WAKE FOREST ACCEPTS INVITATION TO JOIN SOUTHERN CONFERENCE

Southern Conference Adopts Graham Recommendations and Extends Membership to 16

THE Southern Conference at its semi-annual meeting in Richmond on February 7 extended an invitation to Wake Forest College to become a member school, membership to become effective next September 1.

Six schools, Wake Forest, Davidson, Furman, Richmond, William & Mary, and the Citadel, were invited to join the conference ranks now numbering ten colleges in Maryland, Virginia, North and South Carolina.

Along with the extension of invitations was the adoption of the Graham plan. This plan calling for a sweeping revision of athletic policies was formulated by Dr. Frank Porter Graham, President of the University of North Carolina.

The alumni and friends of the college will be delighted with the announcement that Wake Forest has become a member of the conference. This move undoubtedly brings the athletic relation-ship of the college in closer harmony with those who are now members of the conference and will simplify the making of schedules and setting forth better athletic programs.

This expansion in the athletic set-up parallels the recognition of the Wake Forest Law School by the Association of American Law Schools, and the recent confirmation of our two-year medical school by the American Medical Association.

The recognition of Wake Forest by the Southern Conference is undoubtedly a climax of the recent additions to the athletic department of the college, such as the erection of the new gymnasium, the beautifying and general improvement of the athletic field, the addition of a new athletic field; these, as a result of the efforts of Dr. Kitchin and the generosity of Henry Groves of Gastonia, N. C., Class of '13.

Wake Forest welcomes the opportunity to join the Southern Conference, regardless of the fact that the widely discussed Graham Plan, which calls for a sweeping revision of athletic policies, was drafted into the rules of that group.

Undoubtedly entering the conference under the rule will benefit Wake Forest and bring the athletic program in closer harmony with that of the conference members. After 13 years strict adherence to their rules, it will not be hard to align our policies with theirs.

The question arises in the minds of many of our alumni as to what effect entering the conference under the Graham Plan will have on the athletic program here at the college. The answer is that there will not be any serious effect, as we feel that under the plan Wake Forest will not suffer any more than the other schools.

The Graham Plan does away with the paying of athletes which we feel will give Wake Forest an equal chance to attract boys interested in athletics, in that they can get here a good college education at a more reasonable expense than most of the other institutions. The advantage of being a conference member certainly will be of value in attracting boys with athletic ability.

There is only one statement coming from the officials of the Athletic Department at the present time and that is that the policies of the department will be in accord with the rules as set forth by the conference which now includes the Graham Plan. We cannot help but believe that athletics in general will be placed on a higher plane under the Graham Plan throughout the conference, regardless of the fact that there is a great deal of criticism of the plan at the present time. We welcome the invitation and believe that a better balanced program will be the result of being a member of the Southern Conference.

Coach John Caddell, popular baseball mentor, ventured the opinion that the Graham Plan to curb athletic subsidization would be successful if officials would spend as much time trying to enforce the plan as many of them are considering spending hunting for loopholes.

Law and Medical Schools Secure

Law School at Wake Forest Admitted to Membership in the Association of American Law Schools and Status of Medical School Definitely Confirmed

Law and medical schools of Wake Forest are safe for the present as their professional schools are not only on safe ground but are fully accredited by the highest respective accrediting agencies in the United States.

Dr. Dale F. Stansbury, law school dean, has returned from New Orleans with the announcement that Wake Forest has been admitted to membership in the Association of American Law Schools and has been placed on the approved list of the American Bar Association's Council on Legal Education.

Dr. Elwood B. Andrews, Raleigh attorney, is secretary of the council.

Only about 80 other law schools in the United States have such recognition, Dr. Stansbury stated. Other member North Carolina institutions are University of North Carolina and Duke.

Aside from prestige which this affiliation confers, Wake Forest law students who finish the three-year course here may now transfer to graduate law schools in large universities with full credit for work done.

