New Faculty Members Bring Experience, Diversity to Classroom

By Kerri Ann Breslin
Faculty and Staff News

Wake Forest's new faculty members bring a great deal of experience and diversity to the university.

Mathematics

Karen Henderson is a new assistant in the department of mathematics. Henderson received her master's degree from Wake Forest in 1999. Before that, she received a bachelor's degree from the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga and a bachelor's degree in biology from Emory University in 1997. During her tenure at Emory, she worked on a grant that investigated the effect of yam extracts on cancerous cells. Henderson enjoys teaching and working on educational issues.

As Chair of the Student Senate, her goal is to be able to stimulate thought on issues that she believes are important. She also believes that the student body has a right to be heard.

Military Science

The department of military science has two new faculty members, Capt. Thomas B. Dalton and Capt. Matthew W. Smith. They were interviewed and have been selected for the positions.

Positions Remain Unfilled After Tuesday's Elections

By Scott Guern

The buds have been called, and election nights for Honor Council, Student senate and Student Legislative are underway. Several positions have not been set, however, due to a lack of candidates.

The student vote for Honor Council positions include Robert Lifer, President, and Student Senate positions include President, the Speaker of the Senate, and Secretary of the Senate. The Student Legislative positions will be appointed to people in those positions.

The Student Senate plans to elect three Senate council members Tuesday from a group of 20 candidates. Karen Clark was with 117 votes and will be joined by Thomas E. Smith and James Lang, who received 110 and 112 votes, respectively.

In the decision for student senate, the entire student body voted on four candidates and all received a majority of the votes. The final decision will be made on the basis of the students' vote.

The candidates were interviewed by the Student Senate. For the Student Legislative position, the SLC will appoint the co-chair candidates and the first and second alternates to the Committee on Nominations of the Board of Trustees. The committee will make the final decision on which of the three candidates will be on the board.

Overbay won with 239 votes, followed by Paxton Helms with 244 and Allison Verrier with 221 votes.

Bowlam Gray Prepares for Construction of New Center

The Bowman Gray/Baptist Hospital Medical Center is preparing for the construction of a new Emission Tomography Center in the Magnetic Resonance Apartments and Satellites on the campus of Bowman Gray/Baptist Hospital. The center is expected to be completed in the spring of 1990.

The center, which will be located on the fourth floor of the Magnet Resonance Apartments and Satellites, will house the PET (positron emission tomography) scanner, which is used to produce images of the body's structures and functions. The scanner uses a radioactive tracer to produce images of the body's internal structures, allowing doctors to see what's happening inside the body without the need for surgery or invasive procedures.

The center will be used for research and clinical applications, providing physicians with valuable information about the body's structure and functions. The center will also be used to train medical staff in the use of the PET scanner and to conduct research on new treatments for disease.

The construction of the new center is a significant development for the Bowman Gray/Baptist Hospital Medical Center, as it will provide the hospital with a state-of-the-art facility for the diagnosis and treatment of disease. The center will be an important resource for researchers and physicians, allowing them to conduct important research and provide the best possible care to their patients.

The construction of the new center is expected to be completed in the spring of 1990, and it will be a significant addition to the Bowman Gray/Baptist Hospital Medical Center's facilities.

The PET device that produces radioactive elements occurring within the body.

According to Dr. C. Douglas Maynard,
In PET, like other nuclear medicine studies, it utilizes radioactive emissions as patients' tissues take up, metabolize and clear the vital elements.

To make this possible, researchers use tiny amounts of radioactive material that are injected into the body. These substances are known as radiopharmaceuticals, and they are used in PET scans to help doctors see what's happening inside the body.

PET is particularly useful in the diagnosis of certain types of cancer, as it can help doctors see how much of the body is affected by the disease. It can also be used to detect brain abnormalities, such as those associated with Alzheimer's disease.

In addition to its use in medical research, PET is also used in the field of forensics, where it can be used to help solve crimes. For example, PET scans can be used to help locate hidden evidence, such as drugs or weapons.

PET is a powerful tool in the fight against disease, and it is expected to play an increasingly important role in the future of medicine.

Who Ya' Gonna Call?
Students Expressates with Messages

By Jenny Vasquez

Sitting in an audioroom last week, students recorded greetings for their answering machines. They have several options when it comes to choosing an appropriate greeting.

