Students overcrowd terminals

by Amy Helbing

Hours of waiting have frustrated students using the computer terminals in Salem Hall throughout the semester. The administration will probably provide more terminals next sem-ter, according to Dean Ellen Bishop.

For盼 some students, the new terminals were a welcome sight.

The computer center has received 150 student applications for the new terminals since they were introduced. These new terminals, added to the 15 already on the system, bring the total number of terminals to 200. The new terminals are perceived as a great improvement.

American society divided

by Susan Roberts

The Cuba-Philippines nuclear deal, which was signed in Washington on April 17, has divided American society. On one side, many Americans support the deal, while on the other, there are those who oppose it.

The deal was signed between Cuba and the Philippines, two countries that have had a history of conflict in the past. The deal is aimed at promoting peace and prosperity in the region.

Research provides greater student voice

by E.S. Granger

Recently, Broye University introduced a new program that allows students to have a greater voice in the decision-making process.

The program, called "StudentSenate," gives students the opportunity to participate in the decision-making process of the university. Students can now propose and vote on new policies and initiatives.

Future of Graylyn remains uncertain

by Terry King

The future of Graylyn remains uncertain after the recent decision to close the facility. The decision has sparked a debate among students and alumni about the future of Graylyn.

The Graylyn Foundation, which owns the facility, has stated that they are exploring options for the future of Graylyn. However, the future of Graylyn remains uncertain until a decision is made.

WRC honors alumnae women

by Terry King

The Women's Rights Committee honors alumnae women for their contributions to society. The honorees are selected based on their achievements and contributions to the community.

The honorees for this year are Mrs. Alice Johnson and Mrs. Susan Smith. Both women have made significant contributions to their communities and have been recognized for their efforts.

Sophomore women: where will they live?

by Susan Roberts

As the end of the semester approsaches, questions about where sophomore women will live next year arise. Although the administration has announced that new dormitories will be built, the exact location and availability of these new dormitories is unclear.

The administration has stated that the new dormitories will be ready for occupancy by the beginning of the fall semester. However, students are concerned about the availability and location of these new dormitories.

High cost discourages pre-registration plans

by Mary Sharp

The administration has proposed pre-registration plans for students, but students are concerned about the high cost associated with these plans.

The university has proposed that students pay a fee of $200 for the privilege of pre-registering for courses. Students are concerned about the cost and feel that this fee is too high.

The administration has stated that the fee is necessary to cover the costs associated with pre-registration. However, students are still concerned about the high cost and are looking for alternative ways to register for courses.
I was drawn to hypnotism. I have been fascinated by it since I was a child. My interest began with a book I read about a man named Dr. MarCIAN. He claimed to have hypnotized people by simply speaking to them. I was so interested that I decided to learn more about it.

I began by reading everything I could find on the subject. I attended seminars and workshops. I even took classes at a local community college. I learned about different techniques and methods of hypnotism. I practiced on myself and others to perfect my skills.

Eventually, I became so proficient that I decided to offer my services to the public. I started a small practice in my hometown and quickly gained a reputation as a skilled hypnotist.

I have since worked with a wide range of clients, from athletes to business executives. I have helped people overcome addictions, improve their focus, and even improve their grades in school.

I am passionate about hypnotism and believe it has the power to transform lives. I am always eager to learn more and improve my skills. I look forward to helping even more people in the future.
Summer fire at Graylyn results in athletic dorm

by Jimmy Marsh

The first fire at Graylyn, which displaced 150 students from university housing, results in athletic dormitories. By the time the fire was extinguished, the fire had caused considerable damage to the dormitory.

The fire broke out in the attic area of the dormitory, which is located near the center of campus. The dormitory is used primarily by male athletes, and the fire caused considerable disruption for the student athletes who were living there.

The fire was contained quickly, and the dormitory was evacuated safely. However, the damage to the dormitory was extensive, and repairs will be needed before the dormitory can be reopened.

The cause of the fire is under investigation, and no one has been charged with any wrongdoing. The university is working closely with the fire department to determine the cause of the fire.

Athletic director Gene Hooks said that the university is exploring options for housing student athletes in the future. He said that the university is considering the possibility of building a new dormitory specifically for athletic student athletes.

The fire has caused some disruption for the student athletes, who had to be relocated to other housing on campus. The university is working to provide temporary housing for the student athletes until the dormitory can be repaired and reopened.

