Duke Power to Provide Lighting Improvements

By DAVID WAGNER

A top priority of former SC President John Corbitt's administration has been carried over to the new administration, as present SC President En Thompson continues efforts to provide adequate lighting on campus. Largely because of Duke's work, light on campus has been greatly improved over the days when mercury bulbs in high-pressure sodium vapor lights were the dominant type, as well as the days when incandescent and neon bulbs were used. The area is still a dominant source of illumination, though the more modern units remain unattached.

The proposed ad-hoc committee, known as a light study and made up of the entire faculty, was organized to study and discuss the problems related to the use of electricity by students, and was given the task to develop a system to improve the lighting system for the coming year. The committee's disagreement were given in a letter to Snyder, who was chairman of the committee, and suggested that the two serve as co-editors. The committee has also decided to suggest changes for the system to the Student Legislature; and 3) to suggest ways in which prospective students can be properly educated about the honor system.

Honorable Code to Be Reevaluated

By ELIZABETH A. ASHLEY

The Student Government officers approved a resolution Tuesday to establish an ad-hoc committee on the honor system which will review the honor system and suggest policy changes and modifications. The ad-hoc committee will be composed of two representatives from each of the four student organizations and two faculty members who will have legislative power to make changes or modifications. The committee will then be chosen by the faculty and students for final approval.

The ad-hoc committee will have three main concerns: 1) to review the honor system (to be done in the spring), 2) to recommend policy changes to the Judicial Council, the Student Government officers, and the Student Legislature, and 3) to suggest ways in which prospective students can be properly educated about the honor system.

The most important of these goals is the review of the whole honor system and the proposed new changes to the honor system. The Student Government officers will work with the Judicial Council, the Judicial Board, and the Student Government officers in the development of a new honor system.

CU Installs New Leader

By CINDY CALDWELL / Staff Writer

This year the new face of Mary Bell comes to campus as Minn. Office, Bell replaced Mike Ried in the new position this semester.

As director, Bell said her role is primarily two as "upstairs, resource person, and liaison to the campus." Also, "I help the students with organizing the events and the budgetary decision, but I alone supply the input to the weddings," she added. Bell is also focusing on fitting her role into that of an educator through leadership skills.

Bell is also working to find new activity space in Reynolds Hall and to find ways of making the space

Freshman Class Experiences Loss

Tyrone struck the Wake Forest campus Sunday afternoon as the annual freshmen kicked off the start of the year.

The new faces in Reynolds Hall included the theme of "freshman class experience loss."

The psychology department is trying to over-come the idea of students feeling lost in a new environment. The department is trying to provide a support system for freshmen to help them adjust to college life.

"We've had a study that shows that freshmen are getting lost in a new environment," said Assistant Principal of Student Affairs, Brian Austin. "The department is working on creating a support system for freshmen to help them adjust to college life.

Debate Team Hosts First Tournament

By SCOTT SCHMIDT / Staff Writer

Last weekend approximately 750 people gathered inside Wake Forest University. Three teams were participating in the tournament, which was set up by the Wake Forest University Debate Team.

Three from 27 states took part in the tournament, representing Wake Forest. One team, sponsored by the Wake Forest University Debate Team, was coached by Bill Davis and comprised of students from Wake Forest, Davidson, and Furman Universities.

Wednesday morning the team was invited to give a memorial service in Myres, which was scheduled for 10:30 a.m. at Davis Chapel.

A 1976 Dibbs 1000 was stolen from Frail. The victim filed a complaint after the theft. Because the vehicle was found in the Buena Vista area while the victim was being investigated, the Department of Public Safety at Buena Vista University was notified of the crime. According to Officer Viana, the vehicle owner, a Buena Vista College student, believes that the vehicle was taken by someone who knows the area and is familiar with the Buena Vista College campus. Officer Viana stated that the vehicle was taken during the early morning hours. She also noted that the victim is a student at Buena Vista College.

Also during the weekend, several minor crimes on campus were reported. A student had his wallet stolen from the bookstore. The wallet contained several identification cards and a credit card. The victim stated that he noticed the wallet missing earlier in the day, but did not report it until later.

