Students Asked To Move Cars From Parking Lot In Construction Area Early Saturday Morning

By Lawrence Jordan
The Student Government Legislature passed a bill Wednesday that requires students to park their cars in the designated area of the bottom of the Wake Forest campus library lot between North and South campus.

"Safety precautions necessitated closing the parking lot along the west side of the library to accommodate north-south walkways between North and South campus," said Jerry L. Hagan, Student Body president.

Eight female students have been given notices to vacate rooms because of divided loyalties over the referendum on the new baseball stadium. Public Health officials said their rooms cannot be used because of the height of the pollen spores. The university has offered other rooms to the students.

Wake Forest To Receive $2.3 Million From Alumni

By Jennie Aliaoco

Wake Forest will soon receive $2.3 million, the largest donation ever given to the school's library, according to a recent agreement from the office of public affairs Wednesday.

"It is a wonderful start for the library," said Robert R. Brown, the chairman of the Wake Forest board of trustees. "It will enable us to build a new library on campus.

The remaining $12 million, from a mutual fund established for Brown's endowed gift to the library, will be used to purchase equipment and to support the library's operations.

Deans Discuss Exchange Program

Lani Busse, Old Gold and Black Reporter

The recent exchange of information and programs between the Babcock Graduate School of Management and Soviet experts was the topic of discussion among the Babcock deans at today's meeting. Deans noted the importance of such exchanges in fostering international cooperation.

The role of education in promoting cultural understanding was highlighted by conversation on the potential influence of American and Soviet educational systems on each other. The exchange program, sponsored by the American Council on Educational Exchange, aims to facilitate this interaction.

The deans expressed their satisfaction with the arrangements made for the exchange and offered suggestions for its future development. They emphasized the importance of maintaining strong ties with the Soviet counterparts to ensure the success of the ongoing and future programs.

Twenty-eight students, mostly from the University of Texas, have commandeered the Russian National Library to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the Library of Congress's Day of the Book. The students, who are part of a year-long project to study the history of the book in Russia, are spending the day in the library's reading room reading books from the library's collection.

The students are part of a larger group of students from the University of Texas who are conducting a study of the history of the book in Russia. The students are spending the year studying the history of the book in Russia, and they are currently in the process of collecting books from the library's collection to create a collection of books that represent the history of the book in Russia.

Letter to the Editor

As we approach the end of the semester, many students may be thinking about the future and the various opportunities that lie ahead. While some may be excited about the possibility of internships or job offers, others may be concerned about the financial burden of student loan debt.

In recent years, the topic of student loan debt has become increasingly prevalent in the news. According to the Institute of Student Loan Debt, the average student in the United States graduates with nearly $30,000 in student loan debt. This number is only expected to increase as more students opt for higher education to improve their job prospects.

While many may see student loan debt as a necessary evil, it is important to consider the long-term effects it can have on one's financial stability. With high monthly payments, it can be challenging to allocate funds for savings or unexpected expenses.

To address this issue, federal and state governments have implemented various programs to help alleviate the burden of student loan debt. The Public Service Loan Forgiveness (PSLF) program, for example, offers debt forgiveness to borrowers who work in public service roles and make on-time payments for a certain period.

In addition to government programs, there are also options for private loans and scholarships. Researching and comparing these options can help students find the best fit for their financial situation.

Ultimately, the decision to pursue higher education should be based on one's personal goals and aspirations. By taking a proactive approach to managing student loan debt, students can set themselves up for long-term financial success.

Editorial Note:

While the Editorial Board of Old Gold & Black interviewed each candidate, leaders, and faculty members, this year the Editorial Board decided that the endorsement for speaker was a difficult choice.

Mantia has more experience concerning who will best shape policies. His desire to hold the administration financially responsible and the shortening of the time it takes to complete courses are advantages. Eventually, the Editorial Board decided that Mantia is the best choice for the next year's student representative. He is greatly appreciative of contributions to the student body that he values, and we recommend him for the position.

In the past, endorsements for SG positions were based on the Editorial Board's assessment of the candidates' qualities and experience. This year, the Editorial Board decided that the endorsement for speaker was a difficult choice.

I picked up the Winston-Salem Journal in downtown Friday morning. The weather was cool and gray, and the city looked busy but not crowded. I decided to walk through downtown and explore some of the shops and restaurants.

