Construction of University Center Set for May; Architects Picked

Wendy T. Latimer, Staff Writer

Wake Forest University's municipal center has been set for the start of construction. The $9.5 million project is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

The university center, located across the street from the Bowman Gray Oncology Center, will be the largest building on campus. It will house offices, classrooms, and a computer room.

A committee of architects and engineers has been selected to design the center. They include James Hearn, vice president for administration and finance, and Jay Reynolds, assistant vice president of university affairs.

The design of the center will be based on the architecture of the surrounding buildings.

The center is expected to be the new home of the Student Government Association and the Student Life Center.

The proposed site for the center is 7 acres.

The center will be built in phases, with the first phase expected to be completed by the end of the year.

The center will be a significant addition to the university's facilities, said Hearn. "It will provide much-needed space for our students and faculty."
Italian House Gives Out-of-Class Cultural Experience

By Bett Farrell

The Italian House on Polo Road gives out-of-class cultural experience through a variety of activities. One of these activities is a chance to improve Russian language skills.

Bianca Artom, a lecturer in the department of romance languages, said the house at Wake Forest offers the opportunity to win Russian language skills. Most students don't have much time to devote to their language studies. The weekly events, conducted in Russian and open to anyone interested, are open to anyone interested, and are open to anyone interested.

Stuart Waller, a senior who spent a semester in Venice, Italy, says: "I learned a lot about the Italian lifestyle. I got a chance to improve my speaking skills."

Stuart added. "There are a lot of opportunities to improve your Russian language skills."

Russian House sponsors weekly events to improve interest in the language. Volunteers and speakers come to present views of Russian cultural life and values.

Self-Confidence and Comrades are Words at Basic Camp

By Karen Bost

For many, the words bring to mind the image of a drill sergeant barking orders or the sound of a loudspeaker blaring commands. Many are frightful.

But for others, the description is a welcome opportunity to remember F and Wednesday or a chance to stand out in a crowd of thousands. It is a chance to become a better person.

A few weeks ago, more than 2,000 college students were welcomed to Fort Knox, Ky., in a ceremony that acquired a new meaning for many of them.

"We are a small group of people," said a cadet to the others, "but we are a large group of people who are going to do great things."
WFU Minorties Meet To Discuss Recruiting

By Matthew Mobyed

The minority community at Wake Forest has been processing different ways in which the role of minorities in the Wake Forest community could be increased through entrepreneurial expansion and further involvement of minorities already on campus.

The minority, called the Frederick Douglass Roosevelt Trustees, was designed to address the 1986 agenda of the minority community.

Glenn Cooper, an assistant to the office of admissions, said "every minority is going to be forced to define who he is in the minority applications in the future." Minority applications are required to increase 100 percent this year, Cooper said.

Wade announced the beginning of a new minority assistance program, which will assist freshmen in making the transition from high school to the college environment.

President Thomas H. Hartm, Jr., told the students at the meeting that the addition of the FunFair will be a source of pride.

The FunFair will also feature the following events:

- A musical performance by the Carolina Men's Chorus
- A poetry slam by the Wake Forest Poetry Collective
- A workshop on public speaking by the National Black Studies Association
- A panel discussion on "The State of the Union" by members of the Democratic and Republican parties
- A viewing of the film "American Utopia"
- A silent auction featuring art and crafts from the Wake Forest community

FunFair will be held at 9 a.m. at the Market Square in High Point.

You may be thinking about choosing one of the newer carriers come AT&T in order to save money.

Think again.

Since January 1987, AT&T's prices have dropped more than 35% for direct-dial out-of- state calls. So they're lower than you probably realize. For information on specific rates, you can call us at 1-800-222-0300.

And AT&T offers clear long distance connections, operator assistance, 24-hour customer service, and immediate credit for wrong numbers. Plus, you can use AT&T to call anywhere to anyone, all over the United States and to over 250 countries.

You might be surprised at how good a value AT&T really is. So before you choose a long distance company, pick up the phone.

openness, artistic expression and raw, brutal treatment of the Soviet press and people. The Soviet now media is in its best interest to cooperate with the rest of the world to further its own modernization, Shaw said.

Hamilton said that the addition of the censor has placed pressure on the Soviet media. He said that the long, crowded, with some of the cushioning effect, "A lot of language looks like interesting writing," Hamilton said.

Shaw added, "The language lab will have to come to terms with the expanding interest in language." To cope with the increased demand, both Hamilton and Shaw have had to personally record tapes for the students.

Hamilton said that other programs plan to allow students to enroll in language courses to the Russian material within the next three years. Shaw said that he hopes to start bringing this up to the Soviet Union.

Campus officials have complete confidence in the Russian students in the United States, Hamilton said.
Labor Day

Students, Faculty Get Day Off Later

May 9, 1997

My students have been wondering why they were fortunate to celebrate Labor Day off this past summer. I think the administration felt they should have the day off especially as it was the first Monday in May. As all things in our university, there is an explanation behind this policy. The faculty will have the day off and so will the students who work on Labor Day.

First, both students and faculty have just returned from a three month summer vacation (excluding those involved with summer school). I think the school administration felt that the students and faculty would have had enough time to work on Labor Day.

Second, the science departments strongly resist any vacation that might be taken during the fall. As we all know, the fall break rolls around, the students and faculty will have a day off, while the administration conducts business as usual.

A Declaration of Independence

Fraternities and Societies Are Not the Only Form of Fun and Fellowship at Wake Forest

It's a sad tale of failure. When a school is the object of one of the ten best lunches on earth, and ten percent of the time has less than half of the students, when the football coach is a charlatan and the basketball team should be in the most next to last place, when the campus is swarming with young college freshmen, that school is Friday night because the parties are all closed and the most popular person is the one who gets off campus — that is when we have to stop and ask the question: Why are we at Wake?

Next year it will be you in this analogy. If we are here this year, it is not because we want to continue on. All you have to do to recover something is to do something about it. While it is true, we are not all as serious as man-murder, but there are a few words that are a must to the questionability and attractiveness of college campuses.

