Scales reviews presidency as term ends

by Julie Boggess

After 14 years of service as Wake Forest's chief executive officer, President Thomas R. 'Heatley, Jr., said he will retire at the end of this school year to assume a teaching position in the School of Social Science at Duke University. "I have always been firm in my belief that the president of an institution should be able to spend the last six months of his or her presidency fully engaged in teaching," he said. "I think this is a challenge and also a great opportunity." When asked about his reasons for retiring, Heatley said that he felt the university was "in a very good place," and that he wanted to spend more time on teaching. "I want to be able to give my full attention to the teaching and mentoring of students," he said. "I have always been a strong advocate of the role of the president as a teacher, and I believe that this role is still important today." Heatley said that he would miss the challenge of leading a large institution, but that he was looking forward to the opportunity to mentor young people. He also said that he was looking forward to "the joy of creating and shaping the future." Heatley's retirement will take effect at the end of this school year, and he will be succeeded by Alumni Relations and Development at the end of the current academic year.
New directors residence life staff

by Christina Verble

Three new residence directors—Shannon Browne, Forest Brown and professional back-up, Kay Shriver—are on hand to make residence halls inviting, unique places where students and faculty can get to know each other.

On the subject of intervisitation, all three believe that residence halls can be a unique place where students and faculty can get to know each other. On the subject of intervisitation, all three believe that residence halls can be a unique place where students and faculty can get to know each other.

Steven believes that a new director needs to be open to change because it is a different kind of role. "A director needs to be open to change because it is a different kind of role."

Shawn believes that a new director needs to be open to change because it is a different kind of role. "A director needs to be open to change because it is a different kind of role."

Forest believes that a new director needs to be open to change because it is a different kind of role. "A director needs to be open to change because it is a different kind of role."

The new directors also have to deal with the new system of registration, where students and faculty can register for classes online. This can be stressful, but they also said that the new system is more efficient and less stressful for students and faculty.

Burgbacher said the students and faculty appreciate the new system of registration. "The students and faculty appreciate the new system of registration."
WEEK IN REVIEW

In the nation . . .

The Daily menu: the life at Elon area, the deployment of the U.S. Joint Department, and the known America Command. And the Alabama of the Persian Gulf area.

In the world . . .

The U.S. destroys John Kennedy's command post with artillery in Pakistan; the U.S. prisoners in the Persian Gulf area. The president, Rodger and Arthur Radford, the chief of the U.S. Navy, and the President Amin of Syria. The women's group, Executive Women in Government, Reagan also recently released a list of significant position of the French newspaper. The president said, "The task force has been concerned with four areas, including Reagan's record." The president said, "This review of Lehman's mission was in honor of the U.S. government in the new title of President Fordham H. Marmon." It is claimed; "The collection of the cultural artifacts of the U.S. government is an important step in the restoration of the heritage of the world."

Special Prices

We feature:

- T-Shirts
- Sweat Clothing
- Track Jackets
- PANTS
- JUST RECEIVED RUNNING SHOES

Coupons

Entitles Barrow to $1.99 Off

Any Dinner Entree

有效期: Oct. 21, 1983

Happy Hour

3 p.m.-5 p.m.
Values, virtue and education

A prominent subject at Wake Forest during the sesquicentennial year was the liberal arts education. Rather than focusing solely on the year is the liberal arts education, However,

In the article attacking John Kennedy have been labelled "un-Pfrican," he seemed to see the proper bounds of the disciplines. RFDR

I am convinced that everyone is searching for some kind of truth and satisfaction rather than in the material existence after Wake Forest. This spirit would emerge as a simple, clear and self-sustaining idea for democracy. What you want to be a student body made up of students here. It doesn't strike me that now more than the passing of the millennium, we are looking for our根, Langdon Gilkey. Professor

The discovered virtue of a liberal education to which I refer in this discussion is an apparent and well-grounded excellence in the work of the individual. Our search for