The fire is a reminder of the importance of fire safety on campus, and the university is working to ensure that safety measures are in place to prevent similar incidents in the future.
Letters to the editor

Museum of Man is defended

As a visiting researcher from a noted university, I am appalled by the方式 in which the Committee on Student Affairs has treated the exhibit entitled "Museum of Man". This is not merely a display of artifacts from various cultures, but a collection of living cultures. The Committee's decision to close the exhibit was made without adequate consultation with the community and without providing an alternative to the students. This decision directly contradicts the university's commitment to multicultural education. The exhibit has been a valuable resource for students, faculty, and the community, and it should not be closed without proper justification. The Committee's actions are not only short-sighted, but also damaging to the university's reputation for diversity and inclusivity. I urge the Committee to reconsider its decision and find a way to continue the exhibit in a manner that respects both the institution's goals and the community's needs.

OF & GB

I would like to make a comment concerning the Old Gold and Black week newsletter. The statement, "This past week was boring as far as fan activities were concerned," is not accurate. There were several events that took place during the week, but the newsletter did not highlight them. As a student, I believe that it is important to recognize and support the efforts of our student organizations. I urge the newsletter to provide a more balanced view of the week's activities in future issues.

The greatest challenge for the Old Gold and Black is the lack of interest from the student body in the weekly newsletter. I hope that the staff will find ways to engage the students and make the newsletter a more relevant and enjoyable resource.

WF: here today...where tomorrow?

I was very surprised to read the article about the athletic dorm in the Old Gold and Black student newspaper. The fact that the students living in the dorm must wear full athletic uniforms is quite disturbing. This requirement seems to contradict the university's commitment to student expression and individuality. I believe that the students living in the dorm should be given the freedom to choose their own attire, whether athletic or not. This would allow them to express their personal identity and feel more comfortable in their living environment.

The Old Gold and Black should also consider the impact of this requirement on the students' mental health. The pressure to conform to a specific dress code can lead to feelings of anxiety and stress, which can negatively affect the students' well-being.

Finally, I believe that the university should provide more opportunities for students to engage in athletic activities, whether they choose to wear full athletic uniforms or not. This would allow students to participate in sports and fitness activities without feeling compelled to conform to a specific dress code.

Closing

In conclusion, I urge the Old Gold and Black to provide a more balanced and positive view of the athletic dorm. The students living in the dorm should be given the freedom to choose their own attire, and the university should provide more opportunities for students to engage in athletic activities. I believe that this would lead to a more positive and inclusive campus community.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
I would like to share with you an account of a recent experience I had with my son's high school football team. My son, who is in his senior year at Wake Forest University, plays on the football team, and he recently received a suspension for his involvement in an incident that occurred during a game against Duke University. My son was playing as a defensive lineman when he was accused of making a lewd gesture at an opposing player. He was suspended for two games, and the university launched an investigation into the incident.

The investigation was a difficult time for my family. We were disappointed and upset that my son had been accused of such a serious offense. We also felt that the university was being too quick to judge him based on the evidence presented.

In the end, the university determined that there was not enough evidence to prove that my son had made the gesture. They decided to dismiss the charges against him, and he was allowed to return to playing football.

This experience has made me realize the importance of ensuring that our schools have fair and impartial procedures in place to handle such situations. It is crucial that we work together to ensure that our students are treated fairly and that their rights are protected.

I hope that my experience will help others to understand the importance of these issues and to work towards creating a better future for all of our students.
Duckett is named MVP

Some of Wake Forest's top athletes were honored last Wednesday night at the university's annual All-Sports Banquet by the Wake Forest Athletic Association.

Senior Kenny Duckett was the recipient of the All-Sports Banquet award as the most valuable athlete of this year. Duckett earned the award by finishing the season with a record of 10-5 in football, and making the All-State and All-Universe teams. He was also a member of the football team and the basketball team. Duckett is the first Wake Forest football player to win this award.

Top athletes were honored at the Banquet, and games due to injury.

The most valuable football player award was given to quarterback Mark Ewing, the senior leader in Wake Forest offense. Ewing was named the most valuable player by the Associated Press and Sports Illustrated for his expertise against Maryland. In that game, he threw for over 100 yards.

The most valuable basketball player award went to Bill Dennis, who earned All-State honors in both sports. Dennis is the first Wake Forest basketball player to win this award.

Tacy signs third recruit

Wake Forest basketball coach C. Kay Tacy announced the signing of a third recruit last week. Emory Green of Florida has signed with the Demon Deacons to play in 1982.

The 6'10, 300 pound forward led East High School to the regional playoffs with a record of 22-7 and 12 rebounds per game. Green plans to attend Wake Forest on a basketball scholarship.

Baseball team finishes third

Coach Marvin Crater led the Wake Forest baseball team to third place in the Atlantic Coast Conference and the ACC Tournament. During the 1982 season, the Demon Deacons won 27 games and lost 22, good enough for a third place finish in the conference.

One of the most valuable players for Wake Forest was Darryl Runnay, who led the team in batting average at .357. Runnay was named the most valuable former player by the Associated Press and Sports Illustrated for his expertise against Maryland. In that game, he threw for over 100 yards.
