The BAPTISTS AND BLACKS

One may not speak of the Baptists and blacks without reference to the Baptist de cision. Born in the open field of history, early on the campus, is the fact that warm lar meeting in the administration.

In the long history of the South, the Baptists have been the most active denomina

The Andersons (S. J. T.) believe that the policy of that institution is to bring the black and white people together in a spirit of mutual understanding, cooperation and peace.

In Dr. Charles F. W. W. college, a college that has never discriminated against the color of a man, we find that the Baptists have given a new lease on life to the black people in the South.

The North Carolina College Press Association meeting at Meredith is history and the mere of the word. "God love the blacks."

As time passes, it becomes more and more apparent that the history of the college is the history of the people, and that the progress of the one is inseparable from the progress of the other.

We believe that the decision of the College Press Association to offer an annual prize for the best short story of black history is a fitting recognition of the Negro's contributions to the world. We are all greatly indebted to them for their work.

We notice that the Methodists have been the only ones who have shown any interest in the subject of black history. It is a fact that the Methodists have more Negro members than any other church in the South.

The Baptists have been the first to realize the importance of the subject, and have been among the first to do something about it.

We believe that the decision of the College Press Association to offer an annual prize for the best short story of black history is a fitting recognition of the Negro's contributions to the world. We are all greatly indebted to them for their work.
