Student Charged With Felony for Setting Fire in Kitchin Suite

City authorities charged a student with attempted arson, a felony, following a fire in Kitchin House Oct. 30. A preliminary hearing for the felony charge has been set for Oct. 25, before Assistant District Judge Susan A. Metcalfe.

Senior Scott Klenzak, whose name was released by the Winston-Salem Police Department, was arrested by the campus police Oct. 30. He later was released, having been charged with criminal mischief, a misdemeanor.

Klenzak's case has been referred to the University's Office of Student Services because the university has a policy that drug-related crimes are referred to the Student Services Office.

Local Societies Consider Panhellenic Affiliations

By KATHY SLOANE

The Wake Forest Chronicle

While Parent's Weekend took an unusual turn as students were populating the university's Panhellenic Ballroom to celebrate the Panhellenic Council's 60th anniversary, parents were finding out about the possibilities of affiliating with the university's nine women's fraternities.

Parents, who had been invited to attend the event, were amazed at the enthusiasm of the students and were interested in finding out about the possibilities of affiliating with the university's fraternities.

Seniors: Five talking points for the Wake Forest campus

The first part of the program, which will be held in the Student Union at 8 p.m. Thursday, will be a panel discussion on the topic of "Affirmative Action: What Does It Mean?" The panelists will include Robert Shankles, a professor of political science at Wake Forest; William Connolley, a lawyer and former U.S. Department of Justice official; and Dr. Lawrence D. Hopkins, a professor of history at Wake Forest.

The second part of the program will be held in the Student Union at 8 p.m. Friday, and will be a forum on the topic of "The Role of Business in Society." The forum will include panelists from the school's business school, as well as representatives from local business and community organizations.

The third part of the program will be held in the Student Union at 8 p.m. Saturday, and will be a student-led discussion on the topic of "The Future of Higher Education." The discussion will include students from the school's various colleges, as well as representatives from local colleges and universities.

The final part of the program will be held in the Student Union at 8 p.m. Sunday, and will be a panel discussion on the topic of "The Role of Media in Society." The panelists will include members of the school's faculty and staff, as well as representatives from local media organizations.

The program is open to the public, and admission is free. Additional information can be obtained by calling the school's office of public relations at 336-758-7010.

With the introduction of three new Macintosh computers, meeting the challenges of college life just got a whole lot easier. Because now everybody can afford a Macintosh.

The Macintosh is our most affordable model and offers with everything you need — including a hard disk drive. The Macintosh combines color capabilities with affordability and the Macintosh maintains color perfect for students who need a computer with extra power and responsibility.

No matter which Macintosh you choose, you’ll have a computer that lightens your work load without giving you another tough subject to learn. Every Macintosh computer is easy to set up and even easier to master. When you’ve learned one program, you’re off to your way to learning them all. That’s because thousands of available programs all work in the same, consistent manner.

You can even share information with someone who uses a different type of computer — thanks to Apple’s versatile SuperDrive, which reads from and writes to Macintosh, Apple and IBM floppy disks.

Civil Rights Bill Passed

WASHINGTON D.C. - The Senate passed a civil rights bill Tuesday by a 63-24 vote. The margin is enough to override President George Bush's expected veto.

The legislation would make it easier to sue for damages caused by racial discrimination.

Budget Plan Passed by House

WASHINGTON D.C. - In a 327-23 vote, the House passed a budget plan Tuesday that would raise the maximum tax rate to 33 percent, create a one-time surcharge on middle-class and upper-class taxpayers, and reduce the minimum tax on those with many deductions from 21 percent to 22 percent.

President Bush said he would not veto the plan if it reaches him because he does not want to lose the current momentum of the working classes.

Soviet Leaders Hold Religious Service

MOSCOW — The Soviet people were allowed to take part in religious services in Moscow's Red Square Sunday for the first time in 70 years.

A large group of worshippers attended St. Basil's Cathedral, which is the oldest of the city's religious institutions and was built under orders from Ivan the Terrible in 1555, had been a historical museum.

South African Party Angered

JUBURAN, South Africa — South Africa's conservative party began in national contest in the Western Transvaal today with plans to maintain white supremacy and oust the government of the Western Transvaal.

The party is the first ever to take part in religious services in Moscow's Red Square Sunday for the first time in 70 years.

Debate Team Opens Season at U. of Iowa

By Dan Butterworth

The debate team opened in 1990 with a 31-20 win and tied places finishes in its field of 97 national teams.

Junior Sam Smith, a junior from Chicago, became the first Wake Forest team to take part in religious services in Moscow's Red Square Sunday for the first time in 70 years.

