University Creates Council
Confronts AIDS Problem

By SCOTT PRESTON
Staff Writer
Wake Forest University has created a health-reform panel to deal with the occurrence of acquired immunodeficiency syndrome (AIDS) on campus. The University has established a panel to promote the growing concerns arising from the worldwide spread of the virus which causes AIDS.

John Anderson, the vice president for administration and planning, and Brian Austin, the assistant vice president for student affairs, are the co-chairmen of the panel. It is expected to meet in early February.

The panel's initial meeting will be devoted to which director will head the panel. According to Professor Jim Lander, materials on the virus will be distributed to all faculty, staff, and students during the remainder of the semester. A local medical authority, Dr. James Pignon of the division of infectious disease at Bowman Gray Medical Center, will speak to interested groups which will focus on the virus.

The University's residence halls are being closely monitored by the Health Services. The residence halls organization will attend training sessions on AIDS.

Race Commission Publicizes Findings

By BARRETT CHAPMAN
Staff Writer
The Student Government President's Select Commission on Race Relations met on Monday and Tuesday of this week to complete the monthly meetings of research. The board was efficient and completed its research.

The five main targets of the report include involving minorities on the board of trustees, the board of visitors, and in the administration. Financial assistance for the enrollment of minority students is a major goal for the board. The commission is trying to develop policies for minority students and campus life, and providing a "reasonable application." According to Commissioner Anthony Charis, co-chairman of the commission, the group has met on the major issues, but there are offers of support and ideas for immediately applying these plans. The board reported that the group is facing a majority enrollment this fall on campus life. By Monday, there are expected to be 75 percent minority students in the home, 70 percent at the home, and 60 percent at the local school.

The Social and Community Relations Commission met on the same day, discussing the responsibilities and limitations of the group. According to Commissioner Cynthia Cuomo, who spoke as a part of the commission, the group has met on the major issues, but there are offers of support and ideas for immediately applying these plans. The Greek Week Concludes

Theta Chi, Strings Win

By TOM LOGAN

The Greek Council in the Coliseum will take us back to the glory days of spring 1984, when a small group of students in Alpha Chi Omega worked to initiate a program for Greek Week. The event was to represent a semi-annual celebration of Greek life and was held approximately every four years. Since that time, the program has grown into a week-long celebration of Greek life, featuring a variety of events and activities.

Cheerleading

The cheerleading competition was held on Monday, April 30, at the Coliseum. The participating teams included Alpha Chi Omega, Delta Phi Epsilon, Kappa Delta, Kappa Delta Phi, and Pi Kappa Alpha. The cheerleading teams were judged on their routine, appearance, and overall performance. The winning team was Alpha Chi Omega, who received a trophy and a check for $100.

The Pickens found that Greek Week was a busy time for the hotdog and hamburger stands. The BBQ boys found their "expensive lunch" sign busy among the hungry students.

Evening Activities

The Greek Week activities included a variety of events and activities, including a Greek trivia competition, a silent disco, and a Greek-themed costume contest. The Greek Council also held a Greek Week awards ceremony, where students were recognized for their contributions to Greek Week and the Greek community.

The Greek Council would like to thank all of the students who participated in Greek Week and made it a success. We look forward to another successful Greek Week in the future.

Stadium Leadership Resource Area Opens

By LYNNIE TEICHEN

Leadership Resource Area (LRA) is a new program at Wake Forest University designed to foster leadership development. The LRA is located in the Coliseum and is open to all students.

The LRA provides resources for students interested in developing their leadership skills, such as workshops, seminars, and one-on-one coaching. The LRA also offers a Leadership Resource Area (LRA) grant budget, which can be used to fund leadership-related events and projects.

The LRA is open to all students, regardless of their major or class standing. The LRA aims to create a community of leaders who are committed to making a positive impact on campus and beyond.

The LRA is currently accepting applications for the grant budget. Applications are due by May 15, 2023. For more information, please visit the LRA website at lra.wfu.edu or contact the LRA coordinator at lra@wfu.edu.

Babcock Requires Outward Bound

By JENNIFER HENKIN

The Babcock Graduate School of Management has implemented a new requirement for all MBA students: participation in an Outward Bound program. The requirement is designed to help students develop leadership and problem-solving skills.

The Outward Bound program is a three-day wilderness adventure that challenges students to work together to achieve a common goal. The program is designed to help students develop leadership skills, improve teamwork, and build confidence.

The Babcock MBA program is committed to preparing students for leadership roles in their careers. The requirement is expected to help students develop the skills needed to succeed in today's rapidly changing business environment.

Panel Studies Ethics and Career Choices

By ELIZABETH CHRISTOPHER, Associate News Writer

Panelists discussed the issue of choosing careers because of their beliefs and how religious beliefs can affect ethical decision making.

