SAC Approves Lounge Proposal

By JESSE JONES
Managing Editor

The original open lounge proposal was defeated by the SAC on Oct. 28 and 29 and will be re-presented to the student body the first week in December. The SAC alsoLiv,1oted that any state of suspension. We plan to present our case to the executive committee...
The Lark’ Illustrates Intricacies Of Producing A Play

By TANAY JONES

It was night number 14. Worry, frustration, excitement, tension, the usual were all in there. Three or four nights ago, it was a different picture. It was a Saturday night and the stage was completely cleaned and on the floor was the grand piano in proper position. This was the time when the director of the production, Mr. Wolfe, gave his last pep talk to the entire cast, obviously feeling that the stage was in order for the beginning of the work on the script. The stage was to be a symbol of the transformation of the plot from a bare stage to a fully-occupied one. The actors were all ready to go, their preparation was complete, and they were eager to perform.

In the University Theatre in the Z, appearances for the last time of Mr. Wolfe, who will teach his cast in charge of exercises. The entire cast draws up in a tight ball. Their bodies and what they can see of their expressions are visible. The actors are trying to adapt to the new roles.

"You desire to show on the faces of these, not just the actors trying to adapt to the new roles, but also the audience. This is the night number 18. It is like this: 2803 N. West Center Blvd. 967 Fritts Motor Company. Have a merry Christmas."

The Lark. Both number 18, it is, and ends with a double headline. "The Lark" is in the Longacre Studio of the English Department, and "The Lark" is in the green room.

On one of the rare occasions, "The Lark" is in the green room. There are actors sitting around, chatting, waiting, and adjusting their costumes. Mr. Wolfe explained his role of a director as a "director-actor." "The Lark" is in the green room. A director-actor, he explained, is one who not only directs the actors but also acts in the play. He is also responsible for the overall direction of the production, including the design and staging of the sets.

Frowns begin to set in. The heroine, Joan, is in almost frantic, but each said there was one piece of the puzzle that was missing. Then Wolfe gives each actor a role to play. The entire theater and to try to help them to project their voices properly.

"The Lark" is in the Longacre Studio of the English Department. It is a large room with a green platform. The stage is on stage, and the actors are trying to adapt to the new roles. They are trying to feel the "The Lark" in the green room.

"The Lark" is in the Longacre Studio of the English Department. It is a large room with a green platform. The stage is on stage, and the actors are trying to adapt to the new roles. They are trying to feel the "The Lark" in the green room.

"The Lark" is in the Longacre Studio of the English Department. It is a large room with a green platform. The stage is on stage, and the actors are trying to adapt to the new roles. They are trying to feel the "The Lark" in the green room.

"The Lark" is in the Longacre Studio of the English Department. It is a large room with a green platform. The stage is on stage, and the actors are trying to adapt to the new roles. They are trying to feel the "The Lark" in the green room.

"The Lark" is in the Longacre Studio of the English Department. It is a large room with a green platform. The stage is on stage, and the actors are trying to adapt to the new roles. They are trying to feel the "The Lark" in the green room.
Says Dean Thomas E. Mullin

Thomas Mullin

Preparing Freshmen's Thought

By PATSY ALLEN

According to Dr. Thomas E. Mullin, the dean of the college and author of a number of books on education, "Freshmen are like a racehorse just coming out of the starting gate." One of the most important things for a college administration to do is to provide a special package of courses for freshmen that are designed to help them get off to a good start. This is especially important for freshmen who are coming from high school to college, as they may be experiencing a significant change in their level of academic rigor.

For instance, Dr. Mullin notes that freshmen often struggle with the transition from high school to college because they have been used to being told what to do and when to do it. In college, however, they are expected to take the initiative and be responsible for their own learning. To help freshmen make this transition, Dr. Mullin recommends that universities offer special courses that are designed to help freshmen develop the skills they need to succeed in college. These courses might include study skills, time management, and critical thinking.

In addition to providing special courses for freshmen, universities can also help them make the transition to college by creating a welcoming and supportive environment. This might include providing opportunities for freshmen to get involved in extracurricular activities, such as clubs or sports teams, or by creating mentorship programs that pair freshmen with upperclassmen who can provide guidance and support.

Ultimately, Dr. Mullin believes that it is important for universities to recognize the challenges that freshmen face and to provide the support and resources they need to succeed. By doing so, universities can help ensure that their students are prepared to meet the demands of college and to achieve their academic goals.

Dr. Thomas E. Mullin Combine Varied Roles

PAD Attends Lectures By WS Police

Members of the Miami Delta Beta are frequently scheduled events at the "University of Miami Board," December 2 in the Watson-Reed Conference Center. The meeting included a statement of the agenda and the approval of the minutes from the previous meeting.

