Students vandalize campus ‘Teller II’

by Marylc Gillen

Since the placement of the Watchman Teller II on campus three months ago, there have been two separate instances of vandalism. The first occurred in late October, a few hours after its installation. The second occurred this past weekend between 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. on Saturday. On Wednesday the identity of the second offender was also determined.

Vandals have defaced the Teller II in two instances. The first incident involved a number of stickers placed on the Teller II. The second incident involved a number of scratches and scuff marks. The second incident occurred over the weeks up unto that inaugural date. This change must be approved by the Institutional Planning Committee. The purpose of the change is to slow down traffic in that area.

The new anti-theft device is going to be a double ticketing policy. Instead of paying just one parking ticket in the morning, the student will have to pay a second ticket if the car is not moved, another ticket if the car is not moved again.

They will put final instructions regarding this ticketing change in their registration packets in January.

Hears new management plans

by Majorette Miller

President Thomas E. Shaw, Jr., plans to change administration leadership at Wake Forest in two significant ways.

The creation of the new position of vice president for planning and administration will be a part of the regular, ongoing long-range planning process of Wake Forest, Shaw said.

The vice president of the new position will be selected to administer Wake Forest's new master plan, to develop new policies and procedures, to facilitate the smooth functioning of the new vice president for planning and administration, and to serve as an administrator of the former vice president.

The vice president of the new position is the second vice president to be selected by Wake Forest Board of Trustees. The vice president of the new position will work to involve student housing, student dining, and other literary activities in the overall school and campus life.

Hearn will have a positive effect on alumni and the university, Shaw said. Hearn places importance on the alumni need as student housing and as Bowman Gray School of Business, and he has a positive effect on the alumni and the university. Hearn is a former President of the Duke University and is currently busy with several projects. He is an administrator of the former Duke administration. Hearn is likewise increased from 4 percent to 40 percent.

Second, the vice president of the new position will take charge of the new position of vice president for planning and administration. The position of vice president of the new position will be selected by the Institutional Planning Committee. The vice president of the new position will be selected for a student center for recreation, relaxation, and social interaction. The creation of this position must take place within the university's authority.

Third, the new vice president will work to facilitate or encourage student activities and programs at campus centers.

"The excellence of Wake Forest is due, in large measure, to the remarkable leadership furnished by those committed scholars and builders for the past 132 years.

"Today, Dr. Hearn, you join the ranks of those leaders. But yours is a special responsibility because you will guide the university toward the year 2000 and into the 21st century. Excellence, freedom, and service to humanity are the qualities which have distinguished this university to our state. In medicine, law, social sciences, the arts, and humanities, we have seen a tradition of excellence built and nurtured.

"Dr. Hearn, we are honored that you have come to live and work among us. Wake Forest, North Carolina and higher education will be the better for you."

Governor of North Carolina

"Each period in our history presents new challenges—wars, new problems—in higher education. Only as bright and honest, only as our most capable administrators, can succeed in charting the course that a great school may follow. That mission is the foremost in our eyes."

Wake Forest, however, is never content simply to maintain its status, high though it is. True in the past, it is in the present that we as the community perceive, Wake Forest's strong commitment to excellence is matched by our quality of leadership.

A time for celebration...

The inauguration of Thomas Kermit Hearn Jr. was a time for celebration for many at Wake Forest and within its community.

Faculty and academic delegates arrived in flowing, embroidered robes (top and far right); Governor Hunt delivered a greeting from the state of North Carolina (above); many students, faculty and guests enjoyed the reception on the quad (above), and C.C. Pope (center right), chairman of the Board of Trustees and N.C. Secretary of Commerce, incited Hearn (center right) as the 12th president of Wake Forest.

"From the outset of your studies, Dr. Hearn, through every stage of an exceptionally difficult presidency, have distinguished yourself as a man of integrity and clarity. This is the family of which all academic disciplines find their common nourishment. Excellence and freedom and service to humanity form the matrix in which all academic disciplines find their common nourishment. You are to us, for you, Dr. Hearn, we have a President who is unwaveringly committed to Wake Forest.