The law library contains about 12,000 volumes and admission is restricted to students who have made creditable records on at least two years of foundational college work.

The school now occupies the entire second floor of the Needham Y. Gulley law building. One wing of this structure was formerly the habitat of the historic literary societies, Philomatheian and Ezelian, which cradled the forensic careers of Senators J. W. Bailey, F. M. Simmons and other notables.

Besides Dean Stansbury, the following are members of the law school staff: Dr. Needham Y. Gulley, dean emeritus, R. Bruce White, E. W. Timberlake, I. Beverly Lake, and Walter H. Coulson.

Simultaneously with the accreditation of the law school, came the announcement that the American Medical Association had modified its former action which called for the blanket abolition of all two-year medical schools in the country so as to leave on their list of members those two-year schools, such as Wake Forest and the University of North Carolina, which are doing satisfactory work. Wake Forest is now and has been doing this very thing.

The A. M. A. reconsidered their former position after Dr. Kitchin had taken a stand in behalf of the two-year schools.
Elsewhere in this issue, mention is made of a new book, "Christ and the Present Crisis," written by Dr. A. C. Reid. The Alumni News wishes to offer congratulations and to suggest that it would be a good idea if more of the faculty members would put in book form, as some of them already have done, the best that they have to offer in the field of thought. What a treasure it would be if there was bound in book form for all posterity such masterpieces as Dr. Lynach's "Twelve Evidences of the Divinity of Christ," Dr. W. L. Poteat's "Thirty Silent Years of Christ," Dean Bryan's "The Art of Living," Dr. Cullom's "Interpretation of the Sistine Madonna," and others.

Improvements on Gore Athletic Field have made a fine impression on old grads who have visited the campus recently. Most every day brings some words of praise for this fine expression of loyalty and constructive interest of Henry Groves, '13, of Gastonia. Many welcome additions were made, and others are needed, but we want to pause for a moment and take off our hats to Henry!

The new gymnasium has been a source of enjoyment to the students this year. The new building affords spacious accommodations for all students to engage in most any sport they may care to play. A private locker and shower room has been set apart for visiting alumni passing this way who care to reconstruct their athletic careers at Old Wake.

It is very fitting that The Howler will be dedicated this year to Dr. Gorrell (better known to many as "Old Finx-
"Christ and the Present Crisis" by
Dr. A. C. Reid First Volume Reviewed and Published

Pictured here is Dr. A. C. Reid, professor of philosophy at Wake Forest College, whose book, "Christ and the Present Crisis," just off the press, is the first to be published by the newly organized Wake Forest College Press.

Dr. B. W. Spilman, for many years Sunday School secretary of the Southern Baptist Convention, in his introduction to the book says: "Dr. Reid sounds the note so often heard when he speaks—civilization is safe only as Christ dominates the thinking of mankind. Christ in religion and in education is the only hope for the educational system of the world. Dr. Reid advocates that Christ be given first place in the life of the individual, in the home, in the school, and in every relation of life. In education, as in every other phase of civilization, it is Christ or chaos."

There are five chapters, as follows: Re-establishing Confidence, Christian Ambassadorship, Woman as Custodian, Christian Education, The Function of a Christian College Today.

Characteristic appraisals of the volume follow:

Dr. Hubert McNeill Poteat, professor of Latin at Wake Forest College—"The book is a plain, clear statement of fundamentals. The principles to which Dr. Reid calls attention should be emphasized over and over again. The addresses are presented with directness and vigor and are of vital importance."

Dr. Olin T. Binkley, pastor of Chapel Hill Baptist Church—"These lectures are the boldest, clearest, and most pertinent statements that I have recently read. Paragraphs are charged with suggestions."

Dr. W. R. Cullom, professor of religion at Wake Forest College—"The book recognizes and graphically presents the need for dynamics in religious and educational life. These utterances, eminently worth while, should be read on account of the present confusion in people's minds as to eternal verities."

