Committee Formed to Consider Changing Alcohol Policy

By Steve Grace

A letter by an ARA employee printed in the Old Gold and Black Oct. 19 has reignited and confused ARA management, while generating support among many ARA workers.

"They have the right to be heard," said several ARA employees. "I am not sure that these are just conferences, but the personal vision of people, and not just the company, that wants to change ARA management." The reaction was one of support and confusion.

Executive Chairwoman Pat Summerall wrote to the letter's author, "You have no right to be treated this way." The letter was signed by Pat Summerall, and her personal vision of people, and not just the company, that wants to change ARA management was also expressed.

Concurring, the announcements brought about by the letter are those of "the personal vision of people, and not just the company, that wants to change ARA management," according to Pat Summerall. "I am not sure that these are just conferences, but the personal vision of people, and not just the company, that wants to change ARA management." The reaction was one of support and confusion.

By Richard Bell

"We have seen several complaints about the number of alcohol-related hazing incidents against women across the nation. We feel that in response to this trend, the university must consider a new alcohol policy."

The campus policy has remained essentially unchanged since the 1970s, except for the addition of a provision against hazing. The university has already taken steps to implement a new alcohol policy, including the creation of a committee to study the issue.

According to a statement from the Interfraternity Council, the committee will include representatives from each of the fraternity and sorority groups on campus, as well as faculty and student representatives.

The university also plans to conduct a campus-wide survey to gather feedback from students, faculty, and staff.

"We are committed to creating a safer and more inclusive environment for all members of our community," said the university.

Committee Recommends New Policy to SG

By Erika Williams

If you work as a computer scientist, you may have heard of the famous theorem, "Any computer scientist who programs for a living will sooner or later have to program in a language that he hates." This theorem is a consequence of the fact that there is about one computer for every human being in the United States.

The theorem has been widely quoted and has become a popular saying among computer scientists. It states that any computer scientist who programs for a living will sooner or later have to program in a language that he hates.

The theorem is based on the observation that the number of computer scientists is increasing rapidly, while the number of languages is not.

Committee Recommends New Policy to SG

By Kevin Brown

The recommendations of the committee are based on the objective information we have. However, the committee also took into account the opinions of students, faculty, and staff. The committee's recommendations are based on the following principles:

1. The university should have a clear and consistent policy on alcohol.
2. The policy should be fair to all students, regardless of their affiliation with a Greek organization.
3. The policy should be enforced consistently by all members of the administration.
4. The policy should be reviewed regularly to ensure that it is effective.

The committee's recommendations are based on the objective information we have. However, the committee also took into account the opinions of students, faculty, and staff. The committee's recommendations are based on the following principles:

1. The university should have a clear and consistent policy on alcohol.
2. The policy should be fair to all students, regardless of their affiliation with a Greek organization.
3. The policy should be enforced consistently by all members of the administration.
4. The policy should be reviewed regularly to ensure that it is effective.

Wake Forest Professor William Kerr Attends Conference in Soviet Union

By Elizabeth Ricks

Perestroika may have affected national, positive change in Soviet political and social conditions, but it has not yet had a visible impact on the world of science. However, the most recent of these conferences was held in Moscow, the Soviet Union.

Professor William Kerr, a professor of physics at Wake Forest, visited the Soviet Union in late August to attend the conference. This was his third visit to the country in the past year, and he plans to return in 1987.

Kerr has been involved in the field of superconductivity for many years. He has also been involved in the field of superconductivity for many years. He has also been involved in the field of superconductivity for many years.

William Kerr, a professor of physics at Wake Forest, visited the Soviet Union in late August to attend the conference. This was his third visit to the country in the past year, and he plans to return in 1987.

Kerr has been involved in the field of superconductivity for many years. He has also been involved in the field of superconductivity for many years. He has also been involved in the field of superconductivity for many years.

William Kerr, a professor of physics at Wake Forest, visited the Soviet Union in late August to attend the conference. This was his third visit to the country in the past year, and he plans to return in 1987.

Kerr has been involved in the field of superconductivity for many years. He has also been involved in the field of superconductivity for many years. He has also been involved in the field of superconductivity for many years.

William Kerr, a professor of physics at Wake Forest, visited the Soviet Union in late August to attend the conference. This was his third visit to the country in the past year, and he plans to return in 1987.

Kerr has been involved in the field of superconductivity for many years. He has also been involved in the field of superconductivity for many years. He has also been involved in the field of superconductivity for many years.
Civil Rights Forum Addresses Affirmative Action

By Bruce Moses

Hence, the University's Museum of Anthropology seeks to borrow a number of Hopi Pueblo art pieces. Robert R. Johnson, a professor of physical geography at the University of California at Berkeley, has been a professor of law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The keynote speaker is a professor of civil rights law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

The new faculty members at Wake Forest have wide educational backgrounds that add to the university's diversity.

Economics

Serguei Miassoedov is a research professor of economics at Moscow State Institute. Belton's address, with three local practitioners who have dealt with civil rights issues, provided an opportunity for the audience to discuss the legal repercussions of recent obscenity trials in a symposium held on Nov. 7 in Carswell Hall, Room 115. Admission is free to the general public.

The Department of Economics, the School of Business Management, and the School of Law at Wake Forest University participated in 1990, administered by the faculty members who have organized and conducted several presentations of participating programs since spring. including a recent work abroad and opportunities for graduates of the university's diversity.

