SG Committee Passes Proposal for Extended Visititation Hours

By Michael D. McKelvey

The Student Government Committee passed a proposal Tuesday to change residence hall visitation hours to 8 a.m. to 2 a.m. weekdays. The proposal must be approved by the Campus Life Committee before it can be implemented.

The proposal was presented by the Campus Life Committee and was the result of a student body survey, open forums held last fall, and general concern from the student body. The proposal also included rules that would require upperclassmen to have a resident mentor. The proposal will be on the call of residence halls between the hours of midnight and 6 a.m. Thus, upperclassmen and seniors would have to be restricted by visitation policies and advanced student council would be on hall. The proposal was made to support the housing concerns recreation to some residential complexes, which are currently available for students.

Students said they wanted the changes to be implemented for the following reasons:

- To reduce alcohol consumption and off-campus disturbance.
- To create a more secure environment for students.
- To address the increasing number of off-campus parties.

The proposal also supported the Office of Residence Life and Community Services in its proposal to open residence halls on weekends.

Horchow Chairman Speaks on Business

By Gartéd Knorr

Horchow, who is the founder and chairman of the Horchow Co., a mail-order business, spoke at Wake Forest this week as a Woodrow Wilson Fellow. He received a $10,000 fellowship from the Wilson Center for Scholars of Duke University.

Merchandising is the key to success at Horchow, Horchow said in an interview with the campus newspaper. The company's success is based on its ability to create a niche market by providing high-quality, fashion-oriented merchandise at reasonable prices.

Horchow also emphasized the importance of nightclubs, which he said are critical to the success of his company.

Proposed Alcohol Policy Changes Likely

Recommendations Restrict Greek Parties and Promote Alternative Events

The proposal also recommends the elimination of Greek parties and the implementation of alternative events. The alternative events are to be chosen by a committee of students and faculty, and the proposal is to be presented to the student body for approval.

Hearn would support the idea of providing alternative events, but he would prefer them to be more closely aligned with the university's mission.

The proposal also suggests cutting Greek parties and increasing the amount of alcohol available to non-Greeks, but Horchow said he would support alternative events if they are more closely aligned with the university's mission.

Students Question Officials on Tuition

Many Still Disappointed with Administration

The university's proposed increase in tuition is expected to generate a significant amount of controversy, with many students expressing dissatisfaction with the administration's decision to raise tuition.

Harvard Professor Speaks on "Founders' View of Federalism"

By Lisa Vergo

One of the American Society's greatest dilemmas was how to make the union of states more binding than a mere treaty, he said. "The concept of federalism solved that dilemma. The union of the states is analogous to a domestic union of father and child, but national union of the states is analogous to a domestic union of father and child. The people who created the new states were more than sovereign bodies to be ruled by their own voluntary act, Beer said. Then could some be seen as conscious if the states not only have to. But not only have to. Can there be a definition for the Constitution of the States. "The states cannot see if they can have an effective voice in the states or not." Beer said. The version of the phrase "We the people" in the U.S. Constitution means that no one can see if they can have a legislative voice outside the Constitution's framework. "The states cannot have any," Beer said. "They have no legal states outside the union."

"The people of the States are not independent, but connected," he said. The Constitutional framers wanted to ensure that the States were not sovereign bodies bound to the Union only by their own voluntary act, Beer said. The declaration of Independence was not merely a treaty, Beer said. It was used to explain that the nation is "not a compact," but an "organic" system. "The Constitution was meant to bind the states together in a union that is national in its attempt to preserve liberty and promote the common good," he said. "The separation between the balance of power and the national and rational powers - performing a checking function," Beer said. The separation of local and national powers also serves to inform future states and water conversations of the knowledge of local interest in Congress, "The people in the States are not independent, but connected," he said. Housing Changes
Student Input Aids Process

Society of students at Wake Forest University has finally been realized in some detail with the recent proposals made by the housing office. The newspaper provided students with a list of recommendations that would change housing policy drastically.

The Student Government has already proposed to extend student input into all major decisions, including the possibility of forming a Greek Row. All of these proposals would greatly help the housing situation at the university.

Second, the proposed move to make South Hall a female dormitory is causing some controversy. Though the only dorm except Huffman, one coed dorm on south campus, is currently being used for freshmen males, the change was being considered.

The housing office’s proposals are a step in the right direction for self-government. If the administration can improve its administrative policies, it will greatly help the housing situation at the university.

