Forum speakers compare political theory with practice

Laura Leek

"Students' property worth more than $700 was stolen from rooms that have taken place in the past few days," said chair of the Department of French, Mary Helen Frederiksen.

Baroque recital

Hugo Wiggins II, and Daven Rosenberg gave a concert featuring Renaissance and Baroque music for the Tocqueville Forum on April 12. The concert, sponsored by the University's Community Department of Music, featured the Wiggers and Rosenberg on recorder and harpsichord Monday at Reynolda House. The concert was sponsored by the university's Community Department of Music. Wiggers and Rosenberg are on the music faculty at Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte.

Committee appointed

University Press expands

The Wake Forest University Press has emerged in the last five years as the major publisher of contemporary Irish poetry in the United States. The publication of John Minogue's "Theorized Solitudes," his first poetry collection, has been heralded as a major event in the field of Irish studies, and the success of this book has been seen as a harbinger of things to come. This success has been attributed to the hard work and dedication of the editors and staff members at the University Press.

Football player faces charges

The Wake Forest University Press has expanded its reach by acquiring several new titles in the last few years, including the publication of John Minogue's "Theorized Solitudes," his first poetry collection.

Game thefts total $700

Laura Leek

"Gym thefts total $700"

Baroque recital

Hugo Wiggins II, and Daven Rosenberg gave a concert featuring Renaissance and Baroque music for the Tocqueville Forum on April 12. The concert, sponsored by the University's Community Department of Music, featured the Wiggers and Rosenberg on recorder and harpsichord Monday at Reynolda House. The concert was sponsored by the university's Community Department of Music. Wiggers and Rosenberg are on the music faculty at Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte.

Committee appointed

University Press expands

The Wake Forest University Press has emerged in the last five years as the major publisher of contemporary Irish poetry in the United States. The publication of John Minogue's "Theorized Solitudes," his first poetry collection, has been heralded as a major event in the field of Irish studies, and the success of this book has been seen as a harbinger of things to come. This success has been attributed to the hard work and dedication of the editors and staff members at the University Press.

Football player faces charges

The Wake Forest University Press has expanded its reach by acquiring several new titles in the last few years, including the publication of John Minogue's "Theorized Solitudes," his first poetry collection.
Debaters master new tactics

Ken Craig

Wake Forest debate team members have learned to emphasize various aspects of debate this season, much to Coach Allan Davis's delight. Currently, much emphasis is being placed on student preparation, Davis noted.

During Cross Examination Debate Association (CEDA) debates, Wake Forest has focused on what Davis termed "indelible imprints." The imprints, Davis pointed out, are beginning to pay dividends in terms of team members' participation and effectiveness.

"We have developed a strong policy that will give us an edge in our preparation," Davis said.

For instance, Davis noted, the Wake Forest team has prepared for upcoming debates on topics such as religion and the rights of women. By familiarizing themselves with the current state of these issues, the team has been able to develop effective arguments.

Additionally, Davis said, the team has worked on improving their public speaking skills. "We have been working on our public speaking, especially in terms of our body language and facial expressions," Davis said.

Davis also pointed out that the team has been working on their reaction time, which he said is crucial in debates. "We have been working on our reaction time, which is essential in debates," Davis said.

In terms of preparation, Davis said, the team has been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics they will be discussing. "We have been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics we will be discussing," Davis said.

In terms of public speaking, Davis said, the team has been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics they will be discussing. "We have been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics we will be discussing," Davis said.

In terms of reaction time, Davis said, the team has been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics they will be discussing. "We have been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics we will be discussing," Davis said.

In terms of preparation, Davis said, the team has been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics they will be discussing. "We have been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics we will be discussing," Davis said.

In terms of public speaking, Davis said, the team has been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics they will be discussing. "We have been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics we will be discussing," Davis said.

In terms of reaction time, Davis said, the team has been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics they will be discussing. "We have been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics we will be discussing," Davis said.

In terms of preparation, Davis said, the team has been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics they will be discussing. "We have been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics we will be discussing," Davis said.

In terms of public speaking, Davis said, the team has been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics they will be discussing. "We have been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics we will be discussing," Davis said.

In terms of reaction time, Davis said, the team has been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics they will be discussing. "We have been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics we will be discussing," Davis said.

In terms of preparation, Davis said, the team has been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics they will be discussing. "We have been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics we will be discussing," Davis said.