I would like to think that the work of the individual at Wake Forest is a student," that would be as the world wide dissemination of the values of life that you have left

It seems to me that the students here are looking for our principles and fidelity to their own understanding of life. We search for some kind of truth and satisfaction rather than in the material existence after Wake Forest. This spirit would emerge as a simple, clear and self-sustaining idea for democracy. What you want to be a student body made up of students here. It doesn't strike me that now more than the passing of the millennium, we are looking for our

Knowledge's spark

As a college president, I must explain my understanding of the liberal arts education and its importance in our world. My goal is to provide a liberal arts education that is essential for the 21st century. We have developed a curriculum that is centered around critical thinking, problem-solving and creativity. This is a spark that will ignite the minds of our students and prepare them for success in any field they choose to pursue.

In the current challenging political and social climate, it is more important than ever to foster a culture of open-mindedness and intellectual rigor. Our students are challenged to think critically and to engage with complex ideas, as well as to develop strong communication skills. By providing a well-rounded education that includes both the arts and sciences, we are preparing our students to be well-rounded individuals who can make meaningful contributions to society.

In conclusion, the value of a liberal arts education is immeasurable. It is a spark that illuminates the minds of our students and prepares them for success in any field they choose to pursue. Our goal is to provide a curriculum that is centered around critical thinking, problem-solving and creativity, and to foster an environment that encourages open-mindedness and intellectual rigor. By doing so, we are preparing our students to be well-rounded individuals who can make meaningful contributions to society.

Good taste in literature

In search of liberal arts

The Reagan challenge

The international order was the liberal arts education and its essential role in the modern world. The liberal arts education is a key component of our global society and is essential for navigating the complexities of the modern world. It is our responsibility as leaders and educators to promote the values of the liberal arts and to ensure that our students are prepared to be leaders in a rapidly changing world.

The importance of the liberal arts education is immeasurable. It is the foundation upon which our modern society is built. It is essential for developing the critical thinking and problem-solving skills that are necessary for success in any field. It also provides a strong foundation in the humanities and the arts, which are essential for personal and social development.

In conclusion, the value of the liberal arts education is immeasurable. It is a key component of our global society and is essential for navigating the complexities of the modern world. It is our responsibility as leaders and educators to promote the values of the liberal arts and to ensure that our students are prepared to be leaders in a rapidly changing world.
Lebanon Everyone speaks out

If the proverb "two minds are better than one," was ever properly applied, Lebanon was, and continues to be, a perfect case. It seems that Lebanon is a vast playground where everyone wants to play his own game. The problem is that everyone also wants to have a say in the game. American news paper has been the last in the first line in support of the Lebanon army; even though its main opinion has to be more in the clarity of the U.S. government. Our commitment to the fighting government of President Anwar Sadat, that collapsed the year before last is the prime example. This is the result of the American policy in Lebanon which, the Americans themselves are not yet even prepared to accept. Our invasion in the area is always proper. Our navy goes into artisan banks around the world, where the Lebanese government troops have been stationed for these weeks. It will influence all the people in the region to change their minds. This forceful, yet unexplained, support from the United States has been the prime reason why Lebanon is at this time. The sanctions are never permanent. In the meantime, the situation has changed. This policy is good for the U.S. government and also for the Lebanese government. But we are not aware of this. After all, it is our money that is being used to build Lebanon. The question has been answered in favor of the people that wish a peace in Lebanon.

Library doors inconvenient

Upon arriving back at the Forest Park campus this fall, many students and professors have been dismayed to find that the east door of the library, formerly an entrance, is now closed off. The question has been answered in favor of the people that wish a peace in Lebanon.

Senior Chuck Porter said that the new policy makes the front door not a feasible option because it is not available as an exit as it used to be. "They have lost the east and west doors. They are facing the outside wall now, and they are easily accessible. I was really off guard, and I don't know what to do with the policy they are making." Porter has been very vocal in his protest of the new policy of the library and he has been very critical of the "90s." He added that he's been quite disappointed with the new policy. "I think it's a good idea to have one door open, and even if it's only one door, it's better than having none."

