Hagan Warns: Students May Lose Blocking Privileges

By BART GANZERT
Old Gold and Black Reporter

Douglas Hagan, assistant director of the Department of Student Activities, is concerned about the lack of balance in student government or student organizations and their impact on student life.

"We're moving forward with a feeling of a new relationship," said Thomas Hearn, Jr., president of the Student Government Association. "We're working with the administration, and the university will be more open to our ideas and concerns."

Panel Discusses Jobs In Field of Public Law

By WY. TOOLE Old Gold and Black Reporter

Kenneth M. Redler of the Con- and Judge Eugene Sullivan of the U.S. Court of Military Appeals spoke of early responsibility and legal judgment during a panel discussion on public law job opportunities. Sullivan moderated No. 3 in the series of three panel discussions on legal issues.

Redler said, “If you don’t look for (law practice) at your first job, you aren’t as a second year student.” He added that those students might also seek positions in the public sector to consider the opportunities for a position after finding a first job.

Both began their careers in government as judicial clerks. Redler, who was a judge in the North Carolina Court of Appeals, was named to his post in 1984.

Sullivan said that law review is not a “mutually exclusive” job, including preparation for the bar exam and other responsibilities.

Support Group Gives Homosexuals a Place to Talk

By LEA VARGAR
Old Gold and Black Reporter

The weekly meeting of the gay support group was held last Friday night in a Wake Forest on call in the basement of the Student Life Office. The group is made up of gay students and aims to provide a place where gay students can discuss their experiences and concerns.

The group was formed as a result of a meeting among students and faculty members who were interested in creating a support group for gay students. The group aims to provide a safe and supportive environment for gay students to express their thoughts and feelings.

The group meets on a regular basis and is open to all gay students regardless of their gender identity. The meetings are confidential and provide a place for students to share their experiences and support each other in navigating the challenges of being gay in a college setting.

The group is also open to non-gay students who are interested in learning more about the gay community and supporting their fellow students. The group welcomes anyone who is interested in attending meetings or just learning more about the gay community at Wake Forest.

The group is currently looking for new members to join and anyone interested in attending meetings or learning more about the group should contact the Student Life Office for more information.

New Drinking Age Regulations in More Assigned Work Hours

By MAUVE ROTTEN
Old Gold and Black Reporter

The work hour program has seen its first change in the drinking age, according to Dean of Students Mark H. Reece. Reece said that the majority of the cases up until Oct. 30 have been alcohol-related. If a person is 19 or 20 years of age and is caught drinking alcoholic beverages on campus, he or she is fined $25 for the offense, Reece said. If the person is 21 or older, the fine is doubled. If the person is under 18, the fine is $100.

An additional ten hours of work may be required for students who are caught violating these regulations. The work hours are used to pay for the cost of the fine and to support the Wake Forest University alcohol awareness program, which is designed to educate students about the dangers of alcohol use.

The group is also open to non-gay students who are interested in learning more about the gay community and supporting their fellow students. The group welcomes anyone who is interested in attending meetings or just learning more about the gay community at Wake Forest.

The Martha Graham Dance Company will perform Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the Reynolds Hall auditorium as part of their 30th Anniversary World Tour. Tickets are still available at the Student Union Box Office for the event, which is co-sponsored by Dance Series, Student Union, and Dance Club, for five dollars.

It is not too late for students to see this spectacular event and also to experience the magic of the Martha Graham style. This style involves showing the mechanics of the dancer's movements rather than the emotion or product of those mechanics. She describes life in effect, and that is the reason of the movement is not more important than the effort expended in achieving it.

The company is unique because it marks a new development in the style of its creator as well as expressing its own individual character. Many of the dancers of the Graham's company feel that the younger dancers are stronger for the company because they understand the aesthetic of revealing inner motion through movement rather than acting it out. However, the company has maintained its lease through the 1930s while moving the technique to be a very special one. They have become a very popular dance company that has been a part of many stages, including Broadway, all over the world. Whether it is a very special one that has been a part of many stages, including Broadway, all over the world. Whether it is a very special one that has been a part of many stages, including Broadway, all over the world.

Theresa Horan Barnes in "Dedication of Angels" exemplifies the technique used by the Martha Graham Dance Company.

Long Explains Growing Democracy

By GARLAND KIMMER

The idea of democracy has been present in the minds of the Irish people throughout history, although it took a long time for it to be present in the country. The importance of democracy in the Irish society is so high that it has been present by the Irish people and its citizens during the last 200 years.

The evening began with an introduction of the featured speaker, Mr. DuBois, who is a historian known for his works on American democracy. Mr. DuBois discussed the need for understanding the political and social issues that constitu
A New York Comes to WFU Theatre

By FRISC MEADE

The upcoming production of Richard Bonnaro's "The Body", to be held in Wake Forest University's Wake Hall on November 18 and 19, promises to be a very special event for Wake Forest students, faculty, and alumni. The play, written by a noted American playwright, will be directed by the renowned actor and director, Randall Thompson. The production will feature a cast of talented actors from the University's Theatre Program, as well as guest performers from New York City's fillscale theatre community.