Graylyn Brings Notoriety

By TERESA TUHFI

On January 31, 1984, Graylyn Estate, located in Winston-Salem, North Carolina, was the site of a grand opening and tour. The mansion was donated to Wake Forest University by J. Reynolds Reynolds, R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company's founder and chairman. The mansion, which was built in 1915, was the largest residence in the United States at the time of its opening.

The mansion is a five-story structure with 75 rooms and over 50,000 square feet of living space. It features a grand ballroom, a library, a music room, and a conservatory. The mansion also houses a museum that exhibits artifacts related to the Reynolds family and the history of the tobacco industry.

The mansion is now open to the public for guided tours. The mansion is open daily from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., except on Mondays. Admission is $10 for adults, $5 for seniors, and free for children under 12.

Preregistration Process Examined

By EMILY MEYER

For many students this year, preregistration was a stressful and time-consuming process. The process involves choosing courses and registering for them before the official registration period begins. The goal of preregistration is to ensure that students can enroll in the classes they want and need to keep their schedules intact.

However, some students found the process to be overwhelming and frustrating. They reported that the process was confusing and difficult to navigate. One student commented, "The pre-reg process is a mess. It's impossible to get everything right in the first round."

Lights Out

It is impossible to place the blame for the lights situation on any individual or individual for delaying an attempt to install new lighting in the two largest parking lots on campus; however, Duke Power seems to have been less than honest in defending the situation.

When the tenancy was purchased, Duke had every intention of paying the $5000 for all the lights and yet despite the tenancy, a Duke employee:
The Future of South Africa

With her world's known as background, the question of South Africa's future has become ever more pressing. The present regime is clearly in crisis, and the country is facing an uncertain future. It is a future that will be determined by the outcome of the current negotiations and the actions of all concerned parties.

A likely scenario involves economic sanctions that could lead to a revolution that brings a new government to power. This government would have to address the country's pressing social and economic problems, including poverty, unemployment, and racial tension.

A further possibility is that the current regime will remain in power, but with significant changes. The government could make concessions to the liberation forces, such as releasing political prisoners, holding fair elections, and allowing greater freedom of speech and association.

The future of South Africa will be determined by the actions of all concerned parties, including the government, the liberation forces, and the international community. It is a future that will require the utmost effort to achieve a peaceful and just outcome.
Cafe Offers Change From Routine

By RICHARD SANET

Living within the confines of a small college and back-country settings makes it difficult to find a place where one feels like they have found a true friend. When you're away from home, you tend to find a good spot and stick with it. But now there's a new place in town that serves breakfast any time. The building that houses this restaurant had and still has, as one of the most popular over the years.

As a genre, the film noir has experienced a resurgence of interest. It is a genre that has been around for quite some time, but there is something unique about the way it is perceived today. The term, "film noir," originally referred to a style of filmmaking that emerged in the 1940s and 1950s and was characterized by its dark, shadowy atmosphere.

The latest attempt at the pure film noir is "Blood Simple," a film directed by Joel and Ethan Coen. This movie is not only a great example of the genre, but it also features performances by notable actors such as John Travolta, Frances McDormand, and Bruce Willis.

"Blood Simple" is a story of a private investigator who is hired to look into a murder. As the investigation unfolds, the private investigator begins to question everything he thought he knew about the case. Along the way, he meets a woman who becomes his partner in crime, and together they uncover a complex web of lies and deceit.

The film noir genre has always been associated with themes of murder, crime, and corruption. "Blood Simple" is no exception. The film explores the dark side of human nature and the consequences of one's actions.

In conclusion, "Blood Simple" is a classic example of the film noir genre. It is a film that will leave you thinking long after the credits have rolled. So, if you're a fan of the genre or just looking for a good movie to watch, "Blood Simple" is definitely worth a watch.

Peasant Shows Salvador's Despair

By ERIK ROBERTS

Last Wednesday the College Union sponsored the musical production "A Quarter Past El Salvador," the Latin Theatre of the Duke Arts Center's most ambitious work to date. The production's creator, Charles Andra, a senior history major, said that he wrote it "because I believe that Reagan was starting to make a move against Latin America, and I think it's important to show what it means to those people to have their government come in and start to destroy their way of life."

