Undergraduates to Vacate Apartments

By ELIZABETH MORTON
Old Gold and Black Reporter

Because of faculty concerns about noise and parking, undergraduates will not be housed in faculty apartments for the upcoming academic year. In a letter addressed to students last year, the university administration said it would house students in faculty apartments after the completion of student housing. Undergraduate students living in faculty apartments will be moved to dormitories.

The approximately 60 students now living in faculty apartments will have first priority in signing up for the event. The university's student apartments are expected to be finished next year.

The university's office of student life has said that the move will allow the university to better accommodate the student population.

Martin to Speak For Graduation

By SCOTT PRIEURIS

James Martin, the North Carolina Governor and a member of the U.S. Representative, will be the featured speaker at Wake Forest's May commencement.

Martin will address the graduating class of 1992 as the governor of the state of North Carolina. He is a member of the Democratic Party and has been in office since 1988.

Martin is a graduate of Wake Forest College and has a law degree from the University of North Carolina. He has been a member of the North Carolina General Assembly since 1976.

Martin has served as the governor of North Carolina since 1987, succeeding Zell Miller. He is a member of the Democratic Party and has been in office since 1988.

Martin is the first African American to hold the office of North Carolina governor. He is a member of the Democratic Party and has been in office since 1988.

Martin was elected as governor in 1992 and is running for re-election in 1996.

Building Allocation

Wake Forest, Winston-Salem Benefit

The policy has been the plan all along, but lately it has been the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company's Headquarters building that was drawn into the debate. Various professors in sociology, history, and literature, as well as other groups, have been advocating a new structure for the professional schools. The second floor will change hands between RJR and Wake Forest University.

Student Apartments

Students Displeased for Partial Solution

Perhaps the decision is not too surprising from the students' opinion of faculty and administration. The students of the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company have been so pleased with the new solution to the problem of students housing, that they have added more buildings to the campus. However, the students have learned that they are not the only ones who have been pleased with the new solution.

Democratic Organization Not the Ticket

A political cartoon in the February edition of the Raleigh News & Observer suggests that the democratic organization is not the ticket. The cartoonist, in his editorial cartoon, points out that the democratic organization is not the ticket.

Allocation Is Next To Avilement

The administration was not to be the only to have its say on the matter. The students of the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company have been so pleased with the new solution to the problem of students housing, that they have added more buildings to the campus. However, the students have learned that they are not the only ones who have been pleased with the new solution.

Cartoon Distortions

I am writing in response to Susan Hughes' letter to the editor which appeared in the Feb. 26 Old Gold and Black. I was very disappointed by the distortion of the facts presented in the letter.

Superpower Issue: Questioning Extremes

It is estimated that each week American political thought is divided into two extreme positions: either for or against superpower policies. This division is generally maintained by a handful of individuals who are generously described as "advocates" or "opponents," thus giving the impression that the views of the superpowers are advanced by a united body of experts. However, as with any other extreme position, this one is generally maintained by a small number of people who share a common ideology and are willing to publicize their views. The extreme positions are not an accurate reflection of the views of the superpowers, and it is necessary to learn all accomplishments before we can understand the role of the superpowers in the world. Three general rules can be applied to this situation. First, the extreme positions are not a reflection of the views of the superpowers. Second, the extreme positions are not a reflection of the views of the superpowers. Third, the extreme positions are not a reflection of the views of the superpowers. The current level of nationalistic characteristics that characterize our relationship with the superpowers is not a reflection of the views of the superpowers. It is more important for us to understand the views of the superpowers, which are not a reflection of the views of the superpowers.

Black Music Tradition Is Something Shared by All

By ED RIONE
Old Town and Park Plaza Report

Black History Month each February, and I think of how much the contribution of black musical forms to the development of American music is in the air.

No other country possesses as diverse or enriching a musical tradition as ours. Only few have such a rich and varied musical heritage. And few have had more opportunities for black musicians to become leaders in their field.

Notable musicians included Annis William's "Scotch Beggar," which was performed only by Deborah Rice and Robert Lindquist, and consisted of some scales and melodic chord approximations. The sheet music, the "Giant's March," is especially beloved in introducing jigs, but I'm sure the middle of the music is the most delicious held steady.

One of the most popular pieces of music is "The Black Presentation" by Arthur Bliss (1895-1975). These two pieces were most successful in using all nine賦．音楽を楽しむことの本質は、音楽が人間を自由にし、心を豊かにすることができるからです。 but the two months such as the Detroit Brothers, Prince and the New York Institute, and The Moody Blues have shown through their commercials that the radio line is slowly being opened. In an interview with the New York Times a few years ago, black jazz composer Miles Davis, who was once recognized as a champion of African-American jazz, recognized that traditional distinctions still exist. "White musicians usually are overshadowed, and black musicians sometimes are misunderstood," he said. "You have to use the name of a black musician for the news, but if you want a first name or middle name, you have to say his middle name."