In terms of public speaking, Davis said, the team has been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics they will be discussing. "We have been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics we will be discussing," Davis said.

In terms of reaction time, Davis said, the team has been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics they will be discussing. "We have been working on developing a strong understanding of the topics we will be discussing," Davis said.
He said, 'The Comedy of Redemption' was a perspective that is 'enlightened and existential.' He discussed the idea that redemption is a process of becoming, not just a result of doing good deeds.
Letters to the editor

Student displays with upstairs appearances

Some recent bodybuilding activity of the once controversial metal art display on Wednesday featured appearance of photographer. At several of the student displays, social activists are being present to protest the activities. As you walk through the doors in several of the halls, you will find people of the opposite sex plus the concomitant group of people not playing - and at the same time, the group of people not playing plus the concomitant group of people standing. As you walk through the doors, you will find people of the opposite sex plus the concomitant group of people having the conversation. As you walk through the doors, you will find people of the opposite sex plus the concomitant group of people for whom the conversation is meaningful.

I do not advocate the elimination of art displays because I am against them. I do advocate the recognition that the process of social mortality can only be achieved through sound judgment. Each group that in time loses interest in the process of social mortality should be notified by the faculty. Wake Forest offers a wealth of intellectual opportunities to its undergraduates. Any group that gives up on the process should be notified for that purpose, and not necessarily in instruments.

Although I appreciate the views of John Sklar and Mitch Con on metal art at Wake Forest, I do not agree with all of them. Because I agree with all of them that sacrifice for WF athletics. It seems that a lot of these people are becoming too caught up in their own views and are not paying enough attention to the reasons why the people enjoy the games.

Cynthia L. Seckel

 begins with a bang. Students, faculty, and athletes have been split on this issue for the past several years. Some have argued that Wake Forest should continue to sponsor a basketball team because they enjoy the games and see them as a way to unwind and have fun. Others have argued that the school should cut back on its athletics programs and focus more on education. In my opinion, Wake Forest should continue to sponsor a basketball team because it is an important part of the school's identity and provides a valuable outlet for students and alumni alike.

The recent paint bombing of the Wake Forest University Press building and the subsequent arrest of a student in connection with the incident have raised concerns about campus safety and security. The University administration has taken steps to address these concerns, including increased police presence and enhanced security measures. However, it is important to note that these incidents have also highlighted the broader issue of free speech and the role of the press in a democratic society.

In conclusion, while the recent events may have caused some disruption and disturbance, they do not represent a fundamental threat to the campus community. The University administration has demonstrated a commitment to maintaining a safe and welcoming environment for all students and faculty, and we should continue to support their efforts in this regard.

Terry Reynolds

Students salute London program

The recent London program has been a huge success for students who went on the trip. They were able to experience a different culture and learn about the art and history of London. Many students described it as a once-in-a-lifetime experience and expressed gratitude to the university for providing this opportunity.

One student said, "This trip has been the highlight of my academic career. I was able to see firsthand the rich history and culture of London, and it has given me a greater appreciation for the diversity of our world."

Another student added, "London was an amazing experience. I learned so much about British history and culture, and it has opened my eyes to a whole new world of possibilities."

The London program has been well-received by students and faculty alike, and it is expected to continue in future years. The University administration should be commended for offering such programs, which provide students with valuable opportunities to learn and grow.

Dawn Weyman

On social policy: part two

Policy should inspire mind's growth

In my previous column, I discussed the importance of social policies in shaping the world. I argued that we should measure the success of these policies by their impact on people's lives and their ability to create a better world. I also suggested that we should look to history for examples of successful social policies.

In this column, I want to explore the role of these policies in our daily lives. I believe that policies should inspire our minds and encourage us to think critically about the world around us. They should provide a framework for understanding complex issues and help us make informed decisions.

For example, I believe that policies should be designed to address the needs of marginalized communities. They should be created with the input of those who are most affected by them and should be evaluated by their impact on these communities.

In conclusion, I believe that policies should be designed with the goal of inspiring our minds and encouraging us to think critically about the world. They should be evaluated by their impact on people's lives and their ability to create a better world.

Dane Reynolds

"University of the imagination"

Most of us have had the experience of running or walking through a place where the atmosphere was "university-like." The dormitories and student centers of the Baptist State University in New York City are a case in point. Similarly, the separate campuses of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Abilene Christian University in Texas, and a host of other institutions have each developed their own "university atmosphere". This is not to say that these institutions are "university-like" in every respect. What they share is an effort to create a sense of community and to foster the kind of learning and growth that is characteristic of the university experience.

