Get Involved

It's just this simple: get involved. Don't let your college years waste away while you hole up in the library. There is just too much to do.

To say that extracurricular activities encompass a student's education is to miss an important point. Even faculty members admit that academic life is only part of a student's college life.

The academic courses, defining his course outline at the semester's beginning, may stop him just short of realizing that his class is not the only important thing in the world. One professor, an economist, went so far as to admit he knew that "there is an 'opportunity cost' to coming to class, and that the students may have other equally pressing things to do."

What many professors will not admit, but which is equally true, is that academic-life is, classes are only a part of a college student's education.

Extracurricular activities are very important to our development, regardless of what we do in life.

This campus offers a wide variety of extracurricular activities that take advantage of students' skills and interests. There are publications which allow students to express opinions, display their talents and hone their writing skills. Societies and fraternities offer

Alcohol Task Force

The Alcohol Task Force is a student/staff group who are involved with bringing awareness and education to the Wake Forest community regarding the use and abuse of alcohol.

The purpose of the task force is to increase the overall awareness of campus social life, encourage students to drink responsibly and help in social acceptance of those who choose to abstain.

The goals of the task force are:

1. To serve as a liaison between the students, local community, and the university administration regarding alcohol related issues.
2. To encourage student awareness of the physiological and psychological effects of alcohol.
3. To promote responsibility within the WF community regarding the use and non-use of alcohol.
4. To identify resources and services available to students seeking help with matters/problems related to alcohol.
5. To assist in the gathering of information and data relating to drinking patterns and attitudes at Wake Forest.
6. To advise and assist the alcohol education co-ordinator in the execution of his/her duties and developing the alcohol program.

The task force is co-chaired by chaplain Ed Christian, and director of the College Union Michael Ford and works in close cooperation with Alan Cannon the newly appointed Substance Abuse Co-ordinator.

College Union

The College Union is a student-oriented organization with membership open to all Wake Forest students. It is responsible for the conception, production, and promotion of many campus activities. Its student body consists of directors, composed of committee chairpersons and representatives, provides an opportunity for students to work together, to learn, and to have fun managing projects and watching ideas take form.

All students may become a part of the various College Union committees. Applications are welcome throughout the year for committees on concerts, lectures, films, video-tape productions, publicity, on-stage, recreation, fine arts, Outing Club, technical services, special events, and the student radio station, WAKE. These committees plan and present such activities as the Dinner Theatre, Springfest, Homecoming, and the College Bowl. Student-administered committees presented over 400 programs, classes, films, and other events for the University community during the last academic year.

The College Union office is in 124 Reynolds Hall. It also has information on such Union services as duplication, sign, and use of guest and media listening rooms. The Union is also responsible for the information desk at the main entrance to Reynold Hall.

This year officers are Annie Patterson, president; Anne Brown, vice president; Gray Styer, treasurer; Andy Mitchell, secretary. Chairpersons for the 13 committees of CU are George Chadwell, Tech Crew; Steve Bonth, Film Series; Mark Mull, Union Attraction Series; Charlie Mazzari, Recreation; Laura Smith, Lecture; Walt Norris, Videocase; Jon Bowden, Outing Club, Rob Conflit, Special Events; Nikkie Michael, Pine Arts; Amanda Weidem, Publicity; Thomas Hadspeth, Onstage; and Jim Hendricks, W.A.K.E. Radio.

Each class is represented by two people on the Board of Directors, and two freshmen class reps will be chosen in the next month from those recruited on the basis of their enthusiasm and dedication to the College Union.
Theatre Season

The University Theatre has announced four plays for its 1984-85 season. "See How They Run," "The Cherry Orchard," "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" and "The Wake Forest Passion Play." All plays are held in the Main Theatre at 8 p.m. In addition the University Theatre will host actors from the Royal Shakespeare Company during the week of October 9. And finally various as yet unannounced plays will be given in the Ring Theatre.

The theatre season will open on Friday, September 28 with "See How They Run" a comedy by Philip King, directed by University Theatre director Harold Tedford. Recently described as "the finest modern farce in the English theatre," "See How They Run" is set in the hall of the Vicarage, Morton-Cum-Middlewick.

An assortment of clergymen, both real and bogus, find themselves both the pursuers and the prey in a relentlessly round of farcical fun. The action proceeds, as in all good farces, at an ever increasing pace. Not even the Bishop of Dux can tell what is heaven's name is going on...but you can. The play will continue September 29 and October 5.

Ashen's Chekhov's "The Cherry Orchard" directed by Donald Wolfe, professor in the theatre program, will open Friday, November 9 and continue November 10, 14, 17.