Supt. Ray F. Hough of the Virginia Baptist Orphanage—"The book is a clear statement of cardinal principles. One cannot read it without having his vision broadened, his hopes enlarged, and his life enriched."

"It is one of the most pungent expressions of our social and religious problems, with constructive suggestions as to how to meet them, that I have read. The voice of this scholarly layman, in sympathetic and constructive criticism daring to say the things he says, should be heard by every pastor."

Dr. James H. Ivey.

"The general point of view is simply conservative, with a frank recognition of the menace and opportunity of the new situation and a firm insistence on the adaptation of all Christian agencies to the crisis which now confronts them. . . . The book is a good example of the best in the printer's art."

Dr. William Louis Poteat.

Dr. J. W. Lynch, professor of Bible at Wake Forest College—"The lectures are by a scholar and thinker who is interested in civic questions, philosophical problems, and religious verities."

This volume, which appeared the first of March, is attracting widespread attention and promises to be regarded as one of the most significant statements made in recent years by a layman concerning problems of religion and Christian education. It should appeal strongly to Wake Forest alumni and others interested in current problems.

Wake Forest alumni and others know of Dr. Reid's loyalty to Christian education and to constructive religious programs. They also know that he has the courage to utter his convictions. In this book, which consists of five lectures, he speaks with unusual boldness of present conditions and urgent needs. The introduction, written by Dr. B. W. Spilman, a leader so widely known and universally beloved, is itself adequate evidence of the merits of the book.

FORSYTH ALUMNI ASSOCIATION HOLDS MEETING

Honorable R. H. McNeill Makes Address

The Forsyth County Alumni Association held its annual meeting on Thursday evening, February 13, in the Reynolds Grill, in Winston-Salem. The meeting was a delightful affair and those attending had the pleasure of hearing the Hon. R. H. McNeill of Washington, D. C., noted attorney and alumnus of the Class of ’97. Mr. McNeill delivered a fine address discussing, “Wake Forest Men in Public Life.” He cited many high positions held by alumni of the college.

Besides hearing Mr. McNeill, motion pictures of campus scenes and pictures of faculty members were viewed by the group. This feature greatly added to the program.

Building Gifts From Afar

From the little town of Hana on the island of Maui, Hawaii, President Thurman D. Kitchin of Wake Forest College today received a money order for its building program from the island physician who cares for 500 lepers. His name is Dr. Harold M. Patterson, 1930 Wake Forest Medical School graduate, who came originally from Sanford.

Dr. Patterson, after graduating here, finished in medicine at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School. He was interne for a period at Queens Hospital in Honolulu, and from there received the appointment to the Territorial Leprosarium on Molokai, Hawaii.

Besides looking after his half-thousand lepers, Dr. Patterson serves also as physician and surgeon to the sugar plantation which is the principal industry of that district.

Selection of Planning Committee Members to be Announced in May Issue of Alumni News

The selection of the members for places on the “Planning Committee” will be announced in the May issue of the News. Mr. Claude Gore, Rockingham, N. C., advanced the idea of the committee at the alumni dinner last commencement and details concerning its purpose and functions were announced in the October issue of this publication.

By delaying the selection of the members more of the alumni will have time to give their views on who should make up the committee which undoubtedly will create more interest. If you have not voted then we urge you to make known your choice.

A Good Place to Get a School Man

Thirty-nine Wake Forest College seniors who are preparing to teach in high schools next fall will begin next week in the Wake Forest Public High School and in neighboring high schools an educational internship which will give them eight weeks of observation and teaching under direction.

This group of neophyte teachers is six men less than last year’s corps which is accounted for by more rigid enforcement of scholastic and personality standards.

Hereafter no student at Wake Forest whose scholastic average in his subjects of major interest is less than “B,” denoting superior achievement, will be recommended to the certification division of the State Department of Public Instruction, unless his personal qualities are remarkably good—and, then, only when his academic standing is better than the average.