Theatre was always a major part of my life, even before I started college. I grew up in a family of actors, and my parents instilled in me a deep love for the performing arts. I have been involved in theatre productions since I was a child, and I have always been fascinated by the power of theatre to captivate and inspire audiences. I am thrilled to be a part of this production, and I am looking forward to seeing how it will be received by the audience.

As a director, I am constantly striving to create productions that are both entertaining and thought-provoking. I want to challenge my students and my audience to think about the world in new ways. "The Body" is a play that deals with themes of identity, sexuality, and the human condition. It is a play that explores the complexity of human experience, and it is a play that I believe will resonate with Wake Forest students and faculty.

I want to thank all of the students who are participating in this production. You are all incredibly talented, and I am proud to work with each of you. I also want to thank the faculty and staff who are supporting this production. Your dedication and commitment to the arts is what makes Wake Forest such a special place.

I believe that theatre is a powerful force for good in the world. It has the ability to bring people together, to challenge our assumptions, and to inspire us to think about the world in new ways. I am excited to be a part of this production, and I am looking forward to seeing how it will contribute to the life of the Wake Forest community.

Soccer Team Closes Season

By CRAIG MARTIN
The soccer team closed its season last week with a 3-0 win at Saturday's game against North Carolina State. The team's overall record this year was 5-14-3, with 3-10-2 in ACC play.

"That kind of qualifying is simply not good enough for us," coach Walt Chyzowych said. "In our 1-0 home loss to North Carolina State, we had our chance to make the 2006 ACC Tournament, but we failed to capitalize on it."

The Deacons' biggest missed opportunity occurred in the first half against the Wolfpack. The Wake Forest men's soccer team did not take a shot on goal during the entire match, and the visiting NC State team did not score in the final two games.

The Deacons' first-match, first-half goal against the Wolfpack was scored by sophomore midfielder Donny Heck. He scored on a 30-yard free-kick after a foul by NC State's defense.

"I'm not sure if we're better or not," Chyzowych said. "I'm not sure if we're worse or not. We had our chances tonight, but we didn't take advantage of them.

"We need to work on our accuracy and our decision-making."
Deacons End Year at .500

By SHAWN HARLEY
1st Look and Back Preview

The Wake Forest volleyball team finished up its regular season in Reynolds Gymnasium Thursday night with a loss in ACC/AAU North Carolina State University to mark off a week in which Wake Forest went 2-0. Nothing stories to the Wake Forest players had been all around Baltimore when an improved Deacons serving team took to the floor with hopes of igniting the second place team in the conference, N.C. State. The visitors had little ideas, however, as they allowed Wake Forest in three games, 13-5, 12-6 and 15-5.

"We served reasonably well. We had to serve well in order to get a team like Wake Forest to give away points. We gave away five miscommunication on their serve well," said Head Coach Frank Wendebold said.

The most encouraging aspect of the match was not on the server. Instead, a 20-minute delay during the last game proved to be the most dominant feature as the Wolfpack was caught off guard during the last game proving to be the turning point for Wake Forest. Wendebold refused to apologize for their defensive error.

"They travel to Raleigh next Saturday. We have to the Deacons leading by as much as four at one point before the Wakepack took in the lead at 12-12." In the Tarheels Tournament, the Deacons lost at three matches in Western Kentucky (15-2, 15-6), Tulane (0-5, 15-3); and New Orleans (15-5, 15-6).

"They played four matches and were in two of them," Wendebold said. "We won't change it. We won't change it. We won't change it." The last 20-minute delay could be the turning point. Wendebold said.

The disappointing week closed the team's record to 6-5 on the season. 1-6 in the ACC. They moved to Raleigh next Saturday to play N.C. State again in the ACC Volleyball Tournament.

Rives Helping Kids

Chip Rives, a junior fullback on the Wake Forest football team, has formed an organization called "Team's Helper," that will donate toys to the needy children in the Winston-Salem area. The project will not discriminate in purchase toys in order to make the holiday season a little merrier for the children who would otherwise not get the gifts to receive toys.

"We had to buy them a present that's going to be a kids' helper," said Head Coach Frank Wendebold.

"It's the season of giving, and we want to do our part to give," said Wendebold.

"It was inspired by a magazine article I read about a woman who started a similar project in another area."

"It's originally decided to start "Team's Helper" last spring," Wendebold said.

If you would like to participate in "Team's Helper," you can donate your toys to the Wake Forest Equestrian, 7114, Reynolds Station, Winston-Salem, NC, 27109.

Football Team Loses On Last Minute Kick

The Wake Forest football team suffered another close defeat this Saturday at the hands of Duke, 38-36. Despite an inspiring performance by Darryl McGill (154 yards rushing), the Demon deacons could not overcome the Blue Devils.

The Blue Devils scored five touchdowns in the game. Dick Harris missed a Mason Bailey field goal attempt but ran it in the end zone.

McGill kicked the Demon's board on a 34-yard run and Mark Young added another touchdown giving Wake Forest a 1-4-1 loss.

Duke's scoring was from the second quarter with a long drive that ended when quarterback Steve Slayden dropped their fifth conference game of the year.

On the other hand, McGill then got the Deacons from the Wake Forest 14-10 lead. The Deacons' co-captains for the past seven years, both of which competed at Millbrook High School, and has been a Deacon for the past four years.

The pair termed each other as "the best volleyball players we've ever had". Daugherty was a player of some experience indeed.