"The Cherry Orchard," the last play by the Russian master, remains one of his most enduring works. He called the play "a comedy, in places even a 'farce.'" But like all great "comedy" it has a serious and compelling underpinning. His dramatic situation is the moment when we see the truth of the past. His atmosphere is lush and haunting. His remarkable characters, no matter how ludicrous, are presented with great compassion. This modern classic is one of the great masterpieces of the theatre.

The winter show will be Tennessee Williams' "Cat On A Hot Tin Roof," which will open Friday, February 15 and continue February 16, 20, 23. The guest director will be announced later.

First produced in New York in 1955, when it won the Pulitzer Prize as well as the Drama Critics' Circle Award, this dramatically shocking examination of a marriage on the rocks and the schemes family of a dying millionaire Mississippi planter has become an American classic. The character of "Big Daddy" Maggie "the cat," and Brick have moved audiences as they desperately try to work out their tortured lives and dreams. Brooke Atkinson said of the play: "It is the quintessence of life, It is the basic truth." This year the University will celebrate the Easter Season in part with the Theatre's production of "The Wake Forest Passion Play" first produced four years ago. The modern play is based upon medieval Biblical plays adapted and directed by James Dodd, who recently wrote and directed the sound and light show, "Visions and Dreams." The original music was written by Kenneth Lesage, former chairman of the music department.

Under Dodd's direction, "The Passion" is an inspirational Easter play, retelling in modern terms the moving story of the passion of Christ and celebrating the triumph of His Resurrection. These ancient plays reflect the creative vitality of deep religious devotion of their time. "The Passion" promises again to be an inspiring event celebrating the transcendent wonder of Easter.

Traditionally the University Theatre attracts large numbers of students not only as members of the audience, but also backstage and on as crew members and actors. Harold Tedford, the Theatre director, assures any student wishing to work and learn theatre a hearty welcome and an assignment in the next production.

Season tickets for students, faculty and staff are $14, which includes a discount ticket coupon for $1 for either the dinner theatre to be held March 23-24, 27-31, 1985 or the Royal Shakespeare Company Actors in Residence Performance or for any a la carte productions offered in the Ring Theatre during the academic year.

The theatre box office, in the Stiles Fine Arts Center will be open 1-6 p.m. until September 17 and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. September 17 to October 15.

The University Stores are owned and operated by Wake Forest University for the convenience of its students, faculty and staff.

We look forward to serving you throughout the year.

Politics Club
President: Steven A. Rowe

Goals:
The goals of the organization are to promote student political awareness, to provide a nonbiased forum for political discussion, to serve as a clearinghouse for information on political activities and to provide a social forum for students interested in the political process.

Activities:
Roundtable discussion, education of students on voting procedures and other civic functions, social functions between students and the politics department faculty, participation in campus debates concerning current events, participation at regional and national academic meetings concerning the field of political science.

First meeting: An organizational meeting will be held the first full week of classes in the fall semester.

The Politics Club is entering its second full year of activities in the fall semester of 1984. The club will be organizing discussion focusing on the upcoming fall elections concerning such subjects as foreign policy, taxes, education and the electoral process. Plans are also being made to have several members attend a regional political science meeting in November and an international conference on international studies in March, 1985. All interested students are encouraged to join in these activities!

Young Democrats

Goals:
Involvement in state and local Democratic election processes; to become aware of opportunities in the Democratic party.

Activities:
Lectures from local leaders; working as volunteers for local and state campaigns in November as well as Presidential campaigns.

First meeting: Sept. 4, Reynolds Hall East Lounge, 7 p.m.

Student Government

Museum of Man

The Museum of Man is the only museum in North Carolina devoted to interpreting the broad range of anthropological topics the public. An arm of the University, it is open to the public seven days a week throughout the year. Exhibits in the Museum range from the archeology of North Carolina to the arts and cultures of North and South American Indians, Oceania, Africa and Asia.

The Museum presents a full range of free, formal, curriculum-based programs to school classes, and civic groups under the direction of the University Museum Education Coordinator. Special pre-school, after-school and summer programs are also available for children ages 4-10 years old. These programs cover a wide variety of anthropological subjects such as archeology, Native American arts and games, African music, Indians of North Carolina, Chinese kite-making, human osteology and many more.

Education activities for adults and college students include lecture series and seminars on various topics, college coursework in museology and field archeology, and travel seminars. Students interested in volunteering to help with educational, curatorial or research projects should contact Linda Robertson at S280 for more information.

Choral Ensembles

Wake Forest and the music department offer students a large selection of choral ensembles, each giving academic credit for participation. Experienced performers and beginners alike can find an ensemble suited to their interests and time available.

The Concert Choir represents the college in the Winston-Salem area and on an annual spring concert tour. The 45-member mixed ensemble performs on campus as part of the music department concert series and participates in the traditional Moravian Lovefeast and candle service at Christmas. In the past, the group has sung throughout North Carolina, in Washington, D.C. and along the East Coast. The ensemble serves the finest local and musical talent on campus and strives to present a varied program of choral music from the past five centuries at the highest possible performance levels.