The play tells the story of the life of a peasant who is a member of a family of workers on a plantation in El Salvador. The story of the family and their life on the plantation is told by a narrator who provides background on the political climate of El Salvador in the late 1970s. The family is portrayed as being forced to leave their home and travel to the city to find work, but they are unable to find work and are forced to return to the plantation. The family is then shown as being worked to death on the plantation, and the narrator provides commentary on the effects of the military regime on the lives of the peasants.

The production was met with mixed reviews. Some students felt that the play was too heavy-handed and that the message was not delivered effectively. Others felt that the play was well-acted and that it effectively conveyed the message of the plight of the peasants in El Salvador.

The play was performed in the Duke Arts Center and was well-attended. The cast and crew worked long hours to prepare for the production, and the result was a powerful and thought-provoking depiction of the effects of the military regime on the lives of the peasants in El Salvador.

Indecisive Shadow

The Wake Forest University Literary Society is proud to present the film series "The Holocaust". The series will feature six films that highlight different aspects of the Holocaust, including the experiences of Jews and non-Jews, the role of the SS and other German soldiers, and the survival of those who were persecuted by the Nazis.

The first film in the series will be "The Pianist", directed by Roman Polanski and based on the memoir of Wladyslaw Szpilman, a Polish pianist who survived the Holocaust in Auschwitz and Treblinka. The film follows Szpilman as he is absorbed into the ranks of the Jewish labor brigade and later into the ranks of the SS doctors, who treat him as an experiment in medical research. The film is a powerful and moving portrayal of the experiences of a single individual in the Holocaust, and it provides a glimpse into the brutality and inhumanity of the Nazi regime.

Subsequent films in the series include "Schindler's List", which tells the story of Oskar Schindler, a German industrialist who saved the lives of 1,200 Jewish workers by employing them in his factories; "Shoah", a documentary film by Claude Lanzmann that explores the history and legacy of the Holocaust; and "The Last Days of the90s", a film that focuses on the experiences of a group of young people who were forced to flee their homes and families after the Holocaust.

The film series is part of a larger program of events that the Wake Forest University Literary Society is hosting to commemorate the 70th anniversary of the liberation of Auschwitz-Birkenau. The program includes lectures, discussions, and film screenings that aim to raise awareness about the Holocaust and its lasting impact on the world.

The first event in the program will be a screening of "The Pianist" on November 12th at 7:30 PM in the Duke Arts Center. The event is free and open to the public. For more information, please visit the Wake Forest University Literary Society's website or contact Michael Hostetler, the Director of Admissions, at mhostetler@wfu.edu.

The program is supported by the Wake Forest University Literary Society and the Office of Student Affairs. The event is sponsored by the Office of Student Affairs and the Office of Diversity and Inclusion.

The Wake Forest University Literary Society is committed to promoting understanding and respect for diversity and to fostering a community that is inclusive and welcoming to all. The program is part of the university's ongoing efforts to educate students about the history and impact of the Holocaust and to promote a culture of tolerance and empathy.

WFDD Broadcasts Variety

By ROBERT FOOTE

WFDD, Wake Forest's non-commercial radio station, along with one of the university's most important facilities for serving the people of the Triad area. With the format of cultural and informational programs, the station serves an "equitable" population equally with respect to all races, ages, economic backgrounds, and educational levels.

The station's 1964 statement of mission was focused on WFDD's desire "to search for the live, the literate" through the broadcast of classical, jazz, folk, and folk music. The station has a "can't-miss" station that is located in the Triad which features three of the city's most popular radio shows.

In addition to providing the area with critical services, the station also broadcasts news reports in part of the National Public Radio network. A complete program schedule for "The Morning Edition," "AM Things Considered," and "Midday Musical" is also available. The station's popular programming is well received by the listeners. The station's preparation and broadcast of the program various times a day are broadcast.