"While we are justifiedly proud of achievements of the past, we look to the beginning of a new era in the history of Wake Forest. We must make changes where change is indicated, yet we must hold steady to those principles and values which have served us well. The primary commitment of the University must always be to the student—a commitment to superior teaching and research, to intellectual freedom, and to academic excellence."

Dr. Hearn we have a President who is unwaveringly committed to Wake Forest."

Lecturers analyze United States intervention

by Mark Wilson

Lars Schoultz has taught in Central America because of reasons on the part of Central American governments and incompetence of U.S. shelters, then the church may yet have a future, Lars Schoultz said.

In his lecture on Central American politics, Jack Child, professor of Spanish & Latin American studies at American University, spoke on the issue of whether Central America's U.S. bound states, Nicaragua and Honduras, are similar to the reformation of the 16th century. In Nicaragua, Child said, there has been a similar reformation which has developed into another Vietnam for the United States. It is not surprising then that the United States has a relationship with Nicaragua and the "Sandinista National Liberation Front."

What makes this noteworthy is that the tensions between Nicaragua and Honduras are very high. As is not surprising then that the United States has a relationship with Nicaragua and the "Sandinista National Liberation Front?" but exclusion in government.

The Central Intelligence Agency supports all attempts from the U.S. and Honduras to weaken the Sandinista National Liberation Front and the ADOR with the Sandinista National Liberation Front. The CIA supports attempts to weaken the Sandinista National Liberation Front and the Ador with the Sandinista National Liberation Front.

In addition to the tensions ravaging between Nicaragua and Honduras, which extend into the U.S. and other Central American countries are specifying in light of information Child said the Central American countries are specifying in light of information Child said, the Central Intelligence Agency supports all attempts from the U.S. and Honduras to weaken the Sandinista National Liberation Front and the Ador with the Sandinista National Liberation Front.

The U.S. Navy forces are being augmented by 14 F-16s for the joint operations of the U.S. and Israel. The U.S. Navy's move is seen as a strategic cooperation in the Persian Gulf region. The Syrian forces, on the other hand, are being tested by the pressure from the international community.

In Washington, a Defense Department spokesman said, "The Syrian forces have been reinforced in a way that is extremely limited" indicating that the Syrian forces are "certainly receiving a major amount of support" from Damascus. The spokesman added that "the Syrian forces have been tested" in Lebanon.

Meanwhile, Syria has experienced a series of events that have strained its relations with the international community.

The first use of force was the attempted assassination of former U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in 1973. Since then, the U.S. has been engaged in a series of military conflicts with Syria, Israel, and other countries in the Middle East.

The 1982 invasion of Lebanon by Syrian forces has been a major event in the region. The U.S., along with other countries, has been involved in efforts to bring peace to the area.

The Damascus government has agreed to a peace conference, but its terms have been rejected by some countries, including the U.S.

The latest event is the U.S. military operation in Iraq, which has led to increased tensions in the region.

The Syrian forces have been seen as a possible threat to the stability of the region, with some analysts predicting that the situation could escalate into a full-scale conflict. The U.S. has been involved in efforts to prevent this, including the imposition of sanctions and diplomatic pressure.

The U.S. has also been involved in efforts to rebuild the region, including the provision of economic aid and support for democratic movements. The U.S. has been involved in efforts to bring about a peaceful resolution to the Syrian conflict, including the provision of economic aid and support for democratic movements.

The plaza of the Graylyn Conference Center, if it were in the hearts of the students, would be Ga-lynn. This grandiose plaza would be swept off the earth and a well-known library would be placed where the plaza once stood.

In its editorial this week the Old Gold and Black editorial page editor Daryl Davis creatively described the plaza as the "heart of the university’s best endeavors.

In his editorial columns, Davis is noted for providing continuous education, forKirshner, who has been a leading contributor to the university.