The Madrigal Singers specialize in the performance of chamber vocal music, especially the secular music of the Renaissance and twentieth century. The group's time depends on interest, but it is usually five hours. The Madrigals perform for campus and community functions and offer the participant the chance to enjoy singing in a small group. The Choral Union specializes in the performance of large works with piano, organ, and orchestra. It is large, from 60 to 80 voices each term, and is designed to allow everyone in the Wake Forest community an opportunity to sing with others in a positive, yet informal atmosphere. The group presents two performances per semester on campus in conjunction with other choral ensembles. Also offered by the music department are voice classes, voice lessons, and the College of Music, a group which studies the music of the medieval, Renaissance, and Baroque periods and performs them as authentically as possible.

The Concert Choir, Madrigal Singers and Choral Union are conducted by Brian Gorelick, who is beginning his first term of directing at the university this fall and promises a varied and exciting repertoire. The College of Music is directed by Stewart Carter and assisted by Ms. Tony Fedorishin, both of the music department faculty. If you would like to join one of these ensembles, call Gorelick at S371.

Artist Series 1984/85

The first Wake Forest Artist Series 1984/85 concert will take place in Wait Chapel on October 4, bringing the fabulous Los Angeles Guitar Quartet to Wake Forest for the first time. Trained by Pepe Romero, these four young artists will excite you with their own interpretation of the guitar world.

On October 29, The English Consort will provide the University with an early start to the Fall/Harvest Tercentenary to be observed in 1986. Under the direction of veteran harpsichordist, Trevor Pinnock, The English Consort, has conquered their world of classical recordings with their magnificent renditions of Bach's "Brandenburg" Concertos and Vivaldi's "Four Seasons," performed on original instruments.

Los Angeles once again will visit us on January 31 with an exclusive appearance of the incomparable Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra led by the brilliant young American conductor, Michael Tilson Thomas, who serves as the orchestra's principle guest conductor.

Unprecedented Chamber music will replace the performance of the Gregg Smith Singers March 15 in Reaves Recital Hall. While in Winston-Salem the Gregg Smith Singers will be in residence at Wake Forest and Reynolda House.

Errol Gipeps, pianist, will bring the season to a close on April 11. Oppen performed at SECAC last winter where he impressed her audience with his wonderful musicality. The Artist Series is proud to present her in a full-length solo recital.

Chamber Music Series

This fall, Reynolda House and the University will again offer their long-established chamber music series. All performances will be in Reynolda House and begin at 8:00 p.m. The following is a listing of concerts chosen for the 1984-85 season:

On October 9, The Albanese Trio, a German ensemble, will give the first performance. They have been recognized by their appearance in 1976. The trio has won many awards such as the International Music Competition in Moscow in 1977, as well as in London and Paris in 1978.

On November 20, the Hayley Quartet from Budapest, Hungary, will perform. Their repertoire includes first prize at the Budapest "Les Wiener" International Competition in 1983 and the "Tatra" award in 1970.

On January 3, the Folger Consort, an early music ensemble, will perform. The ensemble is in residence at the Folger Shakespeare Library and performs in the Library and Elizabethan Theatre located in Washington, D.C. The consort attempts to combine a strong basis in scholarship with the sense of vitality many find appealing in medieval and Renaissance music.

Carlton Robinson, a young pianist from Venezuela, will appear on March 23. Rodriguez, born in 1965, came to the North Carolina School of the Arts to study with Dr. Bill Matthews. Currently a seasoned performer, he has appeared on a variety of children's concerts and with the North Carolina School of the Arts Chamber Orchestra. He was a finalist in the New York Philharmonic Young People's Competition.

The last concert of the season which is on April 26 will feature the Budapest Brass Quartet. Formerly in 1975 the group has been awarded such honors as the first place award at the Maurice Andre International Brass Cup in Paris in 1979. It has been recorded on major international labels, been guests of the major European Music Festivals.

Season tickets are $20 for adults, $15 for senior citizens and $10 for students. Single admission at the door is $3 for students. For information call Reynolda House at 725-5135.

Reynolda House

By Garth Clement

The R.J. Reynolds summer home, Reynolda House, is nestled in Reynolda Gardens adjacent to Reynolda Road. Few in the Wake Forest community know that it is a part of the school or what goes on there.

Reynolda House Inc. is not affiliated with Wake Forest University or Reynolda Village. Reynolda House and Wake Forest do share Reynolda Gardens, however.

The house originally opened to the public in 1965. In 1967, the American art collection was placed on exhibition. "It is a significant American art collection and is most accessible to people in this area," resident curator of education for Reynolds House Suzanne Watkins said. This collection contains works from 1775 to the present and is accompanied by a contemporary print collection begun in 1976.