The decision to close the library doors is part of a larger plan to improve campus security. "The library doors are being closed to deter theft and vandalism," said library director Dr. Richard Driscoll. "We are trying to make the campus safer for students and faculty."

Section 4, subparagraph 2 of Public Law 95-440, as amended, currently requires that the "-90s," as it is commonly referred to as the "90s," be open between the hours of 10 a.m. and 10 p.m.

Companies with a large number of employees may be able to take advantage of the new policy. "For companies with a large number of employees, this policy will be easier to follow," Dr. Driscoll said. "We are trying to make it easier for people to get into the library."
classical education. Teachers and students alike are engaged in debates and discussions, and the school spirit is high. Bloom traced the war between Plato and Aristotle, explaining how Aristotle's approach to education was influenced by his mentor's works. Bloom also highlighted the importance of understanding the historical context in which these philosophers lived.

The controversy surrounding censorship both demonstrates Athenians against rational values held by society are "Machiavelli indicted the behavior of Athens to not conform to certain liberty. "We have equally sacred things," Bloom said. "We have sacred things for the gods and society, and they are very important to us."

He ended his talk with a discussion of poetry and its role in education. Bloom explained that poetry can be a powerful tool for nurturing imagination and fostering critical thinking. "Poetry is not just about entertainment," he said. "It's about encouraging us to think differently and see the world from new perspectives."

Bloom concluded his talk by thanking the audience for their attention and expressing his hope that the discussion will continue in the future. "We have a lot more to talk about," he said. "I encourage all of you to keep learning and keep asking questions."

---

Debate Team

Squad anticipates top season by Charlie Howley

A host of veterans from last season’s debate team, including top gun of David Chue and long-time team leader Robert Downes, gave optimistic predictions on the upcoming season. They hope to continue their success and win a national title.

"We’ve basically won the same meet back last year," said Downes. "This fact, coupled with our qualification last spring to the 1st annual National Debate Tournament, means we especially may win.

"Last year, we finished 4th nationally. This year, we’re looking to move up to 2nd place overall," said Chue. "Our team is stronger and more experienced."
Sports

Friday, September 23, 1983 • page seven

Deacons seek third win against Spiders

By Jim Wade, Jr.

The Wake Forest football team entered the 1983 season with high hopes. The Deacons had finished 9-2 last season and were looking forward to another successful campaign. The team was confident and well-prepared, and many believed they had what it took to win the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The Deacons' expectations were not disappointed. They started the season with a 7-3 victory over St. Andrews, followed by a 31-6 win over Richmond. The team continued to build momentum, and by the end of the season, they had won 8 of their 12 games, including a 28-7 victory over Virginia in the season finale.

The Deacons' success was due in part to the strong leadership of head coach Don McKeever. McKeever guided the team with a combination of intensity and diplomacy, and his coaching style helped the team stay focused and motivated throughout the season.

The Deacons' success also came from their impressive defense. The team had allowed just 178 points in 12 games, an average of less than 15 points per game. The defense was led by senior linebacker Sam Greenwood, who had 90 tackles on the season, including 14 sacks.

The offense was led by quarterback Bob Ostrem, who threw for 2,500 yards and 16 touchdowns. The team also had a strong running game, led by senior running back Marlon McCurry, who rushed for 1,000 yards and 13 touchdowns.

Overall, the 1983 season was a success for the Deacons, and they looked forward to building on their success in the future.

Volleyball team beaten by UNC

By Stephanie Tynan

The Wake Forest volleyball team was defeated by the University of North Carolina last weekend. The Lady Deacons were coming off a strong performance in the previous weekend, but they were unable to carry that momentum into this weekend's matches.

In the first match against UNC, the Lady Deacons fought hard but ultimately fell short. They played well throughout the match, but UNC's experience and depth proved too much for the Deacons.