Museum Seeks Hopi Art

The University's Museum of Anthropology seeks to borrow a number of Hopi Pueblo art pieces. Robert R. Johnson, a professor of physical geography at the University of California at Berkeley, has been a professor of law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The keynote speaker is a professor of civil rights law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

New Faculty

Last in a Series

Economics

Serguei Miassoedov is a research professor of economics at Moscow State Institute. Belton's address, with three local practitioners who have dealt with civil rights issues, provided an opportunity for the audience to discuss the legal repercussions of recent obscenity trials in a symposium held on Nov. 7 in Carswell Hall, Room 115. Admission is free to the general public.

The Department of Economics, the School of Business Management, and the School of Law at Wake Forest University participated in 1990, administered by the faculty members who have organized and conducted several presentations of participating programs since spring. including a recent work abroad and opportunities for graduates of the university's diversity.

Museum Seeks Hopi Art

The University's Museum of Anthropology seeks to borrow a number of Hopi Pueblo art pieces. Robert R. Johnson, a professor of physical geography at the University of California at Berkeley, has been a professor of law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The keynote speaker is a professor of civil rights law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

New Faculty

Last in a Series

Economics

Serguei Miassoedov is a research professor of economics at Moscow State Institute. Belton's address, with three local practitioners who have dealt with civil rights issues, provided an opportunity for the audience to discuss the legal repercussions of recent obscenity trials in a symposium held on Nov. 7 in Carswell Hall, Room 115. Admission is free to the general public.

The Department of Economics, the School of Business Management, and the School of Law at Wake Forest University participated in 1990, administered by the faculty members who have organized and conducted several presentations of participating programs since spring. including a recent work abroad and opportunities for graduates of the university's diversity.

Museum Seeks Hopi Art

The University's Museum of Anthropology seeks to borrow a number of Hopi Pueblo art pieces. Robert R. Johnson, a professor of physical geography at the University of California at Berkeley, has been a professor of law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The keynote speaker is a professor of civil rights law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

New Faculty

Last in a Series

Economics

Serguei Miassoedov is a research professor of economics at Moscow State Institute. Belton's address, with three local practitioners who have dealt with civil rights issues, provided an opportunity for the audience to discuss the legal repercussions of recent obscenity trials in a symposium held on Nov. 7 in Carswell Hall, Room 115. Admission is free to the general public.

The Department of Economics, the School of Business Management, and the School of Law at Wake Forest University participated in 1990, administered by the faculty members who have organized and conducted several presentations of participating programs since spring. including a recent work abroad and opportunities for graduates of the university's diversity.

Museum Seeks Hopi Art

The University's Museum of Anthropology seeks to borrow a number of Hopi Pueblo art pieces. Robert R. Johnson, a professor of physical geography at the University of California at Berkeley, has been a professor of law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The keynote speaker is a professor of civil rights law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

New Faculty

Last in a Series

Economics

Serguei Miassoedov is a research professor of economics at Moscow State Institute. Belton's address, with three local practitioners who have dealt with civil rights issues, provided an opportunity for the audience to discuss the legal repercussions of recent obscenity trials in a symposium held on Nov. 7 in Carswell Hall, Room 115. Admission is free to the general public.

The Department of Economics, the School of Business Management, and the School of Law at Wake Forest University participated in 1990, administered by the faculty members who have organized and conducted several presentations of participating programs since spring. including a recent work abroad and opportunities for graduates of the university's diversity.

Museum Seeks Hopi Art

The University's Museum of Anthropology seeks to borrow a number of Hopi Pueblo art pieces. Robert R. Johnson, a professor of physical geography at the University of California at Berkeley, has been a professor of law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The keynote speaker is a professor of civil rights law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

New Faculty

Last in a Series

Economics

Serguei Miassoedov is a research professor of economics at Moscow State Institute. Belton's address, with three local practitioners who have dealt with civil rights issues, provided an opportunity for the audience to discuss the legal repercussions of recent obscenity trials in a symposium held on Nov. 7 in Carswell Hall, Room 115. Admission is free to the general public.

The Department of Economics, the School of Business Management, and the School of Law at Wake Forest University participated in 1990, administered by the faculty members who have organized and conducted several presentations of participating programs since spring. including a recent work abroad and opportunities for graduates of the university's diversity.

Museum Seeks Hopi Art

The University's Museum of Anthropology seeks to borrow a number of Hopi Pueblo art pieces. Robert R. Johnson, a professor of physical geography at the University of California at Berkeley, has been a professor of law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The keynote speaker is a professor of civil rights law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

New Faculty

Last in a Series

Economics

Serguei Miassoedov is a research professor of economics at Moscow State Institute. Belton's address, with three local practitioners who have dealt with civil rights issues, provided an opportunity for the audience to discuss the legal repercussions of recent obscenity trials in a symposium held on Nov. 7 in Carswell Hall, Room 115. Admission is free to the general public.

The Department of Economics, the School of Business Management, and the School of Law at Wake Forest University participated in 1990, administered by the faculty members who have organized and conducted several presentations of participating programs since spring. including a recent work abroad and opportunities for graduates of the university's diversity.

Museum Seeks Hopi Art

The University's Museum of Anthropology seeks to borrow a number of Hopi Pueblo art pieces. Robert R. Johnson, a professor of physical geography at the University of California at Berkeley, has been a professor of law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The keynote speaker is a professor of civil rights law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

New Faculty

Last in a Series

Economics

Serguei Miassoedov is a research professor of economics at Moscow State Institute. Belton's address, with three local practitioners who have dealt with civil rights issues, provided an opportunity for the audience to discuss the legal repercussions of recent obscenity trials in a symposium held on Nov. 7 in Carswell Hall, Room 115. Admission is free to the general public.

