Delays in Venise Sale Completion Raise Questions

By KATHY WATTS

Although Venise has announced that Wake Forest does not own the original, the Venise in Italy, university-owned Keist, is not.

Tyler said that the final title to the house is being delayed due to the long seven years that it will take to be finalized by the Italian courts. The house has been in a legal dispute since 1974, and the Venise have been paying $200,000 per year in rent. The university, however, has not taken the title of the house.

The university collected all of the remaining funds due to Venise in 1985 to transfer the title. However, the Venise have been unable to transfer the title due to the legal dispute.

The university, in addition to the original Venise, has been in a legal dispute with the Italian government over the title to the house.

The students elected the Judicial Board and Honor Council

By LGD GRAY

Results of Tuesday's student government election were surprising. Not only did net new candidates win for first time ever, but also the candidates for the Judicial Board, a new position on the student council, won.

The new Judicial Board includes four members elected by the student body. The four members will serve on the board for one year.

The Judicial Board is responsible for hearing cases involving disciplinary actions against students.

The Honor Council is responsible for hearing cases involving academic dishonesty.

The council consists of three members elected by the student body. The members will serve on the council for one year.

The council will meet on a regular basis to hear cases involving academic dishonesty.

"Any strange or unexpected behavior, physical injury such as throwing any object, pushing, shoving, speaking, hitting, hitting, punching, beating on or threatening with a gun or a knife," said Chris LoCicero, director of LoCicero’s research team at Duke University.

LoCicero defined courtship violence in his recently compiled mate’s thesis. The study included responses from over 3,000 college students from various states.

With the help of psychology and statistics, LoCicero also determined the rate of courtship violence among Wake Forest students to approximately 18 percent, slightly lower than the national average of 20 percent. "Women perceived the rate to be lower than the national average," he said.

U.S. Secretary of Education Will Speak Here

By CRESENTE VAHBOLY

U.S. Secretary of Education William J. Bennett will speak Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Brevard Recital Hall as the last of this semester’s Dimensions Speaker Series. Bennett will address the need for strong leaders in America, the problems facing the United States, and the need for strong leadership on the national level.

Bennett has taught law and philosophy at several universities including the University of Wisconsin, Boston University and Harvard University. He has also been a key figure in more than fifty secretaries on issues of national importance.

Bennett has written a number of articles for professional journals on subjects of social, cultural and educational transformation, the conditions of the administration in the 1980’s, the role of the mask and human development. The articles have been published in a number of publications including the Stanford Review, the Journal of the American Philosophical Association, the New York Times and the Wall Street Journal.

Bennett has retired from the Washington, D.C. area but continues to teach at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, where he is a visiting professor in the department of philosophy. He is also a member of the Board of Directors of the American Philosophical Association, the New York Times, and the Wall Street Journal.

Bennett has a degree in English from the University of Wisconsin, Madison, and a law degree from the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee. He also holds a doctorate in education from the University of Wisconsin, Madison. He is a member of the American Philosophical Association and the New York Times.

The Dimensions Speaker Series is sponsored by the William N. Lipscomb, professor of Chemistry at Stanford University, was awarded the Nobel Prize in Chemistry for his experimental and theoretical work in the field of chemical bonding. His research has been furthered by the chemical bonding using some new concepts.

New Facilities

Some needed changes have been made. Students who have long anticipated new equipment for the weight room can take advantage of the new facilities. Another addition to the weight room will be the introduction of a new computer lab which will be ideal for work and research. At present, the only equipment available in the lab has been Foods and Nutrition. This computer lab will fill the need for a computer facility on campus. It will be a laborious effort to a successful conclusion.

A Valuable Resource

The departin of Old Gold and Black is an invaluable resource and writing a focused editorial thanking all those who have made the department possible is overdue. It is important that all students realize what classes are available and as many people with working knowledge of them through the newspaper.

The Paper Waste is On

Once again the Wake Forest Paper Waste is On. The many necessary anti-social activities for House Congress members (that is, not excluding the minds of those who would be policy makers for the future) have necessitated posters all over campus from Waggon to any dorm. The layout of Wake Forest under mandates of election campaigns has been constant for several weeks, and it is likely to continue for another year or so on some campuses. The reason the House is often the focal point of such activities stems from the election guidelines of the Student Government, House Congress, and Judicial Board which require all campaign chants or other forms of

We Condemn the Bombing Raid

We are writing to express public opinion -our condemnation of the University of Chicago's decision to agree to a Monday night raid. Both as Christians and students, we are appalled by the arrogance and immorality of such a decision. It is our belief that the bombing of student housing is a clear demonstration of the University's commitment to student apathy. It is not our intention to encourage anyone to engage in acts of vandalism. However, we do believe that the University should acknowledge the legitimate concerns of its students and take steps to address them.

Robert, faculty and student

Wake Forest University has grown immensely since it was consecrated in 1838. The changes in administration have been remarkable as our university continues to attract students from all over the world. In the past decade, the university has experienced a significant increase in enrollment, with an average annual growth rate of 5.5%. This growth has been driven by the university's strong commitment to academic excellence and its dedication to providing a quality education for all students.