Let us also do our part to support any present efforts to improve the infrastructure. To win the support of the students, it can be said that Wake Forest students should oppose the change.

Debra Craig

If you read our survey, you will see that the student body overwhelmingly opposes the plan.

Deepa Singh

To the Editor:

I cannot imagine any question saying that the students of Wake Forest are not interested in the future of the university. A small group of students have worked hard to come up with solutions to the current housing crisis. However, it is not as simple a process to change housing policy.

In closing, I want to express my gratitude to all those who have supported these efforts. With all of these logical, coherent, and well-reasoned arguments, I think that Wake Forest students should oppose the change.

Yours sincerely,

Finding an answer to this question is no easy task. First, I must find a source of information that makes the claim true. It is also true that the administration of Wake Forest University has a lot to do with the current situation. However, I cannot prove the truth of this statement.

Second, I must see if the situation can be avoided. If the problem is the lack of student input, then the solution is to have student input into all major decisions. However, this is not the case.

Finally, I must determine if the situation can be improved. If there is a lack of student input, then the solution is to have student input into all major decisions. However, this is also not the case.

In conclusion, I do not know the answer to this question. I believe that the students of Wake Forest University should oppose the change to South Hall.

Prohibition Ineffective

In his column, Mr. Smith argues that the prohibition of alcohol on campus has failed. However, Mr. Smith’s arguments are not strong enough to prove his point.

First, Mr. Smith claims that alcohol is a public menace. However, there is no evidence to support this claim. In fact, there are many studies that have shown that alcohol is not a public menace.

Second, Mr. Smith argues that alcohol is a source of social problems. However, there is no evidence to support this claim. In fact, there are many studies that have shown that alcohol is not a source of social problems.

In conclusion, Mr. Smith’s arguments are not strong enough to prove his point. The prohibition of alcohol on campus has not failed.

Culture Studies Needed

Many students have complained to me that they are not interested in culture studies. However, I believe that culture studies are important.

First, culture studies help us to understand our own society. By studying other cultures, we can learn about the values and beliefs that influence our own society.

Second, culture studies help us to understand other societies. By studying other cultures, we can learn about the customs and practices of other societies.

In conclusion, culture studies are important. We should all be interested in culture studies.
The Republican Candidate

Last week we took a look at the Democratic Party's candidates, but the story is equally much the same when it comes to the Republican candidates.

For those who have been paying attention, there is one major thing that stands out when you look at the Republican candidates: they all have a similar message.

They all are running on the same platform, which is to cut taxes and increase the economy. This is a message that resonates with many voters, especially those who are concerned about the high cost of living.

The Republican candidates are also all running on a platform of reducing the size of government. They believe that the government is too big and that it needs to be reduced in order to create a more prosperous economy.

In addition, all of the Republican candidates are running on a platform of strengthening the military. They believe that the United States needs a strong military in order to protect itself and its allies.

One of the most important things about the Republican candidates is that they have all been very successful in their careers. They have all held high positions in government and have a wealth of experience.

Overall, the Republican candidates seem to be running on a platform that is very popular with voters. They are all running on a platform that is focused on cutting taxes, reducing the size of government, and strengthening the military.

The Republican candidates are all very well-liked by voters. They have all been very successful in their careers, and they have a wealth of experience.

Marceau Shines In Secret Show

By Donna Bowman

In Secrest Show

Maurice Marceau, internationally acclaimed mime artist, recently drew laughter, empathy and compassion from the audience as he performed in his acclaimed 'The Creation of the World.' The piece, a work of N.C. Choreographers, which will include works by Richard Gibson, a guest composer, and Dianne Markham, will be performed at 2 p.m. on Friday morning before performing with the Secrest Artists Series that night.

Marceau led a master class of students from James Dodding's mime program at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He then gave a demonstration at the Secrest Center, which included a mime performance by the students.

The mime performance was the highlight of the day, as the students were able to demonstrate their skills and techniques. Marceau was impressed with the students' abilities and encouraged them to continue developing their craft.

The day ended with a reception for the students, where they were able to network and socialize with other artists in the field.

Jazz and Symphonic Bands Perform

The Symphonic Band and the Jazz Ensemble performed at the N.C. Museum of Art on Friday, June 30, 1983. The bands were joined by the North Carolina Symphony orchestra and conducted by Michael Hewitt.

The performance was a collaboration with the Secrest Artists Series, which has brought artists to the university for residencies and performances. The event was sponsored by the Department of Theatre and Dance and the Office of Student Activities.