Surely, this is not the year to stop asking questions. You are not alone. Many of the freshmen you met in your classes have the same worries and the same questions you have. They are important as social institutions and as a source of enjoyment for some of the fewest of college freshmen and phony students. They do not hear about Student Unions and all the good stuff they do there, they do not hear about Student Government and all the good things they do there, but they do hear about the Old Gold and Black or the Black and Gold or even all the other colors. It is less than the intensity of the fun making, drinking and their parties. It might be because there is some necessary action about fraternities and societies and the need to break from the pattern of group. With all that is going on, it is possible that just as even the bonds between students in Baptist Student Union or Midnight Dimention or Black Student Alliance or any other close-knit involved group on campus. But, just to see it is still there, one might call the excitement of new students.

"HAZING." Which brings us to the question of Hazing. It is really a term that has been thrown around for the past few years, but just like a running joke, it has been a subject of discussion and debate for years. What is Hazing? It is really a tool used to make new students feel welcome at the school. It is a way to make new students feel a part of the college community.

"Things just won't be the same after you graduate."

You'll go back to work on Friday nights.

doy I say my say?"

It is a very serious issue and not only does it happen at Wake Forest, but it happens at other colleges and universities. It is really a problem that needs to be addressed.

The thing that a girl could do is to be conscious of the certain situations in which she may find herself, and to try to avoid involving herself, in predicaments in which she has limited control over what may happen. This includes dressing like a man, or being in an overly suggestive manner, or dressing in revealing clothing, or getting involved in a situation. This is a very personal dilemma, and the person involved should try to understand her own situation and make sure she is not in a vulnerable position.

It would be nice to think that Wake Forest would take a stand against any issues like drug or rape or sexual assault, but apparently this is not the case. Drug policies can sometimes be so strict that they can really be a turning point for students. If a drug policy is too strict, it can be a barrier to students using drugs. Conversely, if the policies are too lenient, it can be a barrier to students not using drugs.

It is really a problem that needs to be addressed.

SECCA Exhibits Memorabilia, Elvis-Inspired Art

By Terry Shipping
Old Gold and Black Reporter

The 10th anniversary of Elvis Presley's death has received much publicity. He personally has inspired numerous musicians from the world of art, and the Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art (SECCA) decided to display several of these in their galleries this month.

The exhibits, entitled "Elvis," opened Aug. 1 and will be shown through Sept. 27. It is a diverse show, comprising over 50 pieces, from an acrylic guitar and comic strip专ments to porcelain dinnerware. A large part of the exhibit is made up of records and mix tapes. Materials used in these include aluminum foil and plastic.

Alongside the more traditional disciplines of music, several sculptors have done Elvis portraits from memory or original, human hands. Other artists' guitar strings are included. The exhibit is not surprising for its fan base, but it is also said to be a draw for many.

Most of the back wall of the main gallery is covered by "Elvis: Playpen with James Watt." The artist has made a two-level, 14-foot-tall cabinet, made of wood and blue velvet from the Tennessee Nashville plate, "Elvis." Arranged around the cabinets are various objects, from coins to buttons, recorded interviews and more.

Elvis Presley is known to be one of the biggest stars in the world. He died on Aug. 16, 1977, but his influence is still felt today. The exhibit is intended to be a celebration of his legacy.

Diversions Coffeehouse

Serves Up Special K

By Steve Steppage
Old Gold and Black Reporter

Student Union Network Productions is offering their special series of events called "Diversions," on Tuesday. The themed performer will vary from week to week, and there will be a free admission and donated food.

This year's "Diversions" series will see an appearance from "The Rock of Ages," which features Chris Zenni, who was in the show last year. Zenni will appear on acoustic guitar and comedian Special K.

The Rock of Ages is a program that has been presented at the SECCA and other venues throughout the year. This is their first appearance at SECCA, and they will be the only type of performance.

We are not planning on having big names," Johnson continues. "We will be open to anything and everything that is entertaining."

Currently, there is no exchange for admission, but Johnson claims that "the door will be open and get to a point where we're doing something good." The student union is open to any type of entertainment.

If "Diversions" is successful, the Student Union plans to use money from the University's Center and expand the program.

For now, however, the primary concern of Network Productions and Johnson is "to respond to the feeling the Wake Forest community has that there is not a place to go to in the University Center." They plan to go to a good entertainment.

Don't Let Your Classes Interfere With the Soaps

By Chris Sherman
Old Gold and Black Reporter

Unfortunately, many of you out there are soap opera fans who are constantly faced with the threat of your classes interfering with your viewing schedule. The biggest risk: If you miss an episode, you could miss the entire plot.

Our heroine, Chancellor Cairns, and her sidekick, Chancellor Dugger, are two of the few who have not missed an episode of the popular soap opera. Both have been fans for years and are never without their tissues.

Meanwhile, Dr. Nancy Dugger, the world-famous archaeologist, follows a bunch of soap operas looking for the legendary Feymonian Ruby of the Pacific island of Rupandy. The feymonian was seen by Dr. Dugger on a recent excavation trip.

But there's another reason why you should not let your classes interfere with the Soaps. It's a long way from the classroom to the classroom.

It's A Sedelmaier:

The Art of Advertising

By Donna Benman
Old Gold and Black Reporter

The 1987-88 season of the Winston-Salem Center for Contemporary Art (SECCA) opens with a variety of shows running through the fall and spring. For a full subscription price of $60, the subscriber is entitled to see all of the shows, which range from half-dance to jazz. For $35, you can see the same shows, but at a smaller price.

"It's A Sedelmaier" is an exhibit of works by the artist, who has been a fixture in the Winston-Salem area for many years. The exhibit features several pieces inspired by Sedelmaier's work in the world of advertising.

The real gift of "It's A Sedelmaier" is the opportunity to see Sedelmaier's work up close and personal. His paintings and sculptures show a mastery of the medium, and his ability to bring his work to life is a testament to his skill.

The gallery is located at 750 Magnet Avenue, off Reynolds Road. The gallery is open Tuesday through Saturday, Thursday evening, and Sunday 5-6 p.m. Admission to the exhibit is free, and there will be an opening reception on Thursday evening.

This is the first such exhibit in the area, and it is expected to be a success. The exhibit will be on display through November 1988.
Hege V: Southern Innovation

By James A. Babcock
Old Gold and Black Reporter

Hege V’s new album, House of Fire, is an energetic collection of original songs that are powerful and intelligent, acoustically-dominant southern rock.

The album is produced by local legend Mitch Easter. Egg Harbor Towne Hall also produced R.E.M. and his own band, Mountain Goats.