However, Davis’ thesis seems to argue whether this is the most pressing con-nceivable issue. The major concern students have which could be alleviated by registration and enrollment issues is one that students have been feeling for some time. To be fair, the administration does seem to acknowledge the problem and even the registration section in their "Campus Center: The Student database is continually voiced in its defense, in addition to its "ideal purpose." With the huge success of the university’s externalization of students, the management of the student database is perhaps the feeblest of the university’s greatest assets, why are their concerns constantly ignored? The cantankerous administration will not even answer the simple questions that students have, because it has a lot of people who are well behaved and one who is not.

The accumulation of financial information from Graylyn and Old Gold and Black seems to be seen by the administrators as a natural phenomenon that they are just waiting to see the financial needs of the university will grow, this is not a pressing need.

Regulation with Selective Service is an important responsibility of any American citizen. Even in a country with a strong tradition of volunteering for military service, many young men and women are called to serve their country in the defense of its interests. However, it is not uncommon for some to question the necessity and legality of conscription, particularly in a time of peace. The debate surrounding military service and its role in society continues to be a topic of discussion among policy makers and the public alike. This document appears to address some of these concerns, offering a perspective on the nature of military service and its impact on individuals and society in general.

Students begin adaptation to drinking laws

by Charlie Harley

One month after the state legislature's new ban on on-campus alcohol sales took effect, student leaders and administrators at Wake Forest University are meeting to discuss the way the campus is adjusting to the new laws.

"I have no illusions that we can make an instant change in attitude about drinking on the campus and in the state of North Carolina," said Paul Marshall, chairman of the Student Government. "But we can take some steps to improve the situation, and that's what we're doing."

Wake Forest students have a realistic attitude toward the situation, Marshall said. "They are aware of the new laws and the implications they have. They understand that this is a serious problem and they recognize that it's going to take some time to change things."

President Brent Wood sees the new rules as a "step in the right direction."

"The changes in the laws are not going to be an overnight solution," he said. "But they are a positive step forward."

The rule-making process was not without controversy. The student leaders and administrators have been vocal in their opposition to the new laws, and the state legislature has been accused of "overreaching." However, President Wood said that the university will continue to work with the state on the issue.

"We will continue to work with the state to try to make sure that the laws are fair and reasonable," he said. "And we will continue to work with the students to help them understand the importance of responsible drinking."

The university has already made some changes to its alcohol policies. For example, the university has banned the sale of alcohol on campus. And students are now required to present a valid ID card to purchase alcohol at campus bars.

"These changes are not perfect," said President Wood. "But they are a step in the right direction."

The university is also working with the state to develop a "treatment court" for students who are found guilty of violating the new laws. The court will help students who have a problem with alcohol to get the help they need.

"We want to make sure that students who have a problem with alcohol are getting the help they need," said President Wood. "And we want to make sure that the laws are fair and reasonable."

Dancer to perform

Edward Villella, perhaps the most renowned American male ballet dancer, will perform in Freehold (Nov. 7). Villella and dancers from the Eglevsky Ballet will present a new performance as "The Art of Georgia Dumas",

The late Balanchine is widely regarded as the founder of the American school of ballet, his choreographic genius has shaped the art of contemporary ballet. Villella has had a significant impact upon dance in this country. The New York City Ballet, where he made his debut in 1959, is the company that Willie and many others have called home for years. Villella is one of many artists on whose plates. Villella said, "It takes more strength, in gets through all six reviews along does it have four months of healing."

Villella's legendary Balanchine roles included "Mozartiana," "Sonata," "Chaconne," "Agon" and "Divertissement," each of which is an original role in Kenneth MacMillan’s "Romeo" and "Sinfonia." Current, Villella is serving as the artistic director of the Eglevsky Ballet Company. He is also the producer-director of the music director at the "{

The Crescent Review" displays new writers

By Julie Baggett

``The Crescent Review'' is a new publication produced by students at the University of Oklahoma. The review recently released its first issue of the fall season. The editor, Paul B. Martin, said the goal of the review is to provide a platform for students to publish their work and to engage with the wider literary community.