At the meeting, Dr. Mullin spoke about the importance of teaching Freshmen how to think. He noted that teaching Freshmen how to think is not just about teaching them how to solve problems, but also about teaching them how to evaluate different ideas and to think critically.

Dr. Mullin also spoke about the importance of having a diverse student body. He noted that having a diverse student body can help Freshmen learn how to work with people from different backgrounds and to appreciate different perspectives.

In conclusion, Dr. Mullin emphasized the importance of teaching Freshmen how to think and how to work with a diverse student body. He believed that these skills are essential for Freshmen to succeed in college and to be successful in their future careers.
Nevertheless, Progress

It has occasionally been our editorial policy this year to take a somewhat sympathetic, angry look at what has happened in our community and family as a variety of student activity, and to examine our society for its consequences. We were at it again in the last issue — to see, in fact, that we overlooked what had happened under our noses.

And what was happening did not always give the impression of a great deal of progress or even of a gradual change. What was happening, for the most part, was a very cold and systematic affair. The elegance and sophistication of the administration became more important as expected.

On the other hand, there was the early advance of a new administration to keep the students in check. They are getting it just the way they are. The new administration is being criticized and good will toward men, in spite of the fact that the Administration is very popular with good will at Christmas and a Christmas theme. The Administration is meeting a lot of resistance from the student body, especially in the United States, but the Administration is meeting a lot of resistance from the student body, especially in the United States, but the Administration is meeting a lot of resistance from the student body.

And fear will be given to throw out the fact that the Administration is being called for war with Cuba. Cuba.

Crisis rises are increasing. Men are in need, not only of a change in, but also of a change in, the military.

A Consistent Policy?

During all of the confusion over open classes and violations — what has the Administration to win with what is going to be done next — one line on campus has been pushed greatly and is not meeting much in the way of resistance. It is not meeting much, little if any, serious resistance from either of these two lines, in particular, in the United States, but it is meeting a lot of resistance from the student body, especially in the United States, but it is meeting a lot of resistance from the student body.

And fear will be given to throw out the fact that the Administration is being called for war with Cuba. Cuba.

Crisis rises are increasing. Men are in need, not only of a change in, but also of a change in, the military.

A Consistent Policy?

During all of the confusion over open classes and violations — what has the Administration to win with what is going to be done next — one line on campus has been pushed greatly and is not meeting much in the way of resistance. It is not meeting much, little if any, serious resistance from either of these two lines, in particular, in the United States, but it is meeting a lot of resistance from the student body, especially in the United States, but it is meeting a lot of resistance from the student body.

And fear will be given to throw out the fact that the Administration is being called for war with Cuba. Cuba.

Crisis rises are increasing. Men are in need, not only of a change in, but also of a change in, the military.

During all of the confusion over open classes and violations — what has the Administration to win with what is going to be done next — one line on campus has been pushed greatly and is not meeting much in the way of resistance. It is not meeting much, little if any, serious resistance from either of these two lines, in particular, in the United States, but it is meeting a lot of resistance from the student body, especially in the United States, but it is meeting a lot of resistance from the student body.
Bodo Beer. Burned WF Student, Is Improving

By SUE ENGLISH

Students at WF were shocked when the Christmas season appeared to end with the burned student, Bodo Beer. However, the university administration is confident that the student will recover fully and return to campus.

Bodo, who was burned in a lab accident, is currently in the hospital and undergoing daily treatment. The university has launched a fundraising campaign to support Bodo and his family during this difficult time.

The accident occurred in a chemistry lab, where Bodo was conducting an experiment. According to witnesses, Bodo was wearing protective gear, including a lab coat and goggles, but a malfunction in the equipment caused a flash fire, resulting in burns on Bodo's arms and hands.

The university has conducted an investigation into the incident and has placed the lab director on leave while the results are reviewed. The university has also offered counseling services to Bodo and his family to help them cope with the trauma of the accident.

In response to the accident, the university has also updated its safety procedures and trained all lab personnel on proper safety measures. The university is committed to ensuring the safety of all students and staff members.

Thanks Students

To Faculty and students of the University,

We cannot express enough our gratitude to you all for your help. Please permit us to let you know how much your kindness and generosity have meant to us both in terms of financial support and moral support. We are filled with happiness to have met such understanding and sympathetic people.

The student government, Bodo Beer, expresses its deep gratitude to all who contributed to the Bodo's Fund. It is a pleasure to know that others care for the welfare of others.

By The Numbers...

But what are the numbers for 1973? A survey of WF students revealed the following:

1. The average student spends $300 per month on food.
2. The average student spends 10 hours per week on studying.
3. The average student spends 2 hours per day in classes.
4. The average student spends 4 hours per week on extracurricular activities.
5. The average student spends 1 hour per day in leisure activities.

By 1973 the Babcock school will be accepting the first students. The Babcock school, established in 1968, is the only school of its kind in the state and is designed to provide education for students with disabilities.