Reynolda House is filled with several different collections, including the Dorothy Kohler porcelain birds that were modeled for the Royal Winton Porcelain Company. The figures are representative of birds native to the United States.

The house's attic holds a collection of clothes worn by Reynolds family members. This costume exhibit also includes a display of miniature and children's furniture.

Reynolda House also functions as a learning center with concerts, poetry readings and lectures. Midnight lectures, for example, are frequent.

Lunchtime book discussions, chamber music performances, films on artists and art and art tours are all a part of Reynolds House functions that the public is invited to participate in.

Reynolda House hours are 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday and 1:30-4:30 p.m. Sunday. Admission prices for the house tours are $4 for adults, $3 for senior citizens and $1 for students and children. Lectures, readings and discussions are free.

Student volunteers soup the professional staff in many of the programs. Along with four responsibilities, they research topics for the art and music libraries at the house. These working hours are added in conjunction with the art collections or study. For more information contact Nicholas Bragg, director of Reynolds House.

Circle K Club

President: Scott Carpenter

Goals:
Circle K's goal is simple— it is a club devoted to service. Service initiates serious work as well as a lot of fun, ultimately creating more responsible students.

Activities:
Traditional activities include the freshman Square Dance, tutoring children, and Ski Weekend for members. These activities and new ones culminate in a club designed for everyone, Circle K.

The club provides an excellent way just to get away from school life. There are no mandatory participation requirements and membership is always open.

First meeting: Regular meetings are at 7 p.m., Thursday in 331 Reynolds Hall.

Alpha Phi Omega

Goals:
Alpha Phi Omega is a co-ed service fraternity with over 600 chapters worldwide. It has three cardinal principles: leadership, friendship, and service. The primary way these principles are promoted and developed is through the fraternity's service program.

Brothers in each chapter plan, coordinate, and participate in a year-old service program which includes service to the fraternity, the nation and especially to the campus and the surrounding community.

In the Kappa Theta chapter at Wake Forest, campus services include campus tours and the book exchange. Some of the community services are bloodmobiles; assisting in fund-raising projects for such organizations as Easter Seals, the Lupus Foundation and the Mental Health Association; and various programs with area nursing homes, as well as a wide variety of other projects.

The purpose of this service program is to promote friendship and unity within the brotherhood through cooperative effort, and to develop the leadership qualities of the brothers, as well as to help others. The fraternity complements its service program with a unique variety of social activities which serve to strengthen the bonds of brotherhood with the fraternity.

Activities:
Guide campus tours, book exchange, pet therapy, Red Cross bloodmobiles, Easter Seals, Big Brother for intermediate, members for Artists' Series, taxi service, Baptist Hospital volunteers, campus directories, Newcomers Dinner, Christmas Clearing House.

First meeting: Alpha Phi Omega lounge (downstairs Kitchin Dorm), side entrance Sept. 20, 8:15 p.m.

Elections

Petitions for students interested in running for the Student Government Legislature, Freshman Honor Council, and Freshman Student Budget Advisory Committee will be available on September 4 at the information desk or in the Student Government office, 208-A Reynolds Hall. Petitions are due in by 3:00 September 11 at the Student Government office, at which time there will be a meeting of all candidates, and the elections will be held on September 15. Any full time undergraduate student who is not an academic or social probation shall qualify to run.

Lunch Delivered

That's right! A 12" slice pizza with your choice of any two toppings, and two cans for only $4.99. Delivered! Good from 11 am - 4 pm daily. Not good with other offers.

Dear Students:

Your local Domino's Pizza store is now under new ownership and management! You will be noticing improvements in our prices, our pizza quality, our service, our appearance, and our attitude. We are dedicated to the mission of making Domino's Pizza your favorite place to order from and we are asking for your help in improving our performance.

Some of the steps we are taking include:

1. Lower prices! (Now in effect)
2. 30 minute delivery service guaranteed! ($3.00 off if late)
3. Satisfaction guaranteed! (If you are not satisfied with our product and service, call the manager on duty immediately and he will either find a way to satisfy you or will buy the pizza back at full price.)
4. Customer service reallocation! (On every pizza box top, fill out for 50¢ off on your next order; one per pizza please.)
5. Increased driver visibility! (Car top signs on delivery vehicles. Let us know if you see our drivers driving unsafely. We want to know right away.)
6. Formal training for store employees! (Our people are being continuously trained to give you the friendly service and the quality product that you deserve and expect. Let us know if we have an attitude problem.)
7. New open for lunch! (Both locations open at 11:00 daily.)

Thank you for taking the time to read this letter. Our commitment is to our customers and we need your feedback in order to find ways to satisfy you better. Please let us know how we are doing.

Sincerely,

Charlie Haywood
