Halloween at Wake Forest

Residents of Buie and Johnson Halls celebrate this year with a group of orphans from the Boys Club of Winston-Salem. About 30 costumed kids made their way through the dorms Wednesday night preparing the freshmen women for last night’s Halloween festivities on campus.

Panel Discusses Southern Baptist Role

United Way Requests Volunteers

By ELIZABETH CASTLEMAN

The United Way Volunteer Corps will sponsor a week of volunteering in the East Lounge of Reynolda Hall from November 10 to November 14. The week is part of the Volunteer Action Corps (VAC) that provides volunteer service on campus. Various opportunities will be available to participants, and the aim is to develop their individual capabilities such as one's strength, leadership, and organizational skills.

The VAC is currently looking for volunteers to assist with the following projects:

- Senior Move-In: Volunteers are needed to assist students and their families with the move-in process.
- Library Stacking: Volunteers are needed to help stack books and materials in the library.
- Cafeteria Assistance: Volunteers are needed to assist with serving food and maintaining a clean environment.

And Yet Another...

The university center planning committee met in a steady manner, but we have not the room on this page to carry on with the important issues facing for several weeks.

The study currently in the works was initiated by Vice President Anderson in order to find other options for submission to the Capital Planning Committee. However, it is clear that the administration is looking for a quick solution to an idea at a real university and student need. In requesting yet another study; first, though, to the too many conducted, the administration has in essence denied the previous studies. Both committees derived the same conclusion: Reynolds Hall, as it currently stands, has insufficient space for a university center.

Ed Bollin, a very capable architect who has worked with the university before, has attempted the impossible, and his design is far from adequate. For a university center without a bookstore is the antithesis of the need; however, because of space requirements, there is no possible way to include a bookstore within the walls of Reynolds Hall.

So, too, a planer university center... why not have dormitories on the second floor but noise all other administration.

ministers to another building rather than in a university center. Some AVT should make a bundle of communications equipment to link the two buildings. Better, a series of boardroom meetings in both; in all, the minor addition of Brandonia. Many, the cut-out, the suite be kept to a single limit, and while costing a great deal to maintain the original flavor of the building.

The administration must consider these problems with some seriousness. Nearly $250,000 has been spent by Robert M. Walker to associate an architect to do the study and to maintain the original flavor of the building.

Problem Solving

Problem solving is a skill in which every leader tries to utilize. It will never ever have great success. The leader who can solve the problem is the one who will be able to keep the$this in a fine edge. It is not necessarily the case that the solution is the best one, but it is the one that is acceptable. The solution must be acceptable to all parties involved.

I am writing this piece to bring to the attention of the administration that there are many students on campus who are trying to solve a problem. Assistant Vice President Robert M. Walker has been working on a project to design a new administration building that will be built on the former site of the Reynolds Hall. This building will be used for administrative offices and will house the offices of the Vice President of Students, the Associate Vice President for Student Affairs, the Assistant Vice President for Student Affairs, and the Associate Vice President for Student Affairs.

In the past three weeks, the Old Gold and Black has reported on the various problems involved in the construction of the new administration building. The $250,000 already spent on the design of the building must be spent wisely, and the students need the facility. If funds cannot be found to complete the construction, the facility will be used as a new coliseum, fully equipped with all the necessary amenities.

The project is now in its final stages, and the students are able to construct a real university center.

The writer is a student.

Angel Experiments with "Macbeth"

By MARIA JENKINS

An innovative production of William Shakespeare's tragedy, "The Tempest," was presented at the University of Kansas, Lawrence, on Tuesday evening, March 27th, as part of the University Theatre's annual Shakespeare Festival. The production was directed by Associate Professor of English, Dr. Ronald L. Freeman, and featured an all-female cast of student performers.

The play was set in a garden, with the audience seated on either side of a circular stage. The actors moved around the stage in a circular motion, creating a sense of unity and wholeness. The set design was simple, with a few large trees and some rocks to suggest a natural setting.

The actors were all students, and their performances were impressive. The soprano, playing the role of Miranda, was particularly strong, with a clear, beautiful voice.

The orchestra, consisting of string quartet, played accompaniment to the play, adding to the overall effect of the production.

Throughout the performance, the actors showed great commitment to their roles and to the Shakespearean text. The play was performed in British English, with accurate pronunciation and delivery.

At the end of the performance, the audience erupted into applause, and many of them stayed to talk about the production. The students were all very proud of their achievement, and the faculty were impressed with their dedication and hard work.

Overall, the production was a success, and it was clear that the students had worked hard to create a meaningful and engaging performance. The University Theatre is to be commended for its commitment to presenting high-quality productions of Shakespeare's works.

Deacons Seek Life in Death Valley

By WAYNE TRAGUE

Tomorrow, the Wake Forest Deacons football team and head coach Dave Clawson will take on a Tiger squad that has won its first three games of the year. The Deacons have lost four of their last five games and are looking for a win to get back on track. The game will be played at Memorial Stadium in Blacksburg, Virginia.

The Deacons last won a game on November 23, 2019, against Virginia Tech. Since then, they have lost to Boston College, Virginia, and NC State. Their last ACC win was on October 6, 2018, against Duke.

The Tigers are coached by Dabo Swinney, who has led Clemson to 10 ACC championships and a national title in 2018. The Deacons are coached by Dave Clawson, who has led the team to an ACC East title in 2016.

The game is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. ET and can be watched on ACC Network. It is the first of two games for the Deacons this weekend, with the second game against Virginia Tech on Sunday.

Deacons Fall Short by Two

By TED GEBER

The Wake Forest Deacons soccer team fell short in their home opener against the Virginia Cavaliers on Saturday night. The Deacons were able to control the game for most of the first half, but Virginia scored late in the second half to secure the win.

The Deacons had a 1-0 lead at halftime, but Virginia scored in the 87th minute to tie the game. The team was unable to find the winning goal and settled for a draw.

The Deacons' next game is against the Georgia Bulldogs on Friday night. The game is scheduled for 7:00 p.m. ET and can be watched on ACC Network.

Gilles Redshirlded

The Wake Forest Deacons soccer team hosted a record-breaking crowd on Sunday afternoon. The team played against the Virginia Cavaliers and was able to come away with a 1-0 win. The game was attended by over 12,000 fans, breaking the previous record of 9,700 set in 2018.

The Deacons were led by a strong performance from goalkeeper O'Sullivan, who made several key saves to keep Virginia off the board. The team will look to build on this momentum as they prepare for their next game against the Georgia Bulldogs.
Winning Ways at Wake Forest

Six o’clock in the morning, and a Saturday morning as busy as I must. I turned to the alarm in my mind. I groped for my window shade and opened it, emerging into the morning sun. It was another beautiful morning. I glanced at my watch, 6:06. A little over a minute left before my ride arrived. I jumped into the car with my headphones and headed to the Dynasty South field hockey tournament.

Afterwards, I took a coffee buzz and a large cup of coffee. I was ready to go.

“Do you think we’ll have a chance?” asked my neighbor.

“Well, if there weren’t so many teams I’d say yes,” I replied.

Of course the team had a chance. I was even convinced that they were going to win. Anyone who saw these seniors play the day before would have no question that they would win.

Yesterday’s game seemed far away as we cruised by the field. As the sun rose over the East Campus, it was almost all of the action occurred in the first half as she scored from inside the circle in the 10th minute. Wake Forest lost this shootout 2-0 and the goalie. The only thing the rest of the team had to do was win.
