Baptists Defeat Proposal By Narrow Margin

By ALFRED KING

A news analysis

The Tribune: Stateman

Dr. Harold W. Tribble, president of the College, and Miss Marvel, secretary of the Student Government Association, received a letter from the Baptist State Convention expressing the Convention's rejection of the Baptist State Convention proposal. The Convention's rejection of the Baptist State Convention proposal was the result of a vote taken during the Convention's meeting in Raleigh.

The vote was taken after a series of protests by members of the Baptist State Convention. The protests were led by Dr. John B. Hobbs, former president of Wake Forest College, who has been a strong advocate of the Baptist State Convention proposal.

Dr. Hobbs has been a leading member of the Baptist State Convention for many years. He has been a strong advocate of the Baptist State Convention proposal and has been a leading voice in the Convention's efforts to promote it.

Dr. Hobbs' letter to the Convention was a response to the Convention's rejection of the Baptist State Convention proposal. In his letter, Dr. Hobbs expressed his disappointment and his concern about the Convention's decision.

Dr. Hobbs noted that the Convention's rejection of the Baptist State Convention proposal was a blow to the Baptist State Convention's efforts to promote the proposal. He also noted that the Convention's rejection of the Baptist State Convention proposal was a blow to the Baptist State Convention's efforts to promote the Baptist State Convention proposal.

Dr. Hobbs concluded his letter by expressing his hope that the Baptist State Convention would reconsider its decision and that the Baptist State Convention would continue to support the Baptist State Convention proposal.

The Baptist State Convention opposed the Baptist State Convention proposal because it believed that the proposal was not in the best interests of the Baptist State Convention. The Convention believed that the proposal would have a negative impact on the Baptist State Convention and that it would not be in the best interests of the Baptist State Convention to support the proposal.

Dr. Hobbs noted that the Baptist State Convention had been a strong advocate of the Baptist State Convention proposal and that the Convention had worked hard to promote the proposal. He also noted that the Baptist State Convention had been a strong supporter of the Baptist State Convention and that the Convention had worked hard to promote the Baptist State Convention.

Dr. Hobbs concluded his letter by expressing his hope that the Baptist State Convention would reconsider its decision and that the Baptist State Convention would continue to support the Baptist State Convention proposal.

A convention elects Ford President

Convention Elects Ford President

By CHARLES WINBERRY

The annual convention of the North Carolina Baptist State Convention elected Dr. J. Dewey Hobbs of Wingate College president for three years, it was announced Tuesday.

The convention, which met in Raleigh, elected the following officers:

President: Dr. J. Dewey Hobbs, Wingate College

Vice-President: Dr. W. G. Baxley, University of North Carolina

Secretary: Dr. C. C. Sugg, Wake Forest College

Treasurer: Dr. W. A. Pepple, State University of North Carolina

The convention also adopted a resolution expressing the desire of the Baptist churches in North Carolina to cooperate in the work of the state and local governments.

By ALBERT BENNETT

Jesse Thompson, professor of government at Wake Forest College, said that the resolution to the death penalty on the state legislature would be "wholly and absolutely wrong." Thompson, a member of the Baptist State Convention, presided at the convention.

"I believe that the death penalty is a violation of human rights," Thompson said. "It is a violation of the principles of justice and fairness that are the foundation of our society." Thompson said that the convention should work to end the death penalty in North Carolina.

Crouch Unanimously Elected
Chief Baptist Administrator

By CHARLES WINSEY

A strong-voiced pastor and associate minister at the Reformed, Rev. W. H. Crouch, was unanimously elected as the new chief of the Division of Churches and Commissions of the Baptist State Convention on the last day of the annual meeting, which concluded today, at the Grand Hotel in Greensboro.

Crouch, who has served as the president of the Baptist State Convention for the past seven years, was named to the position by the Convention's 1964
General Board, which met here today.

Crouch, who has been with the Convention since 1956, has served as its executive secretary since 1959.

He has been a member of the Convention's executive committee since 1960, and was appointed to the Convention's executive committee in 1961.

Crouch is a graduate of Wake
Forest College and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He received his doctorate in history from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1963.

Crouch is the author of several books on the history of the Baptist denomination, including
"The History of the Baptist Denomination in the United States," which was published in 1964.

Crouch is a member of the American Baptist Historical Society and the Southern Baptist Historical Society.

Crouch is the father of three children, and he lives in Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

He is a native of North Carolina, and has served on the faculty of Wake Forest College since 1956.

In Defeat, A Promise Of Victory To Come

A minority of Baptist messengers have prevented the fulfillment of the hopes of Wake Forest College for a year. A frictional attitude—expressed in the resignation of the original Trustee proposal—has seriously hindered the cause of education in the south. The failure of the Baptist Convention to pass its own resolution was due to the non-attendance of its own leaders. The two-thirds vote was not obtained. Instead of the expected two-thirds vote of the Convention, a one third vote was obtained. Hence the resolution was passed, and Wake Forest College was given another year of life. But the battle is not yet won. The Baptists may still be defeated if the members of the Baptist Convention do not take action to secure the two-thirds vote required for the passage of the resolution. If the resolution is not passed, then the battle is lost and the fate of Wake Forest College is sealed. The Baptists must act now to secure the two-thirds vote required for the passage of the resolution. The battle is not yet lost, but the future of Wake Forest College is in jeopardy. The Baptists must act now to save their college.