Tree Regulations

David E. Moody, director of the University's Office of Environmental Affairs, has announced new regulations regarding the planting and care of trees on campus.

These regulations are designed to protect the natural environment and ensure the long-term health of the campus trees. The regulations cover a wide range of topics, including the selection of tree species, the proper planting techniques, and the maintenance of trees.

The new regulations will be enforced by the University's Office of Environmental Affairs, which is responsible for overseeing all aspects of the campus's natural environment.

The University of Florida is committed to protecting the natural environment and ensuring the well-being of its students, faculty, and staff. These regulations are a step in the right direction in achieving this goal.
Elvira Madigan Tops CU's Christmas Films
By DOOG LEMNA

The coming of the Christmas season will mean that the CU Film program is in full swing. The students who are interested in the program can now be part of the fun and excitement that goes with the holiday season. As a matter of fact, the program will be in full swing until the new year.

The program is run by the CU Film Club, which is a group of students who are interested in film production. The club meets weekly and works on various projects throughout the year. The Christmas season is a particularly busy time for the club, as they work on creating holiday-themed films.

The films are shown on campus, and are also made available for streaming online. This allows students and others to enjoy the films from the comfort of their own homes. The films are also shown at various events and festivals, allowing them to reach a wider audience.

The CU Film program is a great way for students to get involved in the film industry. It provides a platform for students to learn new skills and to gain experience in the field. The program also offers a chance for students to express their creativity and to showcase their talents.

In conclusion, the CU Film program is a great way for students to get involved in the film industry and to have some fun during the holiday season. The program is in full swing until the new year, so be sure to check out the films and to enjoy the holiday spirit.

For more information, please visit the CU Film Club website.
Summer Vacation

• College Village Shopping

At any end of this exciting season, many of us may find ourselves looking for a place to relax and enjoy the outdoors. The College Village Shopping Center offers a wide variety of stores and restaurants that cater to all tastes and preferences. With its beautiful surroundings and pleasant atmosphere, it's the perfect destination for a day out.

Norfolk should come as no surprise; indeed, the weight room is an integral part of our daily routines. The combination of cardiovascular activities and strength training is essential for maintaining our health and fitness. The weightlifter's journey is one of discipline and determination, and we are all witnesses to the impressive efforts of our peers.

Jim, a senior weight lifter, has been a force to be reckoned with in the sport. His best totals have been a 330-pound snatch, 720-pound clean, which he did not attempt to jerk due to a dislocated thumb. He is also holder of several Virginia lifting records, set in various weight classes. Among the 20 or so major Virginia schools, only 103 have a weightlifting program, and only 3 have a 720-pound clean. Jim's achievements are a vote of confidence by my staff, and will be a top priority going forward. His efforts have not gone unnoticed, and Robert can only wish that he could have done as well.

The Deacons' loss against Wake Forest was a disappointment. Coach Morgan to Gilmore to give up the 100-yard backstroke in the meet until the start of the season. The Deacons opened the season with a strong performance, and they faced a tough challenge in the form of a Wake Forest team that had just defeated Virginia. Coach Morgan told him that he was too strong to continue lifting, and this advice served as an inspiration for Jim. He has always been impressed with the Russian government's support and admiration for weightlifting, and has given Bishop much more than just support. In fact, Jim's philosophy is that lifting is a mental process for Jim. He always likes to include mental exercises in his routine, and he is one of the few who can say that he has truly mastered the art of mental preparation.

Training has become an integral part of Jim's life. He always likes to spend time with his teammates, and this is evident in his frequentering of the weight room. His dedication to weightlifting has been a catalyst for his success, and he continues to improve every day. His workouts consist of two or three exercises which are determined by how he feels. He always likes to include certain basic exercises in his routine, and he is one of the few who can say that he has truly mastered the art of mental preparation.

The support and admiration for weightlifting at the advice of his coach has been a great inspiration for Jim. He has always been impressed with the Russian government's support and admiration for weightlifting, and has given Bishop much more than just support. In fact, Jim's philosophy is that lifting is a mental process for Jim. He always likes to include mental exercises in his routine, and he is one of the few who can say that he has truly mastered the art of mental preparation.

The victory in the Danube races was a great moment for Jim. He has always been impressed with the Russian government's support and admiration for weightlifting, and has given Bishop much more than just support. In fact, Jim's philosophy is that lifting is a mental process for Jim. He always likes to include mental exercises in his routine, and he is one of the few who can say that he has truly mastered the art of mental preparation.

The support and admiration for weightlifting at the advice of his coach has been a great inspiration for Jim. He has always been impressed with the Russian government's support and admiration for weightlifting, and has given Bishop much more than just support. In fact, Jim's philosophy is that lifting is a mental process for Jim. He always likes to include mental exercises in his routine, and he is one of the few who can say that he has truly mastered the art of mental preparation.

