Friends of Library
In Reorganization

The main problem facing the library is the death last month of Dr. Joseph Quincy Adams, re-presentative of the Friends of the Library, group of which Dr. Adams was a charter member.

Please for such a move are un-der the present terms: a letter to be sent to members of the board in the event of vacuum, and a second meeting at a later date. The Friends of the Library are expected to meet at 7:15 on Wednesday to hear the report of the committee.

GLER CLUB

Many responses have been re-ceived to the broad agenda of the club. There was an active interest in the late Shakespearean scholar's promised gift of plays and plays in connection with the Library's work.

The Friends of the Library is a group organized in 1937 to per-sonalize the Library, and to give an opportunity for people to support the work of the Library. The Library is open to all members of the community who are interested in the work of the Library.

For All-Star Positions

In recognition of the starting twelve of football they have played at this season, several Wake Forest stars were picked on all-star teams by sports writers of the state.

For the third straight year Nick Sacrinty has gained a first-string berth on the Associated Press All-Southern team. His brilliant performances in the Tennessee and South Carolina games gained him nationwide recognition.

Rock Trinker, powerful fullback who led Wake Forest's scoring with 43 points, was the only other Deacon to make the All-Southern squad. He led a second-and short-swinging position. The Associated Press All-State team listed from the November number one hatchet. Selected for the second team were Bumby Capps, hard-hitting end, Bob Lentz, a guard who had the Wake Forest line for the season and Nick Ognovich, a touchline specialist.

Clay Croom, star Deacen fullback, who played his last game Thanksgiving Day, is Kitner's gift to Wake Forest. He used to play a lot of ball for Carolina.

Cigarette Co. Offers Prizes

Chesterfield Cigarettes are sponsoring a new contest among the fraternities on the campus, according to an announcement made today by Paul Bell and Howard Forsyth, student representatives. The fraternity collecting the largest number of empty packs of Chesterfield will be awarded a prize of ten cartons of Chesterfields.

The contest will last for about three weeks and the winning fraternity will be announced at the Christmas dance.

Students are also reminded that the thefts are especially interesting because they are the first time that thieves have had any information which might be useful in recovering the radio.

A new 1946 Philco radio-phonograph combination, valued at $215.00, was stolen from the Little Dorm between 5:00 and 7:00 p.m. on Wednesday, November 27.

One of the men living in the house, but not a member of the fraternity, noticed a stranger in the chapter room at 5:00 p.m. when he was leaving the house. The stranger had not been identified, and it is known that the house was still in the room at that time.

Three hours later the radio was first discovered missing by a member returning to the house. Two end tables, two bronze lamps, and one coffee table, all together valued at $60.00, was found to be missing. They were unable to determine the time of the theft, though, as it was during the holidays.

These thefts do not mark the first time that thieves have had a "holiday" during the college holidays; during Christmas holidays last year a radio-phonograph was stolen from Hunter Dorm. Again, during Spring holidays, a typewriter was stolen from the chapter room at 5:00 p.m., on that day.

The fraternity asks the cooperation of the student body and local townspeople in reporting all information which might be useful in recovering the radio.

A new 1946 Philco radio-phonograph combination, valued at $215.00, was stolen from the Little Dorm between 5:00 and 7:00 p.m. on Wednesday, November 27.

One of the men living in the house, but not a member of the fraternity, noticed a stranger in the chapter room at 5:00 p.m. when he was leaving the house. The stranger had not been identified, and it is known that the house was still in the room at that time.

Three hours later the radio was first discovered missing by a member returning to the house. Two end tables, two bronze lamps, and one coffee table, all together valued at $60.00, was found to be missing. They were unable to determine the time of the theft, though, as it was during the holidays.

These thefts do not mark the first time that thieves have had a "holiday" during the college holidays; during Christmas holidays last year a radio-phonograph was stolen from Hunter Dorm. Again, during Spring holidays, a typewriter was stolen from the chapter room at 5:00 p.m. on that day.

The fraternity asks the cooperation of the student body and local townspeople in reporting all information which might be useful in recovering the radio.