WAKE FOREST UNIVERSITY THEATRE

As You Like It

``The play's the thing'' as William Shakespeare would say. The play will be performed by the Wake Forest University Theatre. The show is directed by Robert Redford, who recently received an Emmy award for his work on "The Americans." Redford is known for his passion for storytelling and his commitment to excellence in theatre and film. The play is set in the Elizabethan era and is considered one of Shakespeare's greatest comedies. The story follows the adventures of a group of friends who are exiled from court and must find refuge in the forest. The play is full of humor, wit, and drama, and it is a must-see for any lover of Shakespeare's work. The performance dates and times are to be announced.

Zelig

by Robert Wady

"Zelig" is a mess of a documentary that sinks into a By and often hard times as of late: Woody Allen films. But, "Zelig" is a funny movie. There are moments in this film where one can see that Allen's talent is real. The film was not entirely satisfactory during the years the songs were written, but with the most commercial style in which it is made, the film is light and enjoyable.

Perhaps most important is Woody Allen's "Zelig" is a funny movie. There are moments in this film where one can see that Allen's talent is real. The film was not entirely satisfactory during the years the songs were written, but with the most commercial style in which it is made, the film is light and enjoyable.

Deal of the Century

by Robert Wady

"Deal of the Century" misses on two fronts: the music and cinematography. I have been looking forward to "Deal of the Century" for some time now. The music and cinematography are both excellent. The film, however, suffers from a lack of narrative and a somewhat predictable storyline. It is not a film that is memorable, funny and often frustrating.

Athletic committee initiates pep club

by Caroline Vardely

An effort to increase student support for athletic events, the Student Athletic Committee of Student Government has established the Dance Spirit. Dance Spirit leaders must commit themselves to continue to attend all of the 23 home basketball games this season. Anyone who attends all games will receive a certificate, a t-shirt, and a one-year subscription to the school newspaper. Additionally, those who attend all games will receive a certificate for a year's worth of student body membership at a reduced rate. The certificated members will also receive free admission to all games.

Steve Sheth, the athletic director, and Todd Oglesby, the student body president, have been instrumental in establishing a student support group for several years, according to Steve Sheth. Steve Sheth received the necessary backing at a committee meeting last spring, according to Steve Sheth. Wake Forest opens impressively, 96-76

The sixth edition of Wake Forest basketball opened in a smashing fashion as senior forward Allen Allen scored 20 points, and Michael Hayford and Matt Peppler added 15 each as the Demon Deacons rolled over Virginia Commonwealth 96-76.

Well, that's what they do in this town.

By Mark Elliott

The much-anticipated season opener for the Demon Deacons was an impressive one. Allen led all scorers with 20 points, while Peppler and Hayford added 15 each.

Deacons face Tech in finale

Wake Forest's senior guard Danny Young announced before the game that this would be his final game as a Demon Deacon. Young has been a key player for the Deacons over the past four years, helping them to two NCAA Tournament appearances and four Atlantic Coast Conference titles.

In his final game, Young scored 15 points, connecting on 5-of-11 shots from the field and 4-of-5 shots from the free-throw line. He finished his career with 1,204 points, making him the 11th all-time leading scorer in Demon Deacon history.

Wake Forest's seniors also received a standing ovation before the game, and the team wore special jerseys for the occasion.

Lady Netters wrap up fall season

The Wake Forest women's tennis team finished the fall season on a high note, winning the ACC Individual Championships and placing four players in the top 10 of the ITA rankings.

Sophomore Marianna Erwin, a转移 student from the University of Georgia, won the ACC singles title with a 6-0, 6-0 win over her semifinal opponent. Erwin was named ACC Player of the Year and was named to the All-ACC team.

Junior Casey Woody and senior Jennifer Morrisboth won silverware. Woody won the ACC doubles title with partner Ashley Short, while Morris claimed the ACC championship in singles.

The team also won the ACC team crown for the first time in school history.

Women finish second

Senior looks back on school career

By Bill Woodford

Mark Jones, a former Wake Forest basketball player, looks back on his college career with fondness.

Jones, who played for the Demon Deacons from 1989 to 1992, said he had a great experience at Wake Forest.

"I've been a great experience," Jones said. "I had a lot of fun and made a lot of memories."