Performers, however, have pointed to the fact that musical training among both whites and blacks have reached an equal level. In an interview with Detroit Times magazine last year, Mandela discussed the reason he feels jazz has always taken a back seat in classical music to America. "It's because jazz is a black contribution to the American art form. I mean the musical direction of jazz has been felt equally in the field dominated by blacks. Composers and songwriters, a degree of public awareness is required to insure equal opportunities for public musical expression for black and white homes. This article is without opportunities for the musical contributions, our American musical heritage would be deprived of one of its richest sources.

Hard Work Pays Off As Sophomore Boyd Helps Basketball Fortunes Rise

By DAVE BAKER

The emergence of sophomore Cal Boyd has been a major factor in the recent success of the Wake Forest basketball team.

"Cal gives us a spark on the bench," Coach Joe Haas said. "He is a hard worker who always shows up for practice and is ready to fill in when we need him." Boyd has averaged 5.3 points per game and 1.6 assists per game on the season.

The Deacons have faced tough competition in ACC play, but Boyd has been a consistent performer. In the team's most recent game, against Duke, Boyd scored a career-high 12 points and added three assists in a 70-68 loss. He hit three of his five 3-point attempts, demonstrating his ability to空间 the floor and open up the baseline for his teammates.

"Boyd is a key to our success," Haas said. "He's a great passer and a solid rebounder. He gives us added depth off the bench and can play multiple positions."}

Cavaliers Overcome Deacons

By JAMIE WHITE

The Marquette Golden Eagles defeated the Wake Forest Demon Deacons 78-72 in a tough ACC contest.

The Deacons, who entered the game as the underdogs, found themselves down by 18 points at halftime. However, the Deacons fought back in the second half, and ultimately pushed the game into overtime.

"We never gave up," said Deacons head coach Buddy Stallings. "We battled back from a 18-point deficit and we were within three points at the end of regulation.

In the overtime period, the Cavaliers pulled away, scoring 12 of the last 13 points of the game to secure the victory. Wake Forest guard Troy Brown Jr. led all scorers with 23 points on 7-of-10 shooting.

"Brown is a quiet leader on this team," Stallings said. "He can control the tempo of the game with his passing and ability to get to the free-throw line." Brown added eight assists and six rebounds in the losing effort.

Wake Forest Women Face Cavs in ACC Tourney

The Wake Forest women's basketball team is looking to advance to the ACC Tournament championship game for the first time in the program's history.

The Demon Deacons defeated the Virginia Cavaliers 66-54 in the semifinals of the conference tournament, setting up a showdown with the top-seeded Notre Dame Fighting Irish in the title game.

"We were able to stop Virginia's high-powered offense," said Demon Deacons head coach Joe Haas. "Our defense was key in that win.

Wake Forest will need to contain Notre Dame, which ranked second in the ACC in scoring offense, to have a chance of winning the title.

Women's Tennis Team Falls to Duke, Beats Tech

The Duke Blue Devils defeated the Wake Forest Demon Deacons 7-0 in a tough ACC showdown.

"It was a really tough battle," said Demon Deacons head coach Matt Richmond. "We didn't play our best, but we showed a lot of fight.

"I think we can take a lot of positives out of this loss," Richmond added. "We are still in the hunt for an ACC title and we need to keep working hard."
Cold-Shooting Effort Against Virginia Drops Deacons’ Record

Wake Forest guard Amy Privette has been named to the second team All-ACC squad for the second straight year.

Deacons averaged 69.8 points per game this year, which was the highest total in the conference.

Privette was in 11 of 12 game outcomes, hitting 47 percent of her shots, and Fourth in team with 4.4 per cent.

Deakers’ most prolific was named ACC Player of the Year. She was joined on the first team by Virginia’s most valuable player, Virginia’s most valuable player.

VI. N.C. State

N.C. State scored a win ACC losing record with an 81-72 victory over Maryland Wednesday night. The win holds the Wolfpack’s secret to 5-6 in the ACC and 15.40 overall, going into season-open game.

Coach Jim Valvano has been making the most of his team’s wins by improving his team’s academics. As the ACC’s resident funny man, students find the coach’s humor and charm. When asked if he thought his team was ready to go unbeaten in the conference in the second round, he said no.

Virginia

Virginia mixed up its conference stand to 7-4 and overall record to 25-3 with Wednesday’s victory over Wake Forest. The Cavaliers clinched their season Wednesday when they upset Maryland in a 3-1 victory game.

Have you ever noticed that Virginia’s most valuable player, Virginia’s most valuable player? Well if you haven’t, look again.