Although Easter is credited with chief producer of the album, songs such as “Gloss, Great, Great,” and “Shadow of a Gun” are handled by classic Led Zeppelin-like guitars. Hege V’s lead singer and guitarist, Ron Hood, says all the material on the album, lives in Chapel Hill and performs additional songs in the Raleigh-Durham area. He said the band lives in a house named “The House of Texas” and ride around town in a motor, a disc bakery at UNC’s WXYC said. The band occasionally plays at dates in Winston-Salem.

The first side of the album is much more upbeat than the equally effective but slower side two. It contains the album’s two best songs, the title track and “Burnin’ Cronin of the Redneck Revenge,” “House of Fire,” which speakers the album, is a final song that reaches the history of history and the Southern rock and roll. The album, songs such as “Two Minutes,” “The Rock and Roll,” and “N.C. Country” are covered on the album by famous Algonquian bands such as Lynard Skynard, respectively, this album is loaded with classic Let’s Active guitar licks. The album was recorded by lead singer and guitarist, Ron Hood, says the band, and the band has a video for the album, which can be seen on the album, songs such as “Two Minutes.”

“House of Fire” is an excellent first showing from the band, and the band has a video for the album, which can be seen on the album, songs such as “Two Minutes.”

BLOOM COUNTY by Berke Breathed

Side two opens with “Polly Doctor.” A handful, reflecting time in which Hege does her best Bob Dylan voice. The title continues in the same vein with the mellow, country-oriented “The Rock” and “Glass Green Granite.” When Hood’s harmony vocals present, you get the feeling his member is playing almost led by acoustic guitar. Hood’s voice carries this simple tune about a dying man to town, and turns the mood of lightlessness in the rest of the album to dispel with the haunting symbolism of his lyrics.

As an album, House of Fire is an excellent introduction to local singer Hege V. The intro and style shifts in the album are enough to keep the recording fresh and interesting, but not confusing. Once again the listener hears the influence of Southern music and music of the album, such as Jean and the Scrubbers and House of Fire, and the band has a video for the album, which can be seen on the album, songs such as “Two Minutes.”

Anderson said PepsiCo is interested in establishing a facility near Wake Forest in the future, but it will not happen in the next few years due to current business difficulties.

Anderson also addressed the university's decision to cut the football team, saying it is a tough decision to make, but it is necessary to ensure the university has the resources to support the other athletic programs.

In terms of recruitment, Anderson said the university needs to continue to focus on attracting talented students and enhancing the university's reputation.

Piccolo

HFC and HSC raised $3,500. The cancer fund drive is named in honor of Brian Piccolo, a Wake Forest alumna and former football player who died of cancer at age 36 in 1979.

Piccolo played for the Chicago Bears after graduating from Wake Forest in 1969. Piccolo's brother, Tricia, a Wake Forest junior, is the honorary chairman of the fund drive this year.

The cancer fund drive will celebrate Nov. 14 at the University of South Carolina football game when Gary Smid, a former teammate and close friend of Piccolo's, will announce the drive and check to the Bowman Gray Cancer Research Foundation.

Stacey Kavounis, a senior, will speak at a banquet Nov. 15 with other leaders and members of the athletic department.

(Other fundraisers during the drive include a presentation Oct. 16 of the movie "Brian's Song," a Purdue Action Series concert Oct. 27 by the Canadian Brass. Members of the concert will play "Brian's Song," and Pepsi will be sold at intermission.

As they have in the past, fraternities and sororities will sponsor their own events to raise money for the drive. DCSF and Powell said the goal is to raise $20,000, which was raised last year and to bring the cumulative contribution to the fund to over $55,000.

"We've set a really good head start on everything and got everybody excited about the drive," said Powell. "We've gotten a good response so far, but we need a lot more involvement.

Ford said that over the summer he and DCSF went on a tour of the hospital center and saw some of the equipment that has been purchased with funds raised by the Piccolo drive. He said, "It was exciting to see where the money goes."

"The publicity tonight will feature the football team, pep band, cheerleaders and the Dancing Bears. The Band Marshals will provide entertainment at 8 p.m. on the Magnolia patio. The dinner will provide food and beverages."

"The only thing that was a disappointment was the weather," he said.

The Deacon Women's basketball team will host two new tournament opponents this fall: the Deacon Invitational and the Wake Forest Tobacco Road Classic. The team opens its season this week at 7 p.m. on Saturday with a 7 p.m. game against Alcorn State.

This will be the first time the Deacons will host a new opponent this season. The team's home opener will be on Sunday at 7 p.m. against South Carolina.

The team is currently preparing for the upcoming season, working hard to improve their skills and gain experience. The players are looking forward to the challenge and excitement of the tournament.

In cooperation with the Wake Forest Tobacco Road Classic, the women's basketball team will participate in a variety of activities throughout the tournament, including fan nights, ticket sales, and advertisements. The players will receive a direction from the tournament organizers.

The Wake Forest Tobacco Road Classic is a new tournament that will feature two women's basketball teams competing for the championship. The teams will play three games over two days, with the championship game on Sunday.

The tournament will take place on the Winston-Salem State University campus and will feature two women's basketball teams from the South Atlantic Conference. The winner of the tournament will receive a championship trophy and an invitation to participate in the South Atlantic Conference tournament.

Dooley expects the Deacons to be well-prepared and competitive in their games, aiming for a strong showing against the other teams.

Deacons Open Season, Tar Heels Face Sooneers

The Wake Forest football team enters tomorrow's game against Richmond with a new coach, a new offense and a new confidence. Head Coach Bill Dooley has a reputation of losing the run, but many wonder if he will surpass this style of play with the talents of Mike Ekels at his disposal.

The run and the pass are determined by what the opposition is doing. Dooley has said that he is just beginning to develop a running game. People need to see it, and if they don't, it's not really there. февраль next week.

The Blue Devils' plan to turn the tide against the Red Raiders, and the first-half possessions in a game at Blacksburg, Va. tomorrow to tangle with the top-ranked Hokies last year. and so far, he has been successful.

The defense recovered three fumbles before making it a more respectable 28-7 victory. Dooley said that he was primarily concerned with stopping Elliott, a junior, because all ACC rushing is about Elliott most of the time. He was the third-former All-ACC player to make a stop and still have a great running game.

