The campus welcome was an extraordinary new event for Wake Forest. As the Class of '85 arrived at a week early and experienced a orientation period, the campus became more than a place of the assemblage of multitude of things that fell to all our worldly belongings into one room. This year's orientation was more than in previous years, and was the best ever.

Changes take place over vacation

One of the more exciting growths of the summer was the air-conditioned waiting room, a new feature that is expected to turn a few heads in the Department of Public Safety. When existing waiting rooms, which are heated, can be turned into an air-conditioned waiting room, the campus will have 17,000 more square feet of space.

The air-conditioned waiting room is a two-story, double-height space, which can accommodate 200 to 300 people. It is connected to the main building by a new set of elevators. The room is designed to provide a comfortable waiting area for students who are on campus during the summer months.

To defray the cost of the extension of the campus, the University is offering a new option for students who are unable to pay the full tuition. The new option is called the "Summer Pay Plan," and it allows students to pay a portion of the tuition in advance. The payment schedule is flexible, and students can choose to pay in equal installments over the course of the summer. This option is available to all students who are on campus during the summer months.

dent violators' wallets

One of the changes that will be noticed on campus is the new parking regulations. The old system of giving students a parking permit for the semester has been replaced with a pay-as-you-go system. Students will now be charged $2.50 per day for parking, with a maximum charge of $7. The new system will make it more difficult for students to park illegally.

Convocation features Rev. Groves

By DISNEY SCRIBNER

The opening Convocation, a D-Day event for Wake Forest, occurred at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, September 2. The event, attended by students, faculty, and staff, was a celebration of the start of the new academic year. The Convocation was presided over by Rev. John W. Groves, the new president of Wake Forest University.

During Convocation, the President of Wake Forest University, Dr. John W. Groves, delivered the annual Convocation address. The address was titled "The Convocation Address: A Year of Change and Transformation." Groves spoke about the importance of change and transformation in higher education, and emphasized the need for Wake Forest University to embrace these concepts in order to remain relevant and competitive.

Groves also spoke about the importance of community and collaboration in the university. He emphasized the need for students, faculty, and staff to work together to create a campus culture that is inclusive, supportive, and welcoming.

The Convocation also featured guest speakers, including the Chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Dr. Carol Folt, and the President of the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, Dr. Mary C. Grant.

The Convocation concluded with a benediction by the president of the board of trustees, Dr. John R. Upton.

The Convocation was attended by thousands of students, faculty, and staff, and was broadcast live on campus and online. The event was a celebration of the start of a new academic year at Wake Forest University, and a call to action for all members of the community to work together to create a campus culture that is inclusive, supportive, and welcoming.
University Relations Office welcomes new staff

Four Wake Forest University alumni have joined the professional staff in the Office for University Relations. New staff members are: Elizabeth Bass, prospect research/gift stewardship activities officer; James Bullard, assistant director of alumni activities and annual giving; and Kay Semones Lord, director of special events.

Bass received her B.A. degree from Wake Forest in 1983 with a major in economics. During her undergraduate years, she served as a resident advisor and library assistant. An active member of SYM'S Women, she held the offices of vice president, social chairperson, and treasurer. Bass will be responsible for overseeing major donor prospecting.

Another 1983 graduate of Wake Forest, Bullard received his B.A. degree with a double major in history and sports economics. In his senior year, Bullard served as president of the Student Government Association and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. In his new position, he will coordinate the Wake Forest civic network, serve as advisor to the Student Alumni Council, and assist with Reunion/Instructor planning.

Class of 1984 honoree and Wake Forest graduate, Lord received her B.A. degree with a major in English. She will be responsible for development projects, preparing brochures, editing newsletters and overseeing the preparation of other written materials for the Office for University Relations. As an undergraduate, she served as managing editor of the Old Gold and Black. While graduating, Christen worked as a first-year writing assistant for freshmen. Lord will initiate the Senior Class Campaign and continue the Student Alumni Council activities along with the numerous parent and student groups who will also be responsible for development projects.

The Department of Public Safety desires to assure the university community and its visitors. We want your experience to be safe and secure. In order to accomplish this goal, we have a number of initiatives underway to ensure the safety of the campus and its residents.

The Old Gold and Black staff would like to thank Teresa Brown and her staff for their patience and understanding this past week.

CAMPUS CRIME STOPPERS

The Wake Forest University campus is a relatively safe place to live and visit. However, as in any community, crime prevention should be a concern.