More than half of the men, 31, have science as one of their major subjects. The next most popular subject is history, with 19 majors. The others, in order, are: English and French, 13 each; mathematics, 10; Latin and German, 3 each.

The distribution of men by majors and home towns follows:

English-lancस — H. A. Matthews, Buie’s Creek.

Mathematics-science—A. J. Benton, Indian Trail; H. G. Britt, Colerain; T. G. Ellis, St. Pauls; R. B. Gordon, Castalia; J. W. Jels, Southport; D. R. Johnson, St. Pauls; M. C. Moore, Carrie; D. E. Preslar, Wingate; George Stroupe, Gastonia; C. B. Toxey, Jr., Wake Forest.

Science only—P. A. Bradley, Jackson.

Science-Latin-history—A. H. Campbell, Buie’s Creek.

Science-German — O. W. Carter, Mars Hill.

History-French—J. L. Carver, Rougemont; R. J. Elliott, Virginia, Va.; M. W. Floyd, Lumberton; P. M. Shearin, Essex; W. R. Staton, Reidsville.

History-Latin—Miss Hildreth Squires, Wake Forest.

Dr. Quisenberry III

Dr. J. Rice Quisenberry, associate professor of English and intercollegiate debate coach at Wake Forest College, has been in Duke Hospital undergoing observation and treatment for a glandular disturbance of the throat.
Heads of Both Legal Organizations in North Carolina are Wake Forest Alumni

Pictured here are J. M. Broughton, of Raleigh and Julius C. Smith of Greensboro, presidents, respectively, of the North Carolina Bar Association and the North Carolina State Bar.

Both graduated with distinction from Wake Forest, and each of them has appeared in many cases of prominence.

Among the most notable of Broughton's appearances is the case in which he represented the Statler heirs in litigation arising out of the sensational death last year of Elva Statler Davidson in Pinehurst. He is attorney for such organizations as Wake Forest College, the Raleigh News and Observer, Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., Atlantic Fire Insurance Co., North Carolina Home Insurance Co.

Mr. Broughton used to play guard on Wake Forest's football team, graduating in 1910. He served for two years as principal of the Bunn High School in Franklin County, and afterward did graduate work in the Harvard University Law School. He was chairman of the Wake County Democratic Executive Committee from 1916 to 1918, was president of the Raleigh Chamber of Commerce in 1918, was city attorney for Raleigh from 1922 to 1924 and from 1933 to 1935. He was state senator from Wake County in 1927 and 1929, and was elected president of the North Carolina Bar Association in 1935. He is a member of the executive committee of the Wake Forest College Board of Trustees. In 1916 he married Miss Alice Wilson of Raleigh. They have four children—Alice, Melville, Jr., Bobbie, and Woodson.

Mr. Smith graduated from Wake Forest in 1911 with the Bachelor of Arts degree. He returned later and in 1915 was awarded the LL.B. degree. He is head of the firm of Smith, Wharton and Hudgins in Greensboro, where he has practiced for the past 21 years. Mr. Smith is general counsel of the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Co., and of the Pilot Life Insurance Co. He is a member of the Council of the Insurance Section of the American Bar Association, and likewise a member of the Special Committee on Administrative Law of the American Bar Association.

Mr. Smith is president of the Greensboro Chamber of Commerce, is a member of the advisory council of the United States Law Review, and was representative of the North Carolina, Middle District, Federal Judicial Conference.

In 1916 he married Miss Lila Keith of Wilmington. They have two sons, Julius C. III, and Keith.

Dr. Gulley to be Honored at Dinner Notables Invited to Attend

Plans have been completed by the students in the Wake Forest Law School for a banquet in honor of Dr. N. Y. Gulley, dean emeritus of the school, to be given in the ballroom of the Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, N. C., on the date of April 18. The hour has been set for 7:30 p.m. Details have just been released by J. D. Blythe, Harrellsville, president of the law class and Dr. Dale F. Stansbury, dean of the law school.

