Discussion of Novel Results In No Action

The Wake Forest College Board of Trustees met Friday night to act on a motion with regard to the "Education of Hurricane Jerry," or, in other words, to grant Jerry Attkisson the position of president. The trustees passed the following motion, 35-9: "We feel that the report from this committee as to the present condition of Hurricane Jerry, or, in other words, to grant the position of president to Jerry Attkisson, is inconclusive. Contrary is a cartoonist at the Wake Forest College and Black after the spring meeting of the Trustees last year, the meeting of the body did not appear to be particularly productive. The Trustees are the people who are in charge of the college, and if we agree with the decision or not, we can criticize the Trustees for taking actions that we believe are wrong, rather than taking action to further a decision we know to be right.

There are many opinions about the current financial status of the college and how it can be improved. One thing that is clear is that the Trustees have been working hard to improve the financial status of the college.

Our own John C. Bridgman has been elected to the board of directors of the insurance company that has the largest percentage of students who take out student loans. This is a very important appointment for John C. Bridgman, and it is a testament to his hard work and dedication to the college.

Despite the recent dipping of enrollments, the college still has a large number of students who are enrolled. This is due to the fact that the college has been able to attract students from other institutions, and the students who are enrolled are happy with their decision to attend Wake Forest.

The college is in a strong financial position, and the Trustees are working hard to ensure that the college continues to be successful in the future.

Premiers, 'Moon Pilot,' State Fair To Amuse

By CHARLES WINSBERG

The return to the grind is now a thing of the past, a ponderous night for a month. But after all, the thing is that we shall still follow with the same outcome as before, or closer to one and all. More about all that is on the drawing board.

This is because you have your own and also because it is the beginning of another marathon, which should be coming to an end, and more along the lines of an informal event.

Features for the next and also the beginning of another marathon can be read in the next column or two for the next night, the next day and so on, which should be coming to an end, more along the lines of an informal event.

Moon Pilot, directed by Robert E. Lee, was contributed by Mary Louise Lewis, a queen of High Point. The picture concerns the life of a young girl, her brother, and their adventures in the Civil War.

Harry Robert E. Lee, who directs the picture, is a native of High Point and a graduate of the University of North Carolina. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society.

The film is expected to be shown at the Elks Theater on Thursday evening, and it should be an enjoyable feature for all. Rogers & Huntington will go all out to make the make up top, and we are sure they will make it a success.

"Extracurricular activities never really interested me," architecture and construction always did. It’s a paradox, though, because it soon turned out student activities gave me a big jump on my career in construction.

"Studies educated me. But college activities provided the confidence I needed to approach the business world. Looking back, it was these activities that really gave me my first knowledge of people, administration, leadership, and construction."

"Working for the college newspaper, fun magazine, and engineering bulletin taught me the importance of the promotion and getting of new business. It was a hard job, but I learned to handle it."

"A high point in my career was writing the book for the University. It was a lot of work, but I enjoyed it."

"This today’s heavy college curriculum doesn’t allow much time for activities. There wasn’t much time for them in my day either. I turned it into midnight all on architectural studies, but did not even get time for student activities. I’m mighty glad that I did."

"If you have time during the rest of your years in school to take an interest in activities—do it! It’s certain to pay off later on."

"It was a great experience and I would recommend it to anyone."

The University of Delaware tennis team, which already had four victories, defeated Miami on April 15, 6-3, and then eked out for the title over the Temple University Owls, 6-2, the last day of the tournament. The Owls managed a tie with their doubles team, but the entire match was won by the Delaware team. "Swamp" was the usually successful Delaware Monarch, who won the match 6-3 here last Friday.

Wake Forest has been a sports duo since its first year history in 1852. The campus is the winner. The annual Big Four Sports Intramural will serve as host to the 16th intramural sport season. The Department of Wake Forest has won 32 times, which is more victories than any of the others.

The Wake Forest campus is the only one with a tennis court, and it is also the only one that allows this sport. However, the campus usually has an advantage.
