Next to a setup of draftsman's easels, the sister of a student who had been in the program for years, and a senior, spoke at a tribute to her mentor, who had died the previous year. She said the program had been a great source of support for her, and had helped her to overcome some of her personal challenges.

The next speaker was a junior who had been involved in the program since her freshman year. She talked about the importance of the program in her life, and how it had helped her to develop her leadership skills.

The final speaker was a senior who had been involved in the program for four years. She spoke about the impact the program had had on her personal and professional life, and how it had helped her to achieve her goals.

After the speeches, a group of students presented a video tribute to the program. The video included interviews with current and former students, as well as footage of the program in action.

The day ended with a reception where attendees had the opportunity to meet and talk with program staff and alumni.

The committee's goal is to continue to build on the program's success and to ensure that it remains a valuable resource for students.

the project has been outlined in the proposal. Health and sport science, chemistry, biology and education are among the departments that will receive funds.

The department of health and sports science has proposed a project that would take place in conjunction with North Carolina Baptist Hospitals. Faculty will observe patients as they do physical exercises with athletic patients to see what degree such exercises are beneficial. The project will be made a part of the curriculum so that it involves both academic and research.

"Not all of it is instruction," Cole said. "There is a lot of significant international research going on. Basically it looks something which the states are interested in with good research.

The study was published in the Journal of the American Medical Association and was supported by the National Institute of Arthritis and Musculoskeletal and Skin Diseases.

STOCKHOLM — The Swedish Academy of Sciences has awarded Nobel Prizes in chemistry, physics, physiology or medicine, and literature. The winners will be announced on October 10.

American President Boris Yeltsin, in a statement released on October 8, said: "The United States and the Soviet Union have always been allies in the struggle for peace and freedom."

Yeltsin added that the new Nobel Peace Prize would be awarded to "those who have worked constructively to reduce the threat of nuclear war and proliferation of weapons of mass destruction."

New horizons appear for changing societies

Tradition

The term is rather ambigous, to say the least. To us, it has come to mean so much when we look at history and our own present day society. Our nation was built on a tradition of laissez-faire economic policies, and we see that it still influences the way we live our lives today. This is evident in the way we buy and sell products, and in the way we interact with each other. But what about other aspects of society? Are there any traditions that are worth preserving? Are there any that are worth changing? These are questions that we must ask ourselves if we want to move towards a better future.

Societies served a strong role in Wake Forest tradition but the past few years have witnessed a new era of change. Several factors have contributed to this change, including the growth of social media, the rise of the internet, and the increasing diversity of the student body. These factors have made it difficult for anyone to maintain the same traditions that were once so important. In order to understand the changes that have taken place, we need to take a closer look at the role that traditions have played in the past.

Perhaps the most obvious change is the way that traditions are passed down. In the past, traditions were often passed down through oral storytelling or through written records. Today, we rely on social media to spread the word about events and traditions. This has made it easier for people to learn about and participate in traditions, but it has also made it more difficult to maintain the same level of tradition that was once prevalent.

Another factor that has contributed to the changing role of traditions is the increasing diversity of the student body. As more students come from different backgrounds, they bring with them different traditions and ways of doing things. This has made it difficult for some to maintain the same traditions that were once so important.

Despite these challenges, there are still many traditions that are worth preserving. For example, the tradition of giving back to the community is still very much alive at Wake Forest. Students and alumni are encouraged to give back to the community in a variety of ways, and this has helped to create a strong sense of community among Wake Forest students.

In conclusion, traditions have played an important role in the past, but the changing nature of society makes it difficult for them to continue to be as important today. However, there are still many traditions that are worth preserving, and we should work to ensure that they continue to be an important part of our lives.