The rating was based on a reputational survey given to college presidents, deans and admissions directors. According to the article, "the survey is designed not to measure academic quality as such, but the academic reputation that has become so vital in opening doors after graduation."

The category of regional colleges and universities included institutions that "generally are not more than half their bachelors degrees in the two or more comprehensive or professional disciplines." The institutions in this category were divided for ranking purposes into five regions: Northeast, South, West and Midwest.

Other schools that were ranked in Wake Forest's conference in its emerging role in the national community included the University of Richmond in Virginia, Berea College in Kentucky, Furman University in South Carolina, and Emory University in Georgia.

Wake Forest finished first in terms of the five areas given which in overall ranking was based on academic reputation, faculty resources, financial strength, and academic performance.

The article says, "Wake Forest gives its 4,963 students the benefit of a high-quality education, and its students graduate with a well-rounded, highly diversified curriculum."

The need for support of AIDS in the practice of medicine will be a major issue, said many medical stu dents are now going into "demographi cally oriented specialties" and are working in "physician-oriented fields," in the growing AIDS epidemic. About 20 percent would not administer an AIDS vaccine to a patient if it was approved by the Food and Drug Administration. The majority of the 341 students surveyed said they would not administer it, because they would not administer the vaccine to themselves.

AIDS education is "a valid tool," but they don't do it." The actual causes of AIDS are becoming clearer, the majority of the students surveyed said. The fact that the week is part of a series of seminars and workshops on AIDS is "very important," said the students.

Noise Must Be Made to Change the ARA

There's something amazing about the culture I currently love. I truly hope you'll notice it. There's a certain type of copy editor who can take a piece of writing and make it better. I've learned this from the amazing copy editors at the American Press and Control Group. They have taught me that if you can write, you can edit. And they've helped me appreciate the craft of writing.

As a journalist, I've always been interested in the power of language. I've seen how words can change the world. And I've learned that the best copy editors have a sense of humor. They can find the fun in even the most mundane tasks.

In my work, I've learned to appreciate the importance of attention to detail. And I've come to understand that even the smallest errors can have a big impact on the message you're trying to communicate.

For me, the most satisfying part of being a copy editor is the sense of pride I feel when I see my work improve. It's a simple concept, but it's one that's very important to me. And I believe that it's the same for everyone who loves writing or editing.

I hope that this article has helped to highlight the importance of copy editors and their role in our society. And I hope that it inspires you to appreciate the craft of writing and editing. Because without the dedication and hard work of copy editors, the world would be a poorer place.

Marissa Edelson
Student Columnist

First, let's go to the root of the problem and determine the cause of it. In this case, it's the issue of the ARA's negative impact on the community. The ARA, as you know, is a group of people who are trying to impose their will on the community.

In my opinion, the ARA is not the answer. They are an inappropriate group to address the community's issues. They are not the right people to solve the problem. They are not the community leaders.

I believe that the answer lies elsewhere. We need to look at the root causes of the problem and work towards a solution. We need to find a way to involve the community and work with them to find a solution.

In order to do this, we need to have open and honest discussions. We need to listen to the concerns of the community members and work towards a solution that is acceptable to everyone.

I believe that with the right approach, we can find a solution to this problem. We can make the ARA irrelevant and work towards a better future for our community.

Chapuran Distorts Meaning of Affirmative Action Columnist Fails to Recognize the Justice Behind the Program

I f an Oct. 3, 1997 Old Gold and Black, Jeff Chapuran wrote a column in response to a student's letter to the editor in which the writer advocated for the elimination of the new diversity policy as being discriminatory. He stated, "I am against affirmative action because it discriminates against the best students to help minorities to be successful." In his response, Chapuran claimed that affirmative action is a "so-called affirmative action program that mandates discrimination.

I wish to disagree with both the factual basis and the premise of this argument. There are several issues that support the need for affirmative action. First, there have been a number of demographic studies that have shown that people of color are less likely to attend college and are less likely to attend the same quality of school. Second, the use of affirmative action is a way to correct the historical injustices of the past. Third, the use of affirmative action is a way to ensure that all students have an equal opportunity to succeed.

It is important to note that affirmative action does not guarantee that a person will be admitted to a university, but rather that they will have an equal opportunity to attend. In his article, Chapuran states that "there is no such thing as a "right" to education." However, this is not accurate. The right to a quality education is a fundamental human right, and affirmative action is a way to ensure that all students have access to it.

Chapuran argues that affirmative action is a "so-called affirmative action program that mandates discrimination." However, affirmative action is not a program that mandates discrimination. It is a program that provides opportunities to those who have been historically disadvantaged. The goal of affirmative action is to ensure that all students have an equal opportunity to succeed, regardless of their race, gender, or ethnicity.

