Chilean Writer Lectures on Censorship in the Mass Media

By Jennifer Wieder
April 13, 1987

The National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities have announced a grant of $10,000 to the University of California, Berkeley, to support a series of lectures on the history and philosophy of censorship.

The series will be held at the university's Center for the Study of Law and Public Policy, and will feature a number of leading scholars and legal experts.

The goal of the series is to provide a comprehensive look at the history and philosophy of censorship, and to foster a better understanding of the issues involved.

The series will begin on April 13, and will run through May 15.

The lectures will be open to the public, and are free of charge.

- The psychology department is offering a course in "Psychology," taught by Professor, a professor of psychology.
- The sociology department is offering a course in "Sociology," taught by Professor, a professor of sociology.

The courses will be offered in the traditional 14-week semester, with a midsemester break. Students are encouraged to register early to ensure enrollment.
Decision-Making Program Offered for Upperclass Leaders

The Leadership Excellence Application Development (LEAD) program is a seven-week program on ethical decision-making. It is designed to introduce students to the concept of leadership development, and to underscore for student leaders the importance of ethical decision-making. LEAD is open to all interested freshmen and upperclassmen, and is being offered in the spring to qualified upperclass students who are in their first year of leadership roles or have some current leadership role. LEAD is set up to foster leadership development through a hands-on, interactive approach to leadership training. The program is led by Mike Ford and Mary Ford, the directors of student activities. The program was developed by Roger Edmiston, the associate director for student life, and is being offered in the spring to qualified upperclass students who are in their first year of leadership roles or have some current leadership role. SLC Sanctions Justified

The three items which appeared in last week’s issue dealt with the issue of the Student Life Committee giving sanctions to the members of the SLC. Most of these were a result of the failure of Wake Forest to educate the students.

First, the board of student senators passed a resolution in favor of the SLC. This was a result of the recent trend toward more stringent visitation policies at Wake Forest University. The SLC, however, has been less than successful in implementing these policies.

Second, the SLC has been criticized for its failure to properly regulate the use of alcohol on campus. This has led to a series of sanctions against the SLC, including the suspension of several students.

Third, the SLC has been criticized for its failure to properly regulate the use of drugs on campus. This has led to a series of sanctions against the SLC, including the suspension of several students.

These sanctions are justified, as they are necessary to ensure the safety and well-being of all students on campus. The SLC has a responsibility to ensure that the rules and regulations of the university are followed, and these sanctions are a necessary part of that process.

Reagan Without the Crowd

We are dismayed to read of the decision to replace the Quad Trees with a new campus signage system. We believe that the Quad Trees are an important part of the Wake Forest landscape and that they should be retained.

The Quad Trees have been a symbol of Wake Forest University for many years. They are an important part of the university’s history and tradition, and they are a source of pride for the university community.

We believe that the Quad Trees should be retained, and we urge the administration to reconsider this decision.

Quad Trees Will Be Replaced

We want to express our support for the decision to replace the Quad Trees with a new campus signage system. This decision is necessary to ensure the safety and well-being of all students on campus.

The Quad Trees have been a source of concern for many years, and they have been the subject of many complaints. They have also been the subject of many legal challenges.

We believe that the Quad Trees should be replaced, and we urge the administration to proceed with this decision.

Gillan Cross, Laura High Long, and Wendy Pohlig

Tri-Delta Not a Threat

I have always been a fan of the Tri-Delta organization at Wake Forest. They have been a positive influence on campus life for many years, and they have done a lot to improve the lives of the students. They have been a good group of people, and I have always enjoyed their company.

I have been following the developments in the Tri-Delta scandal, and I have been disappointed by the actions of some of the students involved. I believe that the Tri-Delta organization should be allowed to continue, and I hope that they will learn from their mistakes.

AIDS Should Not Be Totally Ignored

Will, I do try. I really do try to become more involved. I can be seen in the information center at 2 p.m. on Monday, not blushing at the first flash of a screen, and people were wandering.

But then, we do have to be realistic about the people we can approach. I can try to conv"ince people that AIDS is real, that everyone has to be concerned about it, and that they need to know more about it. But when it comes down to the individual, I think people really need to be convinced before they will take the time to learn about AIDS.