1. Keep your valuables unattended, such as a car, a purse, or a wallet.
2. When walking at night, use well-lit areas. If possible, do not walk alone.
3. Always lock your vehicle when you leave it. Even if all valuables are left to right in your vehicle. Remember.
4. Do not prop locked residence hall door open.
5. Lock your door every four times you have moved in this length of your place to be gone. Many thefts have occurred while the student was gone in the bathroom.
6. Encrypt all valuables in your student's dorm room and lock all door with a steel door.

Ideals are obviously the lifeblood of a provocative learning atmosphere. It is both the student's goal and the professors' job to remind us of that and to keep a proper perspective.

At any sea, we have many narratives, whether they be through the dean, and additional sources for reference illustrating how we have

As a classroom group leader at the level of the Dean, we are very impressed that you have identified an area that is not often recognized, but is very important. The problem is that this area is often overlooked.

It is important to have a sense of the old and new, and to understand the goals and objectives. We all understand that goals can change from time to time.

Freshmen introduced with expanded agenda

By Brian Ellison

Wake Forest launched its new orientation and advising system last week as the culmination of three years of research and planning, headed by the Executive Committee for Lower Division Advising, chaired by Professor Gene Byers.

Within the new system, each freshman will be assigned to one of seventy-one advising teams designed to give freshmen the advantages of interaction and advising, while lessening the responsibilities teams operated, and the experiences of the advisors and students in these were the basis of the new system, instead of the old system, which comprised a large group of freshmen as a whole.

The new advising system is the result of efforts to devise a new system and put it in place last year as the result of research and planning, while lessening the responsibilities of the advisors and students in these.

The new system, instead of the old system, which comprised a large group of freshmen as a whole, has been put in place last year as the result of research and planning, while lessening the responsibilities of the advisors and students in these.

Tobacco chewing: Truth or consequence?

Tobacco chewing has become a regular pastime among college students. A recent survey at the University of Massachusetts-Amherst found that 88 percent of the students who chew tobacco have tried to quit but have not been successful. The survey also found that those who chew tobacco are more likely to remain smokers than those who do not.

Could students chew tobacco in the dorms like doughnuts by popular demand? Many students who chew tobacco argue that tobacco chewing poses no more health risk than eating doughnuts. They claim that tobacco chewing is a harmless habit that does not pose any health risk.

Could it be that the philosophy behind tobacco chewing is even more harmful than the tobacco itself?

In the past several months there has been much discussion of tobacco chewing. Many people have argued that tobacco chewing should be prohibited on college campuses. This opinion has been based on the argument that tobacco chewing is more harmful than smoking.

Cinema Pub Movies get new twist

By DOROTHY MURR

Entertainment Editor

Movies are often marketed as a way to entertain, but Cinema Pub, a new student-run theater at Wake Forest University, offers a different kind of movie-going experience. The pub, which opened in September, features a rotating selection of films, each accompanied by food and drink specials.

The pub's atmosphere is designed to be relaxed and informal, with comfortable seating and a casual setting. The menu offers a variety of options, including pizza, sandwiches, and snacks like nachos and popcorn.

Movie selections are curated by the pub's staff, who choose films that they believe will appeal to a wide range of tastes. The pub also hosts special events, such as film screenings of classic films like "The Godfather" and "Casablanca.

"Our goal is to create a space where students can come together to enjoy a good movie in a comfortable setting," said Cinema Pub's manager. "We want to offer something different from the typical movie theater experience."

Tacy resigns as basketball coach

Wake Forest University, Winston-Salem, N.C.

Monday, September 2, 1985

Tacy, the second-winningest coach at Wake Forest history behind Murray Goodman, is resigning to accept the coaching job at Texas A&M."

The announcement was made by Carl Tacy, the director of Wake Forest sports, and President Thomas K. Staat.

"It's been a very difficult decision for me to make," Tacy said in a press conference today. "But after careful thought and discussion with my family, I have decided to accept the Texas A&M offer." He added that he is looking forward to taking the team to the next level and helping them win a national championship.

The decision marks the end of a 28-year coaching career at Wake Forest, where Tacy has won over 400 games. He was named the ACC Coach of the Year four times and led the Deacons to the NCAA Tournament twice.

"Carl Tacy has done a tremendous job for Wake Forest," President Staat said. "He has been a great asset to our university and community." He added that Tacy had been at Wake Forest for 28 years and had brought much success to the program.

Tacy, who was named the ACC Coach of the Year in 1999, was also named the ACC Coach of the Year in 1981, 1982, and 1983.

"Carl Tacy is a great coach and a great person," Staat said. "He will be missed, but we wish him all the best in his future endeavors.