Tall and strong, Elliott is a player that has been around a couple of years. In 1979, Dooley was the Pac-10 coach of the year for the gold and blue Indians. After college, he was named to the American Football Coaches Association's all-America team, and was also an All-American.

He has been successful and his team is still solid. One of Carolina's best problems is coming from the defensive line. The Tar Heels blasted Illinois last year, and can only hope that the North Carolina 34-11 victory was as big as we thought.

The Wolfpack is on the road against the top 12 Ohio State teams, but has shown signs of life in the first conference game of the year.

The Cavaliers jumped out to a 14-0 lead over Georgia last weekend, and opened some gaps in the process. Although the Cavaliers came back in the game 30-20, Virginia was impressive, as they seemed to be suffered in this game.

The Cavaliers defense stopped the offense twice inside the five-yard line, but the offensive line was successful. Elliott completed 25 of 39 passes for 261 yards, 17 touchdowns and 2 interceptions. Sanders caught 34 passes for 473 yards and six touchdowns last season.

Defensively, two pre-season All-ACC picks, juniors Jan Lomack and Mark Michael, have been strong as usual for the Cavaliers. Sanders has been consistent in the backfield. He was one of the surprise teams in the ACC this year.

The Cavaliers travel to College Park tomorrow against the Spartans.

Greer Brings Success to Diamond Deacons

By Sean P. Bison
Old Gold and Black Reporter

George Greer, the new Wake Forest baseball coach, comes to the Deacons with credentials that would impress any panel of college interviewers. Greer, from Wauwatosa, WI, went to the University of Wisconsin-Stout and was captain of his baseball team. He was an All-York Conference honoree for three years, both NCAA Division I and II and was an All-American for two years.

Greer was the captain of the Pan-American baseball team, which went on to beat Cuba for the gold medal.

After college Greer was drafted by the St. Louis Cardinals. He played for the Cardinals in the Caribbean organization for five years. He then became athletic director and baseball coach at the University of Wisconsin-Stout, starting the baseball program there. In 1985 Greer became the lead baseball coach and assistant to the athletic director at Drake.

For the past nine seasons Greer has coached the Gaels baseball team in the Cape Cod League. The team made the playoffs each year, and were the league champions in 1981, 1985, and 1987.

Many major league players have played on the Gaels' team in past years, including Ron Darling, Theobald and Jeff Blaauw of the New York Mets, Larry Sweeney of the Texas Rangers, Nick Swisher of the New York Yankees, and Brian Ross of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Greer came to Wake Forest last winter, replacing Mike Catolin, who retired on April 1. Greer is pleased with his team and the mid-season.

"I love it," Greer said. "I have always admired Wake Forest. I love the right size for the school."

Since coming to Wake Forest Greer has been very busy. His duties have included picking out new uniforms, redrafting the schedule, getting the locker room ready and preparing for the dedication.

Greer is also very pleased with the new facilities and improvements being done to Leydon Field.

Greer greets the Deacons in the dugout at Cap Cana Field, during the third game of the four-game series against the New York Mets in 1987.

Dooley, the 30th coach in Deacon history.

Dooley brings with him 20 years of head coaching experience, the distinction of being the 10th-winningest active coach in America and a reputation of big-time college football.

Dooley recognizes that his team will have problems in his first year, as an offensive line that was already inexperienced has lost more key players, and the defensive line is young as well. However, both the offensive and defensive backfields are as strong as any in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The new 1-formation offense will be led by junior starting quarterback since the beginning of last season.

The total offense leader in the ACC last season, Elkins threw for 2,541 yards, 17 touchdowns and have tremendous shoes to fill, as only Deaver has seen playing time in the past. Kern moved from defensive to offensive tackle recently to give the line more experience.

Besides the losses of all-America Paul Kiser, all-ACC Tim Morrison and tackle Greg Harris to graduation, the line will have to deal with the losses of Paul Mann, Mike Rice and most recently Louis Aloiselli, all of whom are injured and lost for the season.

“We have really got some spots to fill, we’ve got

I don’t think there’s an offensive line in the ACC

Dooley said.

the backfield but inexperienced on the line.

NCAA Championship berths are normally associated with the men's golf team at Wake Forest. The women's cross country squad, however, hopes to earn the ranks of the nation's elite this season as Coach Francie Goodridge's squad goes for its first NCAA berth.

The team finished second in the Atlantic Coast Conference Championship last fall and missed qualifying for the national championships by one spot in the NCAA District III meet. With only one runner gone from last year's squad, expectations are high as the team enters the 1986 season.

Goodridge, who is entering her fourth year as the Deacon head coach, has seen her teams improve each year at the ACC meet. The squad has settled its expectations on the top spot this year.

"We are definitely challenging for an ACC championship, and that's something that we've talked about now since I came," Goodridge said. "For three years we've worked toward that goal, and we didn't finish in second place last year saying we'd be content to be second place again."

"We certainly don't want to be overconfident, but we know this is the year we are not going to be minimizing our goals. We want to be winners and that's what we're ready to go after."

Goodridge has the advantage of being a fully-scholarshipped program for the first time. The increased scholarships enabled her to increase the partial scholarships of team members to full ones and have the team's most successful recruiting season ever.

"We were able to make tremendous inroads," Goodridge said of the increase. "This is the first year coming in that I am able to say we can compete with the other schools. I feel confident that we brought in one of the better recruiting classes in the nation. It makes for a very solid team without the kind of problems you can have when there just isn't enough money to go around."

"The game is recruiting. You have to go out there with big scholarships and recruit national athletes. But when you've got national athletes on your own team struggling to make ends meet, and taking side jobs and doing all the things that make it very hard. Now, we are able to cover those people."

Two of the key recruits who Goodridge expects to contribute immediately are Ann Letko and Monica Magnusson. Letko was one of the top prep two-milers in the country last season, while Magnusson, who is from Sweden, has a faster time than any American recruits in the 800 and 1500 meters.

Letko was highly recruited, and Goodridge expects her to be "an immediate contributor and an immediate threat in the conference. She is a potential top-ten finisher in the ACC."

Magnusson was fourth in the Swedish cross country championships last year. Goodridge said Magnusson, despite being used to shorter distances in Europe, should do well in cross country and "has a great deal of speed, but is very strong and has the endurance to run a kilometer longer."