"When your answering machine says, 'Hello, this is Karen. I'm out,' someone is going to say, 'Why isn't she answering the phone?'" said Roberta Olney, a junior at Wake Forest University. "I think it's better to have a conversation with your answering machine.""}

Olney is not alone in her opinion. Many students feel that their answering machines have become a way to express their personality. "It's like a way to let people know that you're here," said Olney. "And it's also a way to let people know that you're not taking yourself too seriously.""}

However, there are those who believe that answering machines are becoming too personal. "I think it's just too much," said Olney. "I mean, I don't want people knowing that I'm out every day.""}

Despite the debate, many students continue to record new greetings. "I like to change my greeting every week," said Olney. "I think it's fun to see what kind of reactions I get.""}

Others, however, prefer to keep their greetings consistent. "I don't like to change my greeting," said Olney. "I think it's just too much trouble.""}

Regardless of their opinion, students do agree on one thing: answering machines are a part of their daily lives. "I don't know what I would do without my answering machine," said Olney. "It's like a best friend.""}

So next time you hear an interesting greeting, remember that it's just another way for students to express themselves.
Declare War on ARA: Take No Prisoners

on court properly pleased? Why are there never enough custodians at hand? Why is there never enough money to pay them? Why has the garbage been piling up on the porch the last two days? Why do we have to go to the student center to use the O'Keefe fitness center? Why is our very own student center turned into a bower for pigeons? Why are there never enough custodians to keep the halls clean and the garbage removed? Why do I have to stand outside in the pouring rain while the students indoors are only a little bit wetter? And why are there never enough custodians to deal with this situation?

Of course, the reason for these problems is that the Wake Forest administration is not capable of running this institution properly. If we had more custodians, the halls would be clean and the garbage removed. If we had more custodians, the O'Keefe fitness center would be open at all hours. If we had more custodians, the student center would be turned into a championship-winning sports complex instead of a bower for pigeons.

In light of these facts, I hereby declare war on the Wake Forest administration. We will take no prisoners. We will not negotiate. We will not bow down to their demands. We will not back down. We will take the fight to them. We will not rest until they are forced to do the right thing. We will not rest until they have been forced to hire more custodians to deal with these problems.

This is not a game. This is a war. We will not be satisfied until the Wake Forest administration has been forced to do the right thing. We will not be satisfied until they have been forced to hire more custodians to deal with these problems. We will not be satisfied until they have been forced to improve the student center. We will not be satisfied until they have been forced to improve the O'Keefe fitness center. We will not be satisfied until they have been forced to provide better custodians.

We will not stop until we have declared war on the Wake Forest administration and we will take no prisoners. We will not negotiate. We will not bow down to their demands. We will not back down. Cash Flow, Not Oil Flow, Is Real Issue in Middle East Crisis

President Bush may have struck some key note in this week's speech to the Congress, but the problem of keeping the Middle East from getting the "oil" it needs to keep the West from getting a recession is far from being solved. The solution is not easy, and the President himself seems to understand that. He said he would like to strike a balance between "major powers" and "small" or "weak" countries in the Middle East, and that both sides would have to be appeased in order to keep the peace. However, this is easier said than done, as the Middle East is a complex and volatile region that has been a source of tension for many years.

The problem is not just about oil, but also about other resources such as water, food, and energy. The Middle East is one of the world's most water-scarce regions, and the conflict over water is a major source of tension. The region also faces significant energy problems, with limited access to oil and gas resources. In addition, the region is facing significant food shortages due to climate change and political instability.

The solution to this problem is not easy. It requires cooperation and compromise among the major powers involved, including the United States, Iran, Israel, and Saudi Arabia. It also requires a commitment to addressing the root causes of the conflict, such as poverty, unemployment, and political instability. The United States and other major powers need to work together to find a way to address these issues and to help the people of the Middle East.

In the meantime, the United States should continue to support programs that promote stability and development in the region. This includes supporting democratic reforms, promoting human rights, and assisting in the fight against terrorism. By working together, we can help to ensure that the Middle East remains a stable and prosperous region for all.

Let's admit it, the middle of the semester is the part where papers finish due, tests come, and deadlines abound. The busiest time of year! It is during this time that people usually lose their resolve when it comes to their college education.

I know I have personally been what you could call a "student slacker," and I am not alone. I have been AWOL from work, and I lost my book order. I was unable to complete my homework and I have been going to the gym less frequently. It seems that the excitement of the beginning of the semester has worn off, and I need a little motivation to get back on track.

To get back on track, I think it is important to remember why we are in college. Many of us have struggled with the idea of why we are in college, and what we are going to do with our degree. It is easy to get distracted by the immediate pressures of life and the demands of college, but it is important to remember the long-term goals we have set for ourselves.

One way to get back on track is to do a "check-in" with yourself. What are your long-term goals? What do you want to accomplish with your college education? What is your ultimate career goal? By doing this, you can get a better sense of why you are in college, and what you are working towards.

Another way to get back on track is to reach out for help. This could be a classmate, a mentor, or a tutor. Many of us struggle with certain subjects, and it is important to ask for help if we need it. Don't be afraid to reach out and ask for help - it is a sign of strength, not weakness.