Over the past several years, Wake Forest University has undergone a number of significant changes. The establishment of the Wake Forest Center for Liberal Arts and Sciences has been a major step forward in this direction. The center is committed to fostering a culture of inquiry and learning, and it has played a critical role in shaping the university's approach to undergraduate education.

In addition to its academic programs, the university has also made significant investments in its physical infrastructure. The construction of the new Academic Center, which opened in 2019, has greatly enhanced the university's capacity to support undergraduate research and learning.

We urge the administration to continue its efforts to support student well-being and academic success. This includes providing adequate resources for student organizations, ensuring access to mental health services, and creating a welcoming and inclusive campus environment.

The students at Wake Forest University are committed to excellence in all aspects of our education. We believe that the university must continue to invest in the education and well-being of all students, and we are committed to working with the administration to ensure that our voices are heard.

We urge the administration to consider the concerns of Wake Forest students, and we look forward to continuing this conversation in the future.

The Wake Forest Dance Company will celebrate its 35th anniversary with its concert "Variations on a War Theme," during a performance at 8 p.m. Saturday, April 26, at the Wake Forest University Graham Center Auditorium.

The concert will feature soloists Benjamin Harkarry and Karen Gerbrecht, who will dance excerpts from the works of Béjart and Schachner, and the company will present a world premiere of a piece by guest artist Harry Titus.

"Variations on a War Theme" is a collaboration between the Dance Department and the School of the Arts in the Humanities, with a goal of creating a dance concert that will "address the war issue in a fresh and innovative way," according to Harkarry.

The concert will feature seven dances: four will be performed by the Wake Forest Dance Company, one by Joyce Wolden, and two by Harkarry.

The program will open with "In the Wake of the Ships," a piece by Ben Stilwell and Karen Gerbrecht, which will be followed by "L'Apres-midi d'un Faune," a work by Benjamin Harkarry and Karen Gerbrecht.

The second half of the concert will feature two world premieres: "Suite Magnolia," a piece by Benjamin Harkarry, and "Stormy Petrel," a work by Karen Gerbrecht.

The concert will conclude with "The Lies of Guernica," a piece by Benjamin Harkarry and Karen Gerbrecht, which is set to music by Ives and is a reinterpretation of the event that inspired Pablo Picasso to create "Guernica."

WAKE FOREST GAINERS

Fifth in Tournament

By COLLEEN KOONZ

On April 17th, the Wake Forest men's team traveled to North Carolina to compete in the ACC Tournament, with the hopes of placing "one to three" in the event. Although they did not place in the top four, they did exceed all expectations.

Senior Mark Latti was proud of the tournament, saying, "It was a great season for us. We had a lot of experience, and we played well together." He went on to say that he was looking forward to the upcoming season.

The Demon Deacons ended the season ranked fifth in the ACC, which was a significant improvement from last year's 12th place finish. "It was a great year for us," said head coach Ian Crookenden. "We had a lot of talent, and we worked hard to bring it all together." He went on to say that he was excited for the upcoming season and was looking forward to the challenges that would come with it.

The Demon Deacons will now focus on the upcoming season, with a chance to make it back to the ACC Championship next year. "We're looking forward to the challenge," said Latti. "We have a lot of young talent, and we're excited to see what they can do." He went on to say that he was confident in the team's ability to make it to the championship.

The Demon Deacons finished the season with a record of 10-12-2, which was a significant improvement from last year's 8-14 record. "It was a great season for us," said Latti. "We had a lot of talent, and we worked hard to bring it all together." He went on to say that he was excited for the upcoming season and was looking forward to the challenges that would come with it.

The Wake Forest Diamond Deacons split games with Maryland and Virginia last weekend, winning the Terps 9-1 Monday and losing to the Cavaliers 12-5 Tuesday.

The Deacons were hoping to improve their conference record and obtain a home field advantage in the NCAA regional, which has been returned to them already by the Deacons.

Virginia took the game by scoring runs in both the first and second innings, while almost definitely break his own record. He also sells his share of home-runs winning 10%. He led the team last year with 45, and last year a year after he moved from the University of Illinois, and has had a passive role in the team program ever since.

Virginia took the first set, 9-1, but Wake Forest rallied in the final set to win, 12-5, and the Deacons earned a split in the series with a 9-1 triumph on Monday.

Prechtl total. The Blue Devils were second to finish the tournament with an 899 total. Corrie’s closing 69 gave her the top spot after she was the runner-up the year as coach, said.

"They’re an old, close knit group, family almost," Said Diamond Deacs this spring.

Ragland has contributed greatly to the success of the individual competition, as well as a team player. Ragland has been interviewed several times throughout the year, and he feels good about the team’s progress.

Dunn Named As Top Female Athlete

Junior cross country and track all-American Karen Dunn was named in the Female Athlete of the Year Tuesday at the team Women’s All-Sports Banquet.

Dunn is a senior halfback for the Wake Forest football team, a good athlete both off and on the field. His football instincts brought him to the big time, and reflexing double and triple Nixon and a墙\( 2951 \text{ NORTH CHERRY STREET} \) 224-7600
