Soviets cancel trip

By EDWARD ROBINS

The symptomatic defection involved for next Thursday between students from the Brandeis University, which was recently expelled from its campus and the United States, and director of the university's Public Affairs Program, who was reported to have defected on Thursday. The Brandeis University, the sponsor of the Soviet defector, has been expelled from the United States, as a result of the defection. The defection, however, has been denied by the Brandeis University, the sponsor of the Soviet defector, as well as by the Soviet defector himself. Several hundred students participated in Summer Job Day, May 11, which was sponsored by the office of Career Planning and Placement in the East Lounge. The event was available to all students, and provided an opportunity for students to explore career options.

Brooks receives 2nd indictment

By DANIEL FUNDEY

Sherry E. Mitchell of Winston Salem was indicted Friday for a federal grand jury and charged with 50 counts of tax evasion. The indictment accuses Brooks of understating her income and inflating her expenses to evade paying taxes. The indictment seeks to recover two $10,000 federal income tax evasions. Mitchell and her husband, Joseph, have been charged with tax evasion.

Freshman night designed for college planning

By ERIC SUMNER

The administrative faculty, and staff, as well as the students, have been working to make the event a success. The event is expected to attract a large number of attendees, and is designed to be a fun and informative evening for students.

Committee meeting to unify CU

By CRISTINE VARKOLY

CU College Union will hold its first committee meeting on Friday, May 15, at 4 p.m. in the East Lounge. The meeting will be open to the public, and will include representatives from all of the various committees.

There is a statement that there is a difference between information and knowledge. While the text does not go into great detail about this, it does suggest that information is the collection of data, whereas knowledge is the understanding and application of information. This statement is relevant to the discussion of the importance of perseverance in the search for justice.
Students march in anti-abortion parade

By CATHERINE PHILLIPS

On Jan. 22, five members of the Wake Forest Students For Life organization joined 11 thousand people on Capitol Hill to protest against the pro-choice movement. The two and a half hour march in frigid temperatures began at the Ellipse and ended at the Supreme Court where Make Peace/student demonstrators were waiting. The banner held by Students For Life, said of the march, "God is near!" We believe the right to life is a great feeling of sharing. We had all signs in support of Students For Life. This was the first year that Wake Forest students held the demonstration. The march, which began at 9 or 10 p.m. on Thursday, was organized by Students For Life, an official member of Student Government. We would like for all people to support us in our fight against human trafficking. The Student Life fund is a non-profit organization that helps fund various groups and organizations. The fund is available to any group or organization that is unaffiliated with various groups, and helps fund any idea in need to the Student Life fund. Toward building a new society

A lot of Wake Forest students are resting a little easier this week now that prolific writer Warren Brookes has been induced by a federal grand jury. We sincerely hope that the incident will be the last of its kind, although we are thankful that the letters have finally been published and that some administrative officials took the initiative to look into the situation.

The minority affairs office, judging from published accounts, has a right to claim at least some of the credit for the week's events, which do not bode well for the future. We believe the university has taken the matter seriously enough.

Since most of the alleged threats have been made to or about members of the minority, a reaccordance of the minority affairs office is necessary. That reaccordance has not been forthcoming, leaving one to believe that the minority affairs office itself has not been reassured.

Until minority affairs is completely satisfied with the administration's response to the letter writing campaign, we have continued questioning the administration's handling of the situation.

Witnesing history

Elle Winters came to Wake Forest with the hope of obtaining a top job in the business world. She was not a particularly good student and did not have the experience of the traditional literature societies. It is not a mark she appears to be seeking.

But, why else would the administration have appointed her to the top position? Perhaps, as well as administration, the university actually appreciates it.

For those who have faced prejudice, the hope of gaining the respectability of the office is a reward in itself. Those who have the idea that someone else is better for being a minority is not a bad one. But with the supportive as those in the club are, we get the best seats every game.

The idea behind a spirit club is that the former administrators are just as enthusiastic about their groups and deserve games. Those not in the club have become an uncommon event in just as good (or better) fans have always thought the best. As long as the club is the university counsel's, we can all live with it.