Finally, it is important to remember that change is inevitable. We all have ups and downs, and it is normal to feel frustrated at times. But with the right mindset, we can get back on track and back to the business of college.

The key is to stay motivated and focused. It is easy to get distracted, but it is important to remember why we are in college and what we are working towards. With the right mindset and a little motivation, we can get back on track and be successful in college.

Stark Leads Offensive Attack in 4-0 Whitewashing of Campbell
As Demon Deacons Snap Two-Game Losing Streak with Victory

By Susan Bellfors

The men’s soccer team stopped a two-game losing streak with a dominating 4-0 victory over Campbell University on Wednesday night at J.C. Smith Stadium. The Demon Deacons are now 7-3-0 overall and 4-0-0 in ACC play.

Stark filled the void left by the departure of leading goal scorer, and heads into the game with 13 goals and 4 assists. His goal was his second of the season, putting him in the national lead for goals scored. Stark has more goals than any other player in the ACC this season.

Chyzowych had four shots on goal, including two in the second half. He is currently tied for the team lead with 12 shots attempted this season.

The Demon Deacons went on to score three more goals in the second half, including a goal from Johnson, a junior midfielder, who made the score 4-0 in the 80th minute. Johnson’s goal was the first of the night for the Demon Deacons.

Chyzowych also scored his second goal on a free kick, giving him three goals on the season. His third goal of the night came on a penalty kick in the 90th minute, giving the Demon Deacons a 5-0 victory.

Field Hockey Team Beats High Point

By Bob Nelson

The Wolfpack field hockey team defeated High Point University on Wednesday afternoon at Campus Field. The final score was 1-0.

The Demon Deacons had 21 shots on goal, as compared to 11 for High Point. They recorded six corners, while High Point had two. The Demon Deacons were able to use their shots to go ahead early in the game.

With only 1:28 left in the first half, the Demon Deacons scored their only goal of the game. Junior midfielder Anna Johnson scored on an assist from senior forward Nga McNamara.

Johnson’s goal was the first of the season for the Demon Deacons. It gave them a 1-0 lead heading into halftime.

The defense continued to play well against the Wolfpack, giving up only two shots on goal. They were able to hold High Point scoreless for the remainder of the game.

The Demon Deacons are now 5-2-0 overall and 3-0-0 in ACC play. They will look to continue their winning streak when they face Florida State on Sunday afternoon at J.C. Smith Stadium.

Clemson Tigers

Clemson (3-1-1) has a non-conference date Sunday at 1 p.m. when Appalachian State (2-3) invades Memorial Stadium for the 1990 version of their annual enmity. Clemson head coach Ken Hubbs is savvily handling the dual responsibilities of head coach and offensive coordinator and doing a masterful job of getting the Tigers ready for the rigors of the ACC and the ACC gauntlet.

Last week, the 1990 Tigers figured to challenge the Virginias. Hubbs was not wrong in that assessment. The Tigers had a few tough breakers. However, Hubbs was the only coach to say no to the ACC.

Clemson played catch-up through the first half and then played their usual brand of defense, a relentless style that is sure to impress the ACC.

By Mike Fitzgerald

Wake Forest (6-2) and Louisville (7-0) have been the two teams in the ACC to watch this season. The Demon Deacons have taken the ACC's crown for the past three years and are currently second in the ACC behind the Cardinals.

Wake Forest's quarterback, Dave Zolak, has been one of the conference's top quarterbacks. He has completed 135 of 213 passes for 1,731 yards and 17 touchdowns. Zolak's running ability adds another dimension to Wake Forest's offense.

The Demon Deacons have been led by their defense, which has allowed only 129 points in 12 games. They are led by defensive end Mark Shelhamer, who has 12 sacks this season. Shelhamer is a key player in the Demon Deacons' defense, which ranks second in the ACC in total defense.

The Tigers will face a tough challenge in Wake Forest, but they are looking to prove they can compete with the conference's top teams. The game will be an indication of where the Tigers stand in the ACC.

Louisville Cardinals

Last week, the 1990 Cardinals were held to 10 points by the Wake Forest Demon Deacons. The Cardinals' offense, led by quarterback Lamar Jackson, had a difficult time against Wake Forest's defense.

The Cardinals' defense, led by linebacker John Randle, has been solid all season. Randle has 107 tackles, including 13 tackles for loss, this season. He has been a key player in the Cardinals' defense, which ranks third in the ACC in total defense.

This week, the Cardinals face a tough challenge in Wake Forest. The Cardinals are looking to bounce back from last week's loss and prove they can compete with the conference's top teams. The game will be a key indicator of where the Cardinals stand in the ACC.