Letko and Magnusson join a strong returning nucleus of former all-American Karen Dunn, track all-American Jennifer Rioux, and Sue VanderWagen and Liz Becker as the top six runners. Kristi Cassell, Amy Kattwinkel and Kay Gemrich also return to the team more depth than any other team in the conference, a factor that Goodridge feels will be a key.

Goodridge calls Dunn, a senior, and Rioux, a junior, her "1-2 Punch." Dunn, who finished 11th in the district last year, is coming off a hip injury but should be ready by the ACC Championship, and Rioux was the top runner for most of last season and finished fourth in the ACC Championship.

VanderWagen became Wake Forest's first ACC track champion in the spring by winning the 10,000 meters. The junior finished in the top ten in the ACC meet last season in cross country.

Becker, also a junior, should contribute solidly to the team. Goodridge said Becker had put in the best summer training of her life and is improving each year.

Cassell, a junior, has scored for two consecutive years in the 10,000 meters in the ACC Championship and was a consistent scorer at the number-five position for the Deacons in cross country last year. Gemrich, a senior, was Wake Forest's fifth-place runner in the ACC Championship last season and Kattwinkel, a junior, placed in the top seven for the Deacons at the Furman Invitational.

The team has four meets scheduled before the ACC Championship in Atlanta, Ga., including a home meet now at the new Tanglewood course. The key meet could be the Virginia Invitational Oct. 17 at Charlottesville on the course that will be used for the national championship. Teams from across the nation will compete, including several of the stronger teams from the district.

"We are definitely challenging for an ACC championship, and that's something that we've talked about now since I came. For three years we've worked toward that goal, and we didn't finish in second place last year saying we'd be content to be second place again."
— Francie Goodridge
Deacon Women's Cross Country Coach

Goodridge said the meet will be a "good opportunity to beat them and be considering ahead of them in the at-large decisions (for the national meet)."

The Deacons' main competition in the district meet will come from conference foes N.C. State and Clemson and SEC powerhouses Alabama and Kentucky. Goodridge calls the district the nation's strongest, and if Wake Forest can advance to the nationals, they should be in a position to compete for the championship.

"We've been waiting now for three years to mix it up with these people," Goodridge said. "I think we're ready this year."

Goodridge Counts on Return of Red-Shirts And a Little Luck in Coming Season

Clint Pinyan
Old Gold and Black Sports Reporter

Since the beginning of the fall semester, Men's Cross Country Head Coach John Goodridge has probably had a penny in his shoe and a rabbit's foot in his pocket. He found out the hard way how men can affiliate the snap when four of his top runners went down to injuries last year.

With the return of red-shirts Steve Kartalia, Chris Ingalls and Scott Hayward and the injured Bill Babcock, Goodridge is using words like "cautiously optimistic" to describe his team's chances in the fall 1987 season, which begins with a home meet tomorrow.

"We certainly have the potential to be very competitive in the ACC this year," Goodridge said. "But of course staying healthy is our main concern. All of our top runners' times are good times and are extremely close together, but an injury could test our team depth. The key to our team is our returning runners. They are all very fine athletes."

Kartalia will probably be the Deacon on who's health most rests the team's chances to win in 1987. He was Wake Forest's 1985-86 Track MVP, placing 11th at the ACC Championships, just missing all-ACC honors.

He was off to a great start last fall, winning the men's race at the Wake Forest Invitational and finishing fourth in the prestigious Kentucky Invitational, before being struck by injury. The fifth-year senior is, said Goodridge, "one of the most respected distance runners in the ACC."

The Deacons will also regain the services of junior Bill Babcock, who was out last year with an achilles injury. Babcock had a terrific freshman cross country season in the fall of 1985, finishing as the number-two freshman in the ACC and NCAA District III Championships. The former high school all-American is a vital ingredient in the Deacons' plans for the season.

Other top Deacon runners include red-shirt senior Chris Ingalls, who placed 26th in the ACC before an injury kept him out last fall; senior Steve Schmidt, who finished third last year in a meet with Richmond, South Carolina and Vanderbilt; and junior David Delmonte.

Big contributions will be counted on from three sophomores: Jon Hume, Scott Hayward and Chris Pass. Hume showed a lot of poise as a freshman in last year's injury-racked season, coming on strong at the end of the year to post Wake Forest's best times at the last three meets of the season which were the Furman Invitational, the ACC Championships and the NCAA District II Championships.

Hayward will be coming off a red-shirt year and will be, Goodridge says, "the most improved athlete in the ACC. He has lowered his time in the 10,000 meters from 31:58 to 30:55.

"This will be a good test for our team, because with such a large number of teams competing, we will have a pretty good idea of where we stand," Goodridge says.

The Deacons follow their only home meet with a challenging schedule including the 16-team Kentucky Invitational, a meet at Maryland in which national powerhouses Brown and Dartmouth will compete and the Virginia Invitational on the site of this year's NCAA Championships.

"We certainly have the potential to be very competitive in the ACC this year. But of course staying healthy is our main concern. The key to our team is our returning runners. They are all very fine athletes."

— John Goodridge
Deacon Men's Cross Country Coach

"This schedule is definitely upgraded from last year's and will be much more challenging," Goodridge said. "We felt that this was a necessary step for this program in order for it to grow into a contending team."

With "exciting talent" and a good luck charm to ward off injuries, the Deacons could very well find themselves a force to be reckoned with in the ACC this season.

Bradley Hopes Last Year's Success Continues as Difficult Schedule Awaits

Heather Ehret
Old Gold and Black Sports Reporter

Wake Forest's field hockey team, coached by the 1985 ACC Coach of the Year, Barbara Bradley, is ready to build on last year's record-setting campaign.

The Deacons will have a solid team this year. Due to last year's impressive 16-2 record, a heavy schedule awaits in the fall. Five Division I teams, Virginia, Richmond, Virginia Commonwealth, Duke and Virginia Tech, are on the schedule. The Deacons are also competing in the ACC Championship and the Deep South Tournament.

"I'm looking forward to the season, and I believe the team is ready for the high caliber of play needed for a successful season," Bradley said.

The squad consists of 13 players returning from last year's squad, four freshmen and two players returning after a year off. Nine of the veterans were starters in 1986.