Fans vs. Spirits

Wake Forest basketball fans were treated to what has been called a "travesty." During the Winston-Salem Coliseum Wednesday night, Wake Forest lost its first game four seconds into the game. The.meaning of the incident was not discovered until the following night, when a game was played.

Of course, wherever the Decade's AC games are played, Demon Stripes are there. Unfortunately, so is the Wake Forest administration.

With the invention of the Decade Stripes, we now have the perfect terror for the future. The good fans, i.e., the Stripes, get to see every game and rate little pompoms. The bad students, i.e., the Demon Spirit Club members get the change.

The idea behind a spirit club is not a bad one. But with the situation we have here now, where the situation is not the club that is addressed, the club should be dropped. The final result of the club is the administration's awareness that the spirit club cannot become an uncommon event in the Winston-Salem Coliseum.

Letters to the Editor

Underground

To violate or interrupt, that is the basic question of the policy's validity? How is the forest to abide by the policies set forth in the administration's announcement? And what are the consequences for those in violation of the administration's rules? What are the administration's rules? And what are those in violation of the policy and will be punished? The administration's rules are that_unless there is a society's official permission, no writing on the premises will be allowed. This is the rule that is being violated.

In order to be an underground newsletter, the magazine must be on the university's premises and it is not supposably, preventing the administration's rights. These ideas agree the policy to be valid. Yet, the underground newsletter is not a part of the university's premises. The students would be concerned about the administration's rights. The administration must respect the student's ideas and his symbols. But, how is the student's freedom of speech protected? The student does not take into account the student's right to express himself. The student is not being asked to violate the student's beliefs. The group can be written up. The group will be asked to write the magazine's editorial board.

I have tried to think of some ideas, must have a ground. University must be to the student's ideas. This is no new ground. Because of my idea, no new ground. University must be to the student's ideas. This is no new ground. Because of my idea, no new ground.

My idea is to keep the student's ideas to the student's ideas. This is no new ground. Because of my idea, no new ground. University must be to the student's ideas. This is no new ground. Because of my idea, no new ground.

Old Gold and Black

Reassurance needed

Match has been said that the work done by the administration is necessary. No such statement has been made. The administration is under the auspices of the University. But, the administration itself has been under the investigation of the University. This is not a statement that the administration is under the same administration.

Last semester, Professor Edwin Wilson created his own magazine, which established a literary society. This is the first step in the administration's process of making the students feel unimportant. Although the administration's process is beneficial to the students, we are under the auspices of the University. But, the administration itself has been under the investigation of the University. This is not a statement that the administration is under the same administration.

Faculty history

The relationship between students and the faculty has always been a topic of interest. It could be. Professor and students are not always treated with the same respect. This lack of interaction is certainly not something that is beneficial to the student. It is not possible that the student is not treated with the same respect.

Of course some interaction does exist. Professor and students are not always treated with the same respect. This lack of interaction is certainly not something that is beneficial to the student. It is not possible that the student is not treated with the same respect.

Until the relationship between students and the faculty can be successfully improved, the students will not have a right to their expectations. Until the relationship between students and the faculty can be successfully improved, the students will not have a right to their expectations. Until the relationship between students and the faculty can be successfully improved, the students will not have a right to their expectations. Until the relationship between students and the faculty can be successfully improved, the students will not have a right to their expectations. Until the relationship between students and the faculty can be successfully improved, the students will not have a right to their expectations.

Letter to the Student Body

The student will, if I have my way, have the chance to do something. The student will have the chance to change what is happening. The student will have the chance to be heard.

It is by popular demand that the student magazine should be allowed to publish. The student magazine should be allowed to publish. The student magazine should be allowed to publish.

The student magazine should have the opportunity to express its ideas and thoughts. The student magazine should have the opportunity to express its ideas and thoughts. The student magazine should have the opportunity to express its ideas and thoughts. The student magazine should have the opportunity to express its ideas and thoughts. Forum analyzes foreign policy

By Jim Snyder

The Tocqueville Forum will discuss the bringing home of the hostage situation in America to the small colleges of Wake Forest University. This year will be no exception as some of the nation's most recognized experts in different fields, including international law, will meet to speak on the topic of “Honor and Foreign Policy.”

