Attending ‘New’ Clinical Course

Rev. Fred Mauney
Butner — Seventeen pastors from nine North Carolina counties recently began clinical courses at John Umstead Hospital, Butner. The courses provide opportunity for pastors to gain, on a part-time basis, basic clinical training directly applicable to their ministry in the community. Among those participating in the 12-week program is Rev. Fred A. Mauney, pastor of First Baptist Church, Butner.

Thirteen pastors are spending one day a week and four are spending two and one half days learning to more readily identify the needs of the mentally ill and to recognize and deal with expressions of normal stress, giving pastoral support where it is needed.

According to Chaplain W. F. Askins, director of the program, John Umstead Hospital, with its 1100 patients, provides a vantage point for the study of pastoral care, both in acquiring sensitization to multiple human concerns, and in learning an interdisciplinary approach to offering help. The courses emphasize “hearing out” the person and offering vital understanding, regardless of the symptoms manifested.

The teaching resources of the hospital staff and other related specialists are utilized to give the pastors an acquaintance with current approaches to treatment and care of troubled persons within or without the institutions.
Rev. Fred A. Mauney has resigned as pastor of First Baptist Church and will deliver his last sermon at the church on Sunday, August 13. He has accepted the pastorate of Elizabeth Baptist Church in Shelby with a congregation of one thousand members.

Mr. Mauney is a native of Charlotte and attended Wingate Junior College in Wingate, received his Bachelor or Arts Degree from Furman University, Greenville, S. C., and his bachelor of Divinity Degree from Southwestern Seminary in Fort Worth, Texas.

He served as pastor of a Forest City Baptist Church in Forest City before coming to New Bern twelve years ago. He has served the longest pastorate of First Baptist Church of any pastor since its establishment 164 years ago.

He has served as a trustee of Chowan College in Murfreesboro, a member of the General Board of the Southern Baptist Convention and its committee on nominations, a trustee of Baptist Hospital, Winston-Salem, for four years and moderator of Atlantic Baptist Association for two terms.

He is married to the former Miss Martha Laura Nantz of Charlotte and they have two sons, Kevin, who will enter the Law School of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, in the fall, having graduated summa cum laude from Wake Forest University, Winston-Salem; and Stan, who is a rising high school senior.

Mr. Mauney is a former member of the New Bern Civitan Club and has been active in the Babe Ruth Baseball League, having been one of the original coaches, and active in the Sunday School Baseball League.

The Elizabeth Baptist Church was organized in 1883. Because of a gift of three acres of land from her, and her interest in the new church, the church was named in honor of Elizabeth Love Wilson.

The first building was erected in 1884. Growth and progress led to the completion of a new building in 1910 which replaced the original one room structure. A third structure was completed in 1940. In December of 1954 a fire completely destroyed the building. In 1957 the first phase of the present edifice was completed. Then, in 1969, the present facilities were completed with an additional educational building. Estimated value of the physical plant is a million dollars.

Fred A. Mauney, the present pastor, has served the congregation since August of 1972. He is a native of Mecklenburg County and is a graduate of Wingate College, Furman University, and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. His previous pastorates are: First Baptist, Stanley, N. C.; First Baptist, Valdese, N. C.; Florence, Forest City, N. C.; and First Baptist, New Bern, N. C.
Rev. Fred A. Mauney, Pastor at the time of this writing, has the distinction of having the longest pastorate in the history of Elizabeth Church. This undershepherd is firmly grounded in the Christian faith and has a strong line of communication with the Great Shepherd. This is evidenced in his strong leadership which has proven to be filled with intelligence and wisdom. He has the uncanny ability to “read” his congregation and the sensitivity to feel their needs and desires. Strong willed, but willing to try new ideas this pastor expects a great deal of his people and has enough faith in them to know they will come through.

Born on October 14, 1922 to Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Mauney, Sr., Pastor Mauney chose Wingate College to begin his formal education and continued it at Furman University. While a student at Furman he pastored three churches (Eureka, Salem and Welcome) and in 1943 was ordained as a minister of the Gospel by his home church, Thrift Baptist which is located in the Paw Creek area of Mecklenburg County. In 1944 he received his degree from Furman University, and he married Martha Nantz. The following three years were spent studying hard at Southwestern Baptist Seminary, Fort Worth, Texas, and pastoring three churches (Purley, Mt. Zion, Klondike).

Since graduating from Southwestern Pastor Mauney has served five churches (First Baptist, Stanley; First Baptist, Valdese; Florence, Forest City; First Baptist, New Bern; Elizabeth Baptist, Shelby), and each has more than doubled its mission giving during his pastorate. He led in the construction of an educational building at Florence Baptist, an educational building and parsonage at New Bern, and at Elizabeth has seen the fruition of a five
I Timothy 4:14a admonishes “Neglect not the gift that is in the...” Pastor Mauney has not neglected his gifts, and as he has shared the fruits of his abilities over the years God has blessed his service and continues to add new dimensions to his life.