I believe that affirmative action is a way to ensure that all students have an equal opportunity to succeed, and that it is an important tool in ensuring that all students have access to a quality education. Therefore, I disagree with Jeff Chapuran's argument that affirmative action is a way to discriminate against the best students.

The Demon Deacons are not just about the Men's and Women's Basketball teams. The Demon Deac soccer team has also been active in promoting activities within the community.

On Oct. 13, the soccer team held their annual "Sports Day," a day when the team members go out into the community to promote sports and the importance of education.

The team members, along with other students and faculty, went to local schools and community centers to promote sports and the importance of education.

They distributed flyers and gave presentations on the benefits of participating in sports and the importance of education.

The team members also talked about their own experiences and the importance of education in their own lives.

The team members were able to reach a large number of people and spread their message about the importance of education and sports.

Field Hockey Team Gets Key Shutouts at Catawba, Pfeiffer

By ELIZABETH WOOD

The Wake Forest field hockey team scored twice in the second half for its second consecutive victory and defeated Catawba, 5-1, in a nonconference contest. On Sunday, Wake Forest defeated Pfeiffer, 2-0, in a game that was decided by a dominant offensive performance by the Demon Deacons.

Wake Forest head coach Barbara Bradley used different offensive combinations for the second consecutive game. In the first half, Wake Forest was outshot 15-10 by Catawba, but the Demon Deacons came away with the victory. Bradley inserted different players into the lineup, and the team responded with a dominant offensive performance.

The Demon Deacons scored twice in the second half, with the first goal coming from senior defender Danielle Parrella. The second goal came from sophomore forward Link Beth Alexander, who set up the winning goal with a pass to forward Liberi.

Wake Forest will host Pfeiffer on Tuesday, with a chance to extend its winning streak to three games.

DeVries Adjusts to New Life in United States

By CHRISTINE ARBEITMAN

De Vries had to overcome both cultural and language barriers to become a successful collegiate soccer player at Wake Forest University. He had to adapt to a new culture, learn a new language, and overcome the challenges of playing on an American college team.

De Vries knew he wanted to play soccer at a high level, and he made the decision to come to the United States to pursue his dream. He chose Wake Forest because of its strong soccer program and the opportunities it offered for him to develop as a player.

De Vries faced several challenges in his first year at Wake Forest. He had to learn a new language, adapt to a new culture, and adjust to the American college soccer system. Despite these challenges, he was able to overcome them and become a valuable member of the Demon Deacons.

De Vries' success at Wake Forest is a testament to his determination and hard work. He is an example of what can be achieved when one is willing to put in the effort and dedication required to succeed in a new environment.

Marler Captures Title
At Tennis Invitational

By Tom Johnson

Tom Marler's first tournament victory was the 1969 ITA All-American Championship. The ITA All-American Championship is the nation's premier collegiate tennis tournament, featuring the best players from both the NCAA and the Big Ten Conference.

Marler finished his final season with a 22-1 overall record and was named 1969 All-American of the Year by the Intercollegiate Tennis Association.

Marler's victory came in the final match of the tournament, where he defeated his opponent in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3. This win solidified Marler's status as one of the top collegiate tennis players in the country.

After racking your brain all day, Take a cue from us.

Marler's victory was a significant achievement for both him and his team, as it marked the first time an Iowa State player had won the ITA All-American Championship. It was a testament to Marler's hard work and dedication to the sport.

Marler's success on the court was not limited to his individual performance. He also contributed significantly to the team's success, helping them win the 1969 NCAA Men's Tennis Championship.

Marler's victory in the 1969 ITA All-American Championship was a memorable moment in Iowa State tennis history. It serves as a reminder of the hard work and dedication required to achieve success in the sport.

Connells' New Release May Cross Over to Pop

!Image

Connells have moved from snuffling punk to a more accessible indie rock. Lead singer Matt Proctor says the band's new album, Simple Word, reflects their desire to connect with a broader audience.

Duran Duran's Liberty Misses Decade of '80s

Peter Noon

Duran Duran have struggled to recapture the magic of their 1980s heyday with their new album, Military Waltz. Lead singer Simon Le Bon says the band is trying to appeal to younger fans with a more overtly flashy and retro aesthetic.

Dancers Put Art in Fluid Motion

Bea Drohan

The dancers of Dancers Put Art in Fluid Motion use their bodies as canvases to explore the infinite possibilities of movement and expression. Each performance is a unique interpretation of classical ballet and modern dance.
Impressionist
The fourth piece was influenced by Giorgio Rouault's La Crucifixion. Rouault was a powerful painter who liked to focus on the Cross and the pain of suffering in a brutal and graphic manner. He used a range of colors and textures to create a sense of drama and pathos.
