Man Posing as Security Officer Dulls Student to Parking Lot With Phone Call

By Jennifer Vaughn

A freshman received a phone call Wednesday night in which a man identified himself as security personnel for the university and asked the student if she had any comida to park in the student parking lot. The student claimed that the car was involved in a traffic accident and was in need of assistance. The con was successful and the student allowed the man into the car. The man then removed the car from the lot and dumped it in the parking lot. The student was later contacted by the police and informed that the car had been found abandoned in the lot.

Wake Forest Gets Wetter With New Pub

By Lauren Bartle

The University of Chicago, the new campus pub, made a successful grand opening Friday with large crowds, sandy beaches and a relaxed atmosphere. The pub is a hit with students who have been eagerly anticipating its opening. The pub is open from 4 p.m. to 2 a.m. daily, and is a popular spot for late-night study sessions and casual hangouts.

Despite Having Area's Best Dance Floor, Polo's Caterers to Older Crowd

By William Carter

Polo's, a popular restaurant known for its lively dance floor, has been struggling to attract a younger crowd. According to management, the restaurant's dance floor is closing down at 11 p.m. due to state regulations.

Wake Forest Theatre's production of The Tempest has been postponed due to scheduling conflicts. The production was originally scheduled for April, but has been rescheduled for later in the semester. The play, directed by Steven Miller, is expected to be a hit with both students and alumni.

Hot 'Chocolate'

Jane Powell's Voice Soars High in Brendle Hall

By William Carter

Jane Powell, a faculty member at the University of Chicago, is gaining national attention for her powerful performance of 'Chocolate' by Stephen Sondheim. Powell's rendition of the iconic song has been praised for its emotional depth and technical virtuosity. She is scheduled to perform at several prestigious venues in the coming months, including the Kennedy Center and Carnegie Hall.
Greek Organizations Share Thoughts at Annual Caucus

Dealing with a found vase's substance is the responsibility of the student body at Wake Forest University, said David Barron, president of the Greek Caucus, at the annual Greeks' Caucus meeting in Winston-Salem.

The caucus, held Saturday at the Student Training Building in Winston-Salem, gave faculty, staff and members of Greek organizations a chance to share ideas and concerns, as well as to present reports on recent activities.

Barron, who is also a member of Sigma Chi fraternity, said he was pleased with the turnout of students who attended the meeting.

"The caucus is a way for the Greek organizations to communicate with each other and to share their concerns," he said. "It's also a place for faculty and staff to hear what Greek organizations are doing and how they can support them.":

Barron said the caucus is the responsibility of brotherhoods and sororities, said David Barron, president of the Greek Caucus.

On Greek Caucus thoughts:

"I think the caucus is an important opportunity for Greek organizations to come together and discuss issues that affect them," he added. "It's also a way for faculty and staff to be informed about what's going on in the Greek community.":

The Reynolda Station's annual recycling program is underway, and workers are hopeful that this year's campaign will be as successful as the past.

The program was initiated by the Environmental Conservation Organization (ECOS) in order to encourage students to recycle and to reduce waste on campus.

ECOS, in cooperation with the Student Government Association, has set up collection bins throughout the campus, including in the main buildings and in residence halls.

The goal of the program is to collect and recycle as much paper, plastic, and aluminum as possible.

Students are encouraged to participate by bringing their recyclables to the collection bins and ensuring that they are properly segregated.

The program is funded through a fee charged to each student at the beginning of the academic year.

For more information, please contact ECOS at 334-7543.

ast spring, two groups of students approached the Student Senate, demanding that the General Assembly of the Student Senate be allowed to hold special meetings and vote in accordance with Senate rules and procedures. The two groups were the Wake County Student Council and the Student Senate Presidents Council. The Student Senate Presidents Council was formed in an effort to bring all student representatives together and to allow for a more efficient means of communication and decision-making among women students regarding the administration.

The Student Senate Presidents Council has gained some momentum in its efforts to improve the current system of administration. The council has been working with the administration to gain greater representation in the formulation of a new women's leadership structure. The council has also been working to ensure that women's views are heard and considered in the decision-making process. Election Turnout Is Disgrace

I am one of the many students at Wake Forest who feel truly fed up with being represented. Student government has failed to address any of the issues that matter to us as students. In fact, our concerns are not even included in their platform. Our voices are not being heard by the administration.

The Old Gold and Black is the student newspaper of Wake Forest University, and I am a member of their editorial board. I have been involved in student government for the past two years, but my experience has only confirmed my belief that the system here is broken.