The forum’s first lecture will feature Linda Henkin, a professor at Columbia University, who specializes in human rights and international law. He will present a lecture titled “A Democratic Foreign Policy in a Republic: Congress and the President.” The lecture will be presented on Wednesday at 6 p.m. in the newly renovated Fireside Hall.

“This semester Wake Forest will have the finest faculty in America on this topic.”

The forum will present a variety of views regarding the formation of American foreign policy. More importantly, the speakers will confront themselves and just with current international relations but the formation of foreign policy by a constitutional democracy and the implications that such a government has in formulating policy.

The forum is especially important to those citizens of Wake Forest and the Tocqueville Forum. It is an educational opportunity to make personal acquaintances with distinguished professors associated with leading graduate and law schools. The Tocqueville Forum will attempt to answer important foreign policy questions which are pertinent to every citizen. The forum is also especially important to those citizens of a democratic nation.

“Those questions are ones which, in my view, are the ones we must consider for the rest of their lives. This semester offers the opportunity to engage in thoughtful consideration of these problems with the best teachers in America,” Henkin said.

Henkin commences spring lecture series

Opening the Tocqueville Forum this semester will be Linda Henkin, University Professor at Columbia University. Henkin served two years as an effort of the United States Senate as a Special Counsel, and has also served as a law judge for Justice Palais for the Supreme Court of Israel at academia life.

This semester will be devoted to his work involving human rights issues and international law. As he served as the President of the United States of Israel, the book room of the Library is open for students of all disciplines.

For further questions or information, visit the website or contact the Student Travel Service. The Student Travel Service is located in the Fine Hall, second floor, room 203. The Tocqueville Forum is co-sponsored by the Department of Fine Arts and the Department of Foreign Policy.

Philharmonic resonates

by Jeanette Shrekin

In their way to the Kennedy Center and Carnegie Hall in New York City, a program of The Philharmonic, directed by Valery Gergiev on Jan. 30, its guests and audience in the Kennedy Center Concert Hall were likely to have expected a performance as sublime as the one conducted by Michael Tilson Thomas in several years ago. The concert, sponsored by The Artists for Education Foundation, was to have been performed by the New World Philharmonic, an orchestra of mostly young musicians, with the aim of giving them a chance to demonstrate their skills. The audience was likely to have been delighted with the performance, as it was generally regarded as one of the best in the world. The concert included new and old works, and was viewed by music lovers and critics alike as a masterpiece of orchestral music. The program was well-balanced, with works by composers such as Beethoven, Mozart, and Brahms, and was likely to have been enjoyed by all who attended. The concert was a great success, and the Philharmonic orchestra gave a remarkable performance, with the conductor leading with great skill and precision. The audience was likely to have been moved by the beauty of the music, and the overall experience was likely to have been unforgettable.
BEYOND WAR
A New Way of Thinking

The Beyond War effort began in late 1984 behind the support of Creative Initiatives, a non-profit organization in Washington, D.C. The Beyond War project was started "because of the growing awareness of the threat of a nuclear war...Beyond War began by focusing attention on eight states thought to border areas in the most significant geographical locations. The goal is to educate five percent of the population in the Beyond War concept. Researchers have shown that at this level the particular issue becomes "hot" in society. If this goal is met, it's possible to develop a cooperative reality about war, the only weapon that is acceptable, the idea is to seem war James Clapper, director of the Stanford University School of Management, summarized the Beyond War effort by saying, "The partners involved in Beyond War are the two co-founders of International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War, Eugene Rabinowitch and Bernard Lasser, a Russian and American respectively. The event presentation was attended by President Reagan and Secretary of State Albright. The ceremony was viewed by an estimated 10 million Soviets, and was broadcast on television in California.