As I walked, I noticed a few people talking outside one of the stores. They appeared to be having a conversation, but I couldn't make out what they were discussing. I decided to stop and listen for a moment, but I didn't want to intrude on their conversation. Finally, I continued on my way and eventually found myself back at the office. Overall, it was a quiet and peaceful morning.
Wake Forest Defeats ETSU

By Matt Smith

Wake Forest's baseball team was not able to end its four-game losing streak Thursday night at Fishburne Park. Instead, the Demon Deacons played their first conference game of the season, knocking off the Aggies 4-2 in the ACC.

Junior first baseman Paul Rainey scored three runs in the Demon Deacons' victory over NC State. He was 2-for-3 with a home run and two singles, including a 2-run homer in the second inning. Rainey tied the game at 2-2, allowed only four hits and three runs to innings recording the win.

Kerrigan Pena pitched a no-hitter last week against the university. He gave up only four hits and two runs against the Aggies. His effort was highlighted by an appearance in the second inning, which saw him get a基.

Wake Forest used seven pitchers in the game, but it was enough to hold the Aggies to just one run.

Women's Tennis Team Downs N.C. State 6-3

By Jay Reddick

The Demon Deacons are off to a strong start in their conference season. NC State fell to the Demon Deacons 6-3 on Monday night at the Wachovia Tennis Center. The Demon Deacons are now 3-0 in ACC play and 13-3 overall.

To put it mildly, Tuesday's match was a close game for the Demon Deacons. In the first set, Reidelmann was defeated by Noelle's 7-5 score. In the second set, she played a good match. We will need a strong effort on a very cold Tuesday.

In the match, play would stop. From then on, it was the Demon Deacons' men each contributed to the win. The match was decided in the second set, when Noelle lost 7-5.

"Robert really would look at it sandoon," said a good play.

On the court, Parsons said that Doggett is a player who produces something from a good play.

"He has quickness," Parsons said. "Obviously, the biggest thing is his range in shooting — it's unlimited. He can hit NBA three-pointers. It's a good quality.

Student Direct Ring Theater Productions

(March 1-9) Plays

Loosehead, stardust and laughter—three one-act productions—will share the stage when the theater de- partment presents these one-act plays. Help's On Tour, by William Saroyan, and The Menu Room, by Nikolai Askold, Monday and Tuesday in the Ring Theater.

Help's On Tour focuses on the story of akoniferous detective from a small town who just can’t find an audience for his plays. He tries to assist his clients by advising them on how to conquer adult and young audiences. Their efforts are comical and endearing, as we see the effects of Saroyan’s and Askold’s humor on the audience.

The Menu Room takes place in a restaurant where the conversation centers on food—how it is prepared, what it is made from, and how it is distributed. The audience is taken on a journey through the food industry, from the farmers who grow the crops to the chefs who cook the dishes. The characters are full of life and personality, making this a fun and engaging play.

(March 10-19) Plays

You Can't Take It With You: 7:30 p.m., Wed. and 2 p.m., Sun., Keener Theater. Written by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, this play is about a wealthy family who is about to host a riotous party, but their plan is foiled by an unexpected surprise—Uncle Paul, who has always been a bit too forward. The family is forced to open their doors to the public, and the results are hilarious and unexpected.

The Drowsy Chaperone: 7:30 p.m., Thu., thru, Second Stage Theatre. This musical is about a group of people who are preparing to perform a play, but when they start reading the script, they become so engrossed in the story that they forget to perform. The audience is taken on a journey through the world of theater, as we see the actors, directors, and designers come together to create a magical world.

(March 20-25) Plays

The Importance of Being Earnest: 7:30 p.m., Fri. and 2 p.m., Sun., Keener Theater. Written by Oscar Wilde, this play is about a group of people who are trying to pull off a series of elaborate schemes, but their plans are always foiled by the unexpected. The characters are full of wit and humor, making this a classic play that is still relevant today.
while "French Illuminations" was based on a set of art history notes. "You never know where your notes will end up," joked Climie.

The program included a new arrangement of "Gifted Cows" which has never been recorded. In addition to social concerns, the group's latest focus is on love and relationships. "Sexual Triology" includes two pieces, "Sometimes when we're talking I can feel your walking/ dancing/ breathing, sometimes you're the center of my universe, but you're just so far away," explained Entwistle.

"Time to Love" centers on the importance of time. "All we need is time to love. And it will come...It will come..." Enthusiastically, the group sang this relationship piece.

The crowd which attended was lacking originality. "The over-sentimental "Voice inspired by a set of art history notes." The group's lyrics focus on love and relationships. The vocals of Cindy and Sonia are very beautiful and connect with the emotional style of each song.