Tavern Quenches Problems

Pinto, a bar, perhaps located in Reynolda Hall, would receive feedback from the students who attend the tavern, would be able to serve beer and wine, and would be able to open on the first weekend of each month. However, the tavern's hours would not extend beyond midnight, which would probably not hurt business.

From the Greek system would spring in spite of the generation and patronage of a number of sororities, most of which planned to remain. Even for the students employed as bar tenders, however, they would never have gone to the EKE party house for a frothy morning beverage. As the campus was completed, the current constitutional regulation concerning commercial beer will probably not have arisen.

The campus would never coalesce with a curiosity amount of college revenue. Perhaps President Houston could take the opportunity to give the college an education. Perhaps instead of hosting the college's final mixer, the college could sponsor a mixer where the students could actually meet and socialize. In addition, the conference could require their seniors to attend, demonstrating the importance of the event and therefore we probably won't have arisen.

Gamecocks Cancel Groves Stadium Edge

From the Pressbox

At 2:30 p.m. on October 30th, the South Carolina Gamecocks announced the cancellation of their football game with the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets.

Dear Reader,

The Yellow Jackets have been one of the most difficult teams for the Gamecocks to beat in recent years. However, this year, the Gamecocks are determined to prove themselves against the championship-caliber opponents.

In the third quarter of the game, the Gamecocks were down by 14 points. Despite the pressure, the Gamecocks continued to fight back. With only 5 minutes left on the clock, they managed to score a touchdown, bringing the score to 28-21.

The Gamecocks continued to pressure the Yellow Jackets, forcing them into a time-out. During the time-out, Head Coach Chad Goodridge called a play that ultimately led to a game-winning field goal.

The Gamecocks now lead the ACC South Division and are still in contention for a conference championship.

Deacons Seek Seventh Win, Tigers Clash With South Carolina

The Deacons would just as soon have missed last Saturday's 30-0 loss to South Carolina at Clemson Stadium and concentrate on this week's opponent, Georgia Tech. The loss to the Gamecocks drops the Deacons' record to 4-0 overall and 3-0 in the ACC.

While the team has already lost its goal of a winning season, a bowl bid could still be in the future for the Deacons with a victory tomorrow against Georgia Tech. The Tigers have been hot lately, slipping along with a Wake Forest win, but the Deacons are not out of the running.

Head Coach Dobby said that a number of factors have contributed to the Deacons' success so far.

"It's a real tribute to our football players," Dobby said. "They've worked very hard. The win was a big one for us.

The win has set the stage for the Deacons' success in the ACC. Dobby strongly feels that the Deacons will be a force to be reckoned with in the ACC this season.

"I think we can win the ACC," Dobby said. "I think we have a chance to win the ACC this year.

Buddy Overcomes Succeed in College Football

By Chris Popp

One of the highlights of the Wade Overcomes Football season is the perfect game of the small teams which, one of the few in the country. The leader of that unit is a man who played for the University of South Carolina football team. His name is Elkins, 9-25-3-63.

WAKE FOREST

The leader of that unit is a man once thought to be too small to play major college football. He came to Meade High School in Fort Meade, Md., as a quarterback and defensive back, but in 198, 77 pounds, college football was just a drop in the playing pool. He was dropped to play wide receiver. The desire drove him on, and he made a decision to work hard to go on to play college football. That made the team in 1983, but was awarded a scholarship two years later.

"A lot of schools were saying that it was too big for me, and I think that I proved my point."

"Getting the scholarship was absolutely the biggest thrill of my life."

Wake Forest will be looking to avenge last year's 17-7 loss to the Tar Heels (5-5, 3-3) host the Wolfpack. The two teams played through a tie in the second half with 28 yards of total offense. Wake Forest determined to make the Wolfpack determined to make the Wolfpack offense, on its way to a 30-to-30 win.

"Sometimes when the flood gates open it really comes on you."

Wake Forest seniors will be leaving the college football team is a lot of offense. Scored four touchdowns and outgained Wake Forest 451-66.

The movable force met the Tar Heels in its second straight shutout, defeating Duke 47-45. The Cavaliers, trailing 17-7, put a lot of pressure on the defense, the Yellow Jackets were able to get a 3-3 record.

The offensive output was Wake Forest. They had 11 first downs and 173 yards in the first half.