A TRIBUTE TO THE PASTORS’ WIVES

The nineteen pastors who have served the Elizabethians well over the past one hundred years could not have done it minus their wives. As God calls the pastor he provides for him a called and committed wife. She may stand in the shadow, but every pastor knows she is there! And, though he may not often express it, he is deeply grateful that she is.

Unsung, and often unappreciated, the spouse in the parsonage goes about her ministry as surely as does the pastor. She listens as a counselor. Her position may, at times, feel like a single parent whose partner has deserted her for another. Carefully she imparts constructive criticism and renders strong support to her husband-pastor. She weeps when he weeps, and together they rejoice. Day after day and night after night she shares her husband unselfishly with committees and unexpected crises. Deep within, she may feel the neglect and recoil at the price she is paying. Yet, like her husband, she has long ago decided that it wasn’t her will but God’s that had to be done.

As we remember the pastors and their faithful years of fruitful service, let us not forget their wives.

To each wife giving her husband to the high calling of God, when she may have needed him, we express our deepest gratitude and pay to you a deserving tribute in poetic lines borrowed from an unknown author.
A new pastor will begin his ministry at the First Baptist Church on Sunday, August 7, 1960, according to word released today by the chairman of the Board of Deacons, Mr. Needham C. Crowe. The new pastor is the Reverend Fred A. Mauney, who comes to New Bern from a recent pastorate of the Florence Baptist Church of Forest City, North Carolina. Mr. Mauney has served that church for the past seven and one half years.

The First Baptist Church has been without a regular pastor since April 1, 1960, when the Reverend Charles E. Parker resigned and moved to Lincolnton, North Carolina. Since that time, the church has been served by an interim pastor, Dr. J. L. Carrick, who now concludes his services with the First Baptist Church.

The Reverend Mr. Mauney is 37 years of age and is a native of North Carolina, having been born in Mecklenburg County near the City of Charlotte. After graduating from high school he enrolled in Wingate Junior College, where he remained for a period of two years and then moved on to Furman University, receiving in 1944 the Bachelor of Arts Degree. Following this, he enrolled in the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Texas and continued his studies there until 1948 at which time he graduated with a Bachelor of Divinity Degree.

While a student at Furman and also at Southwestern, he held several student pastorates; and, since his graduation from the Seminary, he has been pastor of three churches. The first was at Stanely, North Carolina; the second was as pastor of the First Baptist Church of Valdese, North Carolina, where he remained for three and one half years, leaving in 1953 to accept the pastorate of the Florence Baptist Church of Forest City.

In all three churches Mr. Mauney assumed a leading role in a building program, culminating in the largest project in his last pastorate at which time he was successful in leading a program involving the construction of a Sunday School building consisting of 17,000 square feet of floor space.

Noteworthy also during his ministry in Forest City was the organization into churches of two mission points which had formerly been under the direction of that church. In each of the churches which he served as pastor, the records disclosed that a constructive program of evangelism was maintained and each church was near the top in its particular association in the number of baptisms each year.

The new pastor of the First Baptist Church was active in many phases of community life while in Forest City. He was the first president of the Forest City Optimist Club, the purpose of which is "make men out of boys." He was chapter chairman of the Rutherford County Red Cross, and before resigning to move to New Bern, he was serving on the Board of Directors. He likewise served on the Recreation Commission of Forest City, and for a period of six years he coached and worked in the "Little League" program for boys. As a worker among youth, he has been particularly outstanding and the church feels very fortunate in being able to avail itself of the services of Mr. Mauney.

In Baptist denominational activities he has likewise been active, having served from 1952 to 53 and once again from 1959 to 1960 as a member of the General Board of the Baptist State Convention. He is now serving the General Board as a member of the Executive Committee, and also as a member of the Budget Committee. Likewise, at the time of his departure from Forest City he was moderator of the Sandy Run Association.

The First Baptist Church of New Bern extended an invitation to Reverend Mr. Mauney on Sunday, July 3, and a short while thereafter he accepted and stated that he would plan to begin his service in New Bern on August 1.
Mr. Mauney is married and has two children, both boys—Kevin, age 11, and Stanley, age 5. Mrs. Mauney is a graduate of the School of Religious Education of the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, having received her degree there in 1948. She also is an accomplished vocalist.

The Mauney will arrive in New Bern on Thursday, August 4, and temporarily will be residing in the Haywood Creek community, until such time as the church completes its plans for the use of the regular parsonage.

The church extends a cordial invitation to all friends and members of the church to be present at the welcoming services in the church on the first Sunday in August.