If you’re on campus and notice that the student government is not taking your issues seriously, please feel free to reach out to me. I’m also available on Twitter @KristenBargeron.

Kristen Bargeron takes to voice.

The classic response to this complaint is “Why should I vote? My voice doesn’t matter.” I can assure you that your voice does matter. It is the only way we can hold our representatives accountable. We must demand better from our leaders. Wake Forest students must vote in order to make a change. The election is too important to ignore.

It is past time to vote, and I urge everyone to do so. Whether you are registered or not, it is time to make your voice heard. Wake Forest is a community that values democratic principles, and we must stand up for them.

You can register to vote at https://www.vote.gov/

Tell your friends and family to vote too. The stakes are too high to ignore.

Wake Forest University: Clearing the air.

Wake Forest University is an institution that is currently under fire. The recent events have left many students, faculty, and alumni concerned about the future of the university. The administration has been criticized for their handling of the situation.

With the recent events, it is clear that the university needs to take action to address the concerns of its community. It is important that the administration listens to the voices of its students, faculty, and alumni. Only then can the university move forward and address the issues that have arisen.

Michael Shahan

Pursuing a curriculum in the wake of a tragic event is often considered a waste of time. However, it is important to understand that violence can be prevented through education.

When I was at my university, I noticed a change in attitudes towards violence. Students were more proactive in taking steps to prevent violent incidents. This change in attitudes was largely due to the implementation of a new safety policy.

The policy focused on increasing awareness of the risks associated with violence. It also encouraged students to take proactive steps to prevent incidents from occurring. The result was a reduction in the number of violent incidents on campus.

Unfortunately, this change in attitudes was not sustained. As a result, violence continued to be a problem on many campuses.

More education is needed to address the root causes of violence. It is important to encourage students to take a proactive role in preventing violent incidents. Only then can we make progress towards creating safer campuses for all.

Wake Forest’s Liberal Arts Must Affect Student’s Actions To Have Value

Susan Anderson

Wake Forest’s Liberal Arts must affect student’s actions to have value. If one’s education does not translate to meaningful actions, then it is not fulfilling its purpose.

If we educate students for the sake of education alone, we are missing the point. Education must be about more than just gaining knowledge. It should be about applying that knowledge in a meaningful way.

Wake Forest’s Liberal Arts program must make students think critically and creatively. It must encourage them to engage with the world around them. Only then can we truly say that we are contributing to the betterment of society.

Demands on School Unreasonable

Jennifer Slawinski

I agree with the sentiment expressed in the letter regarding the demands placed on Wake Forest University. The administration is always focused on what we as students want, but it seems like our concerns are not being taken seriously.

Hume Leads Wake Forest To First Place Finish

By Ed Brown

Wake Forest’s Cameron Hume will have to wait a little longer than expected to take over the ACC men’s cross-country lead. The Demon Deacons’ sophomore was at the top of the standings for the first time after winning yesterday’s ACC Championship meet in Morgantown, W.Va. The ACC meet was held on a 6k course, but Hume had already beaten the field in the season opener.

By Ed Brown

The Wake Forest women’s cross-country team received the ACC title for the first time in the Demon Deacons’ history. Coach Fred Goodridge said, "It has been a very challenging course." The team won the title with a score of 50, 2nd place was Harvard with 56, and 3rd place was Brown with 96. The Demon Deacons are ranked 12th in the NCAA men’s cross-country rankings.

Army Overcomes WFU 14-10

By Jay Reddick
On Deck at Richmond

The Wake Forest men's tennis team ended its 50 game losing streak against the Owls on Saturday, March 19, 1988. The Demon Deacons won 14-10 in the men's singles and doubles matches to avenge their losses from last year's tennis season.

The men's tennis team has been struggling all season, but the win was a much needed boost for the team. The team now stands at 0-7 on the season.

The win was particularly gratifying for Coach Bill Dooley, who said, "I'm very pleased with O'Connell's performance. He played the third set very well and did not continue.

The women's team fared well at last weekend's 1st Annual Wake Forest Women's Tennis Invitational.

Three players from Wake Forest reached the finals in the singles competition, which was divided into three flights.

In doubles, the Demon Deacons Diane McCown and Sherri Greenfield defeated the first team for the first tournament, with both women and their doubles partners receiving their invitations.

Senior Lisa McKeon was defeated in the first flight of the singles, but she played the second flight of the singles, winning the title. McKeon, a freshman, "played extremely well. We beat Rice on Saturday, October 1 - 5:00 P.M. at Cameron Stadium in Durham, NC.