Roxanne Hetrick, a junior who plays left wing, will be the key player on the team. Hetrick was a tri-captain in 1986, is a three-year starter and was the team's most valuable player last year. Hetrick was voted the all-Deep South team last year and was also an all-Southeast Regional pick.

Fifth-year senior Martha Shaw and senior Jackie Rochat will start at left and right wing, respectively. Shaw was one of the team's leading scorers last year, and Rochat has been a starter since her freshman year.

Heidi Meertz, a sophomore who started last season, will return at the right wing position. Junior Jane O'Sullivan, last year's most improved player, will be at the center spot. Mary Mullican, a three-year starter, will again play the sweeper position.

The halfbacks should again be strong with two four-year starters, Meg Moreland and Lynn Dromerick, returning.

Sophomore Kim Irvine returns as the goalie. She gave up only eight goals in 38 games last year, mainly due to a strong defense that stopped opponent penetration into the Deacon end of the field.

Other returning players are junior Pug Eberhart, a key substitute who plays forward line. Eberhart will have to take up some of the offensive slack after the graduation of Lyn Goodman, Wake Forest's all-time leading scorer, and Michele Bernard. Margy Kaelin, another sophomore, will also return to play in the front line.

Trey Bellingar returns to the team after a year off, as does Ashton Armistead, who was in France last season. Sophomores Elizabeth Blyeu and Sloan Frantz return to give the team needed depth.

Also joining the team are freshmen Tracy Stickle, Ellen Baillie, Sam Stecker and Jenny Wunderlich.

"Our freshmen show a lot of potential and are capable of adding to the team's level of play," Bradley said.

Two of the main goals of the 1987 season are to increase the team's intensity. Bradley says that this year's tactics are going to be slightly different from last year's power team.

Defense is going to be stressed, but as Bradley said, "If you don't score, you don't win." The Deacon fans should also be treated to strong transition play, as a strong corps of links and halfbacks returns.

"The level of play increases and becomes more innovative every year," Moreland said. "The fact that we compete as well as we do in a conference where we are the only ACC team without scholarships is really out of hand."

Moreland says that there is going to be a lot more speed and movement with the ball as the team tries to get that one step ahead of their tough competitors from Duke and Virginia.

"Everyone should be offensively-minded and ready to move the ball up the field when necessary," Moreland said.

The Deacons begin their season with a scrimmage against a club team, Tobacco Road. The first regular season match is at home on Sept. 16 at 4 p.m. against Catawba College.

Old Gold and Black Fall Sports Preview  Friday, September 11, 1987 11
Wake Forest Hopes to Improve Standing
In Nation's Premier Soccer Conference

David Glenn
Old Gold and Black Sports Reporter

The Wake Forest soccer team is attempting to close the gap between itself and the rest of the national powers in the Atlantic Coast Conference as Head Coach Walt Chyzowych enters his second year at the helm.

“We’re at the bottom of the ACC right now,” Chyzowych said, “but we’re looking to start a winning tradition this year and raise Wake Forest soccer out of obscurity.”

If the Deacons are able to progress in the ACC, which is considered by most observers the top college soccer conference in the country, they will be on the verge of national prominence.

The Deacons finished 5-11-2, with a 0-6 mark in the ACC, in Chyzowych’s first year as head coach.

“We think we made progress last season, and if not for losing seven one-goal matches, our record would have been substantially better,” Chyzowych said. “Yet, despite the record, last year was a positive one for our players in that they worked hard and learned quite a bit.”

Fifteen letter-winners return for this season, six of whom started last fall. They will be counted on to provide experience for a young team.

The top five scorers returning are senior forward Chris Wenz (6-1-3), senior forward John Joseph (4-4-12), senior defender Mark Breton (5-0-8), sophomore forward Geraint Davies (3-7), and junior midfielder Simon Beard (3-3-5). They should provide leadership for an offense which had troubles generating goals and was outshot by their opponents 143-115 last year.

The defense will be anchored by senior goalkeeper John Carr. He inherits the full-time position this fall after having shared playing time with now-graduated Wayne Hill for two seasons. Carr played in eight of last fall’s 20 matches, finishing with 31 saves and a 1.38 goals allowed average.

The top five scorers returning are senior forward Chris Wenz (6-1-3), senior forward John Joseph (4-4-12), senior defender Mark Breton (5-0-8), sophomore forward Geraint Davies (3-7), and junior midfielder Simon Beard (3-3-5). They should provide leadership for an offense which had troubles generating goals and was outshot by their opponents 143-115 last year.

Chyzowych’s first full recruiting year brought the Deacons’ first two Parade All-Americans, midfielder Neil Covone and forward Zenon Luzniak.

“We’re beginning to get the word out to young players about Wake,” Chyzowych said. “We’re going to let people know that we are serious about soccer.”

Inexperience could hurt the team early in the year, as four of the starters are freshmen. “Our recruiting class has looked promising,” Chyzowych said, “and we will be counting on them for immediate help.”

A lack of depth is another problem the team must overcome. “Our top players can play with anyone,” Chyzowych said, “but there is a decrease in effectiveness when we go to the bench.”

Improvements in the team over last year have provided encouragement going into the season, Chyzowych said.

His spring squad won the prestigious Budweiser/WRAL Indoor Classic, which consisted of the ACC’s Big Four schools: Duke, North Carolina, North Carolina State and Wake Forest.

The Deacons defeated North Carolina State on penalty kicks, 2-1. They then went on to defeat North Carolina 1-0 to capture the championship, and Breton was selected as the most valuable player in the tournament.

The pre-season was also successful, as the Deacons defeated UNC-Charlotte 3-0 and UNC-Wilmington 2-1.

“I was encouraged by the team’s hard work in practice and by their performance in the scrimmages,” Chyzowych said.

While the team’s play is improving, it will also be playing a tougher schedule. Eight of the Deacons’ 20 opponents were ranked in the pre-season Top Twenty polls.

“Our schedule will be very demanding this year, but we think that it is a positive step for our program,” Chyzowych said. “We’re looking forward to a challenging season.”

Wake Forest opened the year by losing to Catawba 14-0, Virginia 3-0 and American 4-0. Catawba is the defending Carolinas Conference and NAIA District 26 champions and Virginia was ranked number one in the nation much of last season.