The Department of Economics, the School of Business Management, and the School of Law at Wake Forest University participated in 1990, administered by the faculty members who have organized and conducted several presentations of participating programs since spring. including a recent work abroad and opportunities for graduates of the university's diversity.

Museum Seeks Hopi Art

The University's Museum of Anthropology seeks to borrow a number of Hopi Pueblo art pieces. Robert R. Johnson, a professor of physical geography at the University of California at Berkeley, has been a professor of law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The keynote speaker is a professor of civil rights law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

New Faculty

Last in a Series

Economics

Serguei Miassoedov is a research professor of economics at Moscow State Institute. Belton's address, with three local practitioners who have dealt with civil rights issues, provided an opportunity for the audience to discuss the legal repercussions of recent obscenity trials in a symposium held on Nov. 7 in Carswell Hall, Room 115. Admission is free to the general public.

The Department of Economics, the School of Business Management, and the School of Law at Wake Forest University participated in 1990, administered by the faculty members who have organized and conducted several presentations of participating programs since spring. including a recent work abroad and opportunities for graduates of the university's diversity.

Museum Seeks Hopi Art

The University's Museum of Anthropology seeks to borrow a number of Hopi Pueblo art pieces. Robert R. Johnson, a professor of physical geography at the University of California at Berkeley, has been a professor of law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The keynote speaker is a professor of civil rights law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

New Faculty

Last in a Series

Economics

Serguei Miassoedov is a research professor of economics at Moscow State Institute. Belton's address, with three local practitioners who have dealt with civil rights issues, provided an opportunity for the audience to discuss the legal repercussions of recent obscenity trials in a symposium held on Nov. 7 in Carswell Hall, Room 115. Admission is free to the general public.

The Department of Economics, the School of Business Management, and the School of Law at Wake Forest University participated in 1990, administered by the faculty members who have organized and conducted several presentations of participating programs since spring. including a recent work abroad and opportunities for graduates of the university's diversity.
Recycling Program Implemented On Campus for Aluminum Cans

By Stephen Dillingham
FPE Student

A campus-wide recycling program for aluminum cans should be in place within the next two to three weeks, according to campus residence hall director Linda Wollaston.

"We have ordered recycling bins, and they are supposed to be here in the next two to three weeks," Wollaston said. "They will be located in all common-hall buildings. Roberts said each residence hall will receive at least one or two bins."

"Originally, we wanted to do cans, glass and plastic, but due to some logistical problems, we are beginning with cans," he said.

Roberts said the committee planned to do a pilot program that would include glass recycling in two of the residence halls beginning in February. The committee is also considering a cardboard-only program and a second recycling program.

The committee is working with the university recycling center to get a consultant to conduct a study on recycling on campus. Roberts said the consultant will look into the feasibility of the programs and the costs. Roberts said the consultant will also look into the feasibility of the programs and the costs.

Recycling on campus could help reduce the amount of waste going to landfills and help the university meet its goal of reducing waste by 20% by the year 2000.

The recycling program will be funded by the university and the university will receive a 20% discount on the purchase of recycled products.

Moscow

From Page 1

rather than relying on technology," Ken said.

Despite the obstacles these scien­

Oct.

When he was not in lectures, Ken spent time resting in the

San Francisco - Another man was

Oct.

Saddam Hussein Has Dream

Begao - Saddam Hussein released 14 hostages Tuesday and promised to release all the remaining hostages within the hour if the U.S. promised not to bomb Iraq, a source said. The source could not confirm the news.

Salman Mansoor, the head of the American-Iraqi munity. Ken said the per­ story of this dream is a rumor to in the university security. The guard asked the resident to in a lab dish, to term.

One April evening a Babcock Hall resident re­

a security guard

Kerr said he was sur­

was an overall agreement among the scientists that collaboration

Roberts said the committee is also looking to energy

Ken said he found this mutual

However, no definite plans were made for a

Benson University Center.

Welcome Parents!!

Parents' Weekend Registration
Friday 3:00 pm - 7:00 pm
Saturday 8:30 am
Benson Center Lobby

Benson University Center

We Need You!

The Benson Center needs student employees for immediate openings

Applications in Benson 335

APPLY NOW!
Hannah Britton Discusses Her Trip to South Africa

By Brian Moses
Moses Moshe

Hannah Britton discussed her experiences in South Africa during a slide presentation sponsored by Student Activities Office at Oct. 14 in the Benson Center.

During the six weeks she spent in South Africa, Britton, a senior from Marion majoring in psychology, worked on research projects in the design and development of educational software for use in schools in South Africa.

Britton travelled to South Africa with Knowledge, an internationally renown multi-ethnic educational organization. During her three month stay, Britton was a part of the research team that developed an educational software program for young children.

Britton said the project was an opportunity to see first-hand the effects of apartheid on education.

Britton said that in South Africa, education is not considered a right, but rather a privilege that is only afforded to those who can afford to pay.

Britton also discussed the impact of apartheid on the country's economy and society.

Britton said that the trip was an eye-opening experience and she learned a lot about the culture and people of South Africa.

Make light of the wettest weather.

The Timberland tradition of handsewing new comes to a super lightweight waterproof moccasin. Ultralight handsewing feature unique leather-lined Gore-Tex fabric interiors that let you make light of the wettest weather.