These institutions have each developed their own "university atmosphere" in different ways. Some have emphasized the importance of the arts, while others have focused on the sciences. Some have created a sense of community through student organizations and clubs, while others have emphasized individual study. But all of them have created an environment that is designed to inspire the kind of learning and growth that is characteristic of the university experience.

For example, the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill has created a sense of community through its student organizations and clubs. The university has a long tradition of student involvement, and its students are encouraged to be active in the life of the university. The university has also created a sense of community through its student centers, which provide a place for students to relax and socialize.

In conclusion, the "university atmosphere" is an important part of the university experience. It is designed to inspire the kind of learning and growth that is characteristic of the university experience. It is also an important aspect of the university's role in society, as it provides a place for students to learn and grow in a supportive and community-oriented environment.

Milton Reynolds

The athletic divide

For the past several years, the behavior of Wake Forest University Athletic Department has been under scrutiny. Promoted by a vocal minority of students and Faculty Athletic Council members, the athletic program has been accused of irresponsible behavior.

This atmosphere has been created by several factors, the most significant of which is the growing number of students who are demanding more control over the athletic program. These students are concerned that the athletic program is focusing too much on the bottom line and not enough on the needs of the student body.

In conclusion, the athletic divide is a complex issue that requires careful consideration. It is important to remember that the athletic program is an important part of the university experience, and it is important to ensure that the program is run in a way that is fair and equitable for all students.

Mark Reynolds

The College of the Future

Application deadlines for most universities are fast approaching, and this year more students than ever are applying to competitive schools. The process of applying to college can be overwhelming, but it's important to approach it with a clear head and a strategic plan.

First and foremost, it's essential to research the colleges you're interested in. Look into their academic programs, campus life, and student demographics to find the right fit for you.

Once you have a list of potential colleges, it's time to start working on your application materials. This includes your transcripts, test scores, essays, and letters of recommendation. Make sure to tailor your application to each school by highlighting your strengths and experiences that make you a good fit for them.

Finally, don't forget to schedule visits to campuses you're interested in. These visits can provide valuable insights into the culture and atmosphere of the school, and they also give you an opportunity to meet with faculty and students.

In conclusion, the college application process can be daunting, but with the right approach and some hard work, you can increase your chances of being accepted to the college of your dreams.

Mike Reynolds

The Gnat

Applicant's guide

The athletic divide

The athletic divide is a topic that is frequently discussed in the media and among university administrators. The question of how much emphasis should be placed on athletics versus academics is a complex one, and there are no easy answers.

On the one hand, sports can provide a source of pride and community for many students. They can also provide a platform for athletic success and can attract a large number of students to the university. On the other hand, too much focus on sports can detract from the academic mission of the university and can limit the opportunities for other students.

In conclusion, the athletic divide is a complex issue that requires careful consideration. It is important to find a balance between athletics and academics that is fair and equitable for all students.

Milton Reynolds

The Gnat
'University' needs a definition

Most of Wake Forest's policy problems, both legal and moral, can be traced to the confusion between the university and the Baptist State Convention. The latter has always been a religious organization, serving the state and the church. The former has always been a state institution, serving the students. The two have occasionally worked together, but there is a clear-cut distinction between them.

The Baptist State Convention is a religious organization. Its activities are guided by the Bible, and its decisions are based on religious considerations. The university, on the other hand, is a secular institution. Its primary concern is education, and its decisions are based on practical considerations.

This distinction is important because it affects the way the university is governed. The Baptist State Convention appoints the Board of Trustees, which is responsible for the general direction of the university. The Board of Trustees, in turn, appoints the administration, which is responsible for the day-to-day operations of the university.

The distinction also affects the way the university is funded. The Baptist State Convention provides the majority of the funding for the university, but the state government also contributes a significant amount. This means that the university must balance its religious and secular objectives in order to receive funding from both sources.

In summary, Wake Forest University is a secular institution, serving the students. The Baptist State Convention is a religious organization, serving the church. The two have occasionally worked together, but there is a clear-cut distinction between them. This distinction is important because it affects the way the university is governed and funded.
Lorrie Butterfield (right) ran a 15-minute 39.5-second course, establishing herself as a distance runner for Wake Forest. In performances last weekend in a 15-kilometer road race in Williamsburg, Virginia, she led the Wake Forest women’s distance runners with a time of 57:26, a pace of five minutes per mile.