Alumni and friends of the college are invited to attend and pay tribute to the beloved founder of the college law school. Among these expected to attend will be the Hon. J. C. B. Ehringhaus, Governor of North Carolina, the five Supreme Court Justices, the Federal Court Judges, state officials, Superior Court Judges, lawyers and many men who have studied under the venerable dean, who love him, but have not followed the legal profession. The dinner is a fine expression of the devotion which Dr. Gulley's students hold for him. Many alumni will welcome this opportunity to take part in paying tribute to this great man for his wonderful contribution to the legal world and to Wake Forest College. The price per plate will be $1.50. The committee has requested that everyone who will attend let them know by card or letter. Address your cards or letters to J. D. Blythe, President of the Law Class, or to Dr. Dale F. Stansbury, Dean of the Law School by the date of April 10.

Largest Graduating Class

One hundred and forty-six students, the largest number in the history of the school, are candidates for degrees at the 102d commencement on June 2, it was announced today by Registrar Grady S. Patterson.

Three men are expected to receive the Master of Arts degree. There are 60 applicants for the Bachelor of Science, 38 for the Bachelor of Arts, 29 for the Bachelor of Science in Medicine, 15 for the Bachelor of Laws, and one for the Certificate in Medicine.
Judge Hayes Addresses Phi Society

Federal Judge Johnson J. Hayes of Greensboro and alumnus of the class of 1909 spoke here one night last week to the Phi Society, using as a subject, “The Advantages of Public Speaking.”

As many of the alumni know, Judge Hayes is one of North Carolina’s three federal judges, all of whom are Old Gold and Black alumni. The others are Judges Isaac M. Meckins and E. Yates Webb.

Judge Hayes has two sons and several nephews enrolled at the college now. His sons are Johnson, Jr., and Hayden.

Reverend Jim White, Former Deacon Coach, Visits Campus

Rev. Jim White, head coach of Wake Forest teams back in 1921, returned to the campus for a visit yesterday. His father and four or five brothers, all distinguished ministers, are graduates of Wake Forest. Jim stayed with the coaching a while, but soon joined his brothers in the ministry. He is now pastor at Elizabeth City. Welcome back home, Jim!

Dr. Roscoe Wall Gets National Appointment

Dr. Roscoe L. Wall, Winston-Salem physician and Wake Forest alumnus of the class of 1910, has been appointed on the National Committee on Anesthesia, according to an announcement by Dr. P. J. Flagg of New York City, president of the Society for the Prevention of Asphyxial Death.

The findings of this committee will be presented to the board of trustees of the American Medical Association.

“We feel that Dr. Wall’s intimate experience with this phase of medicine will enable us to formulate important conclusions and recommendations,” Dr. Flagg stated.

Dr. Wall’s son, Roscoe, Jr., is a premedical student at Wake Forest.

FINE RECORD

Pictured above is George Copple of Albemarle, Wake Forest senior, who this week surpassed 99 per cent of over 3,000 college men scattered throughout the United States who have taken the Coxe-Orleans “Prognosis Test of Teaching Ability.”

Copple is one of Wake Forest’s 40 seniors who are preparing to teach in high school next fall. The average score for the Wake Forest group was 20 points higher than the national average.

Dean D. B. Bryan and Prof. J. L. Memory, Jr., both professors of education here, although gratified over the showing of their men, were not surprised, as they regard this corps of prospective teachers “the best we have had in years.”

The traditional senior class gift to Wake Forest College this spring will consist of a brick walk on each side of the drive leading from Wait Hall to the highway which parallels the west side of the campus, it was decided tonight by members of the class of 1936.

The walks will encircle the parking area at the administration building, and memorial markers will be placed at the end of each where it meets the highway.