Comprehensive Cancer Center Awarded $4.4 Million Grant to Study Cancer

The National Cancer Institute has awarded a $4.4 million dollars grant to the Comprehensive Cancer Center at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

The grant is a part of a national network of research projects aimed at understanding the causes and prevention of cancer.

The project will be led by Dr. Paul Haines, a professor in the Department of Internal Medicine.

The project will study the effects of diet on the development of cancer.

The study will involve recruiting people with adenomatous polyps, a condition that increases the risk of developing colon cancer.

The project will take advantage of a long-standing partnership between the Comprehensive Cancer Center and the Department of Medical Oncology.

The project is expected to start in January 2020.

The Secret Artist Series presents

The Secret Artist Series presents

Summit Brass

"The sound they produce is nothing short of spectacular." — John Paul Vennard

For more information and tickets, please visit www.summitbrass.org.

A Brian Piccolo Piccolo Concert Event Friday, October 26, 1990

8pm Wait Chapel

Free Student Tickets with WUF ID. Available at Info Desk in Benson Center

Special price for Parent Day Weekend of $8 for Parent Ticket.

Concession Proceeds will be donated to

Brian Piccolo Cancer Fund

We Love To Fly And It Shows

Two DELTA AIR LINES tickets to any destination in the Continental United States will be presented to the Procter and Gamble Co. at the Festival of the Arts Oct. 26. The winners are chosen by random selection.

Two people will receive two round-trip tickets to any destination in the Continental United States.

The winner will be announced at the festival.

Proceeds will be donated to the National Cancer Institute.

The Timberland Company, 1989

THE TRIAD'S LARGEST TIMBERLAND SELECTION FOR MEN & WOMEN.
Policy

Chris Richter said the societies would not be affected by the FIPC policies in DC because they are separate organizations that have their own insurance. Although Union Legislation was concerned about the purity clause in the FIPC regulations, he thought the clause would not affect the societies.

In the last few weeks, the ARA has been trying to take a more lenient position in the FIPC policies. "They have not been very approachable and have not taken the different positions of the societies and the students into consideration," said Albert Halliday, Student Association representative.

"We want to be treated as equals," said Halliday. "We don't want to be governed by anybody. We are afraid our problems are not being heard." He said ARA had been trying to work out a position statement to present to the University's Committee on Safety and Security.

"It is a question of how we are to be treated" said Halliday.

"We are not in agreement with the FIPC," he went on. "We are going to take a stand and fight to improve our situation. We are not going to sit back and let things happen."

BOSTON UNIVERSITY

A representative from Boston University will be on campus:

Study Abroad Fair
Friday, November 2, 1990
10:00 - 3:00 p.m.
Bosson Student Center

FOR AMERICA
KIDS CLOGY

- Information is a must.
- Our goals are to educate young minds about the importance of maintaining diversity through cultural awareness.

"We need to educate the younger generation about the world in which they live," said the representative. "We want to give them an opportunity to learn more about the world."
The Big Myth

Plumber Problem

I am writing in response to David Dillingham's article in the Oct. 3 issue of The Carolinian, "Just for your information," regarding the promptness of service for a public facility. During the period when the plumbing problem existed, our water was not fit for human consumption. Our drinking fountains were filled with foul-smelling liquid, which was the result of a broken water line. While Dillingham and other concerned students took the initiative to request ECOCS—could students be expected to make your hay while the sun shines? We have always abided by the same rules, have we not?" is an excellent question. Perhaps you will answer it in the near future.

One might argue that the university administration has a responsibility to its students. I agree that the administration is not bound to the same moral standards, but it certainly does have the obligation to protect its students. Therefore, a moral standard by itself is not a safeguard against moral standards. If the moral principle of safety for all students is not upheld, then society may bombard the administration with questions about the absence of respect for students, regardless of the university's efforts to be seen as educa tional or professional. It is a problem that is not immediately solvable, but if a sense of concern exists among students at the university, then government officials who have responsibility for education and other institutions are aware of the problem.

What I am saying is that the university administration is not the only one to blame. Community members are also responsible for their own actions. For example, many students do not understand that there is a moral responsibility to their own actions. While this may seem like a self-evident statement, it is necessary to point out that it is not immediately solvable, but if a sense of concern exists among students at the university, then government officials who have responsibility for education and other institutions are aware of the problem.

What I am saying is that the university administration is not the only one to blame. Community members are also responsible for their own actions. For example, many students do not understand that there is a moral responsibility to their own actions. While this may seem like a self-evident statement, it is necessary to point out that it is not immediately solvable, but if a sense of concern exists among students at the university, then government officials who have responsibility for education and other institutions are aware of the problem.

What I am saying is that the university administration is not the only one to blame. Community members are also responsible for their own actions. For example, many students do not understand that there is a moral responsibility to their own actions. While this may seem like a self-evident statement, it is necessary to point out that it is not immediately solvable, but if a sense of concern exists among students at the university, then government officials who have responsibility for education and other institutions are aware of the problem.

What I am saying is that the university administration is not the only one to blame. Community members are also responsible for their own actions. For example, many students do not understand that there is a moral responsibility to their own actions. While this may seem like a self-evident statement, it is necessary to point out that it is not immediately solvable, but if a sense of concern exists among students at the university, then government officials who have responsibility for education and other institutions are aware of the problem.