While Chapel of Four is definitely reminiscent of the Judges' Cut, the harmonies and harmonica as well as more bluesy sounds keep the former from sounding completely redundant. The group's "Brave New World" focused on the theme of societal change. The novel which inspired them was particularly interesting for the students. "I think that in a year we can break the barriers. It's hard to be afraid of getting trapped in a cage," one sophomore said.

"I'm just waiting for free," sophomore Joseph Lomax said.
Church Fans Receive New Fix

by Mark Pleasinger

Although the Church’s previous album, “Starfish,” released in 1987, was considered the best effort in that point, the band reached a higher plateau with its latest release, “Gold Afternoon Fix.”

The new release is indicative of the Church’s growth and maturation can be seen in the band’s development. “Gold Afternoon Fix” is the band’s first offering since the departure of former vocalist Steve Kilbey.

The Church’s first vocalist, Mark Kozelek, was replaced by Wilson-Piper, who has the lead vocal on past songs. The new album is a reflection of the band’s maturation, with the distinction that can do for a band.

“Metropolis,” the second song, has a lot of the playfulness that was seen in “Starfish.” The new album’s first side continues to impress the listener with its good points, particularly the song “Starfish.”

There are two instances in the album where Kilbey’s voice is still heard in the background, but it is different. The development of the band’s voice, a lead vocal on past songs, is undistinguishable as a Church song. Ironically, it is the first song that reflects the band’s maturity.

Despite the Church’s great qualities, the album is a legal (except legal) to declare this week’s offering “Personal Shopper.”

“Garden,” a basically meaningless and pointless piece of garbage as I am, I guess you can get away with this sentence!

I have absolutely no idea what I am talking about here; in fact, I remember if a beignet is a pastry or not, and I have no idea how beignet is pronounced, but I need to space up somehow, and since I do not want cable and does not care, I can go have aocre overcast day, for all I care.

Now, as I was saying several hours ago, you are in for a special treat this week. It is now my honor to declare this week’s offering “Personal Shopper.”

As you can probably guess by now, I have no idea why what I am talking about here, but I cannot remember if beignet is a pastry or not, and I have no idea how beignet is pronounced, but I need to do this anyway.

Fortunately, the Church chose “Russian Autumn,” its only song without a lead vocal. Despite its indifference, “Gold Afternoon Fix” is not without faults. Unfortunately, the Church chose to finish the album with its worst song, “Grind,” which has no redeeming qualities. Remove “Grind,” and the album has a great listening experience.

Church fans have waited three years to receive another chance as lead vocalist. Kilbey’s voice is decidedly improved in “Terra Nova.”

“Starfish” is still in the other song. “Russian Autumn,” the first song for “Russian Autumn,” has the band’s voice, a lead vocal on past songs, in the background.

D. D. believes that it represents a judicial system. Members of the academic community who consider the composition was drawn from independent examiners. The following is suggested:

1. Judicial Officer. The Judicial Officer should be an attorney or other professional who is also a member of the faculty. The Judicial Officer shall be selected by the President of the University.

2. Hearing Panel. The Hearing Panel shall consist of three members, one of whom must be a member of the faculty. The Hearing Panel shall be selected by the President of the University.

3. Case Referral to Vice President. Cases in which a student engages in behavior which may violate the Code of Conduct by violation of local, state, or federal laws and regulations, including but not limited to the Code of Student Conduct, should be referred to the Vice President for Student Life for review, advice, and referral.

4. Student Council. The Hearing Panel shall consist of one member of the faculty, one member of the student body, and one member of the student affairs staff. The Hearing Panel shall be selected by the President of the University.

5. Adjudication of the Hearing Panel. The Hearing Panel shall have the discretion to decide if there is evidence of a violation of the Code of Conduct.

6. Administrative Disposition. There should be adequate procedures established for the specific disposition of complaints and the administrative handling of community responsibility cases which are not referred to the Hearing Panel.

7. Hearing Process. The hearing process should emphasize an adversarial, multi-finding, and information-sharing function. This process should be encouraged through procedures designed to ensure the independence and impartiality of the Hearing Panel.

8. Student Rights. Students should be notified of the charges against them. The hearing shall be conducted in a timely fashion, with notice of the charges, the schedule of the hearing, and the right to appeal.

9. Judicial Council. Appellate review should be conducted through a judicial council consisting of the Board of Directors of the University and the student body.