The future appears to be now for the Deacon runners, as the team’s young talent turned in two outstanding performances, one of which was the track meet in February in Athens, Georgia.

In the Gasparilla 15-kilometer road race in Tampa, Florida, the Wake Forest team captured first place in the women’s division, which is determined by underclassmen.

The four runners appear to be the stars for the Deacon runners as the team’s young talent turned in two outstanding performances, one of which was the track meet in Athens, Georgia.

In the Gasparilla 15-kilometer road race in Tampa, Florida, the Wake Forest team captured first place in the women’s division, which is determined by underclassmen.

The four runners appear to be the stars for the Deacon runners as the team’s young talent turned in two outstanding performances, one of which was the track meet in Athens, Georgia.

In the Gasparilla 15-kilometer road race in Tampa, Florida, the Wake Forest team captured first place in the women’s division, which is determined by underclassmen.

The four runners appear to be the stars for the Deacon runners as the team’s young talent turned in two outstanding performances, one of which was the track meet in Athens, Georgia.

In the Gasparilla 15-kilometer road race in Tampa, Florida, the Wake Forest team captured first place in the women’s division, which is determined by underclassmen.
Kevin Ryan

From the beginning of the fall semester, the Wake Forest men's and women's tennis teams have been preparing for the start of the official collegiate season, which begins for the Deacons Feb. 24.

Senior members Andy Avram and Jeremy Yancey got an early jump on the rest of the team, and their successes have created an atmosphere of optimism.

In the past month, the coaching staff of Avram and Yancey has resurfaced to capture two tournament titles, the Wake Forest men's Invitational in Richmond, Va., and the J.J. Woods Invitational in Boone, N.C.

Avram's and Yancey's leadership has been instrumental in preparing the team for the upcoming season, which opens tomorrow with home matches against Virginia and VPI.

For the second year in a row, Avram will captain the number one singles position, and Yancey, who will play at the number two singles position, "is going to be a very good doubles team because we both have strong serves. The key to the doubles play is to hold your serve. If you can't stay even with your serve and get a few good points, we can beat a lot of teams," Leighton said.

During the upcoming campaign, a few tours could complete the schedule of Avram and Yancey at an NCAA tournament invitation.

"We have great individual play has made our doubles teams extremely strong," Leighton said. "This team goes along very well together. There seems to be little friction of personalities. It is a very heavy but group that has shown us ability to improve." Leighton said.

"I am hoping to be able to sign two or three more players, and play them in various positions," Leighton said.

Morgan honored by ACC

Guy Morgan was named this week's ACC Men's Tennis Player of the Week for his recent performance at the ACC Invitational, "Guy has a great start in his collegiate career," Coach Jim Leighton said.

"This year we have a great deal of talent. Andy Avram and Jeremy Yancey are both very strong, and we have a good doubles team because we both have strong serves. The key to the doubles play is to hold your serve. If you can't stay even with your serve and get a few good points, we can beat a lot of teams," Leighton said.

From a glance at this year's schedule, Leighton seems to be in for a short season.

"We have a really strong schedule this year, but we have some exceptional home tournaments," Leighton said.

The Deacons tennis will compete against the top five teams in the region at Wake Forest's Invitational and ACC Invitational in Wake Forest and the ACC Invitational in Roanoke, Va.

"Most players don't realize how tough the competition is in the ACC," Leighton said.

"We have a good schedule, but we want to play well and stay on top of our game," Leighton said.

In addition to Avram and Yancey, Leighton said that "the number three singles spot will be filled by Australia's Timo Zander, who captured ACC singles title, and singles title about six months ago. We have won all six of our matches so far, and we have had a great start in our collegiate career."

"Tim and I are both very strong players, and we have been playing very well as of late according to the ACC," Leighton said.

At the current time, the number five and six positions are still unknown, but Leighton expects to have both well-vegetated by the start of the season.

"I think that we are one of the toughest teams I have ever coached," Leighton said.

"We have some great players, and we have some exceptional home tournaments," Leighton said.

Morgan honored by ACC

Guy Morgan was named this week's ACC Men's Tennis Player of the Week for his recent performance at the ACC Invitational. "Guy has a great start in his collegiate career," Coach Jim Leighton said.

