Geoffrey Delklaft, 25-34; and William Couser, over 35. The female winners were Kimberly Glenn, under 20; Laura Downs, 25-34; Leslie Schromann, 25-34; and June C. Viol, over 35.
The winning male team included Eddie Marshall, Shonel, Bruce Schuld, Robert Holmes and Jerry C. Martin. The winning female team was composed of Katherina Reber, Haas Brunier, Christine Newman, Mary A. Askew and Ellen Poggiard.

In the final, the male winner was Tricks, and the female winner was Gina Horan.

Video Showed Nationally
The Wake Forest men's video will appear in the national spotlight as it will be shown nationally on PM Magazine.

WMYT/TV (Channel 2) filmed the segment on the video that will be shown. The clip has already been shown on WMYT, and will not be repeated. All others interested in seeing PM Magazine nationally will see the show.

IM Announces Information
The Informational Media, an announcement that referees needed for fall athletic and winter sports who are male should contact the Informational Media Office in Bryan Gymnasium and sign up.

Also, carriers are not being taken for the first class group, which will be held on Sunday. Entries will be accepted until Monday night.

Deacons To Be Televised
The Wake Forest team will again be featured on the ACC/Def
Flash Teleproduction network nationwide whenever they figure to play off against Virginia in the 1986 Homecoming game.
The game, which begins at 12:30 p.m., will be shown in the Atlantic Conference Network. It is the second time this year the Deacons have been on television, with the other time being two weeks ago against N.C. State.

The Wake Forest Rugby Club won its second match of the season last Saturday, beating defending state champion UNC-Greensboro in a score of 31-12.
After a scoreless deadlock at halftime, the Deacons came out on top with three tries by Callie Gagnon.

Stark half Jim Illington converted a penalty kick for three points to allow the Wake Forest lead.

Unable to withstand the 95 degree heat, Grundy and trouble the entire game n its-ting the ball from their half of the field as best they could. Finally, with only five minutes remaining, Grundy managed a 30 yard field goal to make the final score 13-5.

Wake Forest will face N.C. State Nov. 2 at home and play for the state championship and a national appearance berth. The next match for the squad will be against the Deacons at Water Tower Field Saturday at 1 p.m.

rounded out the scoring with one goal each.

In the afternoon game, Virginia Tech fell victim to the Deacons' offensive and one on one play. The Deacons' defensive group and one on one play. The Deacons' defensive group and new captain Charlie Deilman and junior Anthony Bottone continued the offensive pressure and Forest goals, both of which were scored by nailing one scoring pass from fellow forward Shaw.

The Deacons' final decision of the week, 2-0 at High Point, Jan. 10, book ended their successful season, coming "too late, but not too late," and will be followed by next week's scheduled game with the leaders of the field.

The team's next game against the 加州的 2 for a personal total of 4 by the week.

The team's next game against the 加州的 2 for a personal total of 4 by the week.

Game on Tuesday at Huntsville, Ala., 1 will be a match that should prove to be a tough test for the Deacons. The squad barely survived against the Invaders and it will be a tough test against the measuring by a score of 10.

Wake Forest Improves Record With Three Wins

By SHAWN PARLEY
The Gold and Black Reporter

Ford Wendelboe said after his team improved its record to 7-4 last week with wins over Georgia Tech and UNC-Chapel Hill, dropping the Yellow Jackets 25-21, 15-8 and 15-4 in straight games.

"We're really excited," said Wendelboe, a senior from telephone. "Maryland, in the top six on the Wake Forest cross-country team this year, is going to make the ACC's Diel in an exciting meet.

After ACC-performance Ron Rick grumbled, "I hope John Goodridge has turned over the leadership reigns of a newly young team to Karalia. It's kind of natural, being one of the older girls on the team, that I assume the role of the head honcho," said Rick. "I'm just happy that we have a team and we're able to work together.

Wendelboe said Wendelboe commended Carolyn because she earned a tough defense. We played the game and we were able to win this sensational prize because we've worked so hard. We knew we had to come into the contest and play as well as we could. We didn't do anything.

"Our defense was tremendous," said Wendelboe. "I believe in our defense and we're able to be successful. We played very well defense and we were able to win.

"That's what Wake Forest is all about. Recruiting and the strong background behind them. We also had the coach and all the guys I'm on the team," Karalia said. "Reflecting on his decisions to attend Wake Forest, he said. "I'm glad to be here. It's been a good four years.

Everyone is happy that Wake Forest is improving to an impressive level this year. A very tough conference, I believe that my improvement would mean a successful season for the Deacons.
