Spring registration procedure altered
Craig Freid

Changes in year-end procedures, registration jacket distribution and drop-add slip validity will be implemented during January registration, registrar Margaret Perez said.

"Many students become frustrated at registration," Perez said. "We have tried to change the approach to make it easier for the students." The first change students will become aware of is the change in the setup of their registration jackets. Distribution will take place inside Reynolds Hall on Jan. 12. All advising must occur on that day.

Students wishing to take a course must go through a different process during spring registration. Proof of enrollment will be required. Students will be able to access the enrollment online. If the student’s registration status is open, they will be able to look at their registration agreements of the semester and course.

Affirmative Action targets faculty.

Women and minority hiring urged

Susan Gray Anderson

Due to the small number of women and minority faculty members at Wake Forest, the Office of Women and Minority Affairs is urging the faculty to engage in an application process to fill the current faculty hiring positions. Dr. Anderson cited a directive stating that for every open position, at least one woman and minority faculty member should be invited to interview. She said the application process is a way for women and minorities to become involved in the university environment and to pursue positions within the university.

Dean of the College Thomas E. Little, chair of the Committee on Women and Minority Faculty, said that the office of the Committee on Women and Minority Faculty will work to recruit women and minority faculty members to fill the positions. In addition, the Office of Women and Minority Affairs will work to increase the number of women and minority faculty members within the university. These efforts are in line with the university’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

Forum examines the liberal arts

Winston-Salem

Representatives from Bowman Gray School of Medicine,-bedroom School of Business and Wake Forest University presented and participated in a forum on the future of the liberal arts at Bowman Gray School of Medicine on Dec. 12. Each representative discussed their role in the liberal arts and the importance of this field.

"Liberal arts education is essential in today’s world, with the technological advances that are making it more difficult to be successful in life," said the representative from the School of Business. "Education in the liberal arts provides the foundation for critical thinking and problem-solving skills that are essential for success in today’s fast-paced society.

Several others agreed with the representative, highlighting the importance of the liberal arts in today’s society. One representative emphasized the importance of the liberal arts in promoting creativity and innovation, which are essential skills in today’s complex world.

The forum concluded with a discussion on the future of the liberal arts at Bowman Gray School of Medicine. The representatives agreed that the liberal arts should continue to be a part of the university’s curriculum, and that efforts should be made to ensure that students are well-prepared for success in their future careers.

Trustees to consider Foundation proposal

John McNally

The Dec. 12 agenda includes a change in the name of the group that will fund endowments and scholarships. The new group, the Wake Forest Foundation, will be chaired by the Board of Trustees. The change was made because the current group, the Wake Forest Corporation, is not as well known to the public as the Foundation.

"The new name reflects the changing role of the Foundation," said a representative from the Board of Trustees. "The Foundation will now be seen as a more independent entity that is focused on the support of Wake Forest University.

The proposal to change the name was approved unanimously by the Board of Trustees. The name change will take effect on Jan. 1, 2007.

A famous local group last month performed a variety of Bach and other Baroque music. The performances were given in a series of concerts to raise money for the Handel Baroque Society that will be held on the campus of Berea College. Bach's music is known for its complexity and emotional depth. The group has been invited to perform at major festivals around the world, including the Berliner Festwochen in Germany. The concerts were well received by the local audience and are expected to attract a large crowd.

Bach highlights two-piano recital

Robby Roberts

A recital of Christmas music, held Monday, Nov. 26, at 8 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the School of Music, provided an opportunity for a look at the music of some of Bach's most famous pupils. The recital was held as part of the Music School's Winter Music Festival and was presented by the School of Music's Piano Department.

The recital featured performances by several pianists, including students from the School of Music. The program included works by Bach, including the famous Christmas Oratorio and the Well-Tempered Clavier. The recital was well-received by the audience, who enjoyed the musical selections and the performances of the pianists.
On the road to the promised land?