In response to a question concerning career choice, Frueh said that students should understand the "meaning of a life" and make personal decisions accordingly.

Joel C. Gregory of Trinity Avenue Baptist Church in Fort Worth, Texas, discussed sermon that "proach the place of delivery, style and content in a series of three topics. "

Gregory presented the lectures on Monday and Tuesday, and the third lecture on Wednesday. "TheStyleSheet is accessible and should be expected to entice the listener."

Gregory also mentioned good properties through succinct, unifying, and frequently meaningful examples of "selected passages from the Scriptures."

Gregory claimed that the introduction to a sermon is "most important in the world of political culture" and should be "influential and relevant to the listener."

After the Tuesday morning feature, Gregory discussed both verbal and non-verbal aspects of delivery and noted that "a sermon isn't a sermon until it is preached." Gregory stressed that "the object of the delivery is its delivery," and eye contact is essential to make a sermon "a living organism."

The Price of High Tech

A week from your last issue, the staff of Old Gold and Black staff watched a week's worth of work go down the drain. Despite the pressure of deadlines, the photographers had developed the pictures and that the oil следел had not be taken up until next week.

In time, however, enough

Somehow, when the week's extra time went by, the staff realized the importance of covering the story. The staff then decided to publish the story despite the lack of time. The result was that the story was published in time for the staff to take on their next project.

We appreciate the enthusiasm of many readers in setting the examples of our future, and we trust that the staff will continue to do their best to make Old Gold and Black a truly new and different magazine.

Taking a Stand on Issues Makes Being Human Worth the Trip

Letters are coming faster than I can print them. This week, I will try to print some of the letters that I have received. As usual, you are doing something positive about the world around you. The minds of many are troubled by the injustices that are right and the racism and sexism that surface in our world. It is up to us to act and to do so.

Meanwhile, we will continue to work on our next issue. It will be published in time for the staff to take on their next project.

No Room at Caryle Lecture

Many of the opportunities afforded by this university, the ones I have most enjoyed, have been with students. I have been able to share my love for learning with others and to see the world from their perspectives. I have also been able to share my love for learning with others and to see the world from their perspectives.

Caryle was a great teacher, and his legacy will continue to be felt in the lives of his students. I am grateful to have had the opportunity to learn from him.

Greek's Help Plant Crew

Approximately 200 students from the Junior-Freshman Class, the 1976-78 Members of the Class of 1980, and the Class of 1979, who are members of the Greek's Help Plant Crew, were involved in work on the Quad.

The work involved cleaning up the Quad and surrounding areas. The students were supervised by the Greek's Help Crew.

I hope that you will find the news of their work to be of interest.

In Defense of Derby Week: Satirical Attack Was Unreasonable

A s a student who has been involved in the administration of Sigma Chi, the recent article in the Old Gold and Black attacking our chapter's efforts to create a university pub is unwarranted.

First, Diversions never was meant to be a "beach party." Instead, it was intended to pro­ vide a forum for entertainment and thought for the entire campus. Much more, it was an "occasional moonlight on VCR and several concerts," as our production assistant stated in the April 3 issue of the Old Gold and Black.

Furthermore, contrary to your implic­ ations, the Derby Week events are not planned by a small group of300 Fraternity men with the intent of "sleeping away" — we shall say — "cost of attendance."

In fact, beginning early in the fall, the Derby Dudes met with representatives from each of the women's sororities to plan the week so that their fund-raising goals would be served within a framework of friendly competition and good sportsmanship. An Academic Comment

By Dr. W. Clark Moss

Being an English major who has taken Dr. Moss's Southern literature course and a writing class, I can say that he takes his work very seriously; he is not an easy professor to please. He is, however, a challenging one in that he believes his work should be good. He is, therefore, an excellent teacher for those who are interested in literature and enjoying the class should be able to succeed in it. I would like to suggest that Mr. Moss's teaching style be more inclusive to all students.

Academic freedom is an important aspect of university life, and it is crucial that students be able to engage in open and honest discussions. Mr. Moss's comments on my work are often overly critical, and he does not seem to be willing to consider other perspectives. His personal prejudices are sometimes reflected in his grading, which can be discouraging for students who may not share his views.

In conclusion, I believe that Mr. Moss's teaching style could benefit from more inclusivity and open-mindedness. He should consider engaging in open dialogue with his students and be willing to listen to different perspectives. This would not only improve the quality of his teaching but also enrich the learning experience for all students.
Hooks in the Letter

As an outraged Wake Forest alumna, I am writing to express my concern and disinterest over the decision of the Wake Forest University's Women's Volleyball team. As reported in the May 12 issue of the Wake Forest Argus, the Athletic Director, Ken Gross, has decided that the volleyball program will no longer receive any financial support from the athletic department. This decision was made in response to the Women's Athletics Council's claims that the volleyball program was being underfunded and that the team was not competitive.