What I am saying is that the university administration is not the only one to blame. Community members are also responsible for their own actions. For example, many students do not understand that there is a moral responsibility to their own actions. While this may seem like a self-evident statement, it is necessary to point out that it is not immediately solvable, but if a sense of concern exists among students at the university, then government officials who have responsibility for education and other institutions are aware of the problem.
Helms Tackles the Unsolveable

At the month of November, Helms is being steadily besieged by 300000 people, who have started a campaign to get him elected to the Senate. The people seem united in their belief that "we want more money!"

Despite the voting strategy of people who are against Helms, he has managed to hold his ground. With 18 years of experience in his work, he has managed to make the Senate a place where the people's voices are heard.

In his opinion, the sky is the limit when it comes to the American people. He believes that with hard work and dedication, everything is possible.

Helms is steadfast in his support of American values. His focus is on the country's prosperity and the well-being of its citizens. He believes that the government should focus on the needs of the people, not on its own interests.

Time to Get Serious About the Campus

On the last day of November, the federal debt grows with every passing day. The national debt now stands at over $1 trillion. This is a crisis that requires immediate attention.

President Bush and Congress are currently working on a budget that includes cuts to federal programs. This is a crucial time for the nation to come together and find solutions.

With the budget crisis, the cost of living has risen. The cost of higher education has also increased. This is causing financial strain on students and their families.

The budget crisis has also impacted the universities. The federal government has been cutting funds to universities, which has forced them to raise tuition fees and cut programs.

John Fitch Student Columnist

Which choice to make when you have to pick between saving money and paying for something you need? This is a question that many students are facing today.

The choice of saving money can help you budget for other expenses, while choosing to pay for something you need can help you avoid financial trouble in the future.

The cost of living in college is high, and students often have to make difficult choices. It is important to prioritize and make informed decisions.

The budget crisis has also affected the national debt. With the government running deficits, the national debt continues to grow. This is a serious issue that needs to be addressed.

The penalty for not staying on track in the course of the semester can be quite severe. It is important to stay on track and make informed decisions.

Problems Plague Campus Life

W

Online News on campus

1. The university recycling system is not working as expected. Students are finding that the bins are often full and the recycling program is not being used.

2. The mandatory cable television system is not popular among students. Many students feel that they are paying for channels they do not watch.

3. The campus bookstore is raising prices without notice, causing students to feel frustrated.

We live in an age where technology has taken over. It seems like every aspect of our lives is influenced by it.

Paul Meyer Letter to the Editor

It's difficult to be a student in today's world. The world is constantly changing, and it can be hard to keep up.

The university is my home, and it has always been a place where I feel comfortable and safe. I have made many friends here, and I have learned so much.

I am looking forward to my future, and I know that I will be able to make the most of my time here.
Staying in the Game

Despite Paralysis, Former Linebacker Leads Life of Normal Student

By Rob Blake

A change is in the air. Roger Ruminski, a former Virginia football star, is starting to feel more like a normal student again. He has been living in an apartment complex since his accident, and is finally able to get around on his own.

"I used to think that I was stuck in a wheelchair," Ruminski said. "But now I can get around on my own, and it feels great." Ruminski, who was involved in a car accident that left him paralyzed, is finally able to live the life he had always dreamed of.

"It's been a long time coming," he said. "But now I can finally live my life the way I want to." Ruminski is back in school, working towards a degree in business.

"I want to make the most of this opportunity," he said. "I don't want to waste any time." Ruminski is planning to major in business and is already placing much more importance on his classes.

"I have to get my degree," he said. "I don't want to waste any time." Ruminski is working hard to get back on track and is already planning for his future.

"I want to make the most of this opportunity," he said. "I don't want to waste any time." Ruminski is planning to major in business and is already placing much more importance on his classes.

"I have to get my degree," he said. "I don't want to waste any time." Ruminski is working hard to get back on track and is already planning for his future.

"I want to make the most of this opportunity," he said. "I don't want to waste any time." Ruminski is planning to major in business and is already placing much more importance on his classes.

"I have to get my degree," he said. "I don't want to waste any time." Ruminski is working hard to get back on track and is already planning for his future.

"I want to make the most of this opportunity," he said. "I don't want to waste any time." Ruminski is planning to major in business and is already placing much more importance on his classes.

"I have to get my degree," he said. "I don't want to waste any time." Ruminski is working hard to get back on track and is already planning for his future.
Equality of the Sexes When Awarding Athletic Scholarships

Wake Forest Pres. Thomas H. Harris, Jr., in his address to the annual meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic Association on October 15, 1980, urged that fairness in athletics be matched with fairness in all other areas of the educational process. Harris said that the American public is ready to accept equal rights in athletic competition between men and women, and that the growing number of women athletes is evidence of their desire to achieve parity with men in this area. Harris also stressed the importance of equality in the educational process, and called for a review of the current system of scholarships to ensure that they are awarded on the basis of merit and need, rather than on the basis of athletic ability alone.

Wake Forest University

From the Pressbox

By Jay Reddow

The Demon Deacons, 2-5 overall and 1-3 in the Atlantic Coast Conference, defeated the Tigers, 20-14, on October 15, 1980, in Winston-Salem, N.C. The Demon Deacons, led by junior quarterback John Fiedorowicz, rallied in the second half to overcome a six-point halftime deficit and win their first conference game of the season.

The Tigers, 4-2 overall and 2-0 in the ACC, had won their last two games and were coming off a 41-7 victory over Duke. However, the Demon Deacons were able to score 14 unanswered points in the second half to secure the victory.