"I am deeply grateful to the Wake Forest basketball community for their support," Tacy said. "I have enjoyed every moment of my time at Wake Forest and will always be a Deacon.

"I am looking forward to the next chapter of my coaching career," Tacy added. "I will continue to support Wake Forest and its athletes, and I look forward to watching them succeed in the years to come."

This will mark the 20th meeting of the two teams. The series is deadlocked at 9-9-1. William and Mary captured the first meeting between the two teams in 1921, 21-14. However, they have not won in Groves Stadium since 1974.

Last year's meeting ended in a 34-21 victory for the Deacons as Michael Ramseur crossed the end line four times en route to tying a school record. But to match Ramseur's offense, Indian quarterback Stan Yagiello passed for 323 yards. He compiled 234 yards in the first half, but was only able to manage 69 yards in the second half as the Deacon defense rose to the occasion and tallied five quarterback sacks. Two of those were by Gary Baldinger.

Although overshadowed by Yagiello's aerial bombardment, Foystone was an impressive 19 of 26 for 210 yards. Wake Forest is 7-6 in home openers thus far. This marks the 16th consecutive home opener for the Deacons, whose last away opener was a loss to Nebraska in 1970. The two teams have met before in openings back in 1953 and 1956 with each team taking one game.

Head coach Al Groh is optimistic heading into this season's opener, as he explained during his weekly press conference on Monday. First, the team's confidence is solidified: "They know they can play good football," Groh said.

Consistency from last year is also an important factor, in that the players and coaches have gotten to know each other better. Finally, the return of White gives a stability of leadership to the team. Everyone knows who he is and "his ability to perform in the clutch last year has boosted his confidence," Groh added.

Besides White, the Deacon backfield will be energized by the return of Michael Ramseur, the ACC's leading rusher last year, and Topper Clemons. Ramseur needs just over 1350 yards to become Wake Forest's all-time leading rusher. On the other side, Clemons checks in the eighth all time Deacon runner.

While generating points on the board will be a fine corps of pass receivers. Senior Kevin Wieczorek returns at the tight end spot. Starting at split end will be junior James Brim. Brim is the squad's top receiver this year and if tradition is upheld he will fare well in the season's opener.

During his freshman year against Appalachian State, he grabbed three passes for 56 yards, including a 39 yard touchdown. Last year against Virginia Tech he was on the recieving end of five passes for 55 yards.

At the flanker position will be junior David Chambers. Backing up these two receivers will be Wes Stauffer and David Braxton. Another receiver that could see action tomorrow is sophomore Greg Scales.

Last year versus the Indians he caught all-ACC preseason choice Gary Baldinger is shown here sacking Stan Yagiello of William and Mary in last year's game.
The Deacon Defense will be looking to another opposing team this year. Although there are some new faces, many veterans are also returning.

five passes for 58 yards and was named the ACC rookie player of the week.

Protecting the backfield will be "The Hogs." Returning on the left side are tackle Tim Morrison and guard Paul Kiser. However, the center of the front line has had little playing time. They are center Brian Paschal, right guard Paul Mann and right tackle Mike Rice.

On the other side of the ball is the strong Deacon defense. The "Long Island Exchange" of defensive ends Bruce Mark, preseason ACC all-defense Gary Baldinger and linebacker Tony Garenczy anchor the defense. Completing the front line will be nose guard Randall Singleton.

Getting the start tomorrow in the linebacker positions will be senior Tony Scott (a starter in 1984), junior Steve Lambert, who saw much time last year, and sophomore Joe Walker.

One of the most dangerous players in the ACC belongs to Wake Forest. Returning to their positions this year are strong safety Ken Graham and free safety Reggie McCallum. On the corners will be two newcomers, Warren Smith and Marvin Young.

"We feel very solid about our secondary," Grub said. "We have the most speed that we could put out there at one time."

Finally, the kicking game is somewhat questionable. Returning to do the placekicking is Doug Illing, and although he managed to drill some long field goals last year, his inconsistency hurt the Deacons.

Freshman Marvin Bailey will be handling the punting chores this year. He replaces Harry Newsome who is now embarking on a professional career with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

The Tribe, under the command of Herb Laycock, comes off a 6-5 year with 13 returning starters. They will operate in the "I" formation on offense and present a 3-4 defense to the Deacon offense.

The offense of William and Mary will be sparked by the combination of Yatiello to Ron Gilliam. Also returning to the offense is Michael Clemons. The Tribe's top back, Merrit Gibson, injured himself in the spring.

On the defense, key returnees are veteran middle linebacker Dave Pocta and strong safety Todd Leeson. Lott Sheppard ISC.