A third way in which WFDD serves the community is by acting as a key community arts and cultural events area. Art organizations and the city itself appear on the air. Many of the programs are WFDD produced and many are interested in the program. The program is often heard by people who are interested in the arts.

The station's primary consideration is its "station's station" which is located in the Triad which features three of the area's most well known radio stations.

The goals and responsibilities of the station are to: deliver educational, to conduct programming, to coexist with other media, to develop additional programming functions as one of the most important responsibilities of the station's station and thus affect the general public.

The station's duties include the following: to increase power to the station's broadcast power, to receive the station's broadcast power, to conduct any new programming, to conduct the station's broadcasting on the format of cultural and informational programs, to conduct any new programming, to conduct the station's broadcasting on the format of cultural and informational programs.

In 1961, WFDD received an Endless Gold Rush, a legislative program designed to aid public radio stations. This act established the Corporation for Public Broadcasting which will provide the station with its board of directors. WFDD conducted its first on the air fund drive in 1977. The station hired its first full-time employees as a chief engineer in 1973. The full-time employees were added in the following year and another in 1975. The hiring of a Community Relations Director in 1976 brought the present total of permanent staff positions.

In 1977, WFDD was awarded a grant for a special broadcast of the station's broadcast power, to receive the station's broadcast power, to conduct any new programming, to conduct the station's broadcasting on the format of cultural and informational programs. In 1985, WFDD began receiving financial support from the university because of its classification as an "educational station" and thereby classified as a public station.

Lambert Endorses the Middle

By DAN BAKER

Senior linebacker Steve Lambert has settled into his starting role this year as one of the integral players in Charlie Cooke's defense.

Lambert is a hard hitter and an outstanding student, who has gained 212 yards on only 53 carries this season.

The defense which has given up only 12 points (three times as much data) and 14 tackles in recent games, has been very effective against the opponent's running game.

The Demon Deacons will go into the game against Appalachian State looking to improve on their run defense.

The defense, as well as the offense, has been very successful against the opponent's running game.

Field Hockey Team Evens Record

By CHAD KILLERBEE

Staff Writer

Radford upset Wake Forest one game winning streak as the Highlanders edged 4-2 Sunday at Pitt Field. Radford scored four first-half goals as they rallied to their record 6-2. The Deacons dropped to 3-2.

Kristy Koger of Radford opened the scoring in the opening minute of the game after a goal directly from a penalty corner. The Highlanders doubled their advantage when Jayme John scored off a lob pass from the left wing. Radford scored the only goal in the second half. She was assisted by Kelly Hildreth, who scored the final goal for the Highlanders, which would come on an empty net.

Still, Deacons should be satisfied, for their offense has produced a long way, and touched by his hands. The Highlanders would lose 4-4 in overtime after the Deacons had tied the game at 4-4. The Highlanders would ultimately lose for the first time this season.

Deacons Fall to Catawba

By TIM GERBER

Staff Writer

The Wake Forest soccer team had a frustrating week, losing heart in both games. The Deacons were defeated by the Catawba forward took a shot on goal by Sylvia de la Lez and scored a goal. The Deacons dropped to three points.

The Deacons lost both games in the first half but emerged with a slight speed advantage over the visitors. Deacons were held scoreless by the Wake Forest defense, which was able to hold the Deacons to two goals in the first half.

The Deacons outshot the Wolfpack at all. The Deacons will have been nice, but in gambling for league play is far better than a loss. It could have made that decision about not kicking the field goals.

It appears that God did not want to take the chance of screwing up the goal field and missing it. He had to have decided to build a field goal in any of those situations, you remember that Wake Forest head coach Andy Knupp of Radford scored the tying 1-1 at the 57th minute of the game by taking a shot on goal from the right side.

In the second half, Wake Forest experienced a slight speed advantage over the visitors. Deacons were held scoreless by the Wake Forest defense, which was able to hold the Deacons to two goals in the first half.

Unfortunately Deako's approach and converted the shot and scored the tying goal in the 57th minute of the game by taking a shot on goal from the right side.

Knupp struck again at the 440 minute mark to tie the game at 2-2. The Deacons dropped to 3-2.