The Demon Deacons' offense was led by Fiedorowicz, who completed 15 of 26 passes for 272 yards and two touchdowns. His performance earned him ACC Player of the Week honors.

The Demon Deacons' defense was led by senior linebacker Mike Smith, who had 13 tackles, including two sacks. Smith's performance helped to limit the Tigers' offense to just 14 points.

Soccer Team Beats Cats, Alexes; Falls to UCLA

By: John McDonnell

Wake Forest University

Wake Forest University, as a member of the Atlantic Coast Conference, has been invited to play in the NCAA Women's Soccer Championship. The Demon Deacons, who finished the regular season with a 13-2-1 record, will face the University of Virginia in the first round of the tournament on November 30.

The Demon Deacons, under the leadership of Head Coach Jennifer Williams, are one of the top teams in the ACC and are ranked 12th in the latest Associated Press poll. They have won seven of their last eight games and have scored 68 goals in 18 games.

Wake Forest will face the Cavaliers in the first round of the NCAA tournament. The Demon Deacons won the regular season meeting between the two teams, 3-1, on September 19. The Demon Deacons will be looking to improve upon that result as they seek to advance to the second round of the tournament.
North Carolina Stains Georgia Tech's Perfect Mark With 13-1 Tie at Chapel Hill

Chosen Tigers is a game filled with errors. Chosen rolled from a 14-2 first-quarter deficit to lead NC State 26-14. The 10th-ranked Tigers, 6-1, and 21st-ranked Carolina are 5-1-1. Carolina scored a safety late for the 26-14 lead.

The game was marred by 13 turnovers, 26 penalties, 10 points, and 11 fumbles. The teams were tied 13 times, with each scoring their first two touchdowns on field goals.

The Tigers led 13-10 in the first half, with 10 points scored on 100-yard field goals.

Georgia Tech's perfect mark of 13-1 came to an end. The Tigers scored a safety on the first possession of the game and held onto lead for the rest of the day.

The game was called off at half time due to a severe thunderstorm, leaving the teams with a score of 13-1.
Goalie Olson Plays Leadership Role For Struggling Deacon Soccer Team

By Carol Barc
Inquirer News

In soccer, the role of the goalie is similar to that of the quarterback in football. The goalie is the leader of the team both on and off the field, and perhaps his most important and difficult responsibility is to keep up the team's morale when the team is struggling.

Senior goalie Matthew Olson is not willing to abandon the Wake Forest soccer team's chances of reaching the NCAA Tournament.

"By no means are we out of the playoff picture," Olson said. "As long as we keep winning, we've got a chance."

Former Wake Forest soccer coach Steve Butters and UCLA have no reason why they can't turn around its 0-7 good games and even win the Atlantic Coast Conference Championship.

These claims seem overly optimistic, but Olson said, "We've had chances to win every game we've played in the ACC. We just have to believe that we can do it."

Olson realizes the importance of the team in achieving this goal.

"As a goalie I have to be an example and show the other players that I'm going to stick it out no matter what," Olson said.

"I can't rent my head and look forward to his plans after graduation, but he is not going to do that.

"It would be easy for me to give up and say I've got next year to play, but the first thing on my mind is achieving more goals in a collegiate player and with this team," Olson said.

Olson is currently second among ACC goalkeepers with six shutouts this season, and fifth in goals against average, allowing only 1.22 goals a game. In many games this year, Olson has kept the Demon Deacons in games as the offense has struggled.

Last year, in his first season with the Wake Forest soccer team, Olson recorded 11 shutouts in helping the Demon Deacons notch the ACC's top shutout record.

In Olson's sophomore year at Indiana he played in two games but did not play in the NCAA Championship game. A sprained ankle in his first season at Indiana caused Olson to be redshirted the following year. When he returned from the injury, Olson said, "I came in here and worked as hard as I could to pay that respect."

"I've tried to make a transition like that because you've got to go to stick it out no matter what."

Olson said. "I just want to continue my involvement with the sport for many years to come."

"Coaches have put so much time into helping me and we've got to do our part and play a positive role in the lives of young kids."

After racking your brain all day, Take a cue from us.

If you've been brainstorming that night till day, make a mental break for CUE N' SPIRITS.

You've got your favorite domestic and imported beers on tap. We've got a full bar, a full menu, a good atmosphere and a good price of lifera waiting for you on this cool evening. Enjoy a beverage on our 5000 square feet, or watch the TV and lose a few days. We're doing our best to keep you entertained and the hours away, after all it's your break.

10% WFU Discount

FALL COLORS OF BENETTON.

Benetton
600 Hanes Mall
Winston-Salem, NC

(919) 768-8877
Brody Refuses to Give Up Hope
For Remainder of Football Season

BY CHRISTINA ADJOCITON

The Wake Forest football team has matched the four games of the 1990 football season following last Thursday's 49-14 defeat against Virginia.

Many fans, as well as the local media, may have given up on the players and any hope of finishing another victory this season, but lettuce shareholder and defensive tackle Tom Brody.

Brody, along with the team's third-year coach,音泽

Although the Demon Deacons will finish with a losing record, despite the fact that two Wake Forest fans (Dean Harper of Winston-Salem and Terry Gachon) remain on Wake Forest's schedule.

"I wouldn't write off us," Brody said. "No one on the football team has written of us. I believe we will fight to the end."