The title of the exhibit is "The World as Seen by Indians: A View of the World Through the Eyes of the American Indian." It was held in 1944 for his own college. Later, after World War II, he served in the Information Service of the Office of War Information in the U.S. Army. He was with the Department of the Navy's star reporter on Okinawa. He is currently a professor of the history of the New York Times.

Born in Scotland, he attended Edinburgh University. But he was not interested in literature or politics, but in the world of modern poetry, he said, "It seems to be the most complex and difficult field of thought in the world."

In his opinion, "The war ended over 20 years ago, and the political uncertainty of the world has made the war a reality."

"I think the war was a reality," Mrs. Day said. "I have been interested in the war, and I think it is a reality."
Protest Baptist Vote

Students Storm Reynolda

By STEVE BURNS

The students of Wake Forest were not satisfied by the announcement made by Hollingsworth that the College would not permit the students to elect their own President. The students felt that they were being denied their democratic rights.

The Hollingsworth proposal required a change in the current system of administration, which was majority-vote by the students. The students were not satisfied with this change as it was not in line with their democratic values.

The students gathered in front of Reynolds Hall to protest the decision of the Administration. The crowd was estimated to be over 500 people. They carried signs and chanted slogans to express their dissatisfaction.

The Hollingsworth proposal was presented to the students, and they were required to vote on whether they would accept it. The students were not satisfied with the proposal and staged a protest to voice their concerns.

Saturday's Paradox

For a long time now, our fraternity leaders (and other IVY LEAGUE OUB members) have been hotly debating the question of whether the social petition process at the College is sufficiently and fairly regulated by the "social petition" procedure. The question is one that cannot be answered in a simple, direct fashion. Of course the question of hand in hand with it is whether we are going to continue to allow our leaders to use the "social petition" process, or if we are going to change it and make it more fair and efficient.

Three points to be considered:

1. The petition process is too long and cumbersome. The current process requires that a petition be submitted to the College, then reviewed by the College, and then presented to the faculty for approval. This process is lengthy and burdensome.

2. The petition process is not fair. The current process allows for the manipulation of the petition by the leaders, who may choose to leave out important information or to present it in a way that favors their cause.

3. The petition process is ineffective. The current process has not been successful in preventing the manipulation of the petition for the leaders' benefit.

We believe that the petition process needs to be changed. We are in favor of a shorter, simpler, and more fair process. We are in favor of a process that will prevent the manipulation of the petition by the leaders. We are in favor of a process that will be effective in preventing the manipulation of the petition for the leaders' benefit.

Wake Meets State Saturday
Seven Demon Deacon Seniors Will Bow Out

Senders who will play their last game Sat.

Dr. Bob Lippert

There is no one player on the State team that can be singled out for recognition. The backfield, four boys who have been together since their frosh year, is the key to State's winning this season. Last season the Big Nine finished seventh in the South. This fall edition of the Wolfpack in the best in several years for head coach Little Ed. Deacon. As of press time the State and Wake have a 6-6 record. Their biggest win was over Georgia Tech in Atlanta. The only just was to North Carolina by locals.

The following are Coach Bill Parks' words and comments on the seven seniors on this year's Wake squad:

"Hilly is a team man and wouldn't go anywhere for having played for him. He hopes to come back next year and help coach the school. I think he's a fine man and that I'm glad we played for him. Hilly is one of the finest men I've ever known."

"Tom Stith is a hustler. He's a solid boy. He's one of the best players we've ever had at Wake Forest."

"Bob Miller full-back. Has played a lot of good college ball. He's a good man."

"Ron Kodey security. I've enjoyed playing with him. I've enjoyed him as a coach."

"Bridwell will do a service for Wake Forest."

"We're not leaving Bob Miller there."

KA's Win Football, Cop 'Mural Track

By BILL BRENNACK

Dr. Delchamck's

The end of the regular season was a big win for KA's football team on Friday night, Dec. 11, when they defeated the University of Richmond, 13-0. This was the first win of the season, and it was a real morale booster for the team.

The game was played in front of a large crowd at the University of Richmond, and it was a hard-fought contest. KA's quarterback, Bob Jones, had a great game, completing 13 of 20 passes for 190 yards and two touchdowns. The KA's defense was also impressive, holding the Richmond offense to just 100 yards.

December Schedule Is Tough

By BILL BENTZ

Bones is optimistic. He's as optimistic as a basketball coach that he would "definitely keep his team in shape."

Basketball's season is over for the Midway Demons, who recently completed the December schedule that includes the Kentucky Invitational, the Midwest Invitational, the Southwestern Invitational, the Southwestern Conference Championship.

How about the December schedule? "It's tough," says Bones. "We're playing eight games in the month of December, and we've got to win six of them."

The December schedule includes games with North Carolina, Kentucky, and Louisville. Bones says the team is ready for the challenge.