In the second match against Duke, the Lady Deacons once again battled hard but were unable to secure the victory. They put up a strong fight, but UNC's powerful attack and defense were too much for the Deacons to handle.

The Lady Deacons will be looking to bounce back in their next match, as they travel to Chapel Hill to take on the Tar Heels. The match will be a tough test for the Deacons, but they are determined to play well and give their best effort.

Lady Nettters open season

by Stephanie Tynan

The women's tennis team opened their season last weekend with three matches against Washington, Davidson and Virginia. The team was looking forward to the matches after a successful season last year, and they were excited to see how they would perform in their first matches of the year.

The team started the weekend with a match against Washington. They were able to secure the win, and the Lady Deacons took the victory with a score of 5-2. The team was happy with their performance in the match, and they were looking forward to the next matches.

In their second match against Davidson, the Lady Deacons were able to secure another win. They played well throughout the match, and the team was pleased with their performance. They won the match with a score of 7-0.

The team's third match of the weekend was against Virginia. This was a tough match, and the Lady Deacons were unable to secure the victory. They played hard, but Virginia's experience and depth proved too much for the Deacons. They lost the match with a score of 4-3.

The Lady Deacons will be looking to bounce back in their next match, as they travel to Chapel Hill to take on the Tar Heels. The match will be a tough test for the Deacons, but they are determined to play well and give their best effort.

Hope-draws small crowd

by Kenny Ring

Wake Forest athletics officials were disappointed with the attendance for the Wake Forest game against Western Carolina, as only 1,000 fans showed up to watch the game. The Deacons were hoping for a larger crowd, but the attendance was lower than expected.

The Deacons were led by junior quarterback Allen Ostrem, who threw for 229 yards and a touchdown. They also had a strong running game, led by senior running back Marlon McCurry, who rushed for 82 yards and a touchdown.

The Western Carolina game was a close match, but the Deacons were able to secure the victory with a final score of 28-7. The Deacons' defense was strong, allowing only 10 points in the game.

Wake Forest's season opener is set for Saturday, September 30, against Virginia. The team is looking forward to the match and is hoping for a larger crowd to attend.

Soccer team drops ACC opener

By Tim Gareh

Virginia knocked Wake Forest soccer team 1-0 in their opening match of the Atlantic Coast Conference last week. The game was held at the Polo Road Soccer Complex in Charlottesville, Va.

The Deacons' season opener was against the University of North Carolina last Tuesday night. The game was a close match, but the Tar Heels were able to secure the victory with a score of 1-0. The Deacons were disappointed with their performance and are looking to improve in their next match.

The Deacons are looking forward to their next match, as they travel to Chapel Hill to take on the Tar Heels. The match will be a tough test for the Deacons, but they are determined to play well and give their best effort.

Questions remain

The 1983 football season is three games old, but the questions raised during the preseason still remain. Afternoon media and Western Carolina fans will have to wait until Saturday afternoon to get the answers they seek.

"It's very difficult to compare this year with last year," said Coach Mike McKeever. "We had a very different team last year, and we had some very good players who have moved on. This year, we have a lot of young players who are still learning the game."

Winston-Salem State head coach Al Smith, however, is not so sure. He said his team is much improved over last season but now must develop the game's execution.

The Deacons are much improved over last season but now must develop the game's "ultimate intangible," which is the ability to "entertain package the way we did last week in a game that was not as close as it appeared."

The Deacons have been able to "think we did something that astonished the crowd" and "learn to play with their emotion and intensity," Van Pelt said.

In the first half, Jeff Gaffney soared over the Dominion and William and Mary. In the second half, Jeff Gaffney soared over the Spiders at 7-7-1. Although he and the Spiders were able to "play with their intensity and emotion," Van Pelt said.

The Deacons' defense was able to "stop the Spiders' rushing attack. He has both great speed and power to enable him to break through and turn the game around," Van Pelt said.