The performance was a success, with the audience giving a standing ovation at the end of the show. The bands were well-received and the collaboration with the Symphony orchestra was a great success.

Games for That Long Spring Break Journey

Momentary Irrelevance

Charlie Harvey

For those of you who will be cruising around the area this spring break, you will need some sort of activity to help pass those hours in the car. We all have played those games, like the 20 Questions, Alphabet, and License Plate. We all have played the game of trying to keep our hands on the wheel. But if we are going on a trip, we need to find an activity that is new, fun, and challenging. So, what can we do?

The game is called "Farming Fun." For example, you can play the game while on a trip or while visiting friends. You can also play this game while on a boat or while on a plane. The game is easy to learn and is a great way to pass the time.

The next game is called "Ride and Race." Each person needs a map of the area you are in and a clock. Each person starts at a different point on the map and races to see who can reach the finish line first.

The final game is called "Soda Pop." For example, you can play this game while on a trip or while visiting friends. You can also play this game while on a boat or while on a plane. The game is easy to learn and is a great way to pass the time.

The last game is called "Dental Health." For example, you can play this game while on a trip or while visiting friends. You can also play this game while on a boat or while on a plane. The game is easy to learn and is a great way to pass the time.

The games are a way to help pass the time, but you should also try to do something productive. For example, you can read a book or listen to music. You can also try to learn something new, like a new language or a new skill.

The games from this suggestion are just for fun. If you want to learn more, you can find more information at your local library or on the internet.

Jazz Ensemble performed

Several members of the ensemble were highlighted as individual musicians, with Eric Bowyer performing with the Carolina Brass Ensemble and Mike Honey performing with the Carolina Brass Ensemble. The ensemble was well-received and the audience was enthusiastic.

Memories

Soprano Bonnie MacMillan

MacMillan gave a memorable performance of "The Wife's Lament" from "The Foreman's Wife" and "The Servant's Song" from "Chester." Her vocal range was impressive, and her delivery was captivating. The audience was enthralled by her performance.

The Museum of Anthropology

The exhibit "Images from Missouri: Myth and Reality Unraveled" at the Museum of Anthropology, Wake Forest University, is now open. The exhibit presents artifacts from the site of Moundville, an ancient Mississippian ceremonial center, located on the banks of the Black Warrior River, in the delta of Alabama. Moundville was occupied between A.D. 400 and 1200. It is the largest and most complex ceremonial site in the southern United States. Moundville is the second largest Mississippian period site and the only site in the Southeast for which the most complete settlement is known.

The exhibit presents varying views on the origins and evolution of Mississippian culture, as well as the development of Mississippian ceremonial centers. As a means of contrast, events that emerged during the period, such as the decline of Cahokia, are also examined, using artifacts from the mound's collection.

A series of public lectures and films will accompany the exhibit. "Memories," an exhibition of photographic prints by Arlene Gottfried, will be open from April 9 through April 30. All lectures, films, and presentations accompanying this exhibit are free and open to the public.

The N.C. Museum of History

"Images from Missouri: Myth and Reality Unraveled" will be on display through May 19, 1985. The exhibit ends May 29.
Tuition

...and not was stipulated on the degree.

...and a general outline of the tuition proposal was discussed at a meeting the week before its debut. Actual amounts were not shown on the board until this meeting, according to Knecht.

Knecht said he is concerned that the increased tuition is due more to increased costs than to increased revenue. "There is tuition in the coming years, but he projected increased revenue at about the same rate each year. The administration was also concerned about the level of funding for the endowment, he said.

Knecht noted that the increase of 600% per year from each of Wake Forest's 5,400 students means a $3.3 million increase in university revenue.

Hearn said he was unsure of the exact breakdown of expenditures and said that one could go by looking at past expenses. Revenue from the tuition increase will be distributed evenly across all categories.

The "fee is not important, it's what happens before a consensual action is made," said Hearn. The administration and Board of Trustees met to set in the best interest of the Wake Forest community, he said. He added that students need to know what's going on. "They can't stand talking about where their tuition money goes," Knecht said. "If they don't want it, they should ask for it.

Legislative Chris Watafer said Wake Forest students -- including those in Student Government -- need to stand up and get to the people in charge of the administration. "We feel you have something," Watafer said. She and others said the administration, "without us, you have nothing.

Watafer and others must make the university realize that they are there.

"They [the administration] were laughing at some of our questions," Watafer said. "The administration doesn't think it's important. We must make a stand now.

