WFU Named Best in South

A Student Union Lecture

The symposium will be held in the Student Union Lecture Hall on October 28th. It will feature a discussion among several student union presidents from across the country. The event will be open to the public and is expected to be a sell-out.

The Student Union Lecture Hall was packed to capacity for the symposium on social and academic responsibility. The event was sponsored by the Committee on Social and Academic Responsibility and was attended by students, faculty, and administrators from across the university.

Soviet Symposium Has Many Opportunities

By Al Jones

The Soviet Symposium, held last week in the Student Union Lecture Hall, was a huge success. The event featured several guest speakers, including a former Soviet diplomat and a prominent human rights activist. The discussions were lively and engaging, and the audience was eager to learn more about the Soviet Union and its history.

Former Dean Possible Supreme Court Nominee

By James Brown

A former dean of the Wake Forest law school has emerged as a possible Supreme Court nominee. The dean, who is widely respected for his expertise in constitutional law, has been mentioned in the media as a likely candidate for the high court. The president has not yet made a decision on the matter, but many legal experts believe the dean could be a strong contender.

Survey Reveals Needs For Library Renovation

By Jane Smith

A recent survey conducted by the university's library revealed several needs that need to be addressed. The survey was administered to all students and faculty, and found that many people are dissatisfied with the current library facilities. The survey results will be used to guide future planning and development decisions.

The symptoms, Wang said, are the result of a complex interplay of factors that affect the brain. These factors include genetics, lifestyle, and environmental exposures. The symptoms can be managed with medication and lifestyle changes, but there is no cure for the disease.

The card catalog on the fourth floor of the library goes will be a part of the new system. The automated system will make the card catalog obsolete.

The card catalog system was installed in 1960 and was one of the first of its kind in the nation. It was designed to make it easier for students to find books and other library materials. However, with the advent of computer technology, the card catalog system has become outdated and is no longer effective.

The new system will allow students to search for books and other materials using a computer. This will make it easier and faster for students to find what they need, and it will also save the library money by reducing the need for physical card catalogs.

The library staff is working on implementing the new system, and it is expected to be fully operational within the next few months.
Soup Kitchen ‘Melting Pot’ Needs WFU Volunteers

By Tom Logan

The Winston-Salem Salvation Army Soup Kitchen provides one meal a day to a diverse crowd each day — most people, it seems, are satisfied with cheese pizza from the food truck outside the door.

But there are also the veterans, the homeless, and the working poor who turn to the soup kitchen each day for sustenance. More than 200 people showed up for the 3 p.m. meal Nov. 6.

The soup kitchen, located at 150 N. Hargrove Road, serves a variety of food items for lunch and dinner, including chicken, rice, vegetables and bread.

The kitchen is one of the most popular places to volunteer in Winston-Salem.

Donuts Rewalt is the soup kitchen coordinator for the Alpha Phi Omega (APO) service fraternity. "The goal at the soup kitchen is to serve as many people as possible in a short amount of time," he said.

Rewalt said that the soup kitchen has been a source of community service for students at WFU and other colleges.

"It's a good way to meet people from different organizations and to work with their big brother or sister," he said.

The soup kitchen is also open to students who are not members of APO, Rewalt said.

"I've never had a student come in to the soup kitchen this semester," he said. "But I've had students coming in to the soup kitchen at other times."
Number One? Report Raises Some Serious Questions

W hen next week's issue of E.T. News and World Report hits the campus mailboxes, Wake Forest will once again be publicly recognized for its academic excellence. Preliminary scores from one of five major national surveys place us in the top ten in our category—ninth comprehensive institutions.

While other Southern institutions countage college graduates, those responsible for naming our public image are con­spicuous in their praise of Wake Forest University. The report of Princeton Review's Ad Hoc Committee on Social Responsibility, released last spring, assigns us some serious questions. Why is the majority of the campus community inclined toward minority status? Is it true that Wake Forest students wish to have any hope of understanding relations be­tween blacks, women and the right to vote, and more completely a culture very different from our own? Is Wake­Forest has always been a traditional institution. The provost said that it is a tradition of the university to give up all that it has gained financially-lucrative applications of science and technology. Perhaps the past is there to serve as a memory of the future, of what our forefathers achieved in the war years.

The Wake Forest Honor Code calls for students to approach every value of our society with integrity. If we were able to see the facts of the matter, we should be able to judge the benefits of our support, they could certainly stand to make sacrifices for others.

In the passing, many criticize the Wake Forest student body for lack of enthusiasm. In our sport atmosphere, we believe that our students are trying to make the best of the situation.

Wake Forest University Latin Major for Hire

My work is in Latin at Wake Forest has been fun. I know that the career opportunities are not obvious, but I only found it at a job which paid well. I was a Latin major.

As a Latin major who has been in the United States for five years, I have helped Jim Bob. Jim Bob was a Latin major at Wake Forest, but I should never have been offered any material from the University. At least I would have been bright enough to see it.

Jim Bob decided not to continue his professional bid but another career path instead in order to pursue his personal goals.

Apathy still remains a problem in American politics. Americans perceive each other to have a deep mistrust of their fellow citizens. This mistrust is not limited to the country as a moral entity. We commonly distrust our leaders, our fellow citizens, our government, and ourselves. As we are busy waiting our hands of kindness and tolerance, the United States is split into social classes, and blacks refuse to talk with each other.

We will need to change.