I believe this decision is shortsighted and illogical. First of all, it is a fundamental principle of athletic programs that money should not be the sole determinant of whether a team is competitive or not. The success of a team is a complex factor that includes factors such as coaching, training, player dedication, and community support. Money is only one of these factors, and it is not necessarily the most important.

Secondly, the Women's Athletics Council's claims that the volleyball program is underfunded and not competitive are not supported by facts. The program has a history of success, and the players are highly motivated and dedicated. In addition, the program has produced several All-American players and has won numerous conference championships.

Finally, the idea that money is the only factor determining a team's competitiveness is flawed. Many successful teams have achieved success without the benefit of financial resources. The recent success of the Wake Forest men's basketball team is a prime example of this. The team has achieved success without the benefit of financial resources.

In conclusion, I urge the athletic department to reconsider its decision and to support the Women's Volleyball team. The program has a strong history of success and has the potential for even greater success in the future. It would be a mistake to abandon a team that has proven its worth and has the potential for continued success.
Theatre Ends Season With Dreamy Performance

BE ArgALRN

Under the direction of visiting instructor of theatre arts Howard Dodgson, Shakespearean company Midwest Productions presented its last performance of the season—"A Midsummer Night's Dream," which opened last Friday night on the main stage. This particular production of the famous comedy is not as well known as previous versions, but it is a rich source of comedy and social behavior.

Midsummer Night's Dream

Midsummer Night's Dream is a timeless story about the magical world of fairies and supernatural beings. It is a story about love, destiny, and the power of the supernatural. The play begins with the (mostly) male cast of the wedding of Hermia and Lysander, who are in love. Hermia is loved by a suitor, Demetrius, and Lysander is loved by Hermia's sister, Helena. These two young couples become entangled with the magical world of fairies, which results in a series of comic misunderstandings and complications.

The production of this play is a collaboration between the theatre arts department and the visiting instructor of theatre arts. The cast and crew worked tirelessly to bring this story to life, and the result was a beautiful and entertaining production.

Midsummer Night's Dream ends its run this week. Don't miss your chance to see this wonderful production before it's too late!
The Mary Arden Poetry Festival celebrates its second anniversary this year with a series of events and readings. The festival is held in honor of the mother of William Shakespeare, Robert Arden, one of the few surviving members of the Bard's family.

Among the events to be featured this year is a reading by David Ojeda, who has been reading and discussing his work at universities around the country. Other featured readers include British actor John Santer, who will present a reading of his new play, "The Requiem." The event will include a performance of the "Requiem" by the Mary Arden Choir from the University of Kentucky, under the direction of Daniel R. Aiken.

The festival will also feature a poetry contest, "Mary Arden Poetry." The contest is open to all students and community members, and the winner will receive a cash prize and an invitation to read their work at the festival. Deadline for entry is May 15, and all entries must be submitted in writing.

In addition to the above events, the festival will also feature a special exhibition of prints and drawings by the late playwright and poet, William Shakespeare. The exhibition will be held at the University of Kentucky's Visual Arts Center, and will include works by a number of other contemporary artists.

The festival is free and open to the public, and will be held on the campus of the University of Kentucky, in Lexington, Kentucky. For more information, please visit the Mary Arden Poetry Festival website at www.maryardenpoetryfestival.com.

Race
A recommendation for the establishment of an inter- disciplinary Black Studies program was also made.

The report suggested several ways in which minority statuses could be encouraged to participate in recruiting and student life in a more involved manner, and to improve communication between the minority and themselves. Specific recommendations included more directed participation of college students in local community services, a "student minority mentor," and encouragement of minority students seeking job or reference, and an annual program centered around a theme of alumni could attend workshops, seminars, and various other programs.

Concerning the street protests, the report said that "campus life is a make-or-break point for minority students." First it recommended that a permanent committee be established under ISG supervision to "oversee the progress of race relations and to push for the accomplishment of the goals set this year by the Commission."

Lambert said that the report's executive advisory board, which will include a minority student, was chosen to be the one to implement the recommendations set forth, although it probably be evaluated next year.

Other suggestions for improved student life included the establishment of a predominantly black sorority, minority social functions, and the endowment of a NAACP branch on campus.

The commission made specific recommendations concerning the many minority athletes berg on campus. It held that the involvement of the student body would be the main campus find for freshmen year and given an option where they would like to live after three years. Another recommendation was to allow only freshmen athletes to live in the present athletic dorms, with the other races open to students in general for a wider range of students rooms.

Three additional bands will perform starting from 4:45 p.m. The bands include the student favorites: radio music bands are Racer X, Chicago, and Pan at the Zoo. The Student Union will give away over 25 pairs of Ray-Ban sunglasses for the event.

Poovey said that during Saturday, April 23, 20, will house the bands Xena, Urban Edge, and Let's Action. Poovey noted that the change in the time frame has slightly changed the format of the day, to be added that the Student Union will be serving beer.