The victory in the Danube races was a great moment for Jim. He has always been impressed with the Russian government's support and admiration for weightlifting, and has given Bishop much more than just support. In fact, Jim's philosophy is that lifting is a mental process for Jim. He always likes to include mental exercises in his routine, and he is one of the few who can say that he has truly mastered the art of mental preparation.

Vastly Improved Deak Tankmen Sink Cavaliers in Opening Meet

By BEV TELFORD

With two meet schedules under the belt, the Wake Forest swimming team has demonstrated that they are not afraid of any challenge. Earlier this season, the Deacons faced a tough opponent, the University of Virginia, and they came out on top. Last week, they faced another formidable foe, the University of North Carolina, and they emerged victorious with a 100-yard backstroke in the meet until the start of the season. The Deacons opened the season with a strong performance, and they faced a tough challenge in the form of a Wake Forest team that had just defeated Virginia. Coach Morgan told him that he was too strong to continue lifting, and this advice served as an inspiration for Jim. He has always been impressed with the Russian government's support and admiration for weightlifting, and has given Bishop much more than just support. In fact, Jim's philosophy is that lifting is a mental process for Jim. He always likes to include mental exercises in his routine, and he is one of the few who can say that he has truly mastered the art of mental preparation.

The support and admiration for weightlifting at the advice of his coach has been a great inspiration for Jim. He has always been impressed with the Russian government's support and admiration for weightlifting, and has given Bishop much more than just support. In fact, Jim's philosophy is that lifting is a mental process for Jim. He always likes to include mental exercises in his routine, and he is one of the few who can say that he has truly mastered the art of mental preparation.

The victory in the Danube races was a great moment for Jim. He has always been impressed with the Russian government's support and admiration for weightlifting, and has given Bishop much more than just support. In fact, Jim's philosophy is that lifting is a mental process for Jim. He always likes to include mental exercises in his routine, and he is one of the few who can say that he has truly mastered the art of mental preparation.

The support and admiration for weightlifting at the advice of his coach has been a great inspiration for Jim. He has always been impressed with the Russian government's support and admiration for weightlifting, and has given Bishop much more than just support. In fact, Jim's philosophy is that lifting is a mental process for Jim. He always likes to include mental exercises in his routine, and he is one of the few who can say that he has truly mastered the art of mental preparation.

The victory in the Danube races was a great moment for Jim. He has always been impressed with the Russian government's support and admiration for weightlifting, and has given Bishop much more than just support. In fact, Jim's philosophy is that lifting is a mental process for Jim. He always likes to include mental exercises in his routine, and he is one of the few who can say that he has truly mastered the art of mental preparation.
Deacons Overcome Flouts, Tigers As Davis Starts In First Win

By LARRY LYN
Sports Writer

Paced by terrilical Charles Davis, Wake Forest captured its first victory of the season, 85-64, last Saturday night as a leaping 6-foot guard, his jumps, particularly from the free throw line, helped to bury the Deacons. Davis made 25 points to lead the Deacons. The slender 6-foot guard displayed, hitting on 14 of 22 shots from the field and 6 of 7 free throw shots, finishing with a 60.9% shooting average. The slender 6-foot guard displayed, hitting on 14 of 22 straight over fouls, resulting in five players putting on a phenomenal shooting contest at Auburn. Davis, sometime of the team's most valuable players, contributed 20 points to the Deacons' victory. The Deacons' shooting was not as good as Auburn's, hitting on only 12 of 35 shots and 6 of 11 free throws.

The Deacons were led by Davis, who was voted the game's most valuable player. Davis made 25 points to lead the Deacons. The slender 6-foot guard displayed, hitting on 14 of 22 shots from the field and 6 of 7 free throw shots, finishing with a 60.9% shooting average. The slender 6-foot guard displayed, hitting on 14 of 22 straight over fouls, resulting in five players putting on a phenomenal shooting contest at Auburn. Davis, sometime of the team's most valuable players, contributed 20 points to the Deacons' victory. The Deacons' shooting was not as good as Auburn's, hitting on only 12 of 35 shots and 6 of 11 free throws.

The Deacons were led by Davis, who was voted the game's most valuable player. Davis made 25 points to lead the Deacons. The slender 6-foot guard displayed, hitting on 14 of 22 shots from the field and 6 of 7 free throw shots, finishing with a 60.9% shooting average. The slender 6-foot guard displayed, hitting on 14 of 22 straight over fouls, resulting in five players putting on a phenomenal shooting contest at Auburn. Davis, sometime of the team's most valuable players, contributed 20 points to the Deacons' victory. The Deacons' shooting was not as good as Auburn's, hitting on only 12 of 35 shots and 6 of 11 free throws.