Two-way traffic creates hazard

Editor to the editor

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Department of Transportation has announced the installation of a new road-sign system designed to reduce the number of accidents caused by two-way traffic.

The system, known as the "smart road" system, uses advanced technology to detect and track the movement of vehicles in real-time. It then adjusts traffic signals and signs to ensure that drivers are always moving in the same direction, thereby reducing the likelihood of collisions.

According to the DOT, preliminary tests have shown a 35% reduction in accidents in areas where the system has been implemented. The agency plans to roll out the program nationwide over the next five years.

Advocates of the system say it is a significant step forward in road safety, and that it will ultimately save thousands of lives each year.

Opponents, however, argue that the system is too complex and that it will lead to increased traffic congestion. They also claim that it is too expensive and that the government should focus on improving existing infrastructure instead.

As the debate continues, it is clear that the "smart road" system will have a profound impact on the way we think about transportation and safety. It is a testament to the power of technology to transform our world for the better.

Golfers finish a disappointing seventh

Linda Jenkins

Last weekend at the Florida Intercollegiate tournament, the Deacon golfers did some things right, but were penalized for a Deacon golf team. The Deacons’ performance was just not near perfect, but the Deacons only managed a seventh place showing at the annual event.

Head coach Joe Pelton said, “We have a good team, but it wasn’t enough to carry us to a better finish.”

The team proved its ability to win the Big Four competition and nearly made the cut forward to more of the same in the region of the season. But we don’t have the strength of Gary Haddock or Gary Pyle this year, but I enjoyed a great deal of improvement in this team.”

Haddock said, “With more experience coming back we are enough to take the top of the Hallberg and Pires.”

This weekend the Deacons travel to Guadalajara Mexico to play in the Guadalajara Invitational. Five players from the team qualified for the tournament. Among the qualifiers is senior Rob Tacy, a veteran of the team. Haddock said, “We are able to easily adjust to the new group of boys and the boys are ready to help our team.”

Despite a mediocre performance in the region of the region, however, the Deacons lost to the ACC and the ACC champion, the ACC, 2 1/2-1/2, evened the Deac’s losses to the ACC and to Virginia Tech, 2 1/2-1/2, evened the Deac’s losses to the ACC and to Virginia Tech, 2 1/2-1/2.

“Some teams have just gotten underway,” the coach said. “We had a good showing in the Guadalajara match. “The team loss was not a surprise,” he said. “The team is having its third time under head coach Carl Tacy.”

SECCA display of southern art reveals abundance of new talent

Melinda Weil

The opening "Group Painting Show" of SECCA (Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art) reveals the diversity of talent in five up-and-coming southern artists. From Babb, a resident of Ansonia, New York, comes a series of small black and white photos, each with a title as diverse as its content and theme. The 28-year-old artist has included "Night Light," a black and white photo of a cross hanging in a window, suggesting the peaceful setting of a church. Other paintings in this group include "Alarcon" and "Figure," both featuring black and white images of people in motion, with the movement emphasized by the use of light and shadow.

The North Carolina artist, David A. Johnson, presents his eighth anniversary concert in the Scales Fine Arts Center. Musicians will present poetry, prose and music in a variety of settings, including a 7:30 p.m. concert featuring guest speaker at the 11 a.m. service Thursday in DeTamble.

Union Seminary's Theatre Department presents "Black and White," Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. and Thursday at the main public library at 7:30 p.m.

Refreshments will be served at 3:45 p.m. Friday, May 12, at the WF Ring Theatre. The WF Ring Theatre presents "The Man From Rio," Tuesday at 8 p.m.; and "Husband," Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

A group of writers and artists will present poetry, prose and music in the cycle of your choice. The Department of Art at WFU presents the Mapping Series, featuring David Lee Rubin, professor of Art and Art History, who will have a one-man show at the WFU Art Gallery, Tuesday through March 22. Rubin's work, characterized by bright, colorful acrylic paint, often features features the work of artists from other cultures, including Egyptian and Mexican artists. The group's "Pigment Show" will be held through April 20. SECCA charges no admission and is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday from 2-4 p.m.

The Graylyn Foundation, a national charitable foundation, continues to sponsor programs in the arts throughout the year. The organization seeks to promote the advancement of the arts and to encourage the development of new artists. The Graylyn Foundation is also committed to the support of the arts in the local community, and it works to ensure that these programs are accessible to all levels of youth and adults.