"This year we have a great deal of talent. Andy Avram and Jeremy Yancey are both very strong, and we have a good doubles team because we both have strong serves. The key to the doubles play is to hold your serve. If you can't stay even with your serve and get a few good points, we can beat a lot of teams," Leighton said.

"From a glance at this year's schedule, Leighton seems to be in for a short season."

"We have a really strong schedule this year, but we have some exceptional home tournaments," Leighton said.

The Deacons tennis will compete against the top five teams in the region at Wake Forest's Invitational and ACC Invitational in Roanoke, Va.

"Most players don't realize how tough the competition is in the ACC," Leighton said.

"We have a good schedule, but we want to play well and stay on top of our game," Leighton said.

In addition to Avram and Yancey, Leighton said that "the number three singles spot will be filled by Australia's Timo Zander, who captured ACC singles title, and singles title about six months ago. We have won all six of our matches so far, and we have had a great start in our collegiate career."

"Tim and I are both very strong players, and we have been playing very well as of late according to the ACC," Leighton said.

At the current time, the number five and six positions are still unknown, but Leighton expects to have both well-vegetated by the start of the season.

"I think that we are one of the toughest teams I have ever coached," Leighton said.

"We have some great players, and we have some exceptional home tournaments," Leighton said.

"This year we have a great deal of talent. Andy Avram and Jeremy Yancey are both very strong, and we have a good doubles team because we both have strong serves. The key to the doubles play is to hold your serve. If you can't stay even with your serve and get a few good points, we can beat a lot of teams," Leighton said.

"From a glance at this year's schedule, Leighton seems to be in for a short season."

"We have a really strong schedule this year, but we have some exceptional home tournaments," Leighton said.

The Deacons tennis will compete against the top five teams in the region at Wake Forest's Invitational and ACC Invitational in Roanoke, Va.

"Most players don't realize how tough the competition is in the ACC," Leighton said.

"We have a good schedule, but we want to play well and stay on top of our game," Leighton said.

In addition to Avram and Yancey, Leighton said that "the number three singles spot will be filled by Australia's Timo Zander, who captured ACC singles title, and singles title about six months ago. We have won all six of our matches so far, and we have had a great start in our collegiate career."

"Tim and I are both very strong players, and we have been playing very well as of late according to the ACC," Leighton said.

At the current time, the number five and six positions are still unknown, but Leighton expects to have both well-vegetated by the start of the season.

"I think that we are one of the toughest teams I have ever coached," Leighton said.

"We have some great players, and we have some exceptional home tournaments," Leighton said.

"This year we have a great deal of talent. Andy Avram and Jeremy Yancey are both very strong, and we have a good doubles team because we both have strong serves. The key to the doubles play is to hold your serve. If you can't stay even with your serve and get a few good points, we can beat a lot of teams," Leighton said.

"From a glance at this year's schedule, Leighton seems to be in for a short season."

"We have a really strong schedule this year, but we have some exceptional home tournaments," Leighton said.

The Deacons tennis will compete against the top five teams in the region at Wake Forest's Invitational and ACC Invitational in Roanoke, Va.

"Most players don't realize how tough the competition is in the ACC," Leighton said.

"We have a good schedule, but we want to play well and stay on top of our game," Leighton said.

In addition to Avram and Yancey, Leighton said that "the number three singles spot will be filled by Australia's Timo Zander, who captured ACC singles title, and singles title about six months ago. We have won all six of our matches so far, and we have had a great start in our collegiate career."

"Tim and I are both very strong players, and we have been playing very well as of late according to the ACC," Leighton said.

At the current time, the number five and six positions are still unknown, but Leighton expects to have both well-vegetated by the start of the season.

"I think that we are one of the toughest teams I have ever coached," Leighton said.

"We have some great players, and we have some exceptional home tournaments," Leighton said.
Unemployed

Glenn Ferrington was recently fired from his job as a doorman in the Pit. He seemed to be a center of activity when she was there, but she couldn’t help but shrug.

Cars seek new sound

Robbie Bowers

Listening to any music on the streets of America is like being surrounded by a soundtrack to one’s life. Despite the cacophony of sounds, one thing remains constant: the music we hear.

Students! Tired of Studying? Rent! 8 p.m. to 11 p.m.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.

The Wake Forest concert choir is the more select group. Most of the members are non-music majors, but this does not mean they are not serious about their music. The choir is obligated to remain active because of the group’s obligations and the students who join it.