Junior Andy Mitchum heard of Beyond War from a poster on campus and attended the orientation meetings. Mitchum said, "I just want to be involved in extending our sphere on the world. "The added," "We really hope that the momentum gained around the world, from East to West, Central America and Europe, could result in the superpowers entering an all-out war. As the third dimension, and the one focused on by the United States, I believe they realize that they cannot make any difference. Clapper added, "The individual partner of the beyond War campaign...Clapper said the goal of Beyond War is to "change the nuclear way of life." Presently, the Beyond War effort is devoted to education. To be involved, and attend orientation meetings at three different sites in two hours each night. After the three hours before the event begins, you can sign up to be a leader in orientation or select the role of your time in some other positive devotion.

Clapper said the core theme of Beyond War is "monthly, even a single war. A conflict involving only conventional weapons is also grim. But if we have a war, a war will be an instructor of Latin here next year time span)."

Movie faces tough issue

By ELLIZABETH A. ASHLEY

Two screenwriters and the hero of a movie discuss the ethics of their profession and the impact of a film on the world.

Directed by John Burt and scenarist John McNaughton, the film is about a hero and the issues he faces. The movie was released in theaters.

The movie, however, belonged to Neve (Pran). He is not a trained actor, but his performance is polished and strong. His role was to play a character who must day after day see the dead children fill his mind and make him feel that he was a false father.

The children that were chosen to play in the movie were very convincing. The children can see the “killing fields,” just as Pran was forced to see.

Dr. Hong S. Nguyen, John McNaughton, and John Schanberg talk about their experiences with Cambodia where the movie was filmed. Dr. Nguyen was a doctor, McNaughton was a journalist, and Schanberg was a newspaper reporter.

The movie is about the human passion of war and the suffering that goes with it. It is about the bravery and the courage of those who are forced to live in the “killing fields.”

It is hoped that out of a population of seven million people in 2008, 2.5 million people were killed in the “killing fields.” It is believed that out of a population of seven million people in 1975, three million people were killed. Deacons fall to Terps

Departing next week and for the rest of the season, the 1985-86 Wake Forest Demon Deacons, led by coach Jerry Montgomery, are playing their way into the NCAA tournament.

The Deacons' future is up to them. They have the talent, the drive, and the experience to make a run at the NCAA tournament.

Coach Montgomery knows that the Deacons have the potential to be a force in college basketball. But they must first prove themselves on the court.

The Deacons have a tough schedule ahead of them. But if they can stay focused and play to their potential, they will be in the NCAA tournament.

Women get upset by Maryland at home

This past Sunday, the Lady Deacons lost to the powerful Maryland Terrapins, 75-63.

The Deacons had a tough time coping with the Lady Terrapins' high-scoring players.

Coach Montgomery knows that the Deacons must improve their defense if they want to win in the NCAA tournament.

On the flip side, the Lady Deacons were able to keep the game close. But they were unable to overcome the Lady Terrapins' superior talent.

For the Lady Deacons, the game was a learning experience. They learned that they must improve their defense if they want to compete at the NCAA level.

Golfers teeing it up

The Wake Forest golf team will begin its season Feb. 16 with the three-day Hilton Head Invitational. The team will be playing to capture its first NCAA championship.

The Deacons have a talented team, and Coach Montgomery is confident that they can make a run at the NCAA title.

For the Deacons, the season begins in Hilton Head. But Coach Montgomery knows that the team must stay humble and work hard if they want to be successful in the NCAA tournament.

The Wake Forest golf team will begin its season Feb. 16 with the three-day Hilton Head Invitational. The team will be playing to capture its first NCAA championship.

The Deacons have a talented team, and Coach Montgomery is confident that they can make a run at the NCAA title.

For the Deacons, the season begins in Hilton Head. But Coach Montgomery knows that the team must stay humble and work hard if they want to be successful in the NCAA tournament.

Also in the future are three back-to-back ACC games against North Carolina. The Deacons will need to be ready to face these challenges.

I Can Help You!!!

How can a start up company in times of deep recession, 1980, grow to 500,000,000 dollars in business in just 4 years?

Why are doctors, lawyers, students, teachers and housewives jumping on board with our company part time or full time?

I would like to personally meet you and show you how you can make money and have fun helping your family and friends!

Please contact (Rocky) Walker for an appointment 724-7017.
