JACKSON, ARTHUR (b. Mansfield, Ga., Jan. 31, 1886; d. Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 15, 1966). Preacher, foundation and endowment executive, denominational leader. He was educated at Locust Grove Institute (Baptist), 1909-10, Mercer University (A.B., 1913), and Southern Baptist Theological Seminary (Th.M., 1918). He received the honorary D.D. from Mercer University, 1935. Jackson married Eulaine Adams of Royston, Ga. They had two daughters: Mrs. E. M. Cary and Mrs. John G. Johnson, III.

Ordained Dec. 8, 1908, he was pastor of First Baptist churches of Royston, Barnesville, and Savannah, Ga.; Hendersonville, N. C.; and Morningide Baptist Church, Atlanta, Ga. Three times vice-president, Georgia Baptist Convention; twice president, Georgia Baptist Sunday School Convention; trustee to numerous Baptist institutions and agencies in Georgia and North Carolina and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, he also helped lead Georgia Baptists to inaugurate an endowment program. Largely through his efforts, the Georgia Baptist Foundation was chartered in 1941. An original trustee of the foundation, he became its first executive secretary-treasurer in 1943, serving until his retirement Jan. 1, 1956. He saw resources of the foundation grow from the original $7,000 to over $2,000,000. Numerous wills providing valuable bequests to Baptist causes were written under his leadership. After retirement, he served interim pastorates in Georgia and Alabama.

LJAMAICA, MISSION IN. Dottson and Betty (Frink) Mills transferred from Argentina in 1963 to serve as representatives to the Jamaica Baptist Union. A five-year program of advance was undertaken for 1964-69: stewardship, Christian education, evangelism, expansion, and missions. Azariah McKenzie became general secretary, the first full-time employee of the union. Daniel and Betty Alice (Gowan) Carroll transferred to Jamaica in 1969.

JAMES, MINNIE LOU KENNEDY (b. Palestine, Tex., Feb. 1, 1874; d. Richmond, Va., Jan. 10, 1968). Sixth president of Woman's Missionary Union, SBC. After preparation in Houston Teacher's College, she taught school in Rockford, Tex., where she met William Carey James, also in the education field. They were married in 1894. In 1902, when W. C. James decided to enter the ministry, the family, which now included a small daughter, Margaret, moved to Louisville, Ky., where he entered Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. Mrs. James again taught school. In 1907 W. G. James became pastor of Grove Avenue Baptist Church in Richmond, Va. That same year Mrs. James was elected to the executive board of the Virginia WMU. Two years later she became president of Virginia WMU, serving two periods of two years each: 1909-11 and 1914-16. In the interim she served as chairman of the Jubilee Committee which planned the WMU 25th anniversary celebration. In 1916 she was elected president of WMU, SBC, which office she held for nine years. During these years Mrs. James led WMU to successfully complete its part of the 75-Million Campaign; to strengthen its partnership with SBC; to launch World Comrades, a quarterly magazine for young people; to employ a young people's secretary and a field secretary, and to begin a YWA camp at Ridgecrest. She also supported resolutions which later brought women to membership on SBC boards and committees.

Mrs. James represented WMU at the third congress of the Baptist World Alliance in Stockholm in 1923, and was elected to preside over the women's meeting. Her trip to Europe aroused her interest in training European women for missionary work. In 1926, after her retirement from WMU, a training school for girls was established in Bucharest, Romania, and in her honor was named the James Memorial Training School.

For many years Mrs. James contributed the feature "Current Events" to Royal Services; from Oct., 1928, to Dec., 1939, she wrote the WMU programs. She also wrote two books: Fannie E. S. Heck (1939), a biography of her predecessor; and History of Bethlehem Baptist Church, Cha-