Reynolds Hall has compiled its response to the RA's questions with an enthusiasm for the future: "Well fellow soldiers, we all shall cheer and keep running up the road, trying to do our best work." The name of the new administration has been coined a metaphor for the present condition, a small, all-white, all-male administration which has not compared its administration (as the RA's) with the administration of Reynolda Hall. The administration must be sufficient to be compared with the standards of Reynolda Hall. What does the future hold for Reynolda Hall? What does the future hold for the RA's? Will there be a need for administration? Will there be a need for reform? What about the RA's need for reform? Will there be a need for a new student activities center? Will there be a need for a new student activities center? Will there be a need for a new student activities center? Will there be a need for a new student activities center? Will there be a need for a new student activities center? Will there be a need for a new student activities center?

The promissed land?

The resulting conflict, however, did not compare to the standards of Reynolda Hall. The RA's, however, have been satisfied with the plans for the RA's. What does the future hold for the RA's? Will there be a need for administration? Will there be a need for reform? What about the RA's need for reform? Will there be a need for a new student activities center? Assumptions underlie response

This year's group of RA's, however, appeared to be more susceptible to what the RAs had previously stated. The RAs, however, did not compare to the standards of Reynolda Hall. Letters to the editor

An annual room search invades privacy

"I did really mean my help- less to the RA's that Renate's 12-year-old niece had been combed for the past three days of the annual Thanksgiving room search.

We were going over the student's plan through the looks, the housing office was going through our room.

What is it that concern student for invasion of privacy? In order to avoid possible unwanted exposure of academic aptitude, I thought it was going to be a different kind of privacy. I am a good student, but why does Wake Forest not let me have my privacy?

Are we any administrator we can stop the other one?... I have made up my mind that I am going to be a joiner. I believe that we should be a joiner. We should be a joiner.

Jack Maguire said that at the RA's, what we want is to get a group of students who can shape and make it for RA's.

Racial thinking is that we are at the same level. It is a poor regulation for which the RA's are going to be a joiner. We should be a joiner.

Frances Dodson said that at the RA's, what we want is to get a group of students who can shape and make it for RA's.

Racial thinking is that we are at the same level. It is a poor regulation for which the RA's are going to be a joiner. We should be a joiner.

Perhaps this awakening can carry over to other areas of life also. Wake Forest, and the social policy. We will see.

Appreciation

The Trustees of the J. S. Reynolds Foundation will make available a number of scholarships to students of Wake Forest. Each student who has applied for a scholarship will be notified of the trustees' decision. The trustees will make these awards on the basis of their own personal study and judgment.

Convocation

We would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the faculty and staff of Wake Forest University on the occasion of our annual convocation. On Oct. 12, 2000, our daughter Jill gave birth to our first grandchild. The new baby arrived just in time for the convocation, which we were able to attend with great pleasure. We were delighted to see that our new granddaughter, Emily, is thriving and healthy.

We look forward to working with J. S. Reynolds Foundation and to the future of Wake Forest University.

Mrs. and Mrs. Al Brooks

No. 12, 1980, of the current issue of Wake Forest's The Wake Logues was waiting to be devoured. We were delighted to see that the magazine was in excellent condition. We were also pleased to see that the contribution of our daughter, Emily, was included in the magazine.
Benatar: femininity and strength but one step from the real thing

Get used to Parsons, Roches...

Scott Apple

Knowing, as at least began, that noble readers are sick, sick of the tear of newspaper reviews as paradigm which such the publicity because of names, not recent quality, two oknos by article of unknown lesser notice order to hold.

"The Turn of a Fine Art," novelty released by the Jane Parsons Project, hold the list of alternative candidates.

At a time when many of the old horserace (McCartney, Lennon, etc.) to make a mark they had turned in the last of their great performances, many people began to turn to the new (Springsteen, Joplin, Browne and Fleetwood Mac). They were only minimally popular at the time but have since proved that some of these Shoulders will be创作s or creation albums. This involved in this search will never forget the release of the Project's second album, "I, Baker." Here was a masterpiece when all hope seemed lost.

Project by singing lead on three racks. His performance, adds to the overall effect to the project. Perhaps here's the answer to the question. Perhaps you remember recharging three strange energy, changing the "Pyramid" on Saturday Night Live but having more.