“We’re at the bottom of the ACC right now, but we’re looking to start a winning tradition this year and raise Wake Forest soccer out of obscurity.”
— Walt Chyzowych
Deacon Soccer Coach

After seeing the Deacons in their first contest of the year, Catawba Head Coach Ralph Wager feels the team is indeed on the road to improvement despite the slow start.

“We’re going to be very competitive in the ACC,” Wager said. “They are an exceptional team with good speed. They move the ball well and they have good coaching. They will give some teams problems in the ACC.”

Coach of the Year Allen Hopes Experience Will Maintain Spot in ACC's Upper Echelon

Colleen Koontz
Assistant Sports Editor

The Wake Forest women's tennis team enters the 1987 season with high hopes of maintaining their number-two position in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Returning all of last year's team members, including two All-Conference selections, will be one of the Deacons' biggest advantages as they prepare for the fall season.

Among the players returning is senior Jackie van Wijk, who was an All-ACC selection last year with a record of 30-23 at the number-one singles position.

"Jackie played in a few tournaments this summer," ACC Coach of the Year Dede Allen said. "She is well rested and is looking forward to a good year."

Sophomore Angelique Lodewyks is the Deacons' other All-ACC team member. She posted a 36-6 record and also won her flight at the number-three singles position.

"Last year was an excellent building year for Angelique," Allen said. "Her record was much better than her 13-12 record of her freshman year."

During the summer, Lodewyks competed with her doubles partner, Laurie Jackson, on the USTA Amateur Circuit. They won the Elkton segment of the event which Allen says is very encouraging news for their doubles play this season.

Jackson posted a 29-14 record at the number-four position last year and won her flight in the ACC Tournament.

Also returning for the Deacons is senior Monica Kowalewski who compiled a 26-27 record last year.

Other returning players include Susie Breeker, John Smith, Han Sie and Noelle Paschon. Allen looks for these players to battle for the sixth position.

"The number-six spot will go to who wants it the most," Allen said. "The competition will be tough."

The Deacons will also have the help of some new talent. Lisa Pamintuan, a transfer from Southern Methodist University, will be looked to for help in one of the top four positions. Pamintuan was the 28th-ranked player in the 80's before entering college.

Dianne Blondi, a walk-on, also looks to be a contributor for the upcoming season. She will also be competing for the number-six position.

The Deacons will first participate in the Big Four Tournament in Durham on Sept. 18-20. "This is a really good beginning of the year tournament," Allen said. "It has a good field, but it is not really flighted. It will give me a chance to see the girls play without being in a flight."

On Sept. 25-27, Wake Forest will compete in the Syracuse Tournament against such top-20 talent as Duke, Harvard, Kentucky and South Carolina.

The team will return to Winston-Salem to host the Mary Garber Invitational on Oct. 9-11. This event will feature such tennis powerhouses as Berkeley, South Carolina, Wisconsin and Duke.

Despite the loss of team captain Helen Wadsworth, the Wake Forest golf team is optimistic about the upcoming season and about overcoming the problems of youth and a lack of depth.

Head Coach Mary Beth McGirr returns nine players from last year's varsity squad, and although the team lost its only true star in Wadsworth, McGirr does not foresee any difficulties in obtaining leadership for the squad.

"I see this year's leadership coming from a nucleus of three young yet talented players," McGirr said.

Karen Noble, a junior from Brookside, N.J., is expected to provide direction to the young squad. Noble finished fourth in last season's overall stroke-average standings, averaging just over 80 strokes per round.

"Karen is the veteran of the team," McGirr said. "She is the one who played in all of the tournaments and all of the matches last year. She had a great summer. She won the New Jersey State Amateur, beating out teammate Laura D'Allessandro, and finished third on the team standings, including a 39th-place finish at the Deacon Invitational, a tournament that is on the Lady Deacons schedule again this year."

"Karen's game has matured a lot," McGirr said. "I am really excited that she is going to come into her own. She has a lot of potential."

The final member and perhaps most promising of the trio is D'Allessandro, a sophomore from Toms River, N.J. As a freshman, D'Allessandro finished second to Wadsworth in the team standings, including a 27th-place finish and a 48th-place finish at sites that are on this season's schedule.

D'Allessandro was the runner-up in the New Jersey State Amateur this summer.

"D'Allessandro is truly a young yet talented player," McGirr said. "She has improved leaps and bounds. If we were to vote again for the most improved player, she would still win."

Wake Forest's only recruit for this season is Chris Logue, a member of McGirr's nucleus. Prechtl, from Ormond Beach, Fla., averaged 80.7 strokes per round last year. She also finished third on the team scoreboard.

Her 1987 spring included a 27th-place finish at the Beacon Woods Invitational, a tournament that is on the Lady Deacons schedule again this year.

"Chris's game has matured a lot," McGirr said. "She is going to come into her own. She has a lot of potential."

"This year we are really going to emphasis the team concept," McGirr said. "Everyone will contribute. There is a lot of team unity and good teamwork."

Deacons Enter Fall With High Expectations, Experienced Team Seen as NCAA Power

Daniel R. Baker
Old Gold and Black Senior Sports Reporter

The Wake Forest men's golf team begins the 1987 fall season with high expectations. The Deacons, following their 1986 NCAA Championship, finished second in the 1987 NCAA Championships in Columbus, Ohio. "We have to consider ourselves as contenders for the NCAA because of our strong finish the past two years," Head Coach Jesse Haddock said.

All members of the 1986 team return. The top four positions will be filled by Barry Fabyan, Len Mattiace, Eoghlan O'Connell and Tim Straub. However, Tony Mollica, the fifth man on last year's team, may have to battle juniors Mark Cero and David Clarke and freshmen Jim Johnson and Mark Strickland for the final spot on the team.

Fabyan and Mattiace continued their excellent play this summer with a few top-ten finishes in major amateur tournaments. Fabyan, who finished second individually at the NCAAs, recently won the Cardinal Amateur in Greensboro. The junior from Columbus, Ohio will also participate in the NCAA Japan matches in November.

"Everything must be in the right order: we must develop some talent mentally and physically," Haddock said. "We essentially have the same team returning this year."

The Deacons will begin their season with the Guilford Invitational, which usually features a field of the top ACC teams. Wake Forest has had much success in this tournament in recent years. A two-day event, the Guilford is played on Sept. 21-22.

The Deacons then travel to Westlake Village, Calif., for the Southwestern Intercollegiate on Oct. 4-7.