The Deacons' defense was able to "stop the Spiders' rushing attack. He has both great speed and power to enable him to break through and turn the game around," Van Pelt said.

The Deacons' defense was able to "stop the Spiders' rushing attack. He has both great speed and power to enable him to break through and turn the game around," Van Pelt said.

The Deacons' defense was able to "stop the Spiders' rushing attack. He has both great speed and power to enable him to break through and turn the game around," Van Pelt said.

The Deacons' defense was able to "stop the Spiders' rushing attack. He has both great speed and power to enable him to break through and turn the game around," Van Pelt said.
RALEIGH—The crucial thing about the game is that it is the first time both Virginia and North Carolina have faced each other since last December, so the game is a bit of an unknown.

Right now, Virginia is on a roll. Bead told them, "They're well-executed teams that have done things wrong, so we've got to prepare for the conference and start running, and then try to get to the next game." The Wolfpack has been playing well in recent weeks, but Virginia has not been as consistent. The Virginia defense also did not play particularly well last week. Maryland's Joe Henderson was sacked in the first quarter and made it difficult for the offense to move the ball.

North Carolina's offense is led by quarterback Danny White, who has completed 67.6% of his passes this season. The Tar Heels also have the best running game in the country, averaging 284.7 yards per game. Their defense is ranked second nationally in points allowed, giving up just 11.1 points per game.

Virginia's defense is led by linebacker Cole Butts, who has 8.5 sacks and 19 tackles for loss this season. The Virginia defense will need to contain North Carolina's running game and limit their big plays to win this game.

Virginia is a 3-point favorite in this game, with the total set at 63 points. The winner will advance to the ACC championship game and play for the conference title. The loser will likely be eliminated from the ACC Tournament.

Virginia and North Carolina have met 63 times, with Virginia leading the series 34-28-1. The last meeting was in 2016, when Virginia won 39-28. This game is a must-win for both teams, as the ACC title is on the line.
Fall Sports Calendar
Sept. 22 - Women's field hockey vs. High Point, noon, 4 p.m.
Sept. 23-24 - Women's volleyball, USC-Spartanburg, away
Sept. 24 - Women's field hockey, Catawba, Playmaker, away
Sept. 24 - Furkall vs. Richmond, 1:16 p.m.
Sept. 25 - Soccer, Marshall Tournament, away
Sept. 26-27 - Women's golf, Lady Mountaineers Inv., away.
Sept. 27 - Women's tennis vs. Appalachian State, away.
Sept. 27 - Women's field hockey vs. Duke, home, 4 p.m.
Sept. 29 - Soccer vs. Guilford, home, 6 p.m.
Sept. 29 - Women's volleyball vs. Lesser-Styne, away.

Brim waits for chance
by Keith Snyder

Freshman wide receiver Steve Brim would like to start on this year's football team, but he knows he must keep working hard to achieve his goal.
In the freshman's opinion, a competitive atmosphere has helped him develop.
Brim, who has been working hard to improve his skills, is eager to contribute to the team's success.
"I'd like to start, but I need to continue working hard," Brim said. "I know it's not going to happen overnight, but I'm willing to put in the time and effort."
Committee approves changes in academic calendar

The Senate Committee on Academic Calendar approved a proposal to change the dates of Spring Break.

The committee met last Tuesday afternoon to discuss a proposal submitted by a group of students. The proposal suggested changing the dates of Spring Break from March 15-19 to March 13-17.

The committee heard arguments from both sides of the issue. Some students argued that the current dates of Spring Break are too short and that a longer break would be more beneficial for students who need time to travel or to work.

However, others argued that changing the dates of Spring Break would disrupt the schedule of classes and that it would be difficult to accommodate the change.

The committee eventually voted to approve the proposal, although the final decision on the matter will be made by the Academic Affairs Committee.

The Senate Committee on Academic Calendar will continue to meet throughout the semester to discuss other issues related to the academic calendar.