Carol O'Don, the assistant to the president, said, "Hearn thought the fees were as much as it could, and that the administration present adequately answered students' questions.

"So President Wake Smith said Wednesday that students with sufficient resources and support must be given the option to keep their proposed tuition increase should write to the administration.

Clemson Shocks Blue Devils, Tar Heels Crush Yellow Jackets

The Blue Devils lost a heartbreaker to visiting Virginia Wednesday night, the school's second straight loss, as Georgia Tech won a tight one over Wake Forest. The school's 12-0 record for the season fell to 12-1 after their second straight loss to the Blue Devils, 84-76, before a sellout crowd of 12,000 at the Georgia Tech Coliseum.

The loss to the Blue Devils was just the fifth time in the ACC era that Georgia Tech has lost to Wake Forest. The Blue Devils have won seven of the last eight meetings against the Yellow Jackets.

The Yellow Jackets were called out on two baskets in the second half, but they were never able to take the lead back. They scored 21 points on 15 rebounds and 9 assists.

Despite the decreased importance of the matchup, it still should be an excellent game.

Georgia Tech

The Yellow Jackets were making their second straight appearance in the ACC tournament, but they were unable to win their second straight game.

North Carolina

The Tar Heels appear to be peaking at the right time for the first time in years. Heading into Sunday's game against Duke, the Tar Heels have scored 12 straight wins, including a 90-70 victory over North Carolina with a 97-80 massacre.

With four statistical categories including 1.4 free throws, 5.0 field goal percentage, 6.0 assists, and 9.6 rebounds, the Tar Heels have consistently outscored their opponents.

Maryland

The Terps have a light week, and they have been impressive so far this season. They have scored 12 straight wins and 5-7 in the conference. Maryland has not played since Thursday night, but they are expected to return.

Karen Carlson's team has been impressive, and they have been able to score with relative ease.

Clemson

The Tigers host Georgia Tech tomorrow, and they are expected to win.

Deacon Notes

Sanchez Honored for Coaching

Wake Forest women's basketball coach Joe Sanchez has been named the ACC Coach of the Year. Sanchez, whose team has compiled a 26-5 overall record this season, has been honored in the ACC for the first time in his third year with the Deacons program.

Sanchez's team has been outstanding, and they have set new school records and the third-place finish in the ACC. The team has been able to perform well in multiple categories, including 1.4 free throws, 5.0 field goal percentage, 6.0 assists, and 9.6 rebounds.

As a result of their outstanding play, Sanchez's team has been invited to the NCAA tournament. The school has been able to perform well in multiple categories, including 1.4 free throws, 5.0 field goal percentage, 6.0 assists, and 9.6 rebounds.

Sanchez has also been named district coach of the year for the women's basketball American Basketball Association. He has an overall record of 229-99 and is currently ranked 19th in the ACC. Lynks, Bennie and the Jets Take Intramural Basketball Titles

By Bob Barker

Bennie and the Jets edged Hobo and the \textit{Jets} out of both the men's and women's intramural championships to take home the \textit{Old Gold} last night from the Swain Student Activity Center.

Bennie and the Jets won both tournaments in an exciting finish. The men's \textit{Jets} defeated the \textit{Bums} 61-58 to capture the men's intramural title. The \textit{Bums} were led by \textbf{Bob Sippel} with 20 points, including a 10-point second half. Bennie and the Jets were led by \textbf{Sid DuBose} with 24 points and \textbf{Teresa Sanchez} with 15 points.

The women's \textit{Jets} defeated the \textit{Cavs} 33-25 to win the women's IM title. Bennie and the Jets were led by \textbf{Cal Boyd} of the \textit{Cats} with 10 points and \textbf{Teresa Sanchez} of the \textit{Jets} with 10 points.

The \textit{Jets} won both tournaments with a total score of 94 points in the men's tournament and 58 points in the women's tournament.

\textbf{Bob Sippel} commented on the men's tournament, "We came out strong in the first half and held off our opponents with strong defense. We were able to dominate the second half with our fast break and scoring opportunities."

\textbf{Teresa Sanchez} commented on the women's tournament, "We started strong in the first half and were able to hold off our opponents with our defense and rebounding."

The \textit{Jets} are looking forward to their upcoming games in the \textit{Old Gold} Tournament. They are scheduled to play against the \textit{Hobo} and the \textit{Cats} in the final round on Friday, March 16.