The 6-1, 273-pound sophomore from Greensboro said he will play as many games as possible, given up on the players and on any hope of celebrating the national title.

"It was only a matter of time before we lost," Brody said. "I've played Wake Forest better than Penn State this year."

The game was Brody's first start this season and he displayed his drive to perform well, regardless of the outcome of the game.

"I just want to play well," Brody said. "I want to be a better player and I want to help the team win."

In his first start, Brody did not play for the Demon Deacons' defense. He played in the half for the rest of the game.

Wake Forest's offense has scored only 32 points this season, and its defense has allowed 327 points.

In regards to the Virginia game, Brody said he was pleased with his performance.

"I'm glad I was able to contribute," Brody said. "I want to play well and I want to help the team win."

The Demon Deacons finished the season with a 3-5 record and were given up on the players and on any hope of celebrating the national title.

"I've always been a Wake Forest fan," Brody said. "I want to play well and I want to help the team win."

The Demon Deacons are far ahead of Wake Forest in their area of reform.

Many fans, as well as the local media, may have given up on the players and any hope of finishing another victory this season, but lettuce shareholder and defensive tackle Tom Brody.

Brody, along with the team's third-year coach,音泽

Although the Demon Deacons will finish with a losing record, despite the fact that two Wake Forest fans (Dean Harper of Winston-Salem and Terry Gachon) remain on Wake Forest's schedule.

"I wouldn't write off us," Brody said. "No one on the football team has written of us. I believe we will fight to the end."

The 6-1, 273-pound sophomore from Greensboro said he will play as many games as possible, given up on the players and on any hope of celebrating the national title.

"It was only a matter of time before we lost," Brody said. "I've played Wake Forest better than Penn State this year."

The game was Brody's first start this season and he displayed his drive to perform well, regardless of the outcome of the game.

"I just want to play well," Brody said. "I want to be a better player and I want to help the team win."

In his first start, Brody did not play for the Demon Deacons' defense. He played in the half for the rest of the game.

Wake Forest's offense has scored only 32 points this season, and its defense has allowed 327 points.

In regards to the Virginia game, Brody said he was pleased with his performance.

"I'm glad I was able to contribute," Brody said. "I want to play well and I want to help the team win."

The Demon Deacons finished the season with a 3-5 record and were given up on the players and on any hope of celebrating the national title.

"I've always been a Wake Forest fan," Brody said. "I want to play well and I want to help the team win."

The Demon Deacons are far ahead of Wake Forest in their area of reform.

Many fans, as well as the local media, may have given up on the players and any hope of finishing another victory this season, but lettuce shareholder and defensive tackle Tom Brody.

Brody, along with the team's third-year coach,音泽

Although the Demon Deacons will finish with a losing record, despite the fact that two Wake Forest fans (Dean Harper of Winston-Salem and Terry Gachon) remain on Wake Forest's schedule.

"I wouldn't write off us," Brody said. "No one on the football team has written of us. I believe we will fight to the end."

The 6-1, 273-pound sophomore from Greensboro said he will play as many games as possible, given up on the players and on any hope of celebrating the national title.

"It was only a matter of time before we lost," Brody said. "I've played Wake Forest better than Penn State this year."

The game was Brody's first start this season and he displayed his drive to perform well, regardless of the outcome of the game.

"I just want to play well," Brody said. "I want to be a better player and I want to help the team win."

In his first start, Brody did not play for the Demon Deacons' defense. He played in the half for the rest of the game.

Wake Forest's offense has scored only 32 points this season, and its defense has allowed 327 points.

In regards to the Virginia game, Brody said he was pleased with his performance.

"I'm glad I was able to contribute," Brody said. "I want to play well and I want to help the team win."

The Demon Deacons finished the season with a 3-5 record and were given up on the players and on any hope of celebrating the national title.

"I've always been a Wake Forest fan," Brody said. "I want to play well and I want to help the team win."

The Demon Deacons are far ahead of Wake Forest in their area of reform.

Many fans, as well as the local media, may have given up on the players and any hope of finishing another victory this season, but lettuce shareholder and defensive tackle Tom Brody.

Brody, along with the team's third-year coach,音泽

Although the Demon Deacons will finish with a losing record, despite the fact that two Wake Forest fans (Dean Harper of Winston-Salem and Terry Gachon) remain on Wake Forest's schedule.

"I wouldn't write off us," Brody said. "No one on the football team has written of us. I believe we will fight to the end."

The 6-1, 273-pound sophomore from Greensboro said he will play as many games as possible, given up on the players and on any hope of celebrating the national title.

"It was only a matter of time before we lost," Brody said. "I've played Wake Forest better than Penn State this year."

The game was Brody's first start this season and he displayed his drive to perform well, regardless of the outcome of the game.

"I just want to play well," Brody said. "I want to be a better player and I want to help the team win."

In his first start, Brody did not play for the Demon Deacons' defense. He played in the half for the rest of the game.

Wake Forest's offense has scored only 32 points this season, and its defense has allowed 327 points.

In regards to the Virginia game, Brody said he was pleased with his performance.

"I'm glad I was able to contribute," Brody said. "I want to play well and I want to help the team win."

The Demon Deacons finished the season with a 3-5 record and were given up on the players and on any hope of celebrating the national title.

"I've always been a Wake Forest fan," Brody said. "I want to play well and I want to help the team win."