Describing the Roches songs is a difficult task. Their lyrics, hopefully, are far from serious. Their harmonizing is certainly catchy, not beautiful. They don't shy from occasionally throwing in a word or two that can't be included in this review. They aren't even good looking, but fortunately their talentless, either. Their layered harmonies are in the same class with Crosby, Nash, not exactly the same style, but just as impressive. Their project by singing lead on three racks. Their overall effect to the project is sure proof of their versatility and great sense of talent. It has perhaps entered the room through a door, a combination of femininity and strength, in the moment of rock 'n' roll should renew your faith in the real thing.

Mackovic declines Memphis St. offer

Head football coach John Mackovic has withdrawn from consideration for the Memphis State coaching job, according to the Associated Press.

Mackovic made the announcement at a meeting of the Tennessee-quartermen yesterday after he was given the chance to talk with Mackovic, who is the offensive coordinator for the Tennessee Quarters.

"We have a dynamic young coach who should be going onto another year," Mackovic said.

"I'm glad we're able to return to the conference as the offense coordinator," Mackovic said.

Mackovic also reassured the parents of the Tennessee players that he would return to the team for the remainder of the season.

The Associated Press also reported that Mackovic had been in contact with the school's athletic director, but Mackovic said he was not interested in the job.

Patty Jordan prepares for spring golf

North sports

Wake Forest golfer Patty Jordan has surprised the women's golf team because there was talk of Usdin hanging on to win 35-33, but Usdin had finally broken into the top 50 after winning a tournament at Florida State.

Patty Jordan was the individual title at the North Carolina State golf tournament. This is done at other opportunities to attain a place or position, but Jordan played in the championship November of the male members of the Wake Forest golf team. She has been able to come and play better than the other athlete. Robin Holloway and Julie have been able to come third in the tournament.

Aside from Jordan, to be what was really a girl's team. Though the women's golf team was tied for first a lot of trouble, "It was really a team," Jordan pleased. "Can I still play for you?" The match is worth the effort. They can still play for us. Just get yourself up here," Faircloth said.

Usdin drove her car eight miles to Wake Forest and played in the national practice round at Furman. She has been able to come and play better than the other athlete. Robin Holloway and Julie have been able to come third in the tournament. She has been able to come and play better than the other athlete. Robin Holloway and Julie have been able to come third in the tournament.

Usdin decided on Vanderbilt, but while he was in a registration line, a girl told him that the place was not for him. The phone call brought Usdin to Wake Forest.

They had a guy named Bert Vuyevara, who was Gordon's brother, so they didn't need him. Because of his size and inexperience, just making the team would have pleased everybody. But then again, Usdin isn't just anybody. Historically driven to succeed at major college football, but disillusioned with Florida's treatment toward him, Usdin decided to transfer. But where? Who would take a 100 pound American field goal kicker?

Most of the responses Usdin received were negative, except two from Vanderbilt and Wake Forest.

Usdin decided on Vanderbilt, but while he was in a registration line, a girl told him that the place was not for him. The phone call brought Usdin to Wake Forest.

Edelman repeated as the reigning champions in co-ed tennis, unseating the Lambda Chi Alpha team. The men's singles was the biggest upset of the tournament. Usdin said, "It’s a continual struggle to gain equal status with scholarship players. We’re working hard to be more competitive and to create an impression.

Usdin said. Usdin's confidence in achieving recognition and equality began in Jacksonville, Florida. The sole out of three of Usdin's Wake Forest matches was against Florida A&M. Usdin was able to hit and receive at high level without much help, but he did not take the sport very seriously. Usdin does not believe that giving field goal kicking a try was the right decision. "I would have preferred to work at something else," Usdin said. "I've been told people tell me I'm too small to do something like this, but I think I can do it.

"I started to use my size and leverage for the game because it seemed like I was not helping in any way my game. I wasn't sure if I could do it but I just had to try. I didn't know if I could really make it, but I gave it a shot."

"My goal is to be the starting kicker at Wake, and earn a full scholarship. I think this is a good goal, the goal of my every walk, to earn something after years of effort and sacrifice.

"I honestly believe that I could play in good tournaments with everybody that has been the best in the country. And we did we could we could play in good tournaments with everybody that has been the best in the country.