The Economics of the Citibank Classic Visa card. How Student Discounts and Price Protection contribute to upward growth. A variety of factors have been suggested as contributing to the economic growth of students, including (1) more lottery winners between the ages of 18 and 22, (2) a 37% increase on earnings from bottle and can returns, (3) more students doubling earnings in the lightning round of game shows, and (4) the Citibank Classic Visa® card. It's this last one, however, that affects most students. The Citibank Classic Visa card offers immediate savings to student cardmembers. You can save up to 26% on long distance calls versus AT&T with the free Citibank Calling Service® from MCI! And you can capitalize on a $20 Airfare Discount for domestic flights. Savings on mail order purchases, sports equipment, magazines and music also abound. Maximize these savings with a low variable interest rate of 15.4% and no annual fee, and you can significantly improve your personal bottom line (especially if one's net income tends to be pretty gross). Put another way, one might even have enough savings to reinvest in a CD or two (the musical kind, of course). On the way to the record store, or any store for that matter, take stock of the 3 services concerned with purchases made on the Citibank Classic card. Citibank Price Protection assures one of the best prices. See the same item advertised in print for less, within 60 days, and Citibank will refund the difference up to $150. To protect these investments, Buyers Security® can cover them against accidental damage, fire or theft (ordinarily, causes for Great Depressions) for 90 days from the date of purchase. And Citibank Lifetime Warranty® can extend the expected service life of eligible products up to 12 years. But perhaps the features which offer the best protection are your eyes, your nose, your mouth, etc.—all featured on The Photocard, the credit card with your photo on it. Carrying it can help prevent fraud or any hostile takeover of your card. (Insiders speculate that it makes quite a good student ID, too.) Even if one's card is stolen, or perhaps lost, The Lost Wallet® Service can replace your card usually within 24 hours. So never panic. As we all know, panic, such as in the Great Panics of 1837, 1857, and 1923 can cause a downswing in a market. But with 24-hour Customer Service, there's no reason for it. A question about your account is only an 800 number away. (Panic of the sort experienced the night before Finals is something else again.) Needless to say, building a credit history with the support of such services can only be a boost. You're investing in futures—that future house, that future car, etc. And knowing the Citibank Classic Visa card is there in your wallet should presently give you a sense of security, rare in today's—how shall we say?—fickle market. To apply, call. Students don't need a job or a cosigner. And call if you'd simply like your photo added to your regular Citibank Classic Visa card. Here's the number: 1-800-CITIBANK, extension 19. The Law of Student Supply and Demand states, "If a credit card satisfies more of a student's unlimited wants and needs, while reducing the Risk Factor in respect to limited and often scarce resources—with the greatest supply of services and savings possible—then students will demand said credit card." So, demand away—call.

Monarch Notes® Version: The Citibank Classic Visa card will be there for you with special student discounts, no fee, and a low rate...so your own economy will be more like a boom than a bust. Call 1-800-CITIBANK, ext. 19.

Demon Deacons run well despite several key losses

The women's cross country team lost their first race of the season last weekend at the Paul Short Invitational at Lehigh University, where they ended up 15th overall. The team was ranked seventh in the country before the race, and they had high expectations for the season, but the result was disappointing.

Senior Nicole Stevenson led the Deacons for the fourth straight week, and proved herself again as one of the top runners in the country. She finished fifth overall with a time of 17 minutes, 6.2 seconds. "This was the breakthrough of her career by running eight with national champions," Goodridge said. "She's proving to be one of our top runners throughout the season." Stevenson's continued success in cross country was the highlight of the week for the team. (For reference, the team's next race is scheduled for October 21st, so we'll have to see how they fare in that one.)

Second to cross the finish line for Wake Forest was freshman Mary Weber, who was one of our top runners in NCAA, NCANN, and was scheduled to run in the ACC Championship. She did run, but was suffering from a sickness that kept her from running at full strength. "We were able to see how the field was running, and we're hoping some individuals would have great races," Goodridge said.

Women's golf places third; Neill stars

The Record Exchange

The women's golf team continued their impressive showing this year by finishing in third place last week at the Lady Kat Invitational in Lenoir City.

Two-time All-American junior Stephanie Hall tied for a then-mandatory record and finished with the lowest score of the tournament. Hall captured her second individual win of the year with her two-under-par total.

The team shot a three-round total of 895 to finish 13 strokes behind champion Florida and seven strokes behind second-place Tennessee. Head Coach Daniey Dain was generally pleased with the team's performance, but noted that improvement was still necessary.

"The last day, we had a chance to win, but didn't take the opportunity," Dain said. "We had a shot to win on the first day, which we didn't execute well enough.

Other Deacons Deacon participants included sophomore Victoria Bexen, who tied for 33rd with a score of 75-77-78 (228), and freshman Silas Chandler for application, 723-1234.

Kelley's high shot of 103 tied for 24th, while No. 1-49 seniors shot 79-75-72 (225) for 10th place on the team. Junior Kyle Williams tied for 46th with 81-75-77 (233), and senior Kevin Kemp tied for 26th with scores of 79-74-76 (233) in the 53rd.

"The biggest thing is team consistency, but players need to start giving a little more effort as we get to the end of the season," Dain said.

The Deacons have one of the strongest fields to date, according to Dain, and it will be interesting to see how they fare in the upcoming weeks.

"We will continue to work on our game and prepare for the next tournament," Dain said. "We have one of our most balanced teams, and we will continue to push ourselves to be the best we can be."