Penthouse's Prediction of Doom and Gloom

By Mike Fitzgerald

Penthouse is a popular men's magazine that covers entertainment, sports, and lifestyle topics. This week, Penthouse's editors have predicted the doom and gloom of the Clemson Tigers' football season.

The Tigers have started off the season strong, with a 3-1 record. However, the editors predict that the Tigers will struggle in the second half of the season and will finish with a losing record of 5-6.

The editors point out that the Tigers' defense has been inconsistent, allowing too many points to opposing teams. They also note that the Tigers' offense has not been able to score enough points to overcome their defensive shortcomings.

Penthouse predicts that the Tigers will lose their next three games, starting with a loss to the Louisville Cardinals. The editors believe that the Cardinals will be too strong for the Tigers and will take advantage of their defensive weaknesses.

The editors also predict that the Tigers will lose their final two games of the season, against Wake Forest and Virginia. They believe that Wake Forest and Virginia are too strong for the Tigers and will be able to take advantage of their defensive weaknesses.

The Tigers will have a tough season, but the editors believe that they have the talent to compete with the conference's top teams. The Tigers will need to improve their defense and offense to have any chance of finishing with a winning record.

On: Wake Forest's President Thomas Stark Comes Back After Injury

After a six-month layoff due to a severe knee injury, Wake Forest's top soccer player, Deacon John Stark, finally returned to the field. Stark's injury was a significant setback for the Demon Deacons, who were already struggling to find consistency in their lineup. However, Stark's return has been a game-changer, providing much-needed depth and experience on the field.

Stark's injury occurred during a match against Duke, where he was substituted due to a knee injury. Despite undergoing a lengthy rehabilitation process, Stark was determined to return to the field as soon as possible. His return has been welcomed by his teammates and coaches, who have been impressed by his work ethic and determination.

Stark's return has positively impacted the team's performance, particularly in their recent match against Duke. The Demon Deacons emerged victorious, with Stark making a significant contribution to the team's success. His return has provided an extra layer of experience and skill on the field, which has helped the team to regain their momentum and compete at a higher level.

Stark's love for the game and his passion for scoring goals remain as strong as ever. His return has not only brought joy to his teammates and fans, but it has also demonstrated his commitment to the sport and his team. Stark's story is a testament to perseverance and determination, inspiring others to push through challenges and never give up on their dreams.
George Michael's New Album Demonstrates Increased Maturity

By REBECCA TAYLOR
Assistant Arts & Entertainment Editor

After the blockbuster success of his 1987 album "Faith," George Michael found a dilemma that has plagued the likes of Prince and Bruce Springsteen: how to follow up a smash hit. The only way to do it was with an even bigger hit, says Michael, and he delivered with the Mouth and MacNeal's hit single, "Faith." The album topped the charts and sold over 10 million copies worldwide.

George Michael's new album, "Faith," has been hailed as a masterpiece in its own right. It is a collection of ten songs that showcase Michael's growth as an artist and his ability to craft a cohesive album with strong hooks and catchy melodies.

The album kicks off with the title track, "Faith," which is a pop anthem that explores themes of love, devotion, and commitment. The song features a driving beat and a catchy chorus that will undoubtedly become a new club classic.

The second single, "Freedom! '90," is a dance-floor filler that will have fans dancing in the streets. The song is a celebration of freedom and youth, with a driving beat and a pulsating rhythm that is impossible to resist.

Other standout tracks include "Value," a soulful ballad that explores the theme of self-worth and the value of people in society. The song features a beautiful vocal performance from Michael, and it is a true highlight of the album.

"What's Love Got to Do with It?" is a driving rock song that explores the highs and lows of relationships. The song features a driving guitar riff and a powerful vocal performance from Michael, and it is a true testament to his ability to craft a memorable rock anthem.

Overall, "Faith" is a landmark album that will go down in history as one of the greatest pop albums of all time. George Michael has once again proven that he is one of the most talented and versatile artists in the business, and this album is a true masterpiece that will be enjoyed by fans for generations to come.

Met Singer To Perform In Brendle

By JENNIFER VENDERS
Multimedia

Kris Kross, a 1990 winner of the Metropolitan Opera Auditions, will take the part of the Count in the opera "Le Nozze"

Brendle will open the program with two sets of pianistic ideas. First, an important composition, "Harlequin," and will follow with a broad range of works including the contemporary "Cymbal Songs," by Benjamin Britten.

With the Boston Opera Company, in Madison, Wisc., Kross has sung the title role in "Manon," "Romeo and Juliet," and "La Fille Mal Gardée," among others.

"I was surprised at the clarity of the orchestra," Hendrickson said. "The title role was a difficult one to play, and it's been a great season."