"Normally we wouldn't travel to the west coast in the fall," Haddock said, "but North Ranch C. C. is the site of the 1988 NCAA tournament and we would like to have a chance to play the course. We do not get much chance to practice right before the NCAAs, so this is an excellent opportunity for us."

The last tournament on the Deacons' fall schedule is the Palmetto Dunes Intercollegiate, Nov. 19-21. This event attracts the best teams in the country and the competition is extremely tough. The weather is also quite difficult late in the fall.

Haddock feels that this tournament is an excellent conclusion to the fall season because of the stiff competition.

Because of the NCAA rules restrictions on the number of playing dates, the Deacons are only able to play in three fall events.

"It would be nice to have a few extra playing dates," said Haddock, "but we have scheduled three excellent tournaments."

Haddock is very excited about the coming season. He knows that each player must contribute; but he is confident that they will be prepared for the season.

"We know what we want to do, now how do we do it?" Haddock said.

Judging from the recent success of the current team, they obviously know how. The Wake Forest golf team will likely continue its success during the fall season.

"We have to consider ourselves as contenders for the NCAA because of our strong finish the past two years... Everything must be in the right order; we must develop some talent mentally and physically."

Crookenden Hopes Freshman Challengers Will Improve His Team's Competitiveness

Russell-Rogers
Old Gold and Black Sports Reporter

The Wake Forest men's tennis team heads into the fall season with optimism, as the entire team from last year returns, and several new players may challenge for playing time.

"The returning players will be strongly challenged," Head Coach Ian Crookenden said. "This will be healthy for our program because everyone will become more competitive.

Leading the way for the returning players are all-ACC performer Mark Greenan, a sophomore, and Stefan Dallwitz, a senior.

"Greenan and Dallwitz proved last year that they can play with anyone in the country," Crookenden said.

He also feels that senior Christian Dallwitz can be very competitive if he stays healthy.

Also returning are seniors Mark Kriscunas and Jay Stephens and sophomores Lance Illfeld, Doron Hartol, and David Aycock.

All of the returnees gained valuable playing experience over the summer. Greenan played tournaments in Europe and competed in the Davis Cup for Canada against Ecuador. One of his opponents was Andres Gomez, the world's number one doubles player.

Christian Dallwitz also played in Europe and joined with Greenan in doubles to earn points toward a world ranking. Stefan Dallwitz stretched Kelly Everndon, a highly-ranked professional, to three sets in Winston-Salem's Flow Motors Invitational.

Kriscunas, Stephens and Aycock all played on the national amateur circuit in the United States. Hartol played in Belgium and France.

Michael Dilworth and Steve Phillips are freshmen who are expected to contribute to the program. Dilworth was highly ranked as a junior in Canada, and Phillips was ranked number one in his high school region in Virginia.

Van Brockwell, a sophomore who did not go out for the team last year, could also see some action.

Crookenden will use the fall to find effective doubles combinations and to give the top players a chance to gain a national ranking.

"Last year our doubles were way below our singles," Crookenden said. "We lost some close matches because of the doubles. I will look to incorporate the new talent with the old in any way to gain winning doubles teams."

Greenan and Stefan Dallwitz will compete in the Rider Rolex Classic at Louisiana State University in early October. According to Crookenden, any success in this event will aid their chances for a national ranking.

"Overall, we want to build on our strengths and improve our weaknesses this fall. We will look towards peaking in the spring."

Football

David Braxton at the ends, Terry Smith and Kelly Vaughn at the tackle positions and Mike Smith or Mark Agiusti at nose guard. Vaughn and Hooten, the only returning starters, will be counted on to anchor the line. The line could receive some help from Marvin Mitchell, a 6-5, 280-pound freshman who is challenging for a starting position.

"It (the defensive line) is an area where we have to have some immediate help out of freshman, and it's an area where we have to have some older football players develop," Dooley said.

Jimmie Simmons and David Whitley will hold down the linebacker spots. Simmons, one of the leading tacklers on the defense last year with 112, will be counted on to anchor the defense in '87.

The defensive backfield should be one of the real strengths of the team this year, as three out of the four players are returning starters.

Ernie Purnsley, the team's leading returning tackle, will hold down the free safety spot, while Joe Walker returns for his senior season to man the strong safety position.

A.J. Greene and Tony Mosley will start at the cornerback spots. Greene, a junior, has been a starter since the second game of his freshman year. Mosley, a consistent backup for the past two seasons, played in every game last year.

The four starters in the defensive backfield have a combined 507 tackles among them for their careers. Dexter Victor, Warren Smith and Kyle White may also play prominent roles in the secondary as backups.

"Purnsley really had a good spring practice and also has had a good fall camp. I think he's a good one. Greene and Mosley, even though they are small, can run very well and I think they can do the job we want done back there, and we feel good about Walker and Victor at strong safety," Dooley said.

Wilson Hoyle, Jeff Miller and David Behrmann are all vying for the place-kicking spot, although Hoyle is the returning starter. Martin Bailey returns for his junior season as the punter.

When asked what can be expected of Wake Forest football in the coming season, Dooley said, "I can't make any prediction! The only thing I can say is that if we, as football players and as a football team, can improve from week to week and get better and cut down on mistakes and give a good effort, which I think our football players will do, then as a football coach, that's the thing I'm looking for — improvement and effort in everything that we do."

Tennis

Allen was pleased with the participants in this year's event. "It's the strongest field in the six years of the tournament," Allen said.

The Southern Intercollegiate on Oct. 23-25 will be the final tournament for the Deacons before they host the ITCA Regionals on Nov. 13-15. The tournament will take place in Tuscaloosa, Ala. and will feature top regional talent.

Since team competition does not begin until the spring, Allen hopes to use the fall tournaments as a tune-up.

"We have five tournaments dates this fall," Allen said. "These will get us geared up to get back in the swing for the spring. We will be playing in some events with some real strong fields."

Allen believes that the team should have a good year. "We will be strong," she said, "but we don't want to be overconfident." "We will give everyone a run for their money. We hope to maintain our number-two position in the ACC."

Golf

"The fourth and fifth spots are wide open. There is going to be a lot of good competition. They are really pushing each other." McGirr is excited about the possibilities that lie ahead for her team.

"This year we are going to come close to doing something," McGirr said. "There is enthusiasm like I have never seen."