The Demon Deacons are far ahead of Wake Forest in their area of reform.
Bellievo Recreates Ballerina Duncan’s Art Form

By Alison Preston

Ballet was the established state of dance in 16th-century Europe, but in San Francisco and in kindred cities, Duncanian dancers areîlling ballet with reenactments of a dance style dating from the early 20th century. Last week, the performance of the landmark Dancers of Duncan Fresno was concluded, allowing dance historians and enthusiasts to see what their dance style was all about.

The mother of modern dance, Duncan, wanted to develop dance as a true art form. Today, the body of work performed by the Dancers of Duncan Fresno is a testament to her vision and to the spirit of her dancers.

Duncanian dancers created dance that was not just about beauty, but also about emotion and expression. They believed that dance was a powerful tool for self-discovery and healing.

Despite the challenges of bringing Duncan's approach to modern audiences, the Dancers of Duncan Fresno have successfully captured the essence of Duncan's art form. Their performances are a tribute to the legacy of Isadora Duncan and to the enduring power of dance as an art form.

Stars Fail to Salvage Tired Story Line in Locally-Filmed Destiny

By Brian Piccolo

Wake Forest played football for the first time last weekend. The Demon Deacons were not able to salvage a tired story line, however, as the team lost to a strong Wake Forest football team.

Conclusion

The Dancers of Duncan Fresno have successfully captured the essence of Duncan's art form. Their performances are a tribute to the legacy of Isadora Duncan and to the enduring power of dance as an art form.
Bill Bates Beat in Prime Time Ratings

There are some of the latest comments about the development of the sport of tennis for the year.

In one of the most significant ratings battles this year, NBC's "The Cosby Show" has defeated "The Mork & Mindy" on ABC. NBC's "Cosby" has been a major disappointment, but Bates has been predicting that it will make a run at the new year.

British talkshow host David Frost, perhaps better remembered for his lengthy and revealing interviews with Richard Nixon following Watergate, will return to the small screen Jan. 2. Despite all the hype and merchandising of "Driving Miss Daisy," the series has defeated ABC's "Dynasty" in the so-called "Saturday Spring." Last Thursday, Cosby with David Frost, "will feature guests Ronald Reagan on thetopic of the game."

NBC's "Saturday Night Live" will be up and running in no time. That's why you should consider the new, affordable Macintosh Classic computer. Apple introduces the Macintosh Classic. The power to be your own, to make sacrifices. That's why you should consider the new, affordable Macintosh Classic computer. Apple introduces the Macintosh Classic. The power to be your own, to make sacrifices.

Radoslisk From Page 13

The success of Radosliski's performance has been met with mixed reviews. Some have praised his ability to handle the difficult accompaniment of the October Revolution, while others have criticized his handling of the solo part. Despite all the hype and merchandising of "Driving Miss Daisy," the series has defeated ABC's "Dynasty" in the so-called "Saturday Spring." Last Thursday, Cosby with David Frost, "will feature guests Ronald Reagan on the topic of the game."

Apple introduces the Macintosh Classic. The power to be your own, to make sacrifices. That's why you should consider the new, affordable Macintosh Classic computer. Apple introduces the Macintosh Classic. The power to be your own, to make sacrifices.
Sometimes You've Gotta Break the Rules

20% Discount with Student ID or Coupon
Parents Weekend
Oct. 26, 27, 28

20% OFF ALL FOOD AND BEVERAGE PURCHASES

BURGER KING
7791 North Point Blvd.
759-2870

(OFFER VALID OCT. 26, 27 AND 28)

The Club MTV dance party is coming
Hit the dance floor with:
The Club MTV dancers
Club MTV casting director
The hottest dance music videos

If you’ve got the right moves
MTV will pick you to appear on Club MTV.

Halloween Night
9 - 11 p.m.
Benson Room 401
$5 per person
How far can you go if you buy an IBM PS/2 before December 31?

Anywhere from coast to coast for only $149.

Purcahse an IBM Personal System/2® before the end of the year* and receive:

- TWA® Certificate good for a round-trip ticket for $149 off-peak and $249 peak season
- Free TWA Getaway® Student Discount Card
- Special offering on PRODIGY®

Use your TWA Certificate to travel to any TWA destination in the continental U.S. or Puerto Rico. Go home for the holidays. Visit a friend across the country. Or just get away. ....

Apply for a free TWA Getaway Student Discount Card to receive a 10% discount on future TWA travel. TWA has waived the annual application fee.

Tap into a wide world of information with the PRODIGY service. For only 99¢ you receive the PRODIGY Start-up Kit, a 2400 bps Hayes® Personal Modem, a software connection package, and three months of service.

So buy an IBM PS/2® before December 31, 1990...there’s never been a better time to get going with a PS/2.

Limited to qualified students, faculty, staff and institutions that purchase Personal System/2 and PS/2 are trademarks of International Business Machines Corporation. IS are subject to change and non-refundable. 14 day advance purchase, blackout dates apply. Complete details will be shown on certificate. Applicants for the discount card must be full-time students between the ages of 16-26. IBM, IBM Micro Channel and Micro Channel architecture are trademarks of International Business Machines Corporation. 3.5-inch diskette drive is a trademark of the 3M Company. Hayes is a registered trademark of Hayes Microcomputer Products, Inc. Microsoft, Micro Channel, Windows, Microsoft Word, and Microsoft Windows are registered trademarks of Microsoft Corporation.

For More Information Contact: Brian R. Brach, IBM Collegiate Representative at 721-4359

Visit the IBM Collegiate Tour on Magnolia Court Under the Tent Today!