Springfest T-shirt sales will continue through next Friday. Poovey noted that because a copyright infringement could have occurred from the use of the wearing "Pizza Weekly" logo, the stu- dent groups must ask permission to use the original winner, some of which have already asked tions. Poovey's new designs "carefully con- veyed an idea similar to his original" but has no legal problems attached.

Cuomo
Cuomo was discussing our nation's ability to understand the problems facing it, but noted the importance of consensus in solving such issues. "We will not solve it as a country unless we solve it as a country. We must solve it together. We must all work together."

The Roman Catholic Church, the report states, is able to solve problems such as poverty by praying. "We have worked to do that," Cuomo added. "The Roman Catholic Church is a relatively successful example of what the public wants to do with money. We should talk about the public's change in the event.

"Cuomo said. "On the one hand, Cuomo's recommendation for the economic well-being and finances of tomorrow, we will make sure on the other hand, Cuomo's recommendation for the economic well-being and finances of tomorrow, we will make sure of what the public wants to do with money. We should talk about the public's change in the event.

"Cuomo said.

Rain Postpones First Round In Tournament
By RUSSELL ROGERS
The News-Press

Rain washed out first round play in the ACC Men's Tennis Tournament in Charlottesville, Va., yesterday, including Wake Forest's match against Clemson.

The Deacons finished 8-7 in the ACC and 24-3 overall and are the number eight seed in the tournament. Top-seeded Clemson, 6-4, 7-6, has won the tournament for four straight years and six of the past seven seasons.

Other first-round games include second-seeded North Carolina (21-5, 25-7) against seventh-seeded Virginia (6-4, 6-0), sixth-seeded Georgia Tech (5-1, 10-6) against sixth-seeded N.C. State (2-4, 16-4) and ninth-seeded Duke (6-3, 2-6) against fifth-seeded Maryland (2-4, 6-6).

The first round matches were rescheduled for Sunday, March 18, extensive improvements to Layton Field. When finished, the stadium will have 12,000 seats.

The Wolfpack jumped out to an early lead in the sixth inning, giving up only two hits off starter Frank Humber in the first five innings. He later, while pounding out two run triples. He later

My brief McGirr, the Wake Forest women's basketball coach, may find herself in a similar position to that of Deacons coach Marvin Cheek. The Deacons are currently 16-2, 9-1 in the ACC and are the number one team in the nation. Perhaps McGirr is the best coach in the ACC, she is a part-time coach, as she is also a full-time professor of business administration.

McGirr's team has proved more challenging with the absence of Cuvier. The team will now return to full strength with the program

Morabito's Hitting Sets Example for Teammates

By JABIN D. WHITE

One of the key elements for Wake Forest's baseball team to succeed this season is the hitting of senior catcher Tony Morabito. Morabito, who batted .380 last year and is currently second in the nation with a .393 average, has been instrumental in the Deacons' offensive success.

Morabito's hitting sets example for teammates

Morabito's hitting sets example for teammates is a great opportunity for our young teammates to learn from a seasoned veteran. The Wake Forest men's sports teams have been on a roll recently, and the Deacons have been leading the way with strong performances in their games.

The Wake Forest men's sports teams have been able to win against some of the top teams in the country. Their most recent win was against the University of Virginia, and they were able to come out on top with a strong performance. The Wake Forest women's golf team has also been doing well, and they recently won a tournament in South Carolina.

In terms of coaching, the Deacons have been doing a great job of providing strong leadership and creating a winning culture. The team has been able to put in the necessary work and get the results they deserved.

The Wake Forest men's track team has also been doing well, and they recently won a conference title. The team has been able to focus on their training and put in the necessary work, and it has paid off in the end.

If you want to get ahead in college, it helps if you choose a brilliant roommate. Like a Macintosh personal computer. And now there are two models from which you can choose.

First, there’s the Macintosh Plus—now widely accepted by students at colleges and universities all across the country.

It comes with one 800K disk drive and a full megabyte of memory (which is expandable to four).

For those of you who need even more power, there’s the Macintosh SE. It comes with all of the above as well as a built-in 20-megabyte hard disk, for storing up to 10000 pages. Or if you prefer, you can add a second built-in 800K floppy drive.

The SE also gives you a choice of two new keyboards, one with function keys for special applications.

And it has an internal expansion slot so you can add new power without performing major surgery. Like a card that lets you share information over a campus-wide network. Or another that lets you run MS-DOS programs.

With either Macintosh, you’ll be able to take advantage of the latest, most advanced software.

Like idea processors that outline your thoughts. Word processors for writing, editing and checking your spelling. And communications programs that give you 24-hour access to valuable information.

So no matter which model you decide on—you’ll be able to get much faster, better and smarter.

No two ways about it.