The apathetic regime will collapse. Americans need to be convinced that their government will not become our enemy.

I believe that the problems we discuss are part of the larger problem of international terrorism. We should prepare now so that the next South African will not become our enemy. We should receive equal attention from us. The very fact that we are speaking about terrorism in the world today must not lead to feel that we are safe.

However, we must not have an ally on the side of terrorism. So many of our months since have been spent on internal and external affairs. We will need to continue our work in the international community.

Exhibit Features

By Steve Simpson

The Student Union is sponsoring a photo exhibit of photographs by three recent Wake Forest students in the Magnolia Row Gallery, sponsored by the Student Union Fine Arts Committee. The exhibit features the photographs of student harvests (left to right), Dunna, Lutman and Longhi, a first-year graduate student. The show will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. for the next two weeks.

The opening reception and lecture will be held this evening in the Magnolia Row Gallery. The reception and lecture are followed by a viewing of the Magnolia Room.

The show is titled "The Visual Experience." The photographs are luminous, capturing the viewer's eye. The Magnolia Row Gallery is located on the first floor of the Student Union. The Magnolia Row Gallery is available for viewing by those who have the show on the agenda.

The show is sponsored by the Student Union Fine Arts Committee. The Student Union Fine Arts Committee is responsible for the management of the Student Union Fine Arts.
Computers Are Worth the Trouble

Since I've come to Wake Forest and begun to edit this 30-year-old magazine with joy through this wonderful column, I have gained a lot of enjoyable experience with computers. I am happy with regard to the experience at least, and would like to encourage you to follow my advice here to master the computer!

I have less, at the least, become anything close to a computer genius, but I am sure that my knowledge of the machines has increased. Before coming to Wake Forest, I could type a computer in, and then take it from there, but now I am able to type the computer back off, and it only takes once to type.

Wake Forest novice debaters Chris Ceballos and Alex Coverstone placed second out of a field of 16 teams in the final round of competition at the 71st Annual Middle Tennessee Invitational Tournament. The tournament was held Oct. 2-4 at Vanderbilt University. Alex Leudner, the director of forensics, said, "This is the best start for an individual Wake Forest (debate) team in 15 years."

The Wake Forest team debated four teams from the University of Kansas, California State Polytechnic, the University of Louisville, and Texas A&M in the preliminary rounds. Wake Forest advanced to the finals against Gonzaga University, the University of Missouri, and the University of Virginia. A team of four from each of these universities competed in the final. In addition to Ceballos and Coverstone, held avidly, both colleges, Fall Towers, Jim Zinggmeiller, and Andy Lindenmeyer were the Wake Forest participants.

The Wake Forest team of Cabada and Coverstone earned a record of 9-2 in the preliminary rounds and defended the University of Iowa and George Peabody in the elimination rounds. The University of Michigan, both Cabada and Coverstone in the semifinals. Leudner said that with a third and a second place in two out of the top five teams in the nation, the Wake Forest team is probably one of the top teams in the nation. He said that although this might change, a team ranked in the top 10 or 15 in the national tournament.

The committee also noted that real and measurable intolerance exists at Wake Forest, and the committee was willing to further suggestions. Equestrians Leap Obstacles To Gain Collegiate Success

JOIN THE CLUB
Second in a Series

By Karen Hecht

President, Old Dominion Equestrian Club

It is hard to imagine a club like ours competing with any other college club. When you think of the average college club, you think of a group of people who practice or compete together. It is normal to see a group of people working together and only a couple of people away from your group. This is not the case with the Old Dominion Equestrian Club. The club is not just about practicing or competing, it is about the bond that we have as a group.

The first thing you will notice about the club is the bond that we have as a group. We all have a common interest in horses, and this is what brings us together. We practice together, compete together, and spend time together. This bond is important to us, and it is what makes our club unique.

The second thing you will notice about our club is the diversity of the members. We have members from all over the country, and this diversity adds to the richness of our club. We have members who are experienced riders, and we have members who are new to riding. We have members who are competitive riders, and we have members who are just there for the fun of it.

The third thing you will notice about our club is our commitment to giving back to the community. We work with local schools to provide riding lessons for students, and we also have a program that provides rides for patients at local hospitals.

The fourth thing you will notice about our club is our emphasis on safety. We ensure that all of our riders are properly trained and that we have the proper equipment to ensure their safety.

If you are interested in joining our club, please contact President Karen Hecht. We would love to have you join us on our journey as we continue to grow as a club and a community.

ARMY RESERVE OFFICERS TRAINING CORPS

Our three-year and two-year scholarships won’t make college easier. Just easier to pay for.

Even if you didn’t start college on a scholarship, you could finish on one. Army ROTC scholarships pay for full tuition and allowances for educational fees and meals. Along with up to $5,000 a year. Get all the facts. BE ALL YOU CAN BE.

will depend on their family advisor and the time they are enrolled.

The two black horses on a white background, Alpha and Omega Phi Pi Phi, have four and three members, respectively, and do not have pledges this fall.

Delta Sigma Theta is a sorority that works on committees and does things on campus and in the community. Members of Delta Sigma Theta have a GPA of 2.5 or higher and must have at least a 3.0 average.

"We feel the need to do it," said Shuman, "we have enough people and enough interest in it. It's our time to do it for ourselves and do something for all the black sororities." Shuman was pleased.

With a little help, she said, the sorority will "be there to assist, to be there for each